Father Stafford of Lindsay died suddenly at noon Sunday. He had been ailing for some days, but made light of his indisposition, and it was not until Saturday that any danger was apprehended. The immediate cause of death was neuralgia of the heart. At an early hour alarming, and after several hours of intense suffering he passed away. Fathers Sunday morning the symptoms became Keating, Connolly and Fleming were in attendance most of the week. As soon as the fatal symptoms were manifested a special train was despatched for Bishop Jamot at Cobourg and he reached Lindsay at 2.30. The unexpected death of Father Stafford was a great shock to his congregation as well as the community at large, and the expressions of sorrow and sympathy are profound and general. The scene in St. Mary's church was most affecting. Father Keating said mass, and every member of the large congregation knew that their loved and revered pastor was passing away. All felt that a great calamity had befallen them, and unreservedly manifested their poignant sorrow. The body was brought from the presbytery to the church on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock and remained there until ten o'clock Wednesday morning, when the funeral took place.

COUNCIL BOARD.

Council met on Monday evening. Present, His Worship the Reeve, Messrs. McWilliams and Hill.

Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed.

A protest was entered by Mr. H. Wynne against fencing a certain lot by Ross & Company. A surveyor is to determine the proper landmarks.

Mr. Urquhart addressed the council asking a rebate of drainage tax amounting to about $50. He had been unjustly assessed and received no benefit. If the council would remit half he would be satisfied.

His Worship thought the matter should have been attended to before. Mr. Urquhart had applied to the old council and had been requested to wait till the tax was all collected.

Mr. U's claim is to receive the attention of the next meeting of the council.

Mr. R. Graham then addressed the council re the opening up of Concession street. Water street was at times blocked up by Messrs. R. and G. Strickland's lumber, slabs, etc. The kiln also made it difficult for those who had high spirited horses to pass. Our thoroughfares should not be obstructed. He did not wish to find fault and the only way he saw out of the difficulty was to open up Concession street.

The Reeve replied that if R. and G. Strickland were occupying village property they would have the obstacles removed, if not, they had a right to occupy their own property. He would be better pleased if Mr. G. would amend his remarks so as to apply to Concession street alone and deal with Water street separately.

Coun. Hill replied to Mr. Graham with some warmth, causing considerable amusement.

Mr. G. said his object was to offer a suggestion to the council and not to find any fault.

A committee was appointed to see after opening the street at a cost of not more than $25.

Mr. Griffin spoke of the importance of acquiring land to connect Strickland street with Church street, thus forming a street direct to the Public school.

After some discussion it was decided to take necessary steps to open up the street.

The council then adjourned.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BOARD

met on Thursday evening in the council chamber. Present, the chairman, Mr. Galvin, Messrs. Cox, Wilson, Sanders and Dr. Caldwell.

Minutes of last regular meeting and of special following were read and confirmed.

An account of Mr. T. J. Bird, for stationery, $7.60, was presented.

Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Dr. Caldwell that the account be paid.—Carried.

The Head Master's report of attendance for month of October was received.

ACCIDENT.

A little girl eight or nine years of age, a daughter of Mr. Joseph Ross of North Smith, met with a severe accident on Saturday the 11th Inst., by which she will probably lose the sight of one of her eyes. It appears that while the little girls were amusing themselves by tossing leaves at each other with a fork that one of the prongs of the fork accidentally struck her in the eye.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT.

Mr. T. Watson of this village, had his thumb and forefinger severely cut and bruised while attending the circular saw in Strickland's mill. His hand was accidentally caught between the saw and a board, while attempting to remove the latter.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Nov. 11th 1882, was as follows: Passengers and mails, $5,802.59; freight, $18,890.11; total, $24,692.70 as compared with $18,699.77 for the the corresponding week for 1881, being an increase of $6,002.93; and the aggregate traffic to date is $937,898.56, being an increase of $186,465.51 over 1881.

WELL MATCHED PLOUGH TEAM.—In the challenge ploughing contest on the farm of Mr. Breakenridge, Otonabee, on Wednesday last, between Messrs. T. S. Breakenridge and Daniel Hennessy, the merit of the work done was so nearly equal that the judges were unable to decide and the match was declared a draw and the stakes—$20 a side—were refunded.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.—We are requested to state that the examinations for admission to the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, will be held in the Union School buildings, on Wednesday and Thursday, the 20th and 21st of December, beginning at 9 o'clock a. m., each day. Intending candidates should communicate with the principal at once, in order that there may be sufficient time to procure the required number of papers.

THE TOWN LOCKUP is a disgraceful hovel. The floor is shaky and sodden and when the weather is wet it is a stationary raft; the rats are so abundant that the police daren't leave a prisoner in it over night. A magistrate has to be aroused and the victim tried and sent to jail or allowed to pay his fine and go and get drunk again. From the alcoholic nature of the offences for which prisoners are cooped, one would think the lockup would be infested with snakes.

SPALDINGS' BAY.—The Street Committee have done a good work in extending Rink street eastward across Spalding's Bay. The causeway, narrow as it is, that has been run across the southernmost arm of this pestiferous pond, is a good beginning to the filling in and making building sites of a disease breeder. If this bay were filled in, the price secured for building sites would go far toward paying the expense of the operation. As it is now it is a half way place to the cemetery—half way, because a man living near there is half way ready for the cemetery.

HEALTH OF THE DISTRICT.—The weekly health bulletin of the Ontario Board of Health for the week ending November 11th, contains statistics in regard to the health of the Midland District, which shows that the prevailing type of disease is bronchitis, which scores 13 per cent.; the next is influenza, 7.5 per cent.; the third, neuralgia, 6.5 per cent.; anæmia, 6 per cent.; consumption, 6 per cent. The highest temperature for the district for the week was 63.5°, the lowest 22.66°. The amount of rainfall was 0.15 inches. The general direction of the wind was N.E.-S.E.-S.W. The general height of the district above the level of the sea is 500 feet.

A CREDIT TO BOTH.—Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger have just turned out a splendid delivery wagon for Mr. B. Morrow, which is a credit not only to the firm capable of producing such excellent work, but also to the grocery business that can afford so beautiful a vehicle. The running gear is painted a warm orange chrome, striped with vermillion and thin lined with black. The body, which rests on three springs, is panelled and painted in invisible green, with the bevel facings in black. The styles of the panels are picked out with gilt ornaments, and the lettering, "B. Morrow, Groceries and Liquors," is done in green and gold. The painting, which is excellently done, is the work of Mr. L. D. Loomis, and the whole equipage, as before remarked, is a credit to both manufacturer and buyer.

HOW TO MAKE A MUSTARD PLASTER.—The ordinary way is to mix the mustard with water, tempering it with a little flour; but such a plaster as that is simply abominable. Before it is half done its work it begins to blister the patient, and leaves him finally with a painful, dayed spot, after having produced far less effect in a beneficial way than was intended. Now, a mustard plaster, should never make a blister at all. If a blister is wanted, there are other plasters far better than mustard for the purpose. When you make a mustard plaster, then, use no water whatever, but mix the mustard with the white of an egg, and the result will "draw" perfectly, but will not produce a blister even upon the skin of an infant, no matter how long it is allowed to remain upon the part. For this we have the word of an old and eminent physician, as well as our own experience.

CEMETERY ROAD.—The condition of the road leading to the Cemetery along the southern shore of the Little Lake demands prompt attention. The water is encroaching on the road-way so rapidly that at some points it is so narrowed down that there is hardly room for two carriages to pass. Unless some means is speedily taken for the preservation of the drive, it will have vanished and the town will be compelled to secure the adjoining property for the purpose of a new road-way at a heavy expense. There will be no necessity of this if action is taken at once to crib the shore line from the present western limit of the cemetery, westward. If cribbed and planted with willows as the cemetery property has been treated, it would not only preserve this beautiful drive but add to its attractiveness. Some sort of a foot walk ought to be provided. It is to be hoped that the Street Committee will see their way to taking action in the matter.

A SOLID FACT.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary of the B.C. Church, Ashburnham, will be celebrated on Sunday and Tuesday, the 26th and 28th inst. Sunday services as follows:—At 10.30 a.m. and 6.30 p.m., sermons by Rev. G. Copeland, Port Hope. At 3 o'clock p.m., by Rev. A. Manning (C.M.) Collections at each service in aid of church fund. On Tuesday, tea will be served to the public in the Town Hall, from 5 o'clock to 7.30 o'clock p.m. Tickets 25 cts. A platform meeting will be held in the church at 8 p.m. Addresses will be delivered by Rev. Messrs. G. H. Copeland, R. Allin, Lakefield; J. Shaw and W. Jolliffe. The Peterborough B. C. Church Choir will be in attendance. The reason of postponement from Monday to Tuesday is to avoid collision with temperance interests.

PAY DAY.—Last Wednesday, the 15th, was pay day for the navvies working on the various railroad works. To give some idea of the amount of money put in circulation by these works in the immediate vicinity of Peterboro, it may be stated that Mr. Beemer drew from the bank for pay day, $31,000; Boyd, Nichols & Co., bridge contractors, $6,000; Kennedy and Lang, $11,000; John Craig, Ashburnham, $3,000; Mr. Gorman, $4,000. In all about $75,000 expended for one month's wages in the vicinity of the town. Some of the laborers receive $1.50 per day. Large numbers of the men when they receive their money at once strike work, refusing to "do a tap" till their money is gone and they bring up at the police court without money enough to pay the fine of $1, which Magistrate Menzies imposes on them.

CHURCH ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment given on Friday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the George Street Methodist Church was a very gratifying success. The attendance was good. The programme of amusement consisted of readings by Misses Walsh and Sanderson and Mr. T. Braden. Music was supplied by Miss Stratton, Madmoiselles Hughson and Wells in duet and Madmoiselles Shaw, Ellsworth, Holden and Morris in quartette. A series of tableaux were excellently presented, as to pose pantomime and mise en scène, were given, two representing Indian life and three episodes in the history of the beautiful and unhappy Mary Queen of Scotts. The attendance would have been better if the event had been better advertised. Printer's ink is a good paying investment. About $20 were added to the funds of the society.

BROUGHT FROM ABROAD.—Mr. Harry Rush is determined not to poison his customers with the vile decoctions—eau de mort—that eat their fiery way too often in these adulterate days, into human stomachs under the galling guise of brandy. To secure the pure distillation of the juice of the grape, with bouquet borrowed from the soil and sky of sunny France—the real simon-pure eau de vie—he has imported and received the other day twenty-five cases of French brandy from the warehouses of the celebrated firm of Pinet, Castilon & Co., and its value may be inferred from the fact that the duties on the importation alone amounted to $500. A car load of Bass' Ale, Guiness' Stout, fine wines, liqueurs, etc., preceded this latest stroke of enterprise into Mr. Rush's cellars, which would be a paradise for even a connoisseur like "Simon the Cellarer." Business enterprise like this must lead to business success.

MARKET FACILITIES.—On Monday morning Mr. John Moore charged Thomas Sanderson at the police court with assault, consisting of hustling and pushing the complainant about on the market and defendant was fined for the offence. The trouble arose from the obstruction of the space under the porch on the south side of the market building at the weigh scales. Mr. Moore wanted to pass hurriedly, and Mr. Sanderson had been annoyed by interruptions in weighing hogs, and hence the collision. The fault is in the arrangement of the buildings. The public have a right to use the weigh scales, as the public have a right to pass them and trouble is sure to arise. The scales should be removed to some more out-of-the-way spot—say north of the market house. A covered space could be, inclosed here for both the smaller and the hay scales, and the convenience of both buyer and seller as well as of the market frequenters would be consulted. Mr. Beavis also demands another flight of stairs to allow egress from the winter butter market.

JUVENILE DEPRAVITY.—The importance of some change in the law was suggested the other day when Thomas Kent, a lad of about ten years of age was charged at the police court with stealing thirteen dollars. He was arraigned before justices Thos Menzies and Wm. C. Nicholls, and pleaded guilty, was sentenced by Mr. Nicholls to pay a fine of ten dollars or three months in jail. Sending a child like that to jail to consort with hardened criminals certainly can have no good effect. He will come out of jail with several new points in crime, for he is a bad boy as his father says and is totally unmanageable at home. Had the father taken a little deeper interest in the lad he might have been present at the hearing and given his consent and had the boy sent to the Reformatory. Then, if he was not utterly bad, some improvement might be made in his morals and behavior, but he is likely to be the worse of his course in jail. It is evident from the affection of the father, as shown by his leaving a child of his tender years to be tried for a crime alone and without a father's watchfulness, that the lad is not all to blame for taking to evil courses so young.

SILVER CREEK, N. Y., Feb. 6, '80.
GENTS—I have been very low, and have tried everything, to no advantage. I heard your Hop Bitters recommended by so many, I concluded to give them a trial. I did, and now am around, and constantly improving, and am nearly as strong as ever.

AUTHORIZING A LOAN.

Mr. Patterson introduced a by-law to enable the Mayor and treasurer to borrow money for the use of the town for the current year, till the taxes should be collected. The by-law was passed through its various readings, authorizing the loan of a sum of money not exceeding $15,000 for the purposes mentioned.

YEAS—Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Paterson, Wilson, Douglas and Rutherford—6.

NAYS—Messrs. Menzies, Denne and Richardson.—3.

THE LOCK-UP.

Mr. Rutherford called attention to the wretched condition of the Lock-up on account of it's being infested with rats; it wasn't fit for—for—

His worship—Not fit for a dog.

Mr. McNaughton and others confirmed these statements adding that it was a disgrace to the town.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Menzies, the matter was referred to the Chief Constable to attend to the necessary destruction of vermin.

A GUSH OF GRATITUDE.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, the thanks of the council were tendered to the Great North Western Telegraph Company, for their promptness in removing the telegraph poles from George street at the request of the council.

TAX BILLS.

A motion, by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Paterson, instructing the collector of taxes to deliver, or have delivered, the tax bills as in former years, was agreed to.

THE MARKET HOUSE STAIRS.

Mr. Paterson called attention to the insufficient nature of the stairs to the second story of the market building.

His worship said he would call the attention of the Town Trust to the matter and he had no doubt it would at once be remedied.

Mr. Denne alluded to the crowded state of the market verandah in the neighborhood of the weigh scales, and the council adjourned for two weeks.

AT THE ALTAR OF HYMEN.—We have great pleasure in extending our congratulations (to the parties of the first part especially), on the marriage of Mr. John Corkery and Miss Sheehey, which event took place in St. Peter's Church on Tuesday last. The wedding was quiet and unostentatious, but that did not prevent the employees of T. Dolan & Co's establishment, in which Mr. Corkery has satisfactorily filled the position of bookkeeper for half a dozen years, presenting Mr. C, with a handsome china tea service as a token of the respect in which he was deservedly held. Mr. C. is secretary of he R. C. Separate School board, an official of the Mechanics Institute, and is generally respected and esteemed. Both parties to the solemn contract are natives of Peterborough and each one is to be congratulated on having made an excellent choice. We give our best wishes for future happiness and prosperity, coupled with the hope that the cradle that gathers the harvest of matrimonial life, will never hold a sheaf less worthy of universal respect and esteem than Mr. and Mrs. John Corkery.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 23, 1882.

Canadians All.

Looked at from a Canadian viewpoint, the failure of the different national societies, such as the St. Andrew's St. Patrick's, St. George's and other similar societies, to maintain a flourishing existence, is not so much a matter of regret, inasmuch as their decadence indicates a steady growth of Canadian national sentiment which is gradually displacing the exotic patriotism, that seems, as it should do, destined to fail of acclimitization. There is no objection to Scotchmen, Irishmen, Englishmen and others venerating the old land and preferring it to all others but, to employ a homely metaphor, they should be loyal to their bread and butter. Representatives of these nationalities who live in Canada practically assert that Canada is the most desirable place on earth for a home, simply because they continue to live and flourish in it. If it is not so the country renders them sufficiently prosperous to have the means of leaving it at any moment. But they have no wish to do so: they find this country a pleasant place of abode, where reasonable exertion and prudence yield a reasonable competence, where the best laws in the world, purely administered, give them all the political, social, and religious rights they can desire. In fact, they find here in a modified and improved form, all the institutions of the mother country worth transplanting. Then, why should they not become Canadians indeed, and be content to reconcile their thoughts and words to their actions, and in word as well as in deed, acknowledge themselves proud to be considered Canadians. Of the population of Canada nearly two thirds are born Canadians, and no good can be served by perpetuating discriminatory prejudices of nationality in a land where to be a Canadian is a source of pride at home, and a passport to respect and esteem abroad. It is well enough for a son to venerate and hold in loving remembrance the old home that enshrined his birth and gave him nurture and training, but when he enters the world for himself, his duty is to bend all his energies to raising a home of his own. His first duty is to that new home, to make the best of it, to expend all his talent and energies in its improvement; but if all his reverence and devotion be given to the old home, the new will be at best a sordid reality, nothing more than the stall to the ox—a mere sleeping and feeding place. All Canadians, whatever their nationality by birth or descent, should simply regard the land that gave them or their forefathers birth as the dearest and best spot upon earth outside of Canada. Give the old world all the sentimental veneration, respect and so forth, due to the home of their fathers, but nothing more. Going beyond this is to prove false to their duty to Canada, which on the ground of common gratitude demands their deepest respect, and their best endeavours to promote her prosperity on the grounds of self-interest, and the co-related interest of the country at large.

Were these given, we should soon see an end to the sectional difficulties, growing largely out of race differences, that threaten to impair if not destroy the integrity of the Federal union. Race distinctions create a clamor for the recognition of race rights in the distribution of political favors and public positions of trust and emolument; and it must follow, if this principle be conceded, that the public interests will lose by public positions being filled by those whose appointment is not decided by their abilities to discharge the duties of the office, but by the fact of their ancestors having been born in this or that foreign country. Thus the best men will have to give place to inferior ones, the country will be the loser and in that way, as may be easily seen, will be heavily handicaped in the race to achieve, what under proper conditions she must attain, a leading place amongst the nations of the earth. Let us all be Canadians together, respect our country, give her our best love, our best endeavours, and in fine prefer her in all things. This will not be inconsistent with the loyalty we owe and so willingly pay to the mother country. A man may and must prefer, in his affections, his wife to any other earthly object, but that does not prevent him from loving his dear old mother—God bless her!—with all his heart.

The near approach of St. Andrew's Day, and the recent annual meeting of the society, prompt the suggestion, that this and the other national societies in town should unite in a festal celebration in order to give prominence and cohesion to the idea of Canadian unity. There could be no incongruity in such a gathering; all would be Canadians, and when the programme of the evening should reach the toastmaster's task the toast of each nation represented might be given and responded to without offence. In fact this part of the programme would be particularly provocative of Canadian unity. Each nationality in speaking of itself would from a sense of the proprieties of hospitality refrain from giving air to national prejudices that might be offensive to other guests; thus a spirit of tolerance and forbearance would be enforced, broadened views of their relations to each other would be suggested, and the idea that we were Canadians all would assert itself. So, with general assent to the plan, all the evils that result where race distinctions lead each to a selfish seeking of its own (where all interests are common) with obviously injurious general effects, would have a tendency to disappear in the inevitable merging of all other merely sentimental national distinctions into the grand reality of an united Canadian nationality.

Manhood Suffrage.

The Toronto World, Belleville Ontario and other journals come out squarely in favor of manhood suffrage. While it is desirable that in representative institutions, every man of adult age should have a voice in the affairs of his country, the limits of extreme extension as well as of extreme restriction of the franchise should be carefully guarded. It is possible for a too liberal franchise to work more harm to the public interests than the deprivation of rights a too circumscribed one might inflict. In England the property qualification has been so generously extended that the line between it and manhood suffrage is, perhaps, merely a nominal one, and placing the ballot in the hands of farmer's sons is really a form of manhood suffrage. The abolition of a property qualification, would confer the use of the ballot upon a large class, many of whom are better qualified as to intelligence and moral standing, than many who have the authority of voting under the present state of affairs. There is no doubt that abolition of the property qualification as a distinction of right to vote would do away with the numerous abuses and crooked ways that now affect the assessment rolls, but it is possible that too high a price may be paid for the great boon of manhood suffrage. To make the mere fact of a person having a whisker and being of the full age of twenty-one years, a test of a voter, would work as injuriously to representative institutions, as it does among our neighbours of the adjoining republic. There should be, it seems, the strictest provisions for deciding the bona fides of the manhood voter's claim to citizenship, and the most incontestable proof possible of his having a stake in the country.

The evidence of intelligence of a citizen should decide his right to the franchise. No man, be he never so wealthy, who cannot read and write, should be entrusted with the ballot. The person who is lacking in these simple rudiments of common knowledge, cannot be in a position to exercise his franchise intelligently. Without it he can have no access to the great political text books of the country—the newspapers—which, though they may be distorted mirrors in too many cases through a too strong party bias, are, taking them as a whole, the most complete and reliable educators of the public on political questions. Without these he is at the mercy of dishonest demagogues, and the one who fabricates the most plausible tale, no matter how false and noxious, is almost sure to secure his vote and make him the bane of our representative system—the mere tool of designing men. The man who reads for himself, as a rule forms his own opinions, and acts accordingly. The verdict of a body of such men is entitled to respect, and, barring corrupt influences, is certain to be the voice of popular opinion on any given subject.

Besides making a certain amount of book-knowledge a test for qualification as a voter, will simplify the educational problem by giving an impetus to a desire to secure learning, not as a mere accomplishment whose benefit cannot in all cases be appreciated, but a real condition of receiving a valuable boon.

But with the removal of the property qualification will be destroyed an incentive to the thrift and economy necessary for the accumulation of real estate sufficient to enfranchise. How great a factor this may be in the prosperity and progress of the country it is impossible to determine, but there is no doubt of its having considerable weight. A great deal of consideration will be necessary in framing the proposed amendments in the franchise, and it should not be entrusted to any one party, it should be the joint work of both political parties. The hands that wrought the gerrymander would hardly be safe ones to which to entrust so radical a change in representation as the substitution of manhood suffrage for the property franchise.

LONGFORD MILLS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Both mills of the Longford Lumber Company were closed down for the season on the 10th and 14th Nov., respectively. On the 17th day of April last steam was got up in the mills, with a full crew of about 100 men, and the season finished without as many changes as was anticipated at the outstart from the prospects of scarcity of men. The mills for the whole season were fully manned every day, owing largely to the good feeling always existing at this place between the company and their employees, no breaks of any size occurred from start to finish, the last time on any account would not amount to a full day's work altogether. The quantity sawn was over the average, the both mills together sawing

SEVENTEEN AND HALF MILLION FEET.

The large mill was in charge of Mr. Robt. Calderwood, with Mr. D. J. Boothwick as engineer, and the small mill in charge of Mr. Wm. F. Morrison, with Mr. Jas. Bell as engineer, to which officials the success of the season was largely due.

On the 7th Nov. the company made it known that the mills would be closed on the 10th inst., and on that evening the employees would be the recipients of a supper and an entertainment. Arrangements were made at once to invite a number of their friends to partake of their festivities.

On that evening each man called at the office and received in an envelope the balance of his wages with an extra amount of 5 per cent. added to it from the 15th day of August. Every man in the employ expressed himself as being perfectly satisfied with the treatment received and many were the expressions of thankfulness to the company.

At 6 o'clock p.m. the supper bell rang and the men from both mills filed into the spacious dinning hall of the large boarding house, where four large tables were overflowing with all the good things of the season, got up in the usual first class style by mine host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cox. Among those present on the occasion were Wm. Thomson, Esq., President of the Company, Mr. Geo. Thomson, Director, and Mr. Maxwell Hall, Secretary, with numbering in all 120 persons. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided, the tables were taken out of the spacious hall and splendid music provided, the visitors arriving at intervals swelling the crowd to fully 300 persons, dancing and merry making being kept up till day break next morning, without a single improper word or act to spar the pleasure of the party.

On Saturday the bulk of the men were re-engaged by the Secretary to work in the Company's camps, where they have now about actively engaged making logs for next year's cut.

The Company are to be congratulated on having secured such an industrious and hard working crew of mill hands and upon the successful issue of the season's operations.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES FOR OCTOBER.—October of '82 has, I believe, without exception been the finest month for twenty years with an even uniform temperature, little rain and fine genial weather, although fulfilling its old prestige in giving us the first snow which took place on the 10th and 23rd. We had two sharp dips on the mornings of the 20th and 28th, the thermometer standing at 20° above zero each time. The highest obtained was on the evening of the 7th at sun set giving 76°, and the evening of the 31st at sun set 62°, giving us a total temperature for the month of 47 18° 18m 31'. Rain fell on 11 days but so slight only giving .90 of an inch of water. We had three thunder storms namely on the 17th, 30th and 31st, but very little rain following in this locality. We have had considerable frost during the nights, but not to interfere with labor as scarcely any ploughs were stopped, and that only in the mornings. In October of '81 rain fell on 15 days to the uncommon depth of 6.18 inches with an average temperature for the month of 43° 4m 31' in '81, being 2° less than the present year, I believe caused by so much rain. The roads are good owing to the continued fine weather of October.

CROPS.—Fall wheat being from 8 to 12 days later than usual, as a rule it now looks backward since getting the frost, thereby causing the blades to drop down. The farmers are pushing on their fall ploughing as fast as possible so that they may be prepared for their winter work.

FIRE.—The barns and out buildings of John O'Shanahan were burned on Friday afternoon last shortly after dinner; a considerable quantity of grain, some hay and farm implements were burned. Partly covered by insurance.

POPULATION OF THE WORLD.

The population of the earth has long been a fascinating study for statisticans. Behm and Wagner have just published an amended edition of a former work in Germany. They give the total as 1,433,887,500— which is almost 22,000,000 less than their estimate two years ago. They have concluded that China has 60,000,000 less than they formerly supposed. There has thus been an actual increase of about 38,000,000 in the population of the globe — an increase, however, which must be spread over ten years, as many of the recent censuses are decennial. For Europe the present population is rated at 327,743,400, showing an increase of about 12,000,000 over the previous figures by the operation of the censuses.

In Asia, making allowance for the readjustment of the population of China, there has been an increase of 29,000,000, the present population being set down at 795,391,000. Of course the estimates must sometimes be little better than guesses, for example, for such places as Africa. For this continent Dr. Rohlfs maintains that an estimate of 100,000,000 is quite enough, while Behm and Wagner retain the old figure of 200,000,000 with considerable hesitation.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST LANDOWNER.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 24—Daniel Murphy's funeral will take place to-morrow. He was a pioneer, having come to California, in 1844. His business ever since he came to California has been stock raising. He first had large tracts in the south end of this county, and as his herds grew he went into the San Joaquin valley The "no fence" law forced him to take his cattle to Nevada. He owned also about 200,000 acres of land in that state when he died, and 6,000,000 in the state of Durango, Mexico, and large tracts in Arizona, and was at the time of his death the largest landowner in the world.

SEATING CAPACITY OF CHURCHES.

Some patient German has collected statistics of the capacity of the world's largest houses of worship. First on his list, of course, appears St. Peter's of Rome, which is capable of containing 54,000 people. Next comes Milan Cathedral, with 40,000; then St. Paul's in Rome, with 32,000; Cologne, with 30,000; St. Paul's, in London, and the church of St. Pretonius, in Bologna, with 25,000 each; the Sophia Mosque, in Constantinople, with 23,000; St. John Lateran, at Rome 22,000; St. Stephen's, in Vienna, and the Cathedral in Pisa, 12,000; St. Dominic, in Bologna, 11,400; the Frauenkenkirche, in Munich, 11,000; and San Marco, in Venice, 7,000. St. Patrick's Cathedral, in New York, is given a capacity of 18,000.

THE AMERICAN ELECTIONS.

As was anticipated, the state elections in the United States, where they occurred, resulted in a sweeping victory for the Democrats. The returns from New Yok State indicates a perfect Waterloo for the Republicans. Cleveland, the Democratic nominee for Governor, is elected by a majority ranging from 150,000 to 175,000, the largest majority ever polled by a candidate in any state. In both Houses, too, the Democrats will have a majority. With respect to minor state offices we have no particulars. Already Cleveland's name is prominently mentioned for the Presidency in 1884.

SUGAR GROWING IN CANADA.

James Allen, a farmer in Dereham township, four miles from Tilsonburg, made 1,800 gallons of sorghum syrup this season and will make 750 more. He charges farmers who grow and bring cane twenty cents per gallon for making, and as 200 gallons can be secured from an acre, which sells at seventy cents a gallan, it will be seen that respectable profits are made by those who grow it. The industry is spreading in western Ontario.

"THE OTONABEE."

I sat at my chamber window
One sunny Autumn eve
And I gazed upon the waters
Of the Blue Otonabee.

Oh, gentle, gentle, water!
How I love to gaze on thee,
Sweeping swiftly ever onward,
Toward the mighty, mighty sea.

Sweeping swiftly, gently onward,
Ever, till thou dost gain
The rougher, roaring waters
Of the great eastern main.

Onward, onward gentle river.
How I wish to go with thee,
Onward, to the foaming ocean.
Parental Otonabee.

Flow on thou fairest river,
I may not go with thee,
But I pray you take a message
To my friends beyond the sea.

And, when mingling with the ocean.
Or lashing on the shore:
Oh, speak in whispers gentle,
Of the message I've sent o'er.

CROWN LANDS DEPARTMENT.

SUCCESS IN ADMINISTERING THE DEPARTMENT.

It is perhaps unnecessary to enter upon a defence of the manner in which the Crown Lands Department has been administered since a Reform Government came into power, as no serious attempt has been made to impugn that administration in any way. The steady flow of settlers into the newer districts of the Province, notwithstanding the inducements offered by other portions of the Dominion, the advance made in developing the resources—agricultural, mineral and forest—of those districts, and the accurate and satisfactory way in which the large and increasing revenue derived from the timber trade is collected, are but instances which testify to the honest and capable manner in which the administration of the department has been conducted ever since it was entrusted to the present Government.

CONTRACT SYSTEM VS. OVERSEERS.

One of the petty, unfounded accusations which have been made against the Department is, that the system adopted in the construction and repair of Colonization roads is erroneous and extravagant, and that instead of having the work performed under the supervision of overseers appointed by the Department, it should be let by contract to the lowest bidder. Those who argue this course cannot have given the matter the consideration to which it is entitled, and cannot be conversant with the character of the work to be done, or with the difficulties which experience has shown to be inseparable from the building or repairing of roads under the contract system in the newer portions of the Province. The first cost of an ordinary Colonization road averages from $200 to $250 per mile. The Department, feeling that it would be relieved of a good deal of responsibility if these roads could safely be built by contract, made an attempt in former years to have the work done in this way. Tenders were asked for in the usual manner, and it was invariably found that large numbers of persons offered to do the work, many of whom were totally unacquainted with the method of constructing roads, or with the carrying on of public works of any kind. Those who tendered lowest were frequently found to be of the latter class, and the Department being as a rule unacquainted with the parties tendering, or their competency to do the work, were bound to accept the lowest tender, and were, in the majority of cases, saddled with an inexperienced and often incompetent contractor. The result was badly made roads and inefficient and unsatisfactory work generally. It was found impracticable to get compensation from bondsmen; and even if the attempt should be successful, it would not give the settlers what they wanted, viz., good and well-built roads. Again, it was impossible to give the exact location of a road at the the time of letting the contract, as variations, in nearly every case, have to be made when men go upon the ground to begin actual work. Where this occurred, the contractor made it an excuse to claim damages on account of the change in what he alleged was to have been the original location of the road, in respect to which he had framed his tender. In fact, it became evident, after often-repeated trials, that for these and other reasons it was impossible to construct or repair Colonization roads under the contract system in an at all satisfactory manner; that money was annually lost in the attempt; and that the work done was not performed so well or so economically as would have been the case had it been under the supervision of competent overseers. After thoroughly testing the matter, the Government, although reluctant to abandon the contract system, came to the conclusion that the true policy of the construction and repair of colonization roads was to place good overseers in charge, who were required to make proper returns and produce proper vouchers for all expenditure, and to keep complete and careful control over them by means of experienced inspectors, whose duty it was to report to the Department from time to time upon the progress and performance of the work.

SALE OF TIMBER LIMITS.

A very successful sale of timber limits in the districts of Muskoka and Parry Sound, adjacent for the most part to the waters of French River and Lake Nipissing, was held by the Department on 6th December, 1881. It was found that in the interest of the public revenue, as well as of the settlers who had taken up lands in some unlicensed townships in the section named, it was necessary to deal with the pine within the territory before it became jeopardized by the clearing of the land and the fires raised in process thereof. In this way timber of the finest quality is often cut down and applied to uses for which inferior lumber would be suitable, the result being a depreciation of the value of the timber limits before they are brought into market, and a consequent loss to the revenue without being of any advantage to the settler.

AREA PLACED UNDER LICENSE.

The territory placed under license at the sale consisted of the townships of Mowat, Blair, McConkey, Hardy Patterson, Mills, Sinclair, Bethune, Proudfoot, Gurd, Machar, Strong, Joly, Laurier, Pringle, Lount, Nipissing and Himsworth, and covered an area of 1,379 square miles. These townships were placed under license simply because large numbers of settlers were going upon the lands and the timber would have been destroyed by fire, and otherwise; the only way to prevent such destruction of the natural resources of the country, and to secure the timber for revenue purposes, was to place the territory under license, as before stated. And as it was necessary to place these few townships under license for the reasons given above, it would have been inexcusable neligence on the part of the Government not to take advantage of the favourable condition of the market existing at the time the sale was made.

PROCEEDS OF THE SALE.

The prices obtained at the sale were beyond precedent. The total bonus paid was $726,675.25, or an average bonus per square mile of $532, and this without taking into account the ground rent of $2 per square mile, which of itself produces an annual revenue of $2,700, and without taking into account, either, the Government dues of 75 cents per thousand feet board measure, and $2.00 per thousand feet cubic measure, leviable upon the timber when cut. The proceeds of this sale, as compared with former sales of timber limits are most satisfactory, and it is gratifying to know that almost the entire amount bid as a bonus has been promptly paid according to the terms of sale.

ONLY THE RIGHT TO CUT TIMBER SOLD.

It is to be observed that, as has been previously stated, what was sold was only the right to cut the pine timber upon the territory, and that the timber when cut will be subject to the Government charges mentioned above. In this way a large sum will be paid into the revenue annually as a result of the sale. No right or title whatever in the land was conveyed to the purchasers at the sale, and the licenses issued to them are strictly under the control of the Legislature and the Department.

AN OPPORTUNE TIME.

The time selected for the sale was extremely opportune, parties engaged in lumbering had just closed a successful season's business, and having the means were prepared to invest in limits. As a consequence the attendance was large and the bidding spirited.

AN ABSURD CHARGE.

An absurd charge of inconsistency has been attempted to be fastened upon the Government in connection with this sale of timber limits, inasmuch as they should, it is said, have previously intimated their intention of making the sale to the Legislature, and obtained the consent of the latter thereto. Now, apart from the fact that there is nothing in the statute book requiring such a course, it has always been the contention of the Reform party, that the interests of the country demand that that the responsibility for ordinary administrative acts should not be removed from the Government and placed upon the Legislature. To the Government are entrusted matters of routine and administration, and the true policy is to hold the members thereof individually and collectively responsible for the proper peformance of such duties, not to deprive them of the power of taking action. This principle, so far as the disposal of timber limits is concerned, was embodied in a resolution moved by Hon. E. B. Wood, in the session of 1873, to the effect, that the berths or limits should "be offered for sale by public auction at the upset price . . . . at such time and place, and upon such conditions, and by such officer, as the Commissioner of Crown Lands shall direct by public notice for that purpose." This resolution was carried, not only by means of the votes of members supporting the Government, but also by the aid of several members on the other side of the House — including Messrs. Cameron, Meredith, Lauder, Deacon and Merrick —only four of the Opposition, in fact, recording their votes against it. The course of the Government in this matter has been thoroughly consistent, and strictly in the interest of the province.

PUT THIS IN YOUR PIPE.

"Frank P. Warner came into our store to purchase a sample bottle of Zopessa for a friend, and stated that he (Mr. Warner) was afflicted with kidney and liver troubles for five years, and had paid $200 or $300 doctor's bills, and has now been completely cured by the use of two large bottles and one sample bottle of Zopessa. He was so bad at one time that he lost 37 pounds of flesh, but after using Zopessa, claims that he is a sound man, and now weighs 145 pounds. He was loud in its praise, and readily consented to allow us to use his name for reference."

Again, Mrs. Forbes, wife of Mr. R. C. Forbes, Tilsonburg, Ont., through Mr. C. Thomson, Druggist, says: "She was ailing for years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia, and was reduced to a mere skeleton, but through the use of Zopessa entirely recovered and has gained 38 pounds."

We could present very many such, but have not the time nor space. Zopessa is not a cure-all, but acts directly upon the liver, stomach, and kidneys, correcting the digestion, giving activity to the liver and health to the urine. This corrects the whole system and the blood becomes pure. 44-4t

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy-five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ eworth three or four hundred dollars for $60. This is all nonsense. Still we have no objection to other people doing their busines just as they see fit. We are selling a good honest made Piano at from $575, and a good, honest Organ (not all stops) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if not pleasee no keepee, as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Piano and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood always sells us more. COUNTER MANIFESTO.

Representative Reform Catholics in Defence

OF HIS GRACE THE ARCHBISHOP.

An Important Protest—The Senatorial Manifesto Severely Criticised—Carrying the War into Egypt—Full Text of the Protest.

The following is the counter manifesto of representative reform Catholics in defence of Archbishop Lynch and the bishops of Ontario on the Marmion question:

To His Grace the Archbishop, and their Lordships the Bishops of the Ecclesiastical Province of Toronto:—

We, the undersigned members of the Catholic Church, having read with astonishment and pain an appeal from Senators Smith an O'Donohoe to your Grace, and your Lordships, beg to approach your Grace and your Lordships most respectfully, and as Catholics protest again the disingenuous and falsely coloured statements contained in the address.

We protest against the assumption of these gentlemen in calling themselves representative Catolics, for neither in the Senate, nor as private citizens are they in a position to say truly that

THEY REPRESENT THE CATHOLIC BODY.

Neither of them has been in any manner authorized by bishops, priests, or any body of Catholics that we are aware of to speak or act for them as Catholics. Hence we repudiate their claim of being in any sense true representative Catholics.

We will pass over, as unworthy of notice, many of the political views presented by these self-tyled representative Catholics, and come to the true history of the position taken up by your Grace on the politico-religious question; the religious portion of which was very adroitly left out in the "Memorandum" of the Senators.

By an oversight in the Senate of Toronto University, as your Grace has already stated, Scott's "Marmion" was placed on the list for examination in the University, and Collegiate Institutes. Catholic pupils attend these institutions in very large numbers and were expected to analyze the narrative and every sentiment and incident in the poem.

There are many passages in the work containing references particularly offensive to

for example, breaking of vows by a nun, who became the mistress of Marmion in the guise of a page, her subsequent immuring within the walls of her Convent, and the consequently atrocious conduct of the priests in burying her alive, the inferred adultery of Friar John, his sacrilegious masses, and carousings, and the amours of the King with Lady Heron, &c., all of which are surely suggestive of impurity.

Your Grace in conformity with your duty as protector of the morals of the Catholic youth objected to "Marmion" not as a literary work—for in that sense it has many excellencies—but as unfit to be placed in the hands of Catholic pupils as a text book, and especially when it was to be closely analyzed.

In conjunction with others, your Grace applied to the Hon., the Minister of Education, pointing out why the book should be removed from the curriculum of studies. The Minister on consideration suspended its study, and when this became known the Mail newspaper, the recognized chief organ of the Conservative party, abused the Hon. Mr. Crooks in the vilest manner, calling him a donkey, and other names which no respectable journal would use, and calling your Grace a donkey driver, etc., etc.

This paper states that no Catholics of any intelligence ever made any objection to the work. It has said not a bishop, nor priest, nor professor, nor teacher, nor educated layman, of the Catholic Church, has offered a single protest against 'Marmion' during the whole of this controversy.

Your Grace we presume, not whishing that the Hon. Mr. Crooks should be calumniated, acknowledged from the pulpit that you had asked for its removal. Upon this being published the Mail poured the most violent impugning even your moral character, and charged you with "scenting" out immorality where there was none, as if it required pruriency to see immorality in the breaking of the vows of a nun and in the adultery of priests.

Had Senators Smith and O'Donohoe ranged themselves on the side of your Grace in condemning the introduction of what you deemed objectionable literature into the High Schools and University, then indeed might they have claimed to be on the side of the Catholic interests in the Senate. But how can we be expected to sympathize with these gentleman who stood coldly by, when they could have either prevented the scurrilous abuse which was daily poured on your Grace by their party organ, or have protested against it. The senators complained of the abuse of the Globe some twenty years ago, but not a word of complaint of the by their organ, the Mail, for the last two months. The Mail newspaper dragged the Catholic question on the political platform, and at the end of every vile and abusive article proclaimed that "Mowat must go," "Crooks must go." In other words the Liberal Government must be put out of power in Ontario because it had the fairness to listen to your Grace's objections to the study of Marmion. "Marmion" is a text book and a Government must be put in power, which judging by the Mail would not listen to any remonstrances or suggestions, however reasonable, from Catholics on the subject of the education of Catholic youth.

In the recent elections it became therefore a test question with the electorate, whether the Liberal Government should suffer in consequence of its in common with the other people of this province. It is not to be wondered at then that the Catholics when so challenged at the polls, showed that their Catholic consciences were dearer to them than mere political party alliegiance, and the result has proved that you Grace has the entire sympathy of your people in your efforts for their educational rights.

Your Grace is falsely reported by the Mail as having said that "Conservative Catholics were bastard Catholics." We are aware that what your Grace did say was that there were bastard Catholics who would sell their consciences and religion for place and power.

The Mail as the recognised organ of the Conservative party in this province is supposed to represent the political views of that party, and such being the case, is is quite reasonable for Catholics to conclude that their just and equal rights in educational and other matters if the holders of such views were in power, and it is but fair to say that if the Mail did not express the sentiments of the leaders of the Conservative party, it would have been easy to have stopped its continuous and oft repeated abuse of your Grace and Catholics in general.

Your Grace truly said that all true Catholics take moral teaching from their bishops and not from newspaper writers. Your Grace we are sure has never said that Catholics should under pain or penalty, vote for any political party. So far from this being the case you have frequently said that it was quite natural to see Catholics on both sides of politics, and we know that Catholics in the Local Legislature are divided in party politics, which might not be the case if Your Grace was a political partizan.

Catholics would not be true to themselves in politics if they would be content with having a few members of their body in power—and only (a few can attain these positions) who would be satisfied to remain as subservient followers of a Government, and would allow the rights of the Catholic people to be violated.

If Your Grace had sacrified your conscience as guardian of the Catholic youth of the province, or—when you did try to have this objectionable book removed—had hidden yourself behind the Hon. Mr. Crooks, and odium sought to be attached by the Conservative organ to a fair and just act on the part of the Mowat Government, and that liberal ministry, suffer for doing justice to all, then indeed Your Grace and Lordships would not have been troubled with an address from Senators Smith and O'Donohoe. For whatever measure of justice, Catholics as such have received from either political party hitherto, we have reason to believe that they are grateful, but we think that they will not change their consciencious political convictions, at the beck and call of any set of men who happen to be office-holders however exalted may be the position to which any government or leader may have appointed them.

THE PRESUMPTIOUS LECTURE

Given Your Grace and Lordships on politics by Senators Smith and O'Donohoe appeared to us quite uncalled for. We feel confident that you will continue, while taking a deep interest in the welfare of our common country, to exercise a faithful vigilance in protecting the charge enstrusted to your keeping, and in guarding against all improper influences upon the education of our children.

We also take this occasion to protest against a circular issued by these gentlemen some months ago addressed to Catholics of the Dominion, and directing them how to vote at the elections then pending. We utter this protest as Catholics and citizens, recognizing with much thankfulness that we labor under no statutory disabilities in consequence of our faith, but enjoy equal rights with our non-Catholic fellow-citizens, and we look on such appeals to Catholics as presumptuous and injurious, and likely only from ambitious and vain men who desire to use this Catholic name for party and personal purposes.

We do not complain of any fair political action on the part of these gentlemen but we do firmly protest against the by designing politicians, whose whole aim is the attainment of political preferment and power. Catholics, whilst one in faith, may not be of one mind in party politics, nor is such to be expected except when questions arise in the politics of the country which seriously affect Catholics as such, and in this connection we cannot refrain from expressing to Your Grace and Lordships, how much the Catholic people of this province owe you for your watchfulness over the educational interests of their children, and your courage in maintaining your character as "the watchmen on the tower," when the rights of our people as a religious minority were assailed.

We subjoin herewith extracts* from the Mail newspaper abundantly proving the vile and scandalous nature of the attacks which in this connection have by the leading Conservative organ been made not alone upon your Grace, but likewise upon their Lordships of Peterborough and Kingston and the Hon. Minister of Education.

In conclusion, as children of the Catholic Church, we beg to express to your Grace and Lordships our feelings of profound veneration and obedience, and we beg to add our great sorrow that any person claiming to be of our body should, without the slightest justification, have so wantonly committed the un-Catholic act of accusing your Grace of being a mere political partisan, and whilst recognizing the right of every citizen to choose for himself whatever political party he may think best for the welfare of the country, we are of opinion that no political exigency can justify so gross and unwarranted an attack on your Grace as that contained in the document addressed to your Grace and Lordships by Senators Smith and O'Donohoe, whose presumption we feel sure, finds no echo in the breasts of any true Catholic in the Dominion.

We have the honor to be, with the highest respect and veneration, your Grace and Lordship's devoted.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 23, 1882

Dominion Parliament.

It is understood that the session of the Dominion Parliament will begin about the last week in January next.

The Local Legislature.

At a meeting of the executive council of this Province, held at Toronto on Thursday last, it was decided that the Provincial Legislature should be called together for business on Wednesday the 13th of December. The forthcoming session, being the last, will likely be one of a great deal of interest. The Opposition will take every opportunity to improve their last desperate chance of weakening the record of the Government and of strengthening their own position. Before the by-elections, the Oppositionists were aching, evidently, for an early session; now that the interim elections have forecast their discomfiture, our Tory friends are not at all elated over an early session any more than an accused criminal, whose guilt is likely to be proven, can rejoice at the approach of the sittings of the court. The friends of good government can have no fears of the result of the session. It will result in the Government being more strongly intrenched than ever. The weakness and puerility of the line of attack against their policy shows that their position is too strong a one to be carried by a handful of disorganized factionists. It is natural to infer that an early session means a speedy dissolution of the house and the early bringing on of the elections.

The Late David George Hatton.

On Wednesday morning the whole town was saddened by the news that death had claimed for his own one of the most prominent and respected citizens of the place in the person of Mr. D. G. Hatton, Police Magistrate, who breathed his last at the family residence "Inglewood" on Wednesday morning at half-past eight o'clock. That the event was not unexpected did not mitigate the regret nor dull the poignancy of the grief of his many friends. The malady that removed deceased was chronic Bright's disease, from which he has for some time been a sufferer. Last summer in search of health he made a short visit to the sea shore and returned in apparently improved condition. Subsequently—about a month since—he applied to the Attorney-General of Ontario, and obtained six months' leave of absence as Police Magistrate, intending to pay a visit in search of health to his son in South America, but the state of his health prevented the journey. For the past two months he has been confined to his house. He has been under the medical care of Dr. Boucher, assisted by the best medical advice of Montreal and Toronto. When Mr. Hatton became convinced of the fatal character of his disease he became resigned to the inevitable, and endured his suffering with great patience.

Deceased, who was of Irish extraction, was born about fifty years ago, in the neighbourhood of Port Hope. He spent the early years of his life in the employ of Mr. Wm. Cluxton, and subsequently engaged in the mercantile business on his own account, but on the destruction of his establishment by fire, he abandoned the business and began the study of law in the office of Mr. C. A. Weller and became a partner with him. The partnership continued till 1879, when Mr. Hatton went to the city of Baltimore, U. S., where he was associated in business with Dana, Wyman & Co., two or three years, after which he returned to Peterborough and resumed the practice of his profession, being at the time of his death senior partner in the firm of Hatton, Hatton & Beck. About the year 1871 he was appointed by the Government of the late John Sandfield Macdonald the first Police Magistrate of Peterborough, a position he has filled to the satisfaction of all who are concerned in seeing justice dispensed with ability, seemliness and fairness. He was well versed in the law, mature and careful in his deliberations and prompt and vigorous in action—a terror to evil doers.

As a citizen, he was active in every work that could tend to enhance the public good. He took an active part in the promotion of the Trent Valley Canal scheme, and he may be said to have been the life and soul of the Waterworks enterprise, and did not lose interest in it till he lost life. While confined to his bed one or two meetings of the Board have been held in his bed-chamber, and on the day the works were tested he had his house connected with the pump house by telephone, so that he could be made speedily aware of the progress of the test.

He was a member of the Masonic body, Corinthian Lodge, No. 101. He was at one time County Master of the Orange order, and D. G. M. of Eastern Ontario, but since his appointment as Police Magistrate has had no active connection with the order. In social life he was genial, kindly, affable, and what is popularly known as a "friendly" man. As a husband and father he was kind and thoughtful, as shown by the fact that he had provided for their material welfare, after his death, by leaving an insurance policy of between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars for their benefit. He leaves behind him a wife and three children—one daughter, and two sons, George W., a partner in the law firm, and Dr. E. F. Hatton, house surgeon under the British Government in the Colonial Hospital, on the Island of Grenada, off the coast of South America.

"The king is dead long live the king." The world is for the living not the dead; there is, therefore, no incongruity in saying that Mr. D. W. Dumble is spoken of as the probable successor of Mr. Hatton in the Police Magistracy. The selection would be a popular one, and Mr. D. is in every way well qualified to perform the duties of the position.

ASHBURNHAM SCHOOL BOARD.—The Public School Trustees met on Tuesday evening the 21st inst, at 7.30. All the members were present. The Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Chairman of the Board, presided. Several applications were received from teachers, seeking the various positions. Mr. Arthur R. Emerson was appointed head master for 1883, the salary being $500. Miss Jennie Smith was re-appointed teacher for the senior department, at $250 per annum and Miss Annie Smith was engaged for the junior department at $200. It is hoped that under Mr. Emerson's charge the school will show marked progress during the coming year. He holds a first class certificate and is highly recommended. The other teachers have both been in the employ of the Board before and are known as capable and experienced educators.

The exports of dairy products from the United States for the half year ended October show a falling off of $4,200,000 as compared with the corresponding period in the previous year.

CHANCERY SITTINGS.

A Stone Fence in Chancery—The Great-Monaghan vs. Dobbin Suit—Other Interesting Cases.

The Autumn sittings of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, began at the Court House on Tuesday, Mr. Justice Ferguson presiding. In our last issue we could do little more than barely refer to the cases, but below will be found a full report of

THE BUSINESS DONE.

BLACK vs. STRICKLAND.—An action brought to recover the amount of a bill of exchange for $486.00. Nonsuit entered on technical points, with leave to bring another suit which will be done at the spring sittings of this Court. Mr. Sawers solicitor and Mr. Blackstock, Toronto, counsel for the plaintiff; Messrs. Dennistoun & Hall solicitors, Mr. Lash, Toronto, counsel for the defendant.

REDMOND vs. WHITE.—An action of account. Judgment for plaintiff. Messrs. Dennistoun & Hall, solicitors for plaintiff; Mr. Lash, counsel. Mr. Sawers solicitor for defendant; Mr. Blackstock, counsel.

GREEN vs. BRADBURN, was an action brought by Joseph T. Green of North Monaghan, against Thomas Bradburn of Peterborough to enforce the specific performance for an agreement for the sale and conveyance of certain lands—part of lot 6 in the 12th concession of North Monaghan. The agreement was entered into on the 14th of March last. It was a verbal one witnessed by one person besides the parties to the suit. The defendent did not plead the Statute of Frauds but sought to make a new agreement entirely different from the one alleged by the plaintiff, but failing to establish a new agreement, he applied to the court to amend his statement of defence and to plead the Statute of Frauds, which the Court allowed him to do. But the Court decided that the contract was sufficiently established, and gave judgment against the defendant in all particulars. Though only two witnesses besides the parties were examined the case occupied the attention of the court the whole of Friday. Mr. Green, solicitor and counsel, with Mr. Blackstock associated as counsel, for plaintiff; Mr. Z. A. Lash, Q. C., and Messrs. Edmison & Wood for defendant.

TOWNSHIP OF NORTH MONAGHAN vs. DOBBIN.—This was the most noted of the actions tried at the Sittings, as much on account of the great interest it excited in certain sections of the county, as for the determined spirit it was contested with by the parties to the suit. As is the case in many suits, the subject matter of litigation was scarcely deserving of the waste of feeling and money which it has occasioned. It appears that about six years ago the defendant commenced to construct a stone wall of unusually large dimensions along the front of his lot, number five in the eleventh concession of the Township of Monaghan. Some of his neighbors considered that he was encroaching on the highway in building his fence, and the matter was brought by them to the attention of the Council. In the year 1880 the Council employed surveyors in order to determine where the line should be; these surveyors were unable to find the old original posts which fixed the true limits of the defendant's lot as they had long ago disappeared by decay. The nearest original post which could be found on each side of the defendant's lot was distant many hundred acres, and the straight line joining these posts showed that the defendant's fence intruded on the road to the extent of twenty one feet, along the length of the stone wall. In consequence of Dobbin's refusal to remove this fence to the line fixed by the surveyors, this suit was instituted about two years ago. It came on for trial at the Chancery Sittings in the fall of 1881, when a large amount of evidence was adduced to establish the true line. The judge decided at that hearing that the line fixed by the surveyors was not the true line, but that the correct boundary should be determined by the the old original fence, which bounded the defendant's lot previous to the erection of the stone wall; and he further decided that Dobbin had the right to maintain his fence in the place of the old fence, but he left the question as to the position of the old fence an open one. The Township contended that the line was five feet north of the stone wall. The defendant insisted that his present fence was right. The plaintiffs then made a motion in court to have the defendant committed to gaol for contempt of court in not obeying the order of the court directing him to remove his fence wherever the same extended south of the original fence. The court on the hearing of the motion in Toronto directed an issue to be tried at the Chancery Sittings in Peterborough to ascertain the relative positions of the old and the present fences.

On Wednesday morning the 16th the trial of the issue commenced. Before going into the evidence the judge expressed his desire to visit and examine the fence and ground in dispute. Accordingly in company with the sheriff and the counsel of both parties, he drove out to the fence and made a careful survey of the whole place. At the trial the defendant called Francis Birney, who built the old original fence, and several other old settlers to support his contention that his present fence did not extend further south on the highway than the old fence. The defendant altogether called eleven witnesses in his behalf; and the plaintiff endeavoured to overcome that testimony by the evidence of about twenty witnesses, many of them being of a highly respectable. The evidence was very conflicting and some of it very unseemly. The case was ably conducted by the counsel on both sides, especially the cross-examination of the township witnesses by the defendant's counsel Mr. Dumble. The trial lasted two days, and although a great mass of evidence was brought out which seemed very difficult to be reconciled, the judge appeared to have no hesitation in coming to his decision. He decided that Dobbin had a right to maintain his fence in its present position and that the township should pay the costs of both parties since the making of the order which directed the trial of the issue. Z. A. Lash, Q. C., of Toronto, and Dennistoun & Hall for the Township; D. W. Dumble for defendant.

FITZGERALD vs. FITZGERALD.—An action to have certain trusts declared respecting property in Peterborough. Stands over till the spring sittings. Mr. E. B. Edwards for plaintiff. Mr. Lash, Q. C., and Mr. Hall for minor defendants. Messrs. Edmison & Wood for adult defendant.

CROATE vs. WILSON.—An action on promissory notes which plaintiff claimed were due and part of which defendant claimed were accommodation notes. Judgment for plaintiff. Messrs. Poussette & Roger for plaintiff. Messrs. Edmison & Wood for defendants.

BENNET vs. ROBINSON.—An action on account to recover the price of certain timber. Referred to the Master, Mr. C. A. Weller. Mr. E. B. Edwards for plaintiff. Mr. W. F. Moore and Messrs. Edmison & Wood for defendant.

His Lordship was so ill that he held no court on Saturday morning. He, however, recovered sufficiently to proceed home to Toronto, and to go to Lindsay to finish the Chancery business there, postponed for the Peterborough sittings.

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure in the transaction of business.

For the Christmas Trade!

To meet the wants of the Christmas buyer I have purchased extensively of the very best goods in the market—comprising:

PUBLIC EXHIBITION.—Professor Macpherson, the celebrated horse trainer, will give a public exhibition of his extraordinary skill, with his trained steed "Mexican Chief," in the streets of Peterborough on Monday and Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 27th and 28th. Afterwards he will give an exhibition at the Drill Shed and form classes for instruction in the art of subduing and training the horse.

BIBLE CHRISTIAN MISSIONS.—The annual missionary meeting of the Bible Christian Church was held last Thursday night, in the Church, Murray street, with very gratifying financial results. The chair was occupied by Rev. Mr. Joliffe, and in addition to the members of the mission deputation—Rev. Messrs. Lambert and Allin—Rev. Messrs. Shaw and Ratcliffe delivered addresses.

OYSTER SUPPER AND BAZAAR.—We would kindly call the attention of our readers to an Oyster Supper and Bazaar that will be given under the auspices of Carswell Lodge, Water street, opposite the Mechanic's Institute, on Tuesday evening next, Nov. 28th. Doors open at eight o'clock. Tickets 25 cents, to be had from the Committee and at the Wheeler & Wilson office.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.—We have inadvertently omitted "noticing" though we have noted the many and marked improvements which Mr. James of the Bowmanville Statesman has made in his sheet. It has been enlarged, appears in a new dress, printed on a new press, and looks the pink af typographical perfection. It is a live local paper, and a credit not only to its enterprising proprietor but to the town of Bowmanville.

MANSLAUGHTER, SUICIDE OR SELLS.—A few days ago, Mr. John Stevenson, Ashburnham, picked up a corked black bottle on the shore of Little Lake, containing a scrap of paper, on which was written:—"Adam Ford drowned himself on the 2nd of October, 1882." An explanatory note in the shape of a strong smell of whiskey allows the reader a choice between three findings, manslaughter, suicide or sell. The bottle and enclosed writing are facts, but beyond that there is nothing known.

IMPORTANT SALE.—The auction sale of Mr. George Fowler, lot 23 in the 1st concession of Emily, on Thursday next, 30th of November, will afford an excellent opportunity to those wishing to procure first-class horses, cattle, sheep, and implements. The stock is all in good condition, and as Mr. Fowler is giving up farming, the sale will be conducted strictly without reserve. Sale at eleven o'clock, lunch at noon. See posters and catalogues for full description and particulars.

THE LATE D. G. HATTON.—At a fully attended meeting of the Peterborough Law Association, held at the Library on Wednesday afternoon the following resolution was passed.—

"That the Peterborough Law Association having learned of the decease of David George Hatton, Esquire, late a member of the Association, desire to place on record their feeling of unfeigned sorrow at the event, and would tender to his widow and family an expression of their sympathy in this hour of deepest affliction, and that the Secretary do transmit to Mrs. Hatton a copy of this resolution."

It was also resolved that the members should, as a body, attend the funeral.

VENNOR'S WEATHER ALMANAC.—Messrs. Vogeler & Co., of Toronto, have issued "Vennor's Weather Almanac" for the year 1883. It is a neatly printed handsomely illustrated little pamphlet of nearly seventy pages, and the price has been reduced to ten cents, so that everybody can now have a theme of conversation for a trifle. Strike the weather from the list of conversational subjects and the social world is struck dumb. The book contains Mr. Vennor's weather forecasts, whose remarkable general accuracy in the past has secured for him a continental reputation. He may have made an occasional slip, and the world, with its ready malignity, has made much of that and ignored his many brilliant "hits." His almanac for 1883, is full of interesting information and is well worth the low price of ten cents. Toronto: A. Vogeler & Co.

Market Changes and Changes.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade the past week, says:—"The weather during the week, allowed some wheat-sowing, but the arrears of this work is not materially reduced, and there has been large, but irregular, supply of native wheat, and prices for good samples were occasionally higher. Foreign is unchanged, and the demand is scarcely so good, and business is restricted by the firmness of sellers. The business in cargoes off the coast is virtually at a standstill. There have been four arrivals and two sales. The market cargoes on the passage and for shipment closed firm and quiet. Red winter and Californias, 3d to 4d better. Flour was supplied freely, but the demand is steady. There was a fair trade in foreign at unchanged rates of sale. Maize was in small supply, with retail at fancy prices. Sales of English wheat for the past week 48,988 quarters at 45s 4d for the corresponding quarter of last year."

DON'T LEAVE THE FARM.

Come boys, I have something to tell you:
Come near, I would whisper it low—
You are thinking of leaving the homestead,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

The city has many attractions,
But think of the vices and sins;
When once in the vortex of fashion,
How soon the course downward begins.

You talk of the mines, boys
They are wealthy in gold, no doubt;
But, ah! there is gold in the farm, boys,
If only you'll shovel it out.

The mercantile trade is a hazard—
The goods are first high and then low,
Better risk the old farm awhile longer;
Don't be in a hurry to go.

The farm is the safest and surest,
The orchards are loaded to-day;
You're as free as the air in the mountains
And monarch of all you survey.

Better on the farm awhile longer,
Though the profits come in rather slow,
Remember, you've nothing to risk, boys,
Don't be in a hurry to go.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Judging Horses.

When attending one of our most successful exhibitions during this autumn, a practical farmer made the remark that we should try to make the directors appoint good judges on the heavy draft class of horses, as it is discouraging to breeders to have inferior animals given prizes to the rejection of better ones. We replied that we presumed the directors appointed the best they could get, and asked him to suggest a way for improvement. He replied; "Let judges be appointed from those who have had experience—men who have expended money in importing or breeding; they have learned more of what the value and merits of a horse are than those who have never invested money in them." The hint we thought an excellent one, such as might be of value to directors of agricultural societies.—Farmer's Advocate.

The Month.

The past season has been so favorable for the growth of after-grass that the cattle will no doubt go into their winter quarters in good condition. The addition of a little hay or good straw, night and morning, would strengthen and prepare them for the change from summer to winter food. Calves should receive particular attention to keep them in good condition, for if allowed to fall away it will be both difficult and costly to recover their lost condition. Horses should now be well attended to, and given a little extra feed to enable them to get through the fall work in a satisfactory manner, and keep them in good condition ready for spring work. Warmth is as necessary as feed, so repairing and putting in order the stables and other buildings should be no longer delayed. Advantage should be taken of the open weather to do as much plowing as possible, especially on heavy soil, so that there may be less delay in the spring sowing. The present open season is favorable to draining operations, which may be carried on until heavy frost sets in. The ground being now dry, draining can be easier done than in the spring.

Don't forget when husking the corn to select the very best for seed.—Farmer's Advocate.

Beech Hedges.

I am a great admirer of hedges, whether intended for use or simply for ornament, and have been moved to recommend a hedge, no mention of which has appeared in print to my knowledge. This hedge is grown by sowing beech-nuts (in the fall, as they need the action of the frost) as you would sow peas, in a drill. It is better to break the sward slightly with some convenient tool, than to sow on the grass; but in either case the nuts should be slightly, not deeply, covered with leaves or straw. If the sprouts of sapling come up too thick, of course they should be thinned out, leaving the standing ones at a suitable distance from each other. They grow rapidly, and should be cut back as other hedges are, for a few years or until the trunk has sent out a sufficient number of lateral branches, though, if allowed to go untrimmed, these branches will be thrown out; not as near the ground, to be sure, as if trimmed, but possibly, sufficiently low for all practical purposes in turning any stock larger than sheep. All who are acquainted with the growth of the beech in open land, know how scrubby its growth is, and that it seldom attains a height of more than 12 or 14 feet. I do not recommend this hedge for ornament, for it cannot be said to be very handsome; neither would I recommend it for cross-fencing; but for a line fence, which is to be permanent, it is just the thing—rapid in growth, so hardy that it withstands the severest cold of winter and all climate changes, and so tough and stiff in texture that, when it has grown to half the size of one's wrist, the largest, strongest and heaviest beast on the farm cannot break or bend it.

The beech hedge, when once firmly established, needs no repairs, and will last a "short forever," and when it begins to die, death will first show itself upon the topmost branches, working slowly down, requiring perhaps years to kill the lower ones. Sowing the beech-nut is comparatively an inexpensive process. One a little more expensive is to transplant very small saplings from the woods—which (if they do well, and are not much retarded by transplanting) take root and start quickly, will do equally as well as sowing the nut, and give a hedge sooner. For a permanent hedge, I should say try beech, either by transplanting or sowing the nut.

Petunias for the House.

We have several common flowers—by that I mean flowers to be found growing in most gardens—which give excellent satisfaction in the house in winter. Most of these flowers are of the "accommodating" sort, using the word in the sense given it by country people, who mean by an "accommodating" person, that he is one who will adapt himself to circumstances readily and not feel very much inconvenienced by any change from former circumstances.

Such a flower is the petunia. It has several features of merit; one is its profuse and constant blooming. In the garden it is generally covered with flowers, and it will do equally as well in the house if properly cared for. Another meritorious feature is its hardiness. It will stand extreme heat and the dryness of our usual sitting-room air, and also the low temperature of cold winter nights, when we carelessly let the fire die down. And a third point in its favor is, no insects ever trouble it.

It succeeds equally as well as a pot plant, trained to a trellis, or as a plant for basket use, allowed to droop. For the latter use it should be planted in a pot with some plant having more foliage, as the petunia does not have a great many leaves to cover the basket with. But in partnership with some plant that furnishes green while it supplies flowers it is very desirable.

For winter blooming lift the plant and the roots in an eight or ten-inch pot, cut back the top to within three or four inches from the ground; indeed, leaving nothing but stubs. These will send forth plenty of new shoots and in three weeks you will have flowers on them. If you want a bushy plant keep the branches pinched in well. Use ordinary garden soil and give occasional waterings during the winter with some stimulant. Once in two weeks will answer. Keep the plant in a sunny window and remove all flowers as soon as they fade. The single varieties are the best. Cuttings can be rooted by the dozen in March to furnish a supply for the garden in summer.—Farmers' Review.

The Bad and Worthless

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits. 46-4t

FALL FASHIONS.

BRIEF HINTS FOR THE DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Miss Minnie May, in the Farmer's Advocate, thus chats regarding seasonable dress affairs: As we pass from the warm summer months into the cooler and chilly airs, which bring with them certain changes of dress and appearance, we become birds of darker plumage, and begin to adopt, almost without knowing it, the richer hues of the late autumn and winter.

Let me here ask whether my young friends take sufficient care of themselves by wearing flannel and merino underclothing? I fear many of you consider yourselves sufficiently well clad without them, but this is a sad mistake; if you do not feel the need now, you will probably realise the bad effects in after years. Nothing in the way of dress has ever been introduced which is more valuable than the union or "combination" undergarments of merino and lambswool, the undervest and drawers united in one. Thus covered from the waist, and nearly to the ankle, the wearer can and march about with ease and lightness. Although, perhaps a little expensive to buy at first, these "union garments" wear well and long, and are cheaper in the end. Many doctors recommend silk underclothing in preference to any other, on account of its peculiar properties, which are supposed to be beneficial to invalids.

If we are poor we are certainly not to seem so. Judging from the richness and general magnificence of the silk, satin and velvets that are being produced for the coming season, there is a large number of most attractive novelties in styles of construction and ornamentation, to say nothing of the fresh fabrics, picturesque combinations, choice colors and new trimmings: dark greens, browns and blues, with several tones of red, are the colors for day wear.

One very suitable style for making a of silk, woollen or velvet is a plain skirt which may be finished at the bottom with a hemmed, pinked or ravelled ruche, or with ruffles, pleatings or any desired trimmings. The overskirt is formed either of a short full apron front and shawl back, or what is in greater favor still, full paniers, which may be set over the bottom of the basque or put into the waist band, as in the case of a round waist; the back draperies may be round or pointed, or be finished with a large sash of the goods. These costumes may be made entirely of the material, or in combination with some other, according to the taste of the wearer. Military braid, either cream or black, is also used a good deal for trimming street costumes, with frogs made of the narrower braids for the waist and sleeves.

COAT BODICES

of a different material from the dress, continue to hold their own, and will probably do so for some time yet, as they are admirably economical, becoming and useful, and in these points they suit everyone alike. Satin, plush and velvet, brocade and velveteen are all fashionable, and any who may have their last winter's dresses in good order, as regards the skirt portion, with a new coat-bodice of some kind, will find themselves provided, at a small expense, with a new and fashionable winter dress.

A change in regard to the cutting of plain skirts has taken place, and many of them are not gored at all, but are sloped away at the selvedges on each side of the breadths at the top, and have two front pleats like darts as well, so as to bring the front breadth and sides into the waist. This sloping is hidden by the pannier trimming, which is all but universally worn. Train dresses are only used for ceremonious occasions, being in special favor for weddings, etc.

Dresses for mourning wear follow the prevailing fashion and style of making in all cases, except that of the widows' mourning, which alone can be called "plain."

THE TIGHT FITTING COAT

seems to be the favorite street wrap for young ladies. Plush velvet and all kind of cloths and coatings, and many varieties of suit goods, are suitable made in this way. A simple finish is preferred for suit coats; braids or silk cord ornaments may be arranged upon the fronts, across the skirt of the back and upon the wrists of the sleeves, and the edges may be finished with a single row of stitching, or when the coat is made of cloth, a very stylish effect is given by making the cuffs, collar and pocket laps of velvet or plush, but if the garment be entirely of those materials, no trimming is required except handsome buttons.

The fur capes of last season

ARE STILL IN FASHION,

but are now made much larger, and in some cases extend in depth below the elbow. Of course this adds greatly to their warmth, and in consequence we shall probably see that many young ladies will wear tight fitting dresses and coat bodices, gaining the needful warmth by means of one of these useful capes.

The dolman is still in favor with many, especially elderly ladies, plush, fur and passementeries forming suitable garnitures.

VELVET, PLUSH, AND BEAVER HATS

and bonnets will be most in vogue. The average hat is large, drooping slightly back and front, and profusely trimmed with feathers and birds. There is a grace about a long ostrich plume that cannot be obtained by any other garniture, long or short, many or few; they are liked, and the possession of a good full curly one is felt to be highly desirable.

Muffs are worn a great deal to match the costumes made of satin, velvet and plush and trimmed with lace.

Tan gloves are very much used, the most fashionable being made to button at the wrist with two or three buttons, and to pull over the sleeve in a loose negligé style. Black gloves, as well as all dark shades to match the costumes, will be worn during the winter.

Now a word about

CHILDREN'S FASHIONS.

The devices for little folks are designed alike for small girls and boys, the trimming upon the girls' garments usually being somewhat more fanciful than that upon the boys' clothes.

The long, half-fitted waists remain in favor, as they deserve, but there is no end to the pretty ways of ornamenting both the skirt and body portions. One exceedingly pretty style is a half-fitting sacque shape, that may be deeply trimmed with pleating, shirrings and puffs, wash laces and bias ruffles. It has an inserted centre-front, which may be of another goods, and upon which the front edges of the side-fronts are buttoned. It has a wide round falling collar and a stand up collar, and its wrists are prettily over-faced. A sash of the goods, or hemmed sarah, or wide ribbon, may be worn with this charming yet simple style of dress.

A very pretty cloak is made double-breasted, sacque fronts and a half-fitted chest back, extended to proper width by a box-plaited skirt, with a round shoulder cape and large pockets upon the sides. Such a cloak is equally fashionable made plain or bordered with moss-trimming, plush, velvet, fur or feathers.

HER SHOES AND STOCKINGS.

The costliest pair of shoes I have ever seen, says a Detroit Free Press man, covered the pedal extremities of a New York lady—$80 was paid for them. The same lady wore a pair of stoking which cost $90. They were made of black silk, and mid way between the ankle and the knee was a green tree embroidered in silk with bright plumaged birds. On the "bulge" of the stocking was a huntsman, aiming at the birds on the tree. Upon the instep was the monogram of the lady wrought in gold letters. Between the knee and the upper part of the stocking were eighteen narrow bands of many varying hues.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffalos, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, to suit all shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS,—I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly,
J. S. WETHERILL.

CAPT. COSTIGAN IN EGYPT.

"The gallant 18th and 87th Regiments charged upon the Egyptians with a rush and a cheer and the Egyptians dropped their arms like hot potatoes." - See the Daily Telegraph of October 6th for a report of a speech made by Alderman Conolly to the Town Council of Drogheda, in moving a resolution to confer the freedom of that city on Sir Garnet Wolseley.

Ye Councillors of Drogheda,
Assind while I imbroider
The hanesh of the Warrior with the flowers of the Pote!
I sing our compathey's Hero
Who smote the tyrann of Pharaoh,
And dyed the hayrdsh playgyards for to thrample on his coat.

Says the Queen, 'Sir Garnet, plase,
Ye must cross the bowlin saye,
Where there's party going-on to understhan'
I'm giv'n.'
Says he, 'Great Queen Victory,
When duty calls to Glory,
Obsydience for the Soger is the furust law of His'n.'

So he crossed the seas so bould
(Though throubled wid a could),
On thim ruffian hordes descidin like a clap of thunder;
An' as in the days of Bessy
(You'll remimber them me honey),
Forty clatories looked down on him agog wid wonder.

An' who is't he commands
Across thim burning sands?
There's Saxon louts an' Scotch loons with their long shanks bare,
But he winks his gallant eye;
Do I go for to expel
Brave Pat, me darlin' counthryman, amongst ye there?

Arrah Gineral avick,
We're the bhoys to do the thrick!
Then in like a pig among the cabbages goes Pat!
An' the dromedaries an' camels,
And the hadjis and the hammals
Was a-runnin' for their dirthy loives this way an' that.

Och, to tell ye all his ravages
Amongst thim squalin savages
Would puzzle Misther Forbes himself, that's flat;
Till he sathes his bloody sabre
On the heights of Tel-el-Kebir.
And Sir Garnet comes a-ridin' up with 'Thank ye Pat.'

Shure it's Gospel thruth I'm tellin';
Though thim paypers may be swellin
Their Hoighlands an' their Lowlands, horse fut and dragheon.
The bhoy what did the thrick
Was Pat, and double quick
Our Arrhy was dancin' with 'Garry Owen' for the chune.

—London World.

THE HIGHLAND STEWARD AND HIS CLEVER FAMILY.

We take the following from a paper entitled "Reminiscences of a Commercial Traveller:"—A Mr. David, from Edinburgh, in the nursery and seedsman line, paid a visit once in five years to a nobleman's estate in the far north, for the purpose of getting orders for the replanting of the fir trees which the rough blasts of the previous winters had destroyed. Upon the occasion in question the land steward, or grieve, was a man called Alexander Mackintosh; he was a quiet, inoffensive, and singularly reticent individual and the utmost Mr. David could extract from him were the monosyllabic answers "yes" and "no," as the case might be. As usual, when the bargain was completed, the nurseryman asked the land steward to clench the bargain with, of course, a glass of whiskey. Mackintosh never spoke, and even the electrifying influence of the "usquebaugh" availed not; his lips seamed hermetically sealed. Turning over in his mind some subject to get the Highlander to speak upon, he said—

"Oh! by the by, Mr. Mackintosh, I saw in the Scotsman, the other day, that a young man from this district has passed his examination as Master of Arts of the University of Edinburgh. I saw it was the same name as your own, Alex. Mackintosh. Is he any relation of yours?"

"My son."

"Your son!" exclaimed Mr. David. "Why, he must be a clever chiel; the examination is by no means easy; it requires preparation, study, and, above all, indomitable perseverance. Why, you must be proud of your son?"

"Yes, yes," said the Highlander, and then relapsed into silence.

"Well, I only wish I had a son who could pass with such honors," remarked the Edinburgh gentleman.

"Yes, yes," nodded the grieve, and added, "I am very proud of Alexander, but it is my other son I think most of."

"What, have you another son?" asked Mr. David, "and what may he be?"

"Oh, yes; I have another son; and he is a physician in Liverpool, in England, where he has a large practice, not among poor people, but in the most aristocratic part of the town. He makes much money and is not old yet."

"Well!" continued Mr. David, "you have two sons—one of them a physician, and the other a Master of Arts. Why, you must be proud of them?"

"Oh, yes! oh, yes!" returned the ground officer.

"And your excellent wife, Margaret, she will be very proud also?"

"Oh, yes, she is, poor body; but, if I had kuown," he remarked, in rising to leave, "that my family would have attained such eminence, and become so distinguished, I would have married a lady, and had another mother for them."

A TOO TATOOED WIFE.

A late Massachusetts divorce case, that of Mr. Boyle, presents the peculiar feature that Mrs. Boyle is one of those illustrations of Herbert Spencer's doctrine that decoration precedes dress, a "tatooed girl." Indeed, when unadorned by dress it would appear Mrs. Boyle was most embellished by art. Those who go down to the sea in ships have seen the chests and arms of brawny mariners tatooed with the figures of a man-of-war, a crucifix, a spreadeagle and other devices interesting to seamen, the work of some fair but savage esthete in distant lands. We are led to suppose that Mrs. Boyle is adorned in a similar manner, but on a much more elaborate scale. She is, as far as tatooing can make her, a pattern wife, calculated to please any man who has a soul for art. Yet in these days of differentiation, most people prefer to separate the function of the wife and the picture-gallery. Mr. Boyle, we suppose, was attracted into matrimony mainly by curiosity: he had seen some small part of the illustrations, and too hastily decided to purchase the entire panorama. The result has not been a happy one; we suppose a husband must get tired of perpetually seeing the same pictures on exhibition. It would be like being caretaker to an art exhibition, one would find the position monotonous. Hence no doubt the divorce. We should think ladies were to be preferred without the illustrations.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

This Season's Improvements – What Others are Contemplated—Needed Improvements.

Knowing the deep interest taken by all in this beautiful spot, as the resting place of their beloved dead, and also the interest taken in it by all lovers of the beautiful, we need not apologise for again adverting to the subject. Last summer we published an elaborate description of the work done here in the earlier part of the season and noticed the work in progress at the time. A brief visit the other day suggests a slight mention of the work done since our previous professional—so to speak—visit. At the time of our last visit the grass was looking somewhat gray owieg to a lack of rain and appliances for watering the award. But this was the only defect noticed. Evidences of the scrupulous, carefulness and painstaking of the superintendent, were apparent on ever hand. The lately fallen leaves had all been raked up and carted away to the low lying parts of the grounds, the walks and drives being as neat and trim as rake and shears could make them. A great improvement was visible in the more recently constructed drives. The larger stones had all been raked into the centre and finely broken, thus making an excellent macadam of what were before incumbrances and "stones of offence."

The plateau under the base of the hill, westward of the line of the chapel has been this season splendidly graded and leveled, Mr. Kelly's plans and practice following the natural sweep of the ground and not any stiff conformity to set rules. This part has been carefully seeded, and the seed having taken well, will present a beautiful appearance next summer. Cemetery point has also been leveled, graded and seeded in a thorough and excellent manner as far as the brink of the bank. It was impossible to finish the work to the water's edge, which cannot be done satisfactorily till the shore is cribbed similar to the work done to the new plot west of the lodge.

A HIDEOUS DEFORMITY.

to the scene was the malodorous and unsightly bank of sawdust that has accumulated along the eastern bank of the cemetery at its northern part, especially. When the water is low this is a most disgraceful state of the river. The sawdust entirely fills the old channel and is so firm and solid that when the water is low it will support the weight of a man walking on it. To return to the grounds. Among other improvements made by Mr. Kelly, with a view to the preservation of the work done, is the construction of a four-inch tile drain along the new drive running northward from the chapel. The trench overlying the tile is filled in with pine needles covered by coarsely broken stone. These admit of the water, instead of wearing away the soil, finding its way into the drain. Two similar drains one on each side of the entrance gate have been laid down. These are only isolated samples of the care bestowed on the preservation of the grounds.

NEXT SEASON'S OPERATIONS

will include the grading and terracing of the pine clad bluff southeast of the chapel. It is probable also that the area of the cemetery will be increased by the addition of about six acres of land on the west. This proposal being under consideration, accounts for the dilapidated condition of the western fence not having received attention as it otherwise would have done. The proposal is to extend the grounds as far west on the south side of the gates as they now extend on the north or lake side.

NEEDED IMPOVEMENTS.

Mr. Kelly has suggested several needed improvements that cannot be secured without the co-operation of the directors and it seems to us that his suggestions could be carried out with profit to all concerned.

One is a wind-mill or other means of securing water to irrigate the grounds and lawns in dry weather. At present it is impossible to carry water for this purpose. A plentiful supply of water would be a great assistance in beautifying the condition of the lawns and plots, and keeping the grass green—on which its beauty alone depends,—and the flowers fresh and blooming.

The system of marking the bounds of burial lots, with huge and unsightly stakes can be very easily improved by substituting stones or even hard burned bricks sunken below the level of the sward so as to admit of the lawn mower being passed over them. As it is now, as much time is spent in hand clipping around these posts where the mower cannot reach as in mowing the rest of the sward.

In spite of these drawbacks, Mr. Kelly has succeeded admirably in keeping the grounds in a condition of trimness and beauty that reflect equal credit on his taste, skill and industry.

It is likely that next season will witness changes and improvements that will render even more attraction and beautiful, what is now the finest rural cemetery in the Dominion.

PERSONAL.

Rev. Messrs. Beck and Bradshaw, were in Toronto last week attending the quarterly meeting of the Synod Committees, of which they are members.

Mr. J. Coyle Brown, Inspector of Public Schools, for the County of Peterboro', removed his family to Norwood last Thursday, where his residence will be in future.

We observe by our Toronto exchanges, that Dr. G. S. Ryerson, the celebrated Oculist and Aurist who is well known in Peterborough from several visits, on Wednesday last was united in marriage to Miss Crowther, at St. Peter's Episcopal church, Toronto. The dresses were magnificent and the guests present included the elite of the city.

On Thursday evening Mr. A. White, traffic manager of the Midland Railway accompanied by Mr. White took train at the Midland station, for Quebec, whence they departed on Saturday by steamer Parisian of the Allan Line, for England. A large number of persons, including the officials of the road among whom Mr. W. is extremely popular, and personal friends, assembled to bid Mr. and Mrs. White good by and wish them a safe voyage and a pleasant sojourn in the old country. During Mr. White's absence Mr. J. F. Holden, Deputy Manager, will conduct the business of the department.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ASSAULT AND ROBBERY.

A few days ago Mr. Geo. Clarke a foreman under Sims & Lewis, on a section of the Ontario & Quebec railway close to Norwood, was visited by his brother and brother-in-law, both of whom had only recently come from the old country, and after spending a convivial time in the village, accompanied the former to the works on the railway. After spending some time there, they returned to Norwood, but it appears fell out by the way, and the two deeply interested relatives—both good sized men—gave Clarke an unmerciful beating, and inflicted several severe wounds about his head and body and, as Clarke says, robbed him of a large sum of money and his watch. They made off with their booty in the direction of Peterborough, where Clarke at once followed them, to arrest them and hand them over to justice—with what result has not yet been developed. Clarke's case is a hard one, as he is well and favourably known here, and as far can be learned, does not deserve the treatment he received at the hands of his not very loving relatives.

THE RAILWAY.

The condition of the Ontario & Quebec Railway has reached a very interesting and progressive stage, and the large number of men in connection with the work in our vicinity gives the village a business like appearance. In consequence of the presence constantly of a large number of laborers and artizans our mechants, hotelkeepers and boarding houses are doing a booming business. The principal attraction on the works now is the construction of the abutments for the bridges for the road crossing the river Ouse and the road near the grist mill. Here a large gang is at work building the abutments, which are of a most substantial character, and great skill and care are being taken in their construction. Each stone—varying in size from 3x2 feet and larger—is laid by means of a large derrick and is placed with the nicest exactitude. All the stones required for these abutments—which when completed will be about 23 feet high—are taken from Mr. Grover's quarry, about half a mile from the works.

RAILWAY MEETING.

At the call of the Reeve of this village, a railway meeting was held in the town hall on Monday evening, to take into consideration a communication received from Warkworth, in regard to a railway scheme in agitation, proposed to run from Brighton Harbor via Warkworth and Hastings to Norwood. The following is a copy of the resolutions passed at the meeting of the ratepayers of Warkworth and other municipalities interested, held last week at Warkworth:

It was moved by J. O. Proctor, of Brighton, seconded by Geo. Boyce, of Percy,—That the secretary of this meeting be instructed to correspond with the Reeves of municipalities likely to be interested in the building of a railway from Brighton harbor northward through Warkworth and Hastings, and to Norwood, or further north, and ask them to call a meeting of the ratepayers to select a committee to meet at Warkworth, and then from themselves or others appoint a Provisional Board of Directors, and for other preliminary business which may be deemed necessary to promote the aforesaid railway, and that Mr. A. Mallory be chairman of the meeting."

Mr. Pearce was appointed chairman, and Mr. Thos. Burke secretary. Mr. Pearce stated the object of the meeting in accordance with the above resolution, and called upon any one present to express themselves upon the subject. Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, Mr. J. P. Brown, Dr. Massie and others spoke, and expressed themselves favorably towards the scheme and in favor of giving a small bonus towards it. The following resolution was carried unanimously:

"Moved by P. W. Reynolds, seconded by Dr. Massie,—That in the opinion of this meeting it is desirable to encourage the proposed railway from Brighton harbor via Warkworth and Hastings to Norwood, and desire to give assistance by way of a moderate bonus towards the construction of the same; and that Messrs. J. B. Pearce and W. E. Roxbugh be a deputation to attend the meeting to be held at Warkworth on Tuesday, the 28th inst., for the purpose of forming a Provisional Board of Directors, and such other business as may be necessary to promote the same."

In accordance with this resolution, the deputation left on Tuesday morning last to attend the meeting at Warkworth. While all here are anxious for the construction of this road, no one for a moment thinks that a bonus can be carried granting aid towards it.

COBOURG.

KILLED ON A RAILWAY CROSSING.—On Monday afternoon a serious accident occurred on the Kingston crossing of the Grand Trunk railway, about two miles from here. An old man named Elliot Winters of Haldimand township, and his son were driving home from Cobourg with a horse and buggy, and were crossing the railway track when they were struck by a light engine from the east, completely demolishing the buggy and killing the old man instantly. The son and horse escaped without injury.

A FITTING TESTIMONIAL.

What Dr. Halliday's Grafton Friends think of Him—How a New Citizen of Peterboro was Honored.—A Magnificent Present.—The Address and Reply.

The acquisition of a new citizen to the town is a source of pleasure, at any time but when a gentleman comes amongst us with such flattering credentials as to his worth, both socially and professionally, as Dr. Halliday it is a matter of greater gratification. During Dr. Halliday's brief residence amongst us he has made so many friends, both as a gentleman and a physician, that we are prepared for the sentiments expressed in the address given below:

The Cobourg Sentinal Star says that last week the many friends of Dr. Halliday, who removed recently from Grafton to Peterborough, took advantage of his visit to his old village, to present him with an address and testimonial. The presentation was made by Mr. J. Gillard, and must have convinced the worthy doctor, that although his business has taken him from their midst, yet he has many warm friends in this vicinity, by whom he will not soon be forgotten. The following was the address read:

To Dr. James J. Halliday.

DEAR SIR,—We are very glad to meet you on the present occasion, and we avail ourselves of your brief visit to express the deep regret which we all feel at your removal from amongst us. The high sense which we entertain of your upright and honorable course of life during the many years of our pleasant intercourse only serves to make us feel our loss the more keenly, and in order to give expression to the regrets which we feel at the severing of our connections, I have been deputed by your many friends in Grafton and vicinity, to present you with this testimonial, as a slight token of kind respect and esteem for your many excellent qualities, both socially and professionally, and seeing that you have removed to a larger field of professional duty, we trust that you will receive such a measure of public patronage as your merits so justly deserve, And now, in once more bidding you farewell, we hope and trust that yourself, Mrs. Halliday and family, may continue to enjoy a larger measure of health and happiness with its attendant blessing.

Signed in behalf of the subscribers,
JAMES GILLARD.

To which Dr. Halliday replied as follows:

MY DEAR SIR.—Allow me to thank you, and through you my many kind friends for the very handsome testimonial you have given me to-night. I feel, sir, how inadequate mere words are to convey my thanks to you, or sufficiently express my feelings on this occasion, but so far as words enable me to do so, I heartily thank you, not only for this handsome souvenir, but also for all your many acts of kindness to me and mine in the past. I also thank you for the kind expressions and good wishes to myself, Mrs. Halliday and family contained in the address which you have just read to me. Believe me, sir, I shall ever prize this present as it deserves, and far above and beyond any value I set upon it from its own intrinsic worth, shall I ever hold dear the remembrance of the kind feelings which prompted my friends to give it.

When I left here last spring, I left so hurriedly that I was only able to say good-bye to comparatively few of my friends and patients, and to them was unable to express what I felt at parting. Believe me, it was no light matter for me to sever the ties and associations which bound me to this place, to leave my old friends and go to a new place to form new friends, new ties, new associations.

We had been friends for years, not only friends dear to each other, but you had also been my patients. I had been your physician tried and trusted by you, and from all your kindness to me I know I was loved also. I had attended many of you through serious illnesses, some through illnesses which had brought them near to the verge of the grave, when it seemed as if the weight of a feather would decide which way the trembling balance should turn, whether the "silver cord should be loosed and the golden bowl be broken," or whether they should again be mercifully restored to health and strength, to their families, and to their accustomed places, and when they were restored to health. I rejoiced with them and returned thanks to the Giver of all good that he had permitted me to be the honored instrument of his superior power. Beside others I had stood in their hours of deepest sorrow and affliction. Thus, my friends, rejoicing together and sorrowing together, we became very dear, and I can assure you I felt the parting keenly.

To those who know me well I need not say I did not take this step selfishly. There were among many reasons, the following, which were permanent: I had a better opportunity of educating my children, and of fitting them to take their places in the busy ranks of life. Places which they and others now growing up with them, will in a very few years, be called to fill. Then I had an opportunity, as you say, of practicing my profession in a wider field. The profession which I love and which I have faithfully pursued for many years. I think, sir, I may conscientiously say that I have followed that profession faithfully, and have earnestly striven to do my duty in it as far as God has given me the ability to do so, ever keeping prominently in my mind the good of my patients and my own accountability to the great Physician. From your kind, good wishes for my success in the future, I know you will be glad to learn that I feel satisfied with my success thus far. I have been warmly received in my new home, and have found many warm friends, but believe me, sir, no matter how many friends I form, I shall ever retain a warm place in my heart for the old ones I leave here.

Again, sir, permit me to thank you for your very handsome testimonial and address.

JAMES J. HALLIDAY.

"The testimonial" referred to consists of a magnificent piece of silver plate, an epergne standing about three feet in height and expanding laterally about two feet and a half. The quadrangular bevelled base rests on four gilt swans. From the centre of it starts a pillar on the circular base of which are seated on either side two female figures in silver with hair and drapery in gold. From the pillar, just above their heads spring two lateral brackets of graceful design, richly chased and ornamented, supporting oval, shell-shaped dishes, gilt on the inside, with a centre piece of fine lath work in silver. The central pillar is continued and pierces the centre of a third shell-shaped dish, similarly finished to the two others and terminates in a splendid bouquet holder of cut glass. The design of the piece is artistically excellent, and the ornamentation chaste and in good taste. The base bears this inscription:—

"Presented to Dr. Halliday, as a slight token of respect and esteem by the inhabitants of Grafton and vicinity, Oct., 1882."

The epergne is diplayed in the show window of Mr. J. D. Tully's drug store, whose tasteful and elaborate adornments is a fitting setting for so beautiful a specimen of metallurgic art.

New and tasty gas fixtures have been placed in the Council chamber. Two-branch gasaliers in ultramarine and gold have been put over the Mayor and clerk's desks.

Rev. John Shaw will preach the sermon in the Methodist church, Port Hope, next Sunday, on the occasion of the Sunday School anniversary. Port Hope knows where to come for good sermons.

Don't forget that Wallace's, Lakefield, is the cheapest place to buy men or boys overcoats, tweed suits, woolen shirts or under clothing. 45-4t

The Otonabee friends of Rev. Mr. Stobo, recognized the benefits received from his ministry by surprising him at his residence on last Friday night with a well filled purse of money.

The direct importation of goods from foreign countries by several of our merchants, is a pleasant indication of the increasing commercial importance of Peterborough and a credit to the enterprise of her business men.

A CHOICE line of millinery in the newest styles. A full range of mantles, ulsters, &c., at R. GRAHAM & SON'S, Lakefield. A call solicited. 45-4ins

It is to be regretted that the Jersey Lily is reluctantly compelled to omit from her list of dramatic engagements both Bobcaygeon and Peterborough. Still it is some consolation to know we have plenty of better looking women in Peterborough.

It is reported that one day last week a farmer drove to town with nearly half a cord of wood on his waggon. The result was that one of the wheels broke down. Moral—Don't put too much wood on the waggon when the load is for sale.

It is understood that Stony Lake is to be honored as the place of meeting of the American Canoe Association next year. It is to be hoped that sporting men and the citizens generally, will see to it that our hospitality is creditably extended on the occasion.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf.

An Uncle Tom's Cabin Company passed through the town on Monday, but fortunately did not stop in town. Speaking of this play generally, it would afford us great pleasure to write Uncle Tom's dramatic obituary. He lags superfluous on the stage.

Couldn't the paymasters on the different railway works be persuaded to postpone the next pay day till after the holidays, so that during the season of enjoyment the town might be spared the scenes of disgusting drunkenness and riot that follow pay day as surely as night follows sunset?

Get your smoked glasses ready for observing the transit of Venus across the sun's face next Wednesday, Dec. 6th. The performance will begin about 9 o'clock and last till about three. Venus, however, will be apt to create a greater flutter about the son's heart than on the sun's face.

Messrs. Wm. Kemp and John Reynolds, the former, foreman for Mr. Wm. Hamilton, have gone to Parry Sound to put in the boilers and machinery manufactured by Mr. Wm. Mr. Baker, of the "Missing Link" on the occasion of his having secured the missing link of happiness, as witnessed by his returning from Montreal with a bride, was presented by the official staff of the railway works with a handsome piece of silver plate.

BISHOP DUHAMEL ON MIXED MARRIAGES.

In the basilica in Ottawa, last Sunday Bishop Duhamel, read the episcopal letter from the sixth provincial council. Referring to mixed marriages, his lordship said since he had assumed the mitre, many Catholics who could not succeed in being married to one of another denomination by a clergyman of the Catholic Church were under the impression that the marriage ceremony performed by a clergyman of another religion was valid. Such a marriage might be legal in the eyes of the law and the world, but was considered invalid by the church.

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 30, 1882.

The Shadow of the Sword.

The millennial days seem to be yet far distant. Europe, which has for ages been the world's chief battle-field, still maintains her claim to being first in war. There is at present a portentous war cloud hanging over this continent. Russia still chafes under the—to her—humiliating result of the Berlin Conference. Here Russia lost the fruits of her struggle for the attainment of the crowning aim of her ambition, the possession of Constantinople. This struggle cost her, not counting the loss of blood nine hundred millions of dollars. And when the Berlin Congress left her hands empty, and forced her ambassadors to return home without anything to show for this vast expenditure of treasure, it is no wonder that Russia felt chagrined and was visited with more than a sentimental punishment, for failure of success. The Nihilist and revolutionary elements, or rather element having been kept quiet, after the manner of tyrannies, by the sop of military glory and conquest, turned its temporarily diverted energies to the Czar. Since that time he has been the most desperately hunted and haunted specimen of a royal tyrant that history has perhaps ever known.

In the meantime Austria has not been idle. With the consent of England and Germany, she has decidedly asserted her rights to Herzegovina and Bosnia, territory which Russia has long longed to possess. The Czar, under the present embarrassed condition of his finances, which is continually becoming more alarming, is doubtless disinclined to undertake a costly and bloody war. But he is driven on by a force roused into active existence by his own tyranny. Napoleon the first kept his tyranny hid from the eyes of the French people by dazzling them with the glittering bauble of military glory and conquest, and the Czar is impelled to use the same means to lay the aggressive spectre of Nihilism, and an attempt to question the right of Austria to the Balkan peninsula is counted as an event by no means improbable. If the struggle should come it will likely be a desperate one, for tremendous as is the military strength of Russia, she will will meet in Austria a foeman not unworthy of her steel, assisted by the fact of being on her own ground, strengthed by the moral support of all the great powers, perhaps with the exception of Italy, and probably by their material aid, in case events point to such assistance being politic. European politics are so intimately interwoven that, in case of a war between two great powers, is difficult to say what others may not become involved.

The Lesson of the U. S. Elections.

In the history of the United States such a collapse of a great party was never known as that which overtook the Republican party lately. In the midst of unexampled prosperity, the country teeming with plenty, the whole power and patronage of the Government in the possession of its managers, an army of obsequious and subjugated office-holders to do their bidding, with money without limit, it is utterly overwhelmed and swept from power by the popular disapprobation. The spectacle is phenomenal. It really baffles reflection. The people are a power in that country, and woe to those who refuse to do their bidding. It would be very amusing were it not so disgusting to read the homilies of the Tory organs in Canada on the causes which have brought disaster upon the Republican party across the lines. In this connection an exchange pertinently remarks:—"Of course they are quite jubilant, for the typical Canadian Tory has always been the ally of the slave-holding American Democrat. It never occurs to these organs that every sin charged against the Republicans can be charged against Sir John A. Macdonald and his allies, and every argument used for the overthrow of the Republicans can be urged with tenfold force for the overthrow of Canadian Toryism. The Republican "machine" has not half the power at Washington that Sir John's Tory machine has at Ottawa. There is no "boss" in the United States that could whip in his most servile followers as Sir John can whip in men of the average stamp. The Protection of the United States is not any more injurious to any class than the N. P. is to certain classes in Canada. There is more corruption at Ottawa than in Washington in proportion to the amount of the spoils. And yet we have the Tory organs every morning delivering homilies on the righteous retribution which has overtaken the Republican party.

It never occurs to these organs that every word of condemnation they utter against the Republican party of the United States tells with four-fold force against the Government they support in Canada. If the "machine" is a bad thing at Washington, it is bad at Ottawa. If "bosses" are bad, there is no more unscrupulous and tyrannical "boss" on earth than Sir John A. Macdonald. If Protection is bad, we have the worst kind of Protection in the N. P. If corruption should be put down at Washington, why uphold it at Ottawa? Sir John A. Macdonald or Dr. Tupper could teach any Washington politician to trade in human depravity.

There is this great difference, however, between Canada and the United States: the Republicans go back on corrupt politicians and hurl them from office; the more corrupt Sir John and Tupper become, the more a certain class of Tories licnise and worship them. Catch them turning a Tory out of office for corruption of any kind. Not they. That is not their style.

Double Dealing.

Sir John Macdonald has always been noted as a most promising statesman, but it cannot be said that he has ever fulfilled the promise either literally or figuratively. At Yorkville last summer, he promised the licensed victuallers something that he must have known he could not perform to take the control of the liquor traffic from the hands of the local government. The promise was made, however to answer a purpose, and a great "constitutional lawyer" as Sir John modestly styles himself must have known that the following section of the Confederation Act—section 92, subsection 9—made the promises he was making to the liquor interests dishonest nonsense. The section reads:—

"In each province the Legislature may exclusively make laws in relation to shop, saloon, tavern auctioneer and other licenses in order to the raising of a revenue for provincial, local or municipal purposes."

Sir John knew that he was deceiving the licensed victuallers by promising something he had no more power to perform than the King of the Cannibal Islands. Besides, the licensed victuallers don't want the Crooks Act done away with. They don't want Government inspectors to be done away with, or they have changed their minds greatly since they memorialized Mr. Mowat in favor of the appointment of Government Inspectors. Nor does anybody else ask any change of any moment made in the Crooks Act, except some self-seeking politicians, who think their only chance of stepping into power, is over its ruins.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

It is said the United States Civil Service officials were compelled to contribute in the aggregate $400,000 to the republican machine in the late election.

Another good Conservative has stepped down and out. Mr. Gilbault, who was elected in June last to represent Joliette in the House of Commons, has been unseated.

New York Democrats are so enthusiastic over the astounding victory obtained by Mr. Grover Cleveland at the late elections that they propose him as Democratic Candidate for the Presidency in 1884.

Sir John Macdonald stumbled upon a truth for once in his life when he said, "We cannot check Manitoba." The remark was true, however, in a way he did not intend, which, by the bye, is just like Sir John.—Ottawa Free Press.

Eva Wood fired two bullets through her betrayer at Jerseyville, near Hamilton, on Tuesday. That is the only kind of vengeance available. As long as the law fails to supply a mode of punishment for such scoundrels, fatal justice will be had with the revolver.—Belleville Ontario.

If the government continue commuting the death sentence of murderers at the rate they are doing at present, murderers will be the only persons whose lives will be tolerably safe in Canada. Insurance companies would make money by taking heavy risks on murderers' lives while this government lasts.—Ottawa Free Press.

Money is to be dear: the tightening of the rate of interest and the fall in bank stocks show that the turning point has been reached. Speculations in Northwest lands and injudicious trade are producing their legitimate results. Retrenchment must follow, and greater care will have to be exercised, or the cycle of dull times will come upon us sooner than we expect.

Arabi Pasha writes to the London Times declaring that the late war as carried on by him was in accordance with the laws of God and man and consonant with the solemn decree of the council under the presidency of the Khedive and Dervisch Pasha. The latter concludes with a protest against the Egyptians being deprived of every office in favor of foreigners.

In the recent examinations for entrance to the Civil Service there was, we understand, a very extraordinary exhibition of ignorance of Canadian history and geography by a pretty large number of the candidates. As nearly all these young men are Canadians educated in our own schools, institutes and colleges the fact is anything but creditable to those establishments. As an instance of the ignorance of Canadian places we are told that several applicants were unable to state in what counties Chatham, N.B., Toronto, Ont., and London, Ont., are situated. Quite a number could not name the isthmus that connects Nova Scotia with New Brunswick. In matters of Canadian history, we are likewise assured, the ignorance of many of the applicants was little short of astonishing.—Ottawa Free Press.

France, Austria, Russia and Spain are disturbed at the present moment by a seemingly concerted revolutionary movement. In France the Anarchists, a new party which have taken a step in the propaganda of destruction beyond the Communists, have declared war upon the Bourgeoise. These latter, having lent a hand to destroy the power of the nobility, find their turn for extermination approaching, as in the first revolution the factionists sent each other to the guillotine in detail, sinking the nation at last in despotism and disaster.

Not withstanding all the efforts made in the United States to crush out Mormon polygamy, its adherents still continue to increase. Recently a large number of proselytes to the faith were conveyed from England to the headquarters at salt Lake city. The new comers according to report were of the most respectable appearance, and of both sexes. One would fancy that all women, at least, would be strong advocates of monogamy, but it appears otherwise. Political disfranchisement is not sufficient to wash out the "blot on the national character" in Utah.

The air is again thick with rumors of probable railway changes. It is said that negotiations are all but complete between the Grand Trunk and the New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railway, for the acquirement of the latter as an independent through route to the metropolis. The West Shore road runs parallel to the New York Central, and touches 32 large cities and towns between Buffalo and New York, and would give the Grand Trunk one of the best routes to Chicago, and enable it to bid defiance to Vanderbilt. It will be complete next year with double track, steel rails, and first-class equipment. In the west the G. T. R. has purchased that portion of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Grand Trunk railroad lying between South Lyon and Pontiac, to Jackson. At every point the Grand Trunk is strengthening its hands and perfecting its connections, and getting ready for the big fight with the Vanderbilt roads, which is looming up in the near future, and may commence at any time.

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure in the transaction of business.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Resolutions of Condolence—Considering the Railway.

At a special meeting of the Council on Wednesday night, there were present his worship in the chair, and Messrs. Cahill Kelly, Paterson, Poussette, Menzies and Denne.

OBJECT OF THE MEETING.

His worship said the meeting had been called on account of the melancholy death of Mr. Hatton, as it was customary on the death of a public officer of the Council, for the latter to show their respect by attending the funeral as a body.

LOST A FOREMOST CITIZEN.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. Poussette, seconded by Mr. Denne.

That in the death of David George Hatton, Esquire, the town of Peterborough has lost a citizen / who was always amongst the foremost in any enterprise calculated to promote the welfare of the people. His zeal and energy were the motive power of many a scheme set on foot for the benefit of the public, and his views upon such matters were invariably regarded with marked respect.

In his position of Police Magistrate, which he occupied for upwards of eleven years, his conduct was such as to make all persons feel a fitting respect for the law which it was his duty to administer, and all classes of the community were led to consider him pre-eminently "a just judge."

That this Council have a deep sense of the irreparable loss which his widow and family have suffered in this their bereavement, and tender to them their sympathy and condolence.

That a copy of this resolution be engrossed and transmitted to Mrs. Hatton under the seal of the corporation and the hands of the Mayor and Clerk.

In making the motion, Mr. Poussette said that it was seemly when a valued public officer like Mr. Hatton was called away, to give public and official recognition of the services rendered by him to the people. As a Police Magistrate, the deceased had faithfully discharged the duties of the office. Besides he was always ready and willing to aid by his advice and co-operation every enterprise having for its object the promotion of the welfare of the town. The present waterworks system was in a chief measure due to Mr. Hatton's zeal and energy. Therefore it was with a melancholy pleasure that he moved the resolution.

Messrs. Denne and Cahill gave their cordial endorsation to the remarks of Mr. Poussette, and the resolution was carried unanimously.

THE LAST TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

On motion of Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Menzies, it was resolved that the Council attend the funeral of the late D. G. Hatton in a body as a mark of respect.

Another Special Meeting.

On Friday another special meeting was held at which an appearance was filed by His Worship, Messrs. Cahill, Alford, Wilson, Douglas, Menzies, Denne, McNaughton, Paterson and Poussette.

WHY IT WAS CALLED.

The Mayor said the meeting had been called to consider a memorial of several ratepayers on Bethune street, who asked the Council to take some action in reference to the railway work now in progress.

COMMUNICATIONS

were read

From the Crown Lands Department in reference to the "Southern Reserve," and referred to the Committee on Streets and Bridges.

From the Minister of Railways and Canals, acknowledging the receipt of the resolution of the Council respecting the railway bridge across the river.—Received.

BETHUNE STREET MEMORIAL.

A memorial from Robert Kingan and others called the attention of the Council to the intention of the Midland Railway to construct a part of their main line to Omemee and so on to Midland City, on Bethune street, and to make use of that street in such a way as to very greatly affect the value of the property situated thereon, and urgently begged the Council to take steps as soon as possible to protect their interests in the premises.

REMARKS RESPECTING THE MATTER.

Mr. Kingan regretted that the railway had been permitted to enter the town by so dangerous a route. The petitioners had taken no steps to secure damages till the railway had come near their doors. It had occurred to the petitioners that the railway should have called on property owners and talked of compensation before breaking up the street. His property would be very much damaged.

Mr. Menzies—Does it touch your property?

Mr. Kingan said it did not, but it came very close, so that he could not improve the front of it, an important damage when rents were at so high a figure. There was also the annoyance from constantly running trains. There would be a "frog" in front of his premises and the street could not be used. Then the noise and nuisance, smoke entering houses, and whistling were serious matters. The petitioners had been advised by the town solicitor that it was the duty of the Council to protect the interests of the citizens.

Mr. Eastland was called on but had nothing to say.

Mr. Rowe said the railway had been a nuisance for years and was increasing. There was an increasing number of trains which would be augumented when the Missing Link began running. He endorsed Mr. Kingan's complaints of the noise, and referred to the new siding between Hunter and Simcoe streets, which the Council should not have allowed to be put down. They should be compensated.

Mr. Wm. Dumble said the nuisance alluded to by the others was nothing compared to that suffered on the line between Shackesake and Dalhousie streets, from shunting trains from five o'clock till eight at night and the coals, cinders and danger of fire.

The Mayor said that the by-law allowed the railway the privilege of shunting, and the Council could not prevent them.

In answer to Mr. Douglass, Mr. Dumble said the railway was there before he bought the property, but there was not so much shunting then.

Mr. Edwards, town solicitor, said in respect to the Missing Link, the question was whether the original by-law permitting the laying and using of the original line, admitted of the use of the street for the "missing link" also. He referred to the by-law, and added that it occurred to him that the by-law did not contemplate the running of the main line through the street — only the extension to Lakefield.

His Worship asked if private individuals could not enter actions for damages.

Mr. Edwards thought such proceedings were ordinarily entered by corporations, but in case of their refusal, he was not sure that private individuals could enter such actions except in so far as they were immediately interested.

Mr. Poussette pointed out that the charter allowed the "Missing Link" to connect with the main line.

Mr. Edwards said in answer to a question of the Mayor, that if action were taken by the Council to insist on the railway making compensation, the Council might secure an additional annual compensation. Permission had been granted to the Lakefield branch, but this is to be removed to the other side of the river and Bethune street used for the main line, for which permission had not been given.

Mr. Cahill said that Mr. Dumble's complaint was just and that he got no compensation like those north of Simcoe street. The changed circumstances since he bought his property should not debar him from getting compensation as well as the others, and he wanted Mr. Dumble's claim considered.

Mr. Poussette showed that no increase of traffic or trains, would make any objections valid as against the right of the railway to run any number of trains. If the railway company had bought the right of way, they would be liable to give no compensation. The charter allowed the company to connect, and they are not running along the street within the meaning of the Act, in a manner to require the permission of the Council. If parties were injured they had a right to claim damages but the Council would have no right to do so for them. If permission had been asked and a by-law passed granting it, the Council would be required to protect parties.

Mr. Douglass thought ratepayers should not be oppressed by a rich railway corporation. He thought if Mr. Cox were spoken to he would deal fairly with them.

Mr. Denne was in favor of taking action, if the town had a right to compel justice to be done.

Mr. Paterson moved seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the memorial be referred to the town solicitor and the street committee with power to take further legal advice if necessary, and to consider such steps as may be proper and right, and report to the Council.

Mr. Cahill—That includes, of course, Mr. Dumble and others in this neighborhood.

The motion was carried and the Council adjourned.

The Bad and Worthless

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits. 46-4t

PETERBOROUGH, NOV. 30, 1882

The Municipal Elections.

There are at present no indications that there will be much of a struggle this year to fill the seats around the town council board. The present occupants give no sign of their intentions, and the people seem to be supinely indifferent to their interests as involved in the selection of municipal representatives. One would think that in the present council they had found their civic beau ideal, the embodiment of local legislative wisdom, and that the record of the council of 1882 was above reproach. And in a general way there is reason for satisfaction, especially when everybody seems to be so easily pleased. The present time for holding municipal elections is a bad one. The benign influence of the holiday season puts everybody in so good a humour, that there is a tendency to be indulgent, and councillors' actions and course are not criticised and canvassed as thoroughly as they ought to be. If the elections were held in the Dog Days, when everybody is cross, crabbed, exacting and inclined to be factious and cantankerous, when, with the average citizen it is a "toss up" between suicide and getting up to endure another day of molten misery, then the local representative's record would be ripped up and dissected as mercilessly and as promptly as a spring chicken at a polirical pic-nic.

But to be serious, it would be well if the public took a deeper interest in the affairs of the town. Without imputing any dishonesty to the members, the motto, "Every man is honest when well watched," might be applied to the Town Council in a modified way. The temptation to be careless in legislation and extravagant in expenditure, is perhaps too great for ordinary mortals to resist when they feel that their proceedings are not closely watched, and not exposed to rigorous inspection. But this state of affairs is only apparent; no doubt the citizens generally keep themselves well advised through the newspaper reports, of the doings of their representatives and the councillors themselves are after all, generally careful in their administration of municipal affairs.

Many of the present Councillors have been in the harness for years, and they may desire to be relieved and allow others to bear their share of the burden. We are not aware of the expressed intentions of any of them, as to retirement or continuance, but it is to be inferred that most of the present Council will again be candidates, and, unless better men offer, there are no very decided reasons, why they should not be returned to serve next year. Of course, Mayor Smith, will be willing to fill the civic throne another year, and present indications do not suggest much of a change in the personnel of the present Council. Still it is not advisable to take this for granted. The intentions and policy of the present occupants of office, should be ascertained, and in case they do not come up to the requirements of the people, other candidates should be in readiness to dispute their claims to public confidence.

The work performed by the Mayor and Council of 1882 seems to have given general satisfaction, though there are some details that are open to exception. The finances have been kept pretty well in hand, the streets have been very fairly looked after under the generally careful administration of Mr. Cahill; the fire department is the only one which has not met with public approval, and that, perhaps more from the intrinsic worthlessness of the fire apparatus than from any specific acts of maladministration, and on the whole the municipal machine has run, if not with much vim, yet without any considerable jar.

It may be a matter of boast by the present Council that the rate of taxation is so low, but it seems that it would be a wise thing for the town to incur a considerable debt for the construction of an efficient system of sewerage. It is almost a disgrace that a town like Peterborough, with nearly the population and quite the importance of a city should be so deficient in this important sanitary respect. We have now an excellent system of waterworks, and the next thing in order is a through system of drainage. The site of the town presents no engineering difficulties, we are very lightly burdened with debt, our finances are in a healthy condition, sewers are an urgent and imperative need, and we believe that the citizens are generally in favor of the work being speedily undertaken. Peterborough is fair to look upon, with fine buildings, broad and well built streets, and a general appearance of thrift, a town to be proud of, but with the absence of a system of sewerage it is figuratively but a "whited sepulchre" a fair outside, but below ground—not what it ought to be. This is a matter that ought to be taken up and made a live issue at the coming elections, and if the present Council fight shy of it, they should be replaced by men of broad and generous views who will make every local or sectional interest subordinate to the public benefit. The electors should certainly have an opportunity of pronouncing at least an opinion in respect to so important a matter.

FACTS FOR THE ELECTORS.

For some time past our local contemporary, the Review, has been giving its version of the administrative record of the Mowat government. That version, with every disposition on the part of the author to make the record as dark as possible, would not of itself do the government any great harm, but as it is the worst expose which one of the ablest and best informed critics on the Opposition press can make, we propose to show exactly how much the indictment amounts to. By the time we have given the true explanation of transactions to which a sinister complexion has unwarrantably been given, have supplied true versions where false ones have been either alleged or insinuated, and have shown how trivial the whole of the charges are when brought against a ministry in its twelfth year of office, we shall be quite prepared to leave the whole matter in the hands of the electors for decision.

In the course of this inquiry and exposure other questions than those touched upon in the Review will probably come up. Our contemporary's selection of administrative acts for criticism was of course unfair, and was intended to be so. We hope to be able to supply part of the deficency and give the record of the government a less one-sided appearance. Even if the Mowat administration had done all the mischief attributed to it by the Review, every one will at once admit that it must be allowed some credit for acts that were more than merely unobjectionable—that have been, in fact, positively beneficial to the country. It is evident to the most exacting opponent that the policy of the government has been on the whole a progressive and liberal one, and were the Review disposed to be even nominally fair it would have admitted as much. Its line of action has, however, made our course in reply all the easier. The misrepresentations are so obvious and so easily refuted, and the omissions so palpable and easily supplied, that to put a different face on the whole record, requires neither an extraordinary acquaintance with the facts nor extraordinary skill in marshalling them in order.

We have referred to the author of the Review articles as one of the ablest and best informed of the Opposition critics. If he fails to make out a case it is because the facts are against him, and not because he is either lacking in ability or indisposed to make matters look as bad as possible for the Government. We should not have ventured to take so much liberty with Mr. Carnegie's name but for the fact that he is the regular nominee of the Conservative party for the coming election contest in West Peterborough. He has thus been made a public man and as such, he must be prepared to stand or fall by his own utterances. Every statement in the articles we refer to, is made by the Review for the purpose of securing his election, and is, in fact, a challenge and an appeal to the electors. That challenge we have accepted and if in the course of the discussion, we should have occasion to examine Mr. Carnegie's own record as a public man, he can have no good reason for objecting, after having been for weeks engaged in exposing the alleged defects of others.

Twenty-five persons have been arrested at Lyons for Socialistic practices.

False From the First.

When a man whose reputation for uprightness and square dealing is not likely to make a saint take second place, begins a certain course with duplicity and deceit, it is almost certain that he will develop a greater degree of depravity in this respect as his course progresses. Mr. John Carnegie, the Conservative candidate for the Legislative Assembly, has hit upon an ingenious expedient to save himself the labor of a personal canvass. It is no less than writing a letter in his own hand (?) to every elector in the riding. Of course an elector will feel flattered to think that he is of so great importance that the great Mr. Carnegie will take the trouble to write him a long letter asking for his "valuable support." To writing a letter there can be no objection, but the dodge implied in the form of the letter is a dangerous indication of dishonesty. Not one of the thousands of these letters ever necessarily passed through the hands of "Yours very truly, John Carnegie." He wrote the first copy on a letter-head of the Review office, had it well lithographed and then printed by the thousand. The lithographed letter looks so much like the real letter written with his own hand, that persons not accustomed to see lithographed manuscript would be deceived. And in the attempt to deceive is the wrong. Mr. Carnegie is perfectly justified in sending as many letters as he pleases but not under false pretences, and with the intention to deceive. Electors, the letter you received from the Tory candidate was not written by him; but printed in Toronto, and the fact of his sending it in that form is to deceive you into believing that he thinks so much of you that he takes the trouble to write two or three thousand long letters to you, the mere manual labor of which would take a fortnight's hard work and rapid writing. Beware of a candidate who signalises his first approach to you with trickery. An attempt to deceive you in so trifling a particular is a sure index to greater attempts in the future to mislead and delude you. Beware of Mr. Lithograph Carnegie.

ARIZONA SILVER MINES.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.)

Arizona Territory until recently, has been but little frequented by white men. The terrible treachery of the Apache Indians and the absence of railroads made it anything else but attractive to the civilized Anglo-Saxon, but now things have changed. Many of the bad Indians have been sent to the happy hunting grounds for better training, and the balance promise to be good if the soldiers don't put windows in them; the territory is traversed in various directions by railroads, and the enormous wealth of the silver mines is attracting civilized men with capital. In company with a car load of Iowa business men, we have visited this far off territory. The party made their visit with a view to examining the silver mines. Tucson, the point at which we left the railroad and took stage, is the largest city in the territory, it is 1,459 miles west of the Missouri river, and has about 9,000 of a population. It is said to be the second oldest town on the North American continent. (It is pronounced "Too Saun.") The San Xiver church is said to be over three hundred years old, and is still kept in repair by the Jesuits. The city has waterworks, and is lighted by gas. It is the great base of supplies for mining and military camps in southern Arizona. From this our party started south to visit the mines in the great Tombstone district, in the Santa Rita (Reeta), mountains.

The mines in this district are comparatively new, but are in the same range of mountains that the wealthy mines of old Mexico are in, and they appear to be just as rich. We visited several. The Mineral Mountain mine, was bought last April by Mr. B. F. Sarns, of Iowa, for a small amount. It is now valued at twenty millions of dollars. We saw the ore piled up on "dumps" that they estimated at one hundred thousand tons, which would "mill" an average of $80.00 per ton.

There are a great many other rich miners here. One has been producing half a million of dollars per month in "bullion." We saw a "nugget" of "horn silver" worth sixty thousand dollars. Many men who a few months ago came here poor are now millionaires, but not all, of course. The miners we found at work were a very respectable appearing class of men, and not the long haired, bowie knife breed we often read about as infesting the frontier. This territory is not productive in the line of vegetation. The soil is "alkali" and it only rains about two months of the twelve; there is very little growth only where irrigation is resorted to. There are great cattle ranches in the valleys. We saw one cattle ranch with ten thousand head, and a sheep ranch with eighty thousand head.

There is no doubt but Arizona has a brilliant future. When her mines are fully developed and her valleys covered with cattle, and her soil made to produce wheat, corn, and fruit by irrigation. They can raise two crops each year, one of corn in summer and one of wheat in winter. Our party were well pleased with their trip and invested about $30,000 in mining stock.

The trip from Kansas City was made over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, and gave us the privilege of visiting the old city of Santa Fe and the hot springs at Las Vegas, N. M. The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Company have just opened their new line to Guaymas in old Mexico on the Gulf of California, thus making their line from Kansas City to Guaymas the longest continuous line of railroad in the world.

This Santa Fe route is becoming the popular one to California, as there are no snow slides to fear and the scenery is very fine.

Respectfully,
S. SHERIN.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR
A NEW DISCOVERY.

For several years we have furnished the [illegible] of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk.
Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, whil. prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (49)

Furs! Furs! Furs!

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipsic, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

WHAT THEY SAY OF US.

The following journals have something kind to say of our enlargement:

A Credit To Any Town.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has a new outfit of type. In the EXAMINER, Peterborough has a local newspaper, which for neatness would be a credit to any town.—Orillia Packet.

Well Merited Success.

The Peterborough EXAMINER has been enlarged to 56 columns and otherwise improved. The EXAMINER is a power in the Liberal ranks, and we are pleased to see this evidence of its well-merited success.—Welland Tribune.

Well Conducted and Newsy.

The Peterboro' EXAMINER has been enlarged and very much improved in every respect. The EXAMINER, although erratic in politics,—it is Reform, is a very well conducted and newsy journal, having few equals in this respect. We wish it every success.—Cobourg Sentinel-Star.

A Credit to Peterboro'.

The Peterboro' EXAMINER now appears in a new dress, on an enlarged sheet. The proprietor has recently invested over $5,000 in improvements in the office, adding two new presses, new type, etc., The EXAMINER is a credit to Peterboro' and deserves a large subscription list. Its circulation is now 2,000, and its columns are well patronized by the merchants.—Bowmanville Statesman.

Well Deserved Popularity.

The Peterborough EXAMINER is another of those papers which have been so filled with well deserved prosperity as to be compelled to adopt improvements of various kinds. It is now turned out from its new (almost reconstructed) premises, which are filled with new presses, new type, etc., and one apartment opened out as a stationery and book-store. The upper story is reserved for a bookbindry. The paper shows signs of taste and skill in its "make up," and great care in the conduct of its news and editorial departments.—Stirling News Argus.

Now Completely Equipped.

THE PETERBORO' EXAMINER.—We are pleased to observe the signs of progress made by our Peterboro' contemporary, the EXAMINER. Considerable alterations have been made in the office, securing more room, two new Wharfdale presses and other machinery have been added, and a large quantity of new type, both for the paper and for job work, has been purchased. The total improvements cost $5000. The EXAMINER is now one of the best of our weekly exchanges, and its office must be one of the most completely equipped in the province. We congratulate Mr. Stratton on this advancement,—the local paper must be well supported in his town.—Cobourg World.

A Credit to Any City.

STILL UPWARD AND ONWARD.—There are few newspapers in the Province in which the pleasing effects of intelligence, liberality and tact are better exemplified than in the Peterborough EXAMINER. The progress of that paper has for many years past been upward and onward creditable to its enterprising proprietor and worthy of its numerous and intelligent host of readers. Its last advance has been a most significant bound, an additional five thousand dollars worth of new plant has been added to that fine and well furnished office. The EXAMINER has been still further enlarged and improved and would now do credit to any town or city on the continent.—Port Perry Observer.

CONFEDERATION MENACED.

FRUITS OF SIR JOHN MACDONALD'S TACTICS IN THE NORTHWEST—C. P. R. DEVELOPMENTS.

Mr. Nilson, a mountaineer, speaking from a southern standpoint on the disallowance, says: We detect in the present agitation a spirit that will not tamely submit to oppression for five, ten or fifteen years. The tension is too great. The public mind of the Province is in a ferment and at any time the impulse to arise and assert the rights of Manitoba may carry the people further than they wish; and depend upon it when the sturdy settlers of Manitoba do assert themselves, the Ottawa Government must come down, or the Canadian Confederation goes to smash.

Mr. N. F. Davin will, in the course of a few weeks, commence the publication of the Regina Times, the first paper in the new metropolis.

Mr. L.A. Hamilton has been appointed Assistant Land Commissioner of the Canada Pacific Railway.

THE PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Major Rogers, in charge of the Rocky Mountain survey of the Canada Pacific Railway, arrived to-day from the scene of his last two years' operations. He will pierce the main chain of the Rockies through Kicking Horse Pass—highest summit 5,400 feet—to Columbia River crossing. This preliminary survey of Selkirk Range leads him to suppose that he can, by means of trenching and snow sheds, also get through them to Kamloops, B.C. Snow slides are reported to be a great source of danger in the latter mountains more than the altitude, which is not greater that in Kicking Horse Pass. The Major thinks another season will crown his efforts with success and have the survey finally located and ready for construction.

The main line of the Pacific Railway has a track laid 584 miles from Winnipeg, 449 miles being in the new contract. The graders have reached a point 45 miles further and within 40 miles of the Saskatchewan, crossing at Medicine Hat. Fifty miles of rails will be laid this season and the road to the river graded during the winter.

THE CANDIDATE.

Father who travels the road so late!
Hush, my child, 'tis the candidate;
Fit example of humand woe—
Early he comes and late he goes.
He greets the woman with country grace.
He kisses the baby's dirty face.
He calls to the fence the farmer at work.
He bores the merchant, he bores the clerk,
The blacksmith, while his anvil rings,
He greets, and this is the song he sings;
Howdy, howdy, howdy do?
How is your wife, and how are you?
Ah! it fits my fist as no other can.
The horny hand of the workingman.

Brothers who labor early and late,
Ask these things of the candidate;
What is his record? How does he stand
At home; no matter about his hand.
Be it hard or soft, so it be not prone
To close over money not his own.
Has he in view no thieving plan?
Is he honest and capable?—he is our man.
Cheer such a one as the welkin rings,
Join the chorus when thus he sings.
Howdy, howdy, howdy do!
How is your wife, and how are you?
Ah; it fits my fist as no other can,
The horny hand of the workingmen.

COBOURG.

A meeting of ladies representing the different churches of the town was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Monday afternoon to devise means to assist the Cobourg Y. M. C. A. to provide a suitable reading and recreation room for the young men of the town.

The very mild weather of the past two weeks enabled the masons to complete the brickwork at the Arlington. Mr. Thompson has the roof well under way, and in a few days will be prepared for the winter.

At the sale of the Burnham farm on Saturday last, the highest bid was $56 an acre, which not being up to the reserve bid, the property was withdrawn.

HASTING.

Mrs. John Tracy was kicked by a cow last Saturday evening and was seriously injured.

The wife of Mr. N. Leaway gave birth to a boy last Thursday which weighed 16½ pounds.

The engineers on the Trent Valley Canal survey were engaged all last week in taking levels in the village.

Monsgr. Jamot, the newly appointed Bishop of Peterborough, paid a short visit to this part of his diocese last Wednesday. The visit was not of an official nature we understand.

The Star says:—A Peterborough exchange notices last week, as something unusual, a carload of barley, weighing 52 pounds to the bushel, and which was pronounced to be the best sample ever brought to that town. Our buyers, here can beat that sample, all hollow, they having several car loads in store which tilts the beam to the tune of 53½ pounds per bushel.

CAMPBELLFORD.

The stonework of the large dye-house adjoining the woollen factory, is completed.

The advertising patronage of the Herald takes so much space that the paper is to be enlarged. We congratulate confrere Vosper on his prosperity.

There has been considerable building done in Campbellford, this year, including improvements and new dwellings.

A big maskinonge was hauled out of the Trent waters near Frankford, by some fishing sports, last week. It was 5 feet 4 inches in length, and weighed 54 pounds.

The steeple of the new Methodist church here, was raised into its place, on Saturday.

Mr. William Whitton made another exportation of live stock last week, which he purchased from the farmers of this locality. The shipment consisted of 226 sheep, 83 hogs, and 20 cattle.

So great has been the weight of the traffic which found its way into the station lately, that the flooring gave way, last week, leaving a large irregular cavity almost large enough, if placed upright to allow a train to pass through it.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Rice Lake is nearly frozen over.

A large quantity of pork has been bought this season by Messrs. Campbell, McNeil & Co., at prices ranging from $7.25 to $7.75 per 100 lbs.

An accident of not a very serious nature occurred here on Saturday afternoon last. It seems that Miss Carter who is staying at Dr. Harrison's at present, and Miss Harrison went out to take a drive. One of the fore wheels of the buggy came off, after which the horse became unmanageable and started to run. He did not run far when it was discovered that he had injured himself to such a degree that he is unfit for use, having severed the cords of one of his hind legs. Miss Harrison escaped without any injury whatever. Miss Carter received more or less injury as she suffered a fracture of one of the small bones of the leg. We believe that there are no internal injuries whatever as far as heard from.

CHANDOS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

KICKED BY A HORSE.—Mr. Patrick Scott met with a very serious accident while bringing his horses in from watering them. One of them was frightened by something it discerned in its stable, became unmanageable and got away from Mr. Scott. He preceded to follow the horse and while reaching out to seize the halter, the horse suddenly turned around and kicked him in the left side, breaking two of his ribs. Mr. Scott is now getting around as fast as can be expected.

ANOTHER NEW STORE IN THIS VICINITY.—Mr. M. O'Brien is drawing stuff to build a new store on the north east corner of lot 7 on the 13 concession of Chandos, he expects to have it completed to start business in it by the 1st of next June. He is now selling large quantities of goods in the house of Mr. M. D. O'Brien's which he has leased for his winter quarters. See what it is to have a man with a little enterprise in his head.

Street Talk.

"How much better you look, Mr. S." "Yes, I have gained 32 pounds on Hall's Catarrh Cure. Have not felt so well in 20 years. It has made a complete cure and it is worth $50 a bottle to any one that has the Catarrh." Sold by John McKee, Druggist, Peterborough. 48-2t

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Cruiser is again laid up on account of low water. On Monday last the stop logs were taken out at Buckhorn so that navigation might be resumed between here and Young's Point, but if it continues to freeze it will be too late for this season as Miller's Bay has already been frozen over.

The Skating and Curling Rink Company have been improving their rink, and at considerable expense have put it in first class order. It will be open to the public as soon as ice can be formed. The annual meeting of the shareholders will take place at Dr. Caldwell's office on Saturday 25th, for election of officers and other business. A Curling Club will likely be organized this winter.

Some of our ratepayers are of the opinion that Ross & Co'y, are exercising improper authority over a certain portion of Water street, and as a consequence, a petition is in circulation asking our council to see after the interests of the village.

THE MEDICAL FACULTY were among the first to recognize the value of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as a remedy for throat and lungs affections, premature decline and general debility. Physicians not only recommend it for incipient consumption, bronchitis, asthma, and minor pulmonary and bronchial troubles, but speak in the higest terms of it as a means of enriching the blood and counteracting a hereditary tendency to consumption. In every part of the Dominion and throughout the United States it has attained a popularity as wide-spread as it is deserved, and the evidence attesting its efficacy is voluminous and convincing. The Cod Liver Oil, which is its pulmonic constituent, is absolutely pure and does not nauseate the stomach; while the Hypophosphites, superadded to and chemically blended with this ingredient, possess invigorating properties which render it most desirable in diseases involving such a tremendous waste of tissue and loss of bodily substance as incipient consumption which in checks with a promptitude truly marvellous. In addition to its pulmonic effects, it imparts tone to the whole system and being a fine blood depurent counteracts a tendency to scrofula. Moreover it is sold at a reasonable price, the cost of the smaller bottles (the contents of one often sufficing to break up a bad cold) being 50 cents, and of the larger, $1.00. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont.

SEE, FEEL AND BELIEVE.—"Truth conquers," and PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR is the embodiment of truth. Beware of imitations and substitutes. Sold by druggists everywhere. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Proprietors.

Police Magistrate Dumble.

David W. Dumble, Esquire, Barrister-at-Law, to be Police Magistrate in and for the town of Peterborough, in the room and stead of David George Hatton, Esquire, deceased.

This is the bald announcement found in the Ontario Gazette of the appointment of D. W. Dumble, Esq., to the important position of Police Magistrate of Peterborough. The exigencies of local justice required that the appointment be made with the least possible delay. In electing Mr. Dumble to the position the Ontario Government have exercised a wise discretion, and we are sure their selection will be warmly endorsed by the public at large. No fitter person could have been selected in this county. For legal lore, for judicial qualifications, for a thorough acquaintance with the law as applied and involved in Police Court procedure, for soundness of judgment, decision of character, for sense of justice, judiciously tempered with mercy, Mr. Dumble is distinguished in a way that pre-eminently fits him for the position, upon the appointment to which we wish to offer our hearty congratulations. Not only in the interests of justice and order is the appointment a good one but we believe it is one which meets with almost universal popular approval. We hope Mr. Dumble may be long spared to perform the duties of his office, to promote the maintenance of order in the town, to be a "terror to evil doers and a praise to them that do well."

Notes of the Day.

The Hamilton Times says: Democratic success in several of the States is ascribed to Federal interference in the elections. Sir John Macdonald ought to take the lesson to heart. He has presumed to meddle in Ontario affairs; he has gone out of his way to curtail the privileges of Manitoba. The result will be to increase the Reform majorities in the Legislatures of both Provinces. Sir John should turn his attention to Quebec.

Manitoba is figuratively in arms against the Dominion Government policy of disallowing its railway legislation, and making her the spoil and prey of a heartless and oppressive syndicate monopoly, and so strong is the revolt that party lines are well nigh obliterated. The people will not stand federal encroachment on provincial rights, such, in essence, if not in form, as Ontario has to contend against. The Tories accuse the Reformers of trying to destroy Confederation, simply because they stand up for the rights of Ontario. How much more guilty are the Conservative party, whose flagrant disregard of provincial rights is too much for any free people to submit to. True, Sir John is the bond slave of the syndicate, but because he has to do as he is bidden, is no reason why the Provinces should be robbed of their rights.

There are pretty coherent rumours afloat that all is not lovely in the Conservative camp over the selection of the cut-and-dried candidate. Prominent members of the party feel that their claims to consideration in the nomination have been overlooked, that they have been jockeyed out of their rights in the matter by overweening cheek and industrious wirepulling. Besides, they naturally desire to see the strongest candidate in the field, and they do not like the prospect before them of being perpetually called upon to explain away and apologise for the insults and rabid abuse which the candidate, in both his journalistic career and on the rostrum, has so prodigally made use of. Personal unpopularity is a serious handicap to any candidate. Therefore, there are said to be indications of kicking against being whipped into the traces, and the disposal of the white elephant of the Conservative party have got on their hands, is a problem engaging serious attention.

Mr. J. G. Larke, of Oshawa, a manufacturer of stoves "admits that a stove "which cost $18 in 1878 is now sold for "$22 wholesale, which is equal to an in-"crease in the price of 23½ per cent, and "that it all goes into the pockets of the "manufacturers." How do the protectionists and the Review explain the advance? They have proved to their own satisfaction, that the Glasgow exporter pays the Canadian duty on pig iron and that the Pennsylvania exporter pays the Canadian duty on coal. They promised before Sir John was returned to power, that an increase of the duty on stoves would not be followed by an increase of price. All the poor stove makers wanted was control of the home market. They had been providing about $98 worth of stoves for every $2 worth imported, but they wanted the other two per cent of the trade to make them comfortable. The duty was advanced with the result as testified to by Mr. Larke.

The Lindsay Post says: "The Peterborough Review publishes a list of Ontario senators and their residences, and shows that Toronto has an undue share. It advocates the claims of the Peterborough-Victoria section to representation in the upper house. In this it follows the course of the Post. If we must have a senate this section ought to have a member of the upper house. Ordinarily we would press the claims of Lindsay, but on this occasion Peterborough has a fine candidate for the position. We refer to our respected confrere, Mr. Toker, of the Review. He would add dignity and weight to the senate, and though he may be no orator as Mr. Carnegie is, he would shine in the upper house as a practical legislator. Senator Toker sounds well. Let we have it."

We do not by any means object to this district being represented in the senate, but it would be a pity to put our down street confrere in political petticoats in the very heyday and bloom of his manhood by sending him to the senate. Besides, he is not eligible; he has never been a rejected Tory candidate. On second thought, we should not like Peterborough to supply subjects to the political morgue.

A NEW INDUSTRY.

Matthews Pork-Packing Establishment—A Fine Building and a Fine Business—Description of the premises and of the Process of Pork-Packing.

From time to time we have published references to the buildings of the Pork-packing establishment of Mr. George Matthews, (Peterborough and Lindsay), more or less incomplete owing to a similar state of the buildings. But is now completed and work began. It is in size 160 feet by 30 feet, one and a half stories in height, with a fine airy cellar under the whole size. The material is red brick on a stone foundation. The stone-work is pointed and the red brick-work faced with white in a style that lends an air of elegance to the exterior, which with the circular headed dormer windows lighting the second story and two tin covered cupolas, suggest the idea of an ecclesiastical structure so strongly, that it is no wonder that a passing farmer asked a bystander what church that was.

THE INTERIOR

possesses all the commonsenses which the past experience of the pork packing business suggests as requisite in a first-class establishment. To the right of the entrance door on the first floor, is a room 12x15 feet, fitted up as a business office. This floor is divided into two parts; the front half is used for the reception of the hogs, and for storing the salt used in the business. The coarse Goderich salt from the Star salt works is used. The large increase in the price of salt directly detracts from the profits of the business in a not inconsiderable way. There are now two car-loads stored here. About

FOUR OR FIVE CARLOADS OF SALT,

according to the weather, will be used during the winter. Liverpool salt is also used for pickling—while the Goderich salt is used for dry salting.

The rear half of this floor is used as the built with special reference to this department of the industry. The floor is laid down with great care, and to make it perfectly water tight it is caulked with pitch and oakum in the same manner as the seams of a ship. To secure cleanliness and perfect drainage, two gutters of galvanized iron, sunken below the level of the floor, and covered with movable planks, run along two sides of the room, parallel and about eight feet distant from the side walls. These gutters, which carry off the water used in the frequent washings to which the floor is subject, empty it into drains which carry it into the river at the rear of the building.

CUTTING ROOM,

PREPARING THE PORKERS.

About two hundred quiescent porkers, lay on their backs with their stiff legs sticking upward like a display stock of nicepins, ready for the keen and cunning knife of the dissecting artists. First the pig is swung on one end of a low platform; with a dexterous whisk of the knife the head is severed from the body; the decapitated corpus is then passed on to the next operator, who splits it in halves from the tail to the shoulders. The hams are then removed and piled on an adjoining table, where another operative trims them into shape, by cutting off the rough portions and superabundant fat, giving the ham the neat and nicely rounded appearance, familiar to those who have witnessed the unveiling of a canvassed ham. The prepared ham is then tossed into an opening in the floor, passes down a chute into the cellar, convenient to the pickling vats.

After the removal of the ham, the remaining half of the pig is converted into the material for "long clear"

BONELESS BACON.

For this purpose, the back-bone is removed, the leaf lard having been previously taken away. Next the "spare rib" is deftly separated. The only remaining bone now receives attention. A transverse incision is made on the inner aspect of the shoulder, over where the shoulder blade joins the humerus, or as it is called in pork-packing parlance, the "hock." Into this incision a blunt, chisel-shaped instrument is thrust and the adhering muscle torn from the blade bone. Then a hook fastened to an endless strap thrown across the shoulders of the operator, is clasped over the head of the shoulder blade, and the bone is drawn out, leaving its habitat with a loud smack, something like an "apple cut" kiss. Next a circular cut is made around the "hock" where it joins the body, and the bones removed, leaving the whole side of the pig as boneless as an oyster. The operation of unboning a hog does not last half the time it takes to tell about it, an expert getting through with the job in about two or tree minutes. He will thus prepare about one hundred and twenty sides a day. The bacon is then sent down to a large, airy, clean dry and well-lighted apartment, the whole size of the building. Here the bacon is dry-salted, being piled up like cordwood, (only not so much daylight worked in). The pile accumulates subject to diminution by the demands of trade. The front part of the cellar is devoted to this purpose, and is scrupulously clean, in keeping with every other part of the establishment.

The rear 35 feet of the cellar is floored with bricks, laid in herring-bone style in Portland cement. Here are situated the pickling tanks, eleven in number, with a capacity of 880 hams, or 80 to each tank. They are made of wood, circular, about four feet high and six feet in diameter, pitched on the outside. In these the hams are placed in the pickle, made of sugar and salt. In this they are kept about six weeks, when they are taken out and placed in the SMOKE HOUSE.

This is a separate building, of brick, 13 feet square in size, and capable of holding about 150 hams. The floor is formed by the arched roof of the furnace, and smoke is admitted through sixteen 2x4 inch holes. A small, smouldering fire of maple is kindled, the smoke passing upwards through the holes, which can be closed as the progress of the process requires. The hams are left in the smoke twelve hours, more or less, according to the weather and other conditions, and are then ready for shipment in winter or for being canvassed in summer.

A space in the central part of the first floor of the main building on the south side, is partitioned off for an and room for rendering lard and grinding sausage meat. The engine is a four horse power upright, and the boiler 6 horse power, which is, however, to be replaced by a 25 horse power boiler and engine next spring. The engine drives the sausage machine, which "makes mince meat" of 280 lbs per hour of the fragments of meat resulting from cutting up the pigs and trimming the hams, tenderloins, etc. Nothing but the best and perfect fragments are used, and the sausages are consequently of the finest quality, especially when placed in casings imported from Ireland. About 1,200 or 1,400 lbs. per week will be manufactured. Here also the lard is rendered, nothing, of course, but the leaf lard being used. An iron tank, 3½ feet in height and four feet in diameter is employed. The walls—of boiler iron—are double, with a two inch space between. Into this steam is introduced, and the lard in the tank, which holds about a ton, is cooked without contact with fire, or a possibility of being burned. It is then strained out into a tin cooler, and afterwards put into 50 lb kegs or 20 lb pails.

THE SECOND FLOOR

is devoted to two purposes. The central part is fitted up for "white drying hams—curing them by the use of heat, supplied by a hot air furnace.

The space on either side is used for thawing frozen pigs, by steam, which when thawed are lowered by a hoist, as an Hibernian would say, to the cutting room.

The late season at which building operations were began prevented the erection of other auxiliary buildings.

AN ICE HOUSE,

45 feet square and reaching the level of the second floor, will be built on the space between the main building and the river.

At the south-east corner of the main building a slaughter house will be erected next spring.

Operations began at the establishment last Thursday, and about two hundred hogs will be converted weekly into hams, long clear bacon and sausages. These are the chief forms into which the hogs are converted. There is little or no demand for the old-fashioned "mess pork," and hogs are consequently not often metamorphosed into that comparatively unsavory commodity.

The establishment, owned by Mr. Geo. Matthews, of Lindsay, who operates a similar but larger one in that place, gives employment to five or six men and consumes between $1,200 and $1,500 worth of hogs per week. The demand for pigs makes and keeps the market firm. Mr. Geo. Webber is the buyer for the establishment, and his experience and training in the business will be a guarantee, that the interests both of Mr. Matthews and the public will be consulted, the first by careful and judicious buying, and the latter by none but the best quality of stock being purchased.

The Peterborough branch is a model in all respects. For cleanliness, convenience and adaptation to the business it has no superior, and under the efficient and careful management of Mr. W. E. Matthews, son of the proprietor, is an industry which is both a credit and a substantial addition to the industrial wealth the town of Peterborough.

DRESSED MEAT IN CANADA.

The Times is informed on what may be considered safe authority, that the Chicago shippers of dressed meat are making preparations to place the goods in Hamilton and Toronto. A few weeks ago great consternation was produced among the butchers of Philadelphia, New York and Boston by the delivery of meat killed in Chicago at a price two cents less than the eastern butchers could afford to sell for. The duty on dressed meat coming into Canada is 1 cent per pound, and as the meat will be brought in half carcases, the duty will be paid on the cheap as well as the dear cuts. The duty upon live animals is 30 per cent ad valorem. Dressed meat is now quoted in Hamilton at 5 to 7 cents for hindquarters and 4 to 5 cents for forequarters, the price having fallen considerably from what it was a few months ago. To get the Chicago meat introduced in Hamilton, it will have to be sold here at prices that, less freight, will net the Chicago owner 3 to 5 cents for hind and 2 to 3 cents for forequarters—allowing one cent for duty and one cent for cutting under local butchers' prices. The plan adopted in New York was for agents of the Chicago shippers to cut up the meat and deliver it to order, just as the locals butchers did. Any innovation which shall reduce the price of meat will be welcomed by consumers in Hamilton. Nor will our Canadian farmers need to be troubled. There is a steady market in Liverpool for all the high class cattle they can raise, and the English trade has paid them so well that, to serve it, they have left the Canadian markets scantily supplied. They can ship liver stock to England in better condition and on better terms than it can be shipped from Chicago.

KILLED IN A DRUNKEN AFFRAY.

The residents of Hawtrea, new Norwich are greatly excited over a fatal affray which occurred there on Friday evening last, the victim being one Daniel Budd, blacksmith, aged about 48, who carried on business opposite the Matheson House, Hawtrea. George Shirton, a young man of questionable reputation hailing from Dunnville, came to Hawtrea lately to work at Schoolley's mills. He confined his operations, however, to drinking more or less strongly, and on the evening in question Budd and Shirton appear to have been drinking somewhat heavily. Another bottle of whiskey was purchased, and soon afterwards neighbours heard them fighting together in the blacksmith shop. Later on the door opened suddenly, and Shirton issued therefrom, Budd clinging to his foot. Shirton was seen to kick or push with his feet while Budd was on all fours.

Shirton left him, and on the arrival of Mr. Armstrong and some boarders from the hotel Budd had breathed his last. An inquest held by Dr. Carrol closed this afternoon, and Shirton was committed for trial on the charge of murder.

HUMBUG ADVERTISEMENTS.

The time never has been and never will be when the people of this or any other country can buy a gold dollar for seventy-five cents. Neither can you, dear reader, purchase an organ worth three or four hundred dollars for $90. This is all nonsense. Still we have no objection to other people doing their business just as they see fit. We are selling a good honest made Piano at from $375, and a good, honest Organ (not all stops) for from $48 to $475. All our goods are made upon honor, and we send to any part of the world on test trial, and if not pleased no keepee, as the Chinaman would say. For the past ten years we have sent both Piano and Organs to every part of the world, and our instruments give the most universal satisfaction. If you wish a good instrument, one that will always last you, we shall be pleased to send you our catalogue and prices; and if you purchase one of the Thomas Brothers' Silver Tone Instruments you will get what you require, and one instrument sold in a neighborhood always sells us more. Address, for prices, etc.,

Successor to Thomas Brothers.

IN MEMORIAM.

FATHER MICHAEL STAFFORD, OF LINDSAY.

Father! most sacred name,
And never worn more sacredly by man
Than by this gentle priest,
Who held a widening parish in his love,
And still had heart for more!
Not by the majesty of princely Rome,
The pomp of ceremony, mystic rites,
Authority's swift fiat or fear's spell,
He held his place and won men to his will,
But by the holier force of blameless walk,
And tender pity, he made captive all;
A Priest most pure, a man, a patriot true
A Christian soldier, faithful he fell
See at his tomb the mourners weeping kneel;
Learning and Temperance, widows sore bereaved,
Twere impious now to ask them of his creed:
Leave that to God—we know he loves the Good.
He has no vain shaft to mark his resting-place.
None graven of cunning art, or man's device
His life work rises grandly o'er his grave,
And from its front in gentle, steadg flame
Shines forth a name revered by rich and poor,
And loved by every creed, and honest men of note!

THE MAN FOR GALWAY.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD RECEIVES A "CALL"
—A WIDER SPHERE OF USEFULNESS.

(New York World.)

Why do not the Republicans import Sir John A. Macdonald from Canada, get Mr. Davenport to furnish him with a set of papers of 1866, and intrust him with the leadership of their party? Sir John is emphatically the man for them at this sad crisis in their affairs. When, about nine years ago, Sir John was hurled from power by the damning disclosures connected with the sale of the Pacific Railroad charter, and it was believed by the staunchest Conservatives that the party was doomed to exclusion from pap and patronage for a generation, or at least a decade, Sir John prepared a huge number of the Official Gazette in which he announced the appointment to office of every son, nephew, cousin or brother-in-law of every prominent Tory in the country, and then resigned calmly confident that if the incoming Liberals disturbed his appointees he could denounce them effectively for departing from the traditions of the British civil service and introducing the abominations of the American spoils system. His appointments were respected. This enabled him to attack the new administration for its increased expenditure on salaries; and to point with pride to the much smaller staff of officials which, in his time had been found amply sufficient to discharge the duties of the different departments. The Canadian Tories were then, as our own Republicans are now, worried with a tariff question. With that sublime fertility of resource, which in less gifted men is but too often stigmatized as imprudence, Sir John evolved a tariff for the protection of everybody—producers, manufacturer and consumers all alike—under which the miner got 50 per cent more for his iron ore from the manufacturer, the manufacturer charged the farmer 50 per cent, more for the stoves and ploughshares which he made from it and the farmer charged the miner and manufacturer 50 per cent, more for the wheat and meat which he sold to them. Upon this platform Sir John took his stand, and to his own surprise—for he was too intelligent not to see what a humbug he was—he was victorious. It is sad to have to add that Mr. Mackenzie upon his retirement having made a snug little place for one of his friends in the Government, Sir John bounced the appointee with much celerity, upon the ground that such an appointment was contrary to the traditions of the British civil service, and tended to introduce into Canada the accursed spoils system of our hopelessly corrupt republic. Altogether, Sir John A. Macdonald is perhaps the only men in the world, now that Lord Beaconsfield is dead who can save the Republican party. Send for Sir John, O, Republicans—and do it p. d. q!

WEDDING BELLS IN PORT HOPE.

The town of Port Hope was redundant with the peals of joyous weddings bells on Wednesday last, when Mr. L. J. Cosgrave, brewer of Toronto, led to the altar Miss Kate Forbes, daughter of Mr H Forbes an esteemed townsman of Port Hope. Vicar-General Rooney of Toronto officiated, and was assisted by Rev Fathers Conway and Harris. The ceremony took place in St Mary's church, which was filled to the doors with townspeople. The bridal trousseau was rich and costly, and included a valuable gift of diamonds from the groom. The bridesmaids were Miss Lizzie Forbes, of Toronto, Miss Emily Pellatt of Toronto Miss Orr, Miss Maggie Cosgrave of Toronto, sister to the groom. The two attendants were Misses Jennie Passmore and Bessie O'Neill. They carried baskets of flowers, gifts of the groomsmen, and each of the bridesmaids were presented with handsome gold rings, gifts of the groom. The groomsmen, were Messrs John McGee, S Bolster, P B Ball and Stewart Hubble of Toronto. The happy couple left on a tour of the eastern states.

DEATH OF BISHOP CRINNON.

The lamented decease of Father Stafford, of Lindsay, has been rapidly followed by the sudden death of another distinguished Catholic ecclesiastic—Bishop Crinnon, of the diocese of Hamilton, whose loss is deeply regretted by a much wider circle than any bounded by sectarian or local limits. The deceased prelate was a most energetic and tireless worker, and his amiable dispcsition endeared him as much to those with whom he was brought in contact as his sound judgment and solid attainments secured their respect. Bishop Crinnon was a thorough Liberal, and a man of generous sympathies and broad views, and his relations with his clergy and the general public were marked by many tokens of the appreciation in which he was held by reason of his many excellent qualities of head and heart. It will be difficult to fill his place by anyone so thoroughly qualified in all essential respects for the position.

Mrs. A. Nelson, No. 94 Colborne St., Brantford, writes: "I was a sufferer from Chronic Dyspepsia for eleven years. Always after eating an intense burning sensation in the stomach, at times very distressing, causing a drooping and languid feeling, which would last for several hours after eating. I was recommended by Mr. Popplewell, chemist, of our city, to try Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, and I am thankful to say that I have not been better for years: that burning sensation and languid feeling has all gone, and food does not lie heavy on my stomach. Others of my family have used it with the best results."

Being personally acquainted with Mrs. Nelson, I certify to the truth of the above statement.

(Signed)
A. A. POPPLEWELL,
Chemist and Druggist, Brantford.

Weekly Review of British Grain Trade

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(Special.)—The Mark Lane Express, in a review of the British grain trade during the past week, says:—"Progress with hopelessly late wheat sowing is very slow under the most favourable circumstances. There is no improvement in supplies, and dry samples are still scarce. Trade is dull and rates are unchanged. Foreign wheat continues to disappoint sellers, except New Zealand, which is 6d better. There has been no advance in any other description of foreign breadstuffs, which sell slowly. Cargoes are quiet. There have been eight arrivals and five sales. No. 1 California advanced 3d. The forward trade has been inactive, prices remaining steady. Flour has been in restricted demand, and sales are more or less laboured. Foreign is unimproved, and arrivals from America are heavy. Barley has improved. Samples are scarce. Values improved at some provincial exchanges, but foreign is quiet. Oats are unchanged, foreign being lower. Maize, has improved at London. On the liberal supply it is weaker at Liverpool. Sales of English wheat during the week, 52,150 quarters at 40s. 11d. against 52,491 quarters at 45s. 4d. at the corresponding week last year,

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

Christmas bells! old Christmas bells!
I hear your tones again,
That softly steal o'er snowy dells
With a solemn, sweet refrain.
Ye bring but joy to this lone heart,
Dear harbingers of peace:
O! Love divine, where'er thou art,
Thou hidst all sorrow cease.

Ring out, ring out, ye joyous bells,
Your love notes sweet and clear,
For oh, your softly sounding knells
Bring music to mine ear.
Ye speak a language from above,
With mild, melodious flow,
Soul-music from the land of Love
That whispers sweet and low.

O merry bells! O joyous bells!
Ye bring again to me
The dreams of youth's illusive spells
That haunt my memory.
And peace to many a weary breast
Long torn and tempest-tossed,
To find at last long sighed-for rest,
When stormy scenes are crossed.

Yet bring to me that hallowed spot,
The fairest spot on earth;
I see within my father's cot
Fond faces round the hearth:
For on the sunny paths of youth
My fond heart ever dwells,
Where first I knew but Love and Truth
And heard the Christmas bells.

RIPARIAN RIGHTS.

MCLAREN V. CALDWELL

Judgment was rendered on Tuesday by the Supreme Court in the celebrated case of McLaren v. Caldwell, an appeal from the decision of the Ontario Court of Appeals, which reversed Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot's judgment granting an injunction restraining Mr. Caldwell from using Mr. McLaren's improvements for floating his logs down the Mississippi River. The judgment of the Supreme Court allowed the appeal of Mr. McLaren, thus upholding the injunction granted by the Vice-Chancellor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There are twenty cases of smallpox at Louisville, Ky.

By an explosion at Llanelly, Wales, on the 17th, five lives were lost.

The valuation of property in Massachusetts has increased $25,000,000, in the past years.

The tendency of the evidence before the coroner's inquest into the cause of the recent fatal Intercolonial Railway accident goes to show that the rolling stock of that road is in a most deplorable condition. In the case in question the engine drawing an express train could not gather enough steam to ascend the grades, and even upon level stretches lost time. The railway officials also state that engines are patched continually instead of renewing their boilers. An instance of the carelessness of officials is mentioned, a despatcher having, since the accident referred to, started two trains from opposite stations upon the same line, and a terrible disaster was only averted by the vigilance of the engine drivers, who were favoured by a straight piece of road.

Frank Weiss, the editor of an illustrated German comic paper Erie, Pa., is on trial for libel, and has succeeded in fighting the law with its own weapons in a very amusing way. The district attorney at the opening of the prosecution claimed the right to "stand aside" jurors under the ancient law of Edward I, never repealed and once sustained by the supreme court of Pennsylvania by some musty decision. In this way, every German or Irish juror was thrown out, the court assenting to the absurd supremacy of this law of 900 years ago. Weiss, who is a small, feeble, melancholy-looking man then concluded if they were going in for mediæval law, he would have some. So he insisted on a trial of the case by ordea, of fire, and by combat! He floored the court with his citations unrepealed law, and at last accounts the suit was still in progress, with more fun in the court than there ever was in the newspaper.

ROMANCE AND REALITY.

Do you remember, dearest Jane,
That bygone day in June
We strolled adown your father's lane
One balmy afternoon?
And how we gathered roses fair
And shaped a pretty wreath,
And how the bugs crawled in your hair
And made you gnash your teeth.

And how we on a rustic seat
Reclined among the flowers,
And there in conversation sweet.
Passed some ecstatic hours,
Until the weary sun had found
His usual Western bank,
And how that blasted bench broke down
And sprawled us both kerchunk!

That eve, you know, we took a stroll,
Adown the moonlit green,
And perched upon a mossbit knoll
To view the moonlit scene;
Until at length the air grew chill
And you became quite cold—
And I fell off the moonlit hill
Into a moonlit hole!

Next day beneath the old elm tree.
You gave to me your heart,
And vowed that you would marry me,
And naught should e'er us part;
I dreamed not that I soon would be
In misery while you spoke;
Alas! false one, you jilted me,
And married Johnny Polk.!

AGRICULTURAL PROGRESS OF ONTARIO.

PERMANENT PROGRESS OF THE PREMIER PROVINCE.

The November report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries just issued by Mr. Blue brings out a great number of facts which only have to be brought to the notice of the proper persons to be of incalculable value to this province.

First and foremost, it is proved that the production of wheat per acre in Ontario is greter than the production in any one of the best American wheat growing States; and the Ontario figures are not mere estimates but of the crop as reported by threshers. The average crop of fall wheat per acre in 1882 was 26.3 bushels. The official estimate of the crops in the six principal fall wheat growing States, as given by the Washington Department of Agriculture, are:—Ohio, 16.7 bushels; Michigan, 17.8; Indiana, 15.7; Illinois, 16.0; Missouri, 14.6; Kansas, 19.5. The year 1882, to which these figures relate, is admitted by the American Department to have been an extraordinarily good one. In spring wheat, Ontario would likewise have been at the head of the list, had it not been that rust struck the crop in the principal spring wheat sections. As it is, Ontario's spring wheat crop this year was 16.5 bushels per acre. Only one American State or Territory comes anywhere near this figure; that one is Dakota, with a crop of 16.7 bushels. Next is Minnesota, with 13.3 bushels, and Iowa, with 11 bushels.

The average per acre of the fall wheat in Ontario, 26.3, is probably greater than that of any part of the world except the most fertile districts of England, and our own Province of Manitoba, and there is no doubt whatever that no part of the world of equal size with the settled parts of Ontario can boast of having produced such an as that which we have to sell this year. There are in the province 10,211,950 acres of cleared land. Forty eight per cent of this land or 5,002,067 acres were under grain crops, and the yield was as follows:—Fall wheat 1,188,520 acres, 31,255,402 bushels; spring weat, 586,817 acres, 9,665,999 bushels; barley, 848,617 24,284,407 bushels; oats, 1,375,415 acres, 50,097,997 bushels; rye, 188,031 acres, 3,549,898 bushels; peas, 557,157 acres, 10,943,357 bushels; corn, 206,924 acres, 13,420,884 bushels; buckwheat, 49,586 acres, 1,247,943 bushels.

ONTARIO AHEAD.

The produce of each kind of grain is based on the returns of threshers and the reports of correspondents— the method adopted by the Department of Agriculture at Washington and by several State Bureaus. The following table gives the average of bushels per acre this year for the Province of Ontario and for nine of the principal wheat-growing States, the figures for the latter being taken from the October Report of the United States Department of Agriculture:

	Fall Wheat	Spring Wheat	Barley	Oats	Rye
Ontario	26.3	16.5	23.6	30.6	16.6
Ohio	16.7	.....	19.9	28.0	15.8
Michigan	17.8	.....	25.2	33.3	17.0
Indiana	15.7	.....	24.0	27.0	15.1
Illinois	16.0	.....	22.5	37.4	16.6
Missouri	14.6	.....	23 0	34.5	15 5
Kansas	19.5	.....	25.7	38.1	22.3
Iowa	.....	11.0	21.7	31.8	14.3
Minnesota	.....	13.3	23.3	40.0	18.0
Dakota	.....	16.7	29.2	45.0	20.0

It is only necessary to add that in the American States the grain regarded as exceptionally good this year. The comparison of averages therefore makes a remarkably good showing for Ontario.

We will now make a few comparisons between the productions of Ontario this year and the productions as given in the census year 1871.

PRODUCTIONS OF ONTARIO IN 1882 COMPARED WITH 1871.

	1871.	1882.	Increase per cent.

Thus in eleven years this Province has considerably more than.

DOUBLED ITS YIELD

Of its staple articles of agricultural produce; indeed, if the potato crop had not been this year disappointingly small the production of the articles mentioned above would have been shown to have increased more than 1:30 per cent,

There is that in the above figures which should cause the greatest pleasure to Canadians. Nothing could possibly be more convincing than information of this sort to the European capitalist or farmer who is seeking for a country in which to a invest his means. Our present prosperity is proved to rest upon a sound agricultural basis. It now remains to disseminate the information gathered. The Local Government may be trusted to spare no efforts towards this end.

The Government, and especially Hon. Mr. Wood, are to be congratulated upon the great success which has been achieved by the Bureau of Statistics in these its early days. The information already gained and so ably handled is likely to prove of greater value to the Province than the whole coast of the service for many years to come.

Dairymen who own from 60 to 100 cows, and who have made butter for 30 years, unhesitatingly state that Thatcher's Orange Butter Color possesses a degree of merit heretofore unknown.

THEN AND NOW.

LADIES' DIARIES 1782—1882.

Many of the diaries kept by "society" ladies one hundred years ago and printed for the delectation of nineteenth-century readers, may not be very brilliant literary efforts but they admirably serve to show how simple and unassuming were the lives of "quality folk" of ancient times. The annexed is excerpted from the recently printed diary of Lady Simplex.

"July 16.—John took yarn to the weaver, and brought back flax, spices and sugar. The stage wagon had not arrived when he left Ipswich, and there was no package from London. My Lord was to send hangings for the large drawing-room but it matters not."

This, the reader may say, is very common-place. And so it is. If it had been written by the obscure Mary Jane Chlover instead of the Lady Simplex, it would not have been embalmed in print; but the object in quoting it is to compare it with a couple of extracts from the diary of a "society" lady of 1882—which will not be printed for the benefit of readers a century hence, albeit quite as interesting as the Lady Simplex literature:

"December 16.—Painted a lovely stork on ma's pickle jar. Decided to have my new heliotrope damasse made without a train. Read three chapters of the 'Midnight Shriek; or, the Fainting Bride.' Purchased a charming velvet collar with a gold clasp for dear little Fido's neck. Charles Augustus called this evening He's too sweet for anything.

"December 21.—Worked a supremely beautiful pen-wiper for a Christmas present to Charles Augustus. I gave him a pair of utterly intense slippers of my own embroidering last year, but they were four sizes too small for him. A pen-wiper is never a misfit. Brother Tom asked me to sew on a suspender button. He has no regard for the delicate state of my health. Was at Mrs. De Upkrust's 'German' last night and danced every set. Didn't get home till three o'clock this morning. I must now dress for the Kodphish reception, which is to be too utterly all but"

NOTES ON THE FASHIONS.

Fancy feathers of every description are the rage for millinery use.

Telegraph, hussar, electric and royal are four very popular shades of blue.

Royal cardinal jackets are very fashionably worn over black skirts of silk, satin or cashmere.

Amazon cloths embroidered, or adorned with arabesques of satouche, compose the favourite trimmings of autumn promenade costumes.

Shaggy goods of all kinds in brown, fawn colours, dark green, dark blue, or in plaids of heather mixtures are the most fashionable of all utility fabrics.

The coming of the "Jersey Lily" has largely increased the sale in America of the jersey bodice, whose popularity she long ago inaugurated in London.

For evening wear, tan-coloured Suede shoes, trimmed with large satin bows and buckles of Rhine pebbles set with silver, are considered very chic; but unless the feet are very small, there are fears that this adornment will cause them to assume the appearance "of beetle-crushers."

Dorsay redingotes are imported, made of black Lyons velvet, and trimmed with a magnificent applique work of black embroidery and jet. They are fastend down the front from the throat to the bottom of the skirt with costly cordelieres and handsome cut jet buttons in medallion designs.

The huge bridal bouquet of white roses is now frequently replaced by a large fan made of gardenais, white star flowers and stephanotis. This fan depends from the right side by a gold or silver chatelaine, but is raised and carried in the hand in place of the bouquet as the bride enters church or parlour.

Worth is sending to America very elegant toilets of brocaded plush in silver grey, combining this fabric with the new Ottoman silks in royal blue, dark green and ruby. These dresses are made short, with artistic draperies of the Ottoman silk at the back, the plush forming the transverse folds, confined by clusters of loops of the silk fringed with floss-silk balls in shades of grey.

To Choose Poultry.

At this season of the year, when there is sure to be a Christmas corner in poultry purchases, many persons will buy more poultry the holiday season than during the remainder of the year. For these and for all it is well to know how to choose poultry. In a young turkey, the toes and bill are soft. A young goose is plump in the breast, and the fat white and soft. The feet are yellow, the rest of the leg thin and tender. Boil it an hour before roasting. Young ducks are very tender under the wings, and the wings, and the web of the foot is transparent. The best fowls have yellow legs; if very old the feet look stiff and worn. Pigeons should be quite fresh, the breast plump and fat. Fowls, in a general sense, mean all kinds of poultry, but in a limited view one species of bird. We distinguish this kind in cookery, as the chicken, capon, pullet, cock, and hen. Chickens from their age cannot be otherwise than tender. Capons should have a fat vein under the wing; thick belly and rump; comb short, smooth and bright color. Hen's legs and comb smooth, and full breast. Black legs are best for roasting and entrees, and white for boiling.

The Victorious Army.

On Saturday the queen reviewed 8000 of the troops who participated in the Egyptian campaign. The troops afterwards marched through several streets which were gaily decorated. There were immense crowds of spectators and extraordinary enthusiasm. The Duke of Connaught marched at the head of the guards. The Prince and Princess of Wales, the Crown Prince of Germany and the Duke of Cambridge also witnessed the march. The queen on leaving was greeted with tremendous cheers. There were grand illuminations at night.

Gen. Wolseley rode at the head of the troops. The queen presented the war medals to two representatives of each regiment. The general presentation of medals will take place at Windsor Tuesday.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Women," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is assiduously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headache, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice respondent to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

It is wonderful that a subtle miasmatic poison should produce that peculiar condition of the system which provails when alternate chills and burning heart freeze and scorch the body at regular intervals, and it is no less wonderful that medical skill has been able to reach and expel this poison from the system, as Ayer's Ague Cure always does.

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.—The manufacturers have yet to hear of a single case of Dyspepsia or Biliousness, when ZOPESA was used as directed, in which it was not more than satisfactory. Many write that it is a wonderful remedy. We can show where as high as 40 pounds were gained by its use in breaking up chronic Biliousness and Dyspepsia. Middle measures are often but middling measures." There are no "middlings" about Kidney-Wort. It is the most thoroughly refined "flower" of medicine. It knows no halfway measures, but radically uproots all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bowels. It overthrows piles, abolishes constipation and treats the system so gently, soothingly as to prove its true kinship to nature in all its phases. It is prepared in both liquid and dry form.

The deficiency in the French budget will probably be adjusted by a reduction of 100,000,000 francs in the grant for public works.

WHEN IT IS UNDERSTOOD that most of the diseases of the body, whether functional derangements or destructive organic changes in the vital organs, are the expressions of errors of nutrition from impoverishment of the blood and starvation of the tissues, it is easily seen why Wheeler's Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, which secures the digestion and assimilation of food to keep up the work of repair, is successfully used in the treatment of the wide range of affections for which it is recommended.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great facility that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

1882. CHRISTMAS! 1882.

It is now the season of the year when people who are contemplating making purchases for Christmas and New Year's Presents, begin to study where they can lay out their money to the best advantage. There are several points to be considered. FIRSTLY: where they can find the best variety of New, Fresh Goods, suitable to their tastes. SECONDLY: where they can get the best value for their money. THIRDLY: where the quality can be perfectly relied upon. FOURTHLY: where they can deal with confidence and feel quite sure that there will be no misrepresentations made to them of the quality of the goods they wish to buy.

THE ABOVE CONSIDERATIONS CAN BE SATISFACTORILY FULFILLED BY MAKING YOUR PURCHASES AT

R. W. MUNCASTER'S
JEWELLERY STORE,
Cluxton's Block, George St. Peterborough

Where you will find the Stock Complete in every Department, and for Price, Quality, Novelty of Design, and Reliability, unsurpassed. Amongst the immense Stock will be found a full line of GOLD and SILVER WATCHES at all Prices and Makes. GOLD JEWELLERY in Necklets and Lockets, Watch Chains, Guards, and Alberts, Breast Pins, Scarf Pins, Charms, Bracelets. Brooches and Earrings set with Diamonds, Garnets, Aqua Marines, Turquoise and Pearls. GOLD RINGS. Ladies' Gold Rings mounted with Real Stones, in every conceivable design. Wedding Rings in all sizes and prices at a High Standard of Quality. Gold Keeper Rings in Chased, Engraved and Chased, and Engraved. SILVER JEWELLERY in all styles of Brooches, Earrings, Lockets, Chains, Necklets, &c.

SILVER PLATED WARE.

The above line of Goods are being cut upon so much of late that the Quality has become quite a secondary matter with some dealers. Their whole aim is centred in presenting a showy and trashy article, which will catch the eye and which will not wear much longer than a good quality of Pewter. Such a quality as that I do not keep at all. I have nothing but the best Quadruple Plate, made by the leading American Manufacturers, whose reputation is the result of supplying a first-class article to the public for the last fifty years. The Stock of Plated Ware consists of all the Latest Designs in Cruets, Butter Dishes, Card Receivers, Cake Baskets, Pickle Stands, Knives & Forks, Spoons in Tea, Table and Dessert, and Fancy Articles, suitable for Presents.

WATCH REPAIRING This Department is one which is sadly neglected in the average Jewellery Store. The object sought to be attained is to make as much money as possible out of customers by charging exhorbitant Prices and procuring cheap workmen. My reputation for work has been achieved by always doing GOOD, RELIABLE WORK, and charging a moderate figure for it, so that people leaving Watches with me for Repairs, know that they can rely on all work leaving my hands. THE MINOR BRANCHES of the Jewellery business not named above, are all carefully attended to by myself, and the system I have adopted in business has convinced people that any goods bought from me are always in every respect to be relied upon for Quality, Workmanship, Cheapness and Variety. THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC. as experienced by me in the large volume of trade done and which is steadily increasing, say that they appreciate my efforts to establish a Jewellery Store where they can buy goods without any hesitation, knowing that Muncaster's goods are of a standard which is always the highest, and that anything bought from him never fails to be exactly as represented.

DO NOT FAIL TO INSPECT MY IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE DECIDING ON YOUR PURCHASES.

She has on display a fine and carefully assorted stock of stationery, books, writing desks, and other articles eminently suitable for holiday gifts. A fine line of the latest Christmas cards.

AN IMMENSE STOCK.—For the supply of the gastronomic and domestic departments of the demand of the holiday trade, the public will find in Mr. B. Never in the history of his business has he had on hand a finer collection of fashionable jewelry in the newest and most artistic designs than at present. An enumeration of his goods would fill volumes, but any one requiring the finest qualities of silverware, jewelry or kindred wares, can by calling at W. A. Sanderson's be suited both in variety, beauty of design and reasonablenes of price.

THE LAST TRIBUTE OF RESPECT. The funeral of the late D. G. Hatton, Esq., Police Magistrate, which took place on Thursday last was an emphatic testimony of the respect and esteem in which he was held. Following the hearse came the members of the Peterborough Law Association in carriages, and next them the members of the Town Council and behind, the citizens in carriages, the entire cortege, reaching the distance, from Brock street to Sherbrooke street, and including the most prominent citizens of the town. As the procession passed down George street, all business was suspended. It is seldom that a citizen of any town passes to his last resting place, accompanied with so abundant evidences of esteem and regret as those with the body of the late Mr. Hatton retired to its long resting place, in Little Lake Cemetery last Thursday.

WE HAVE on hand a splendid assortment of fur caps for men, women and children. Also ladies' fur caps, astrachan jackets, gents' coon coats, at very low prices for cash. Call and inspect them. R. GRAHAM & SON, Lakefield. 45-4ins

A GOOD JOB.—Mr. Alex. Filion, the capable and painstaking repairer for the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company, for this district has done a first-class job in removing the old unsightly and dilapidated poles from George street, and placing the wires on new poles on Brock street. He deserves the thanks of both the citizens and the company.

LECTURE.—We understand that the the services of Prof. P. H. Bryce has been secured by the Mechanics Institute, to deliver a lecture in Bradburns Hall early next month, on "Contagious diseases, their cause and prevention." This should be a most interesting subject, especially at this season of the year when contagious and infectious diseases manifest unusual activity.

THE HEALTH OF THE DISTRICT.—The Weekly Health Bulletin of the Provincial board of health, for the week ending Nov. 18th, shows a great increase in pulmonary diseases. In one week the prevalence of bronchitis in this district has increased about 90 per cent—from 13 to 24 per cent. The prevalence of influenza is 10 per cent, of neuralgia 8 per cent, of rheumatism, 7, of anæmia, 6.7, of pneumonia, 6 per cent. The highest temperature for the week was 57.25, the lowest, 10.25. The rain fall was 1.12 inches and the general direction of the S.W. N.-W. E.

A SOLID FACT.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

INSPECTION OF GAS METERS.—T. Cahill, Esq., Inspector of Weights and Measures and Gas Inspector, has just completed the inspection of one hundred gas meters sent to him by the Lindsay Gas Company. The machines were shipped from England to Lindsay and reconsigned without breaking bulk to Mr. Cahill here for inspection, the directors of the company being anxious that the people should be satisfied of the correctness of the machines that keep their gas accounts. And the gas consumers of Lindsay may rest contented, if Mr. Cahill certifies to the correctness of the meters, that it is no mere perfunctory guarantee, but the decision of a capable and conscientious official whose work may be relied on. The gas to be used by our Lindsay neighbors is made from crude petroleum and is of 19-candle power, three candle powers stronger than ordinary coal gas. We congratulate our go-a-head neighbors on a fresh emergence into the light of civilization, and hope that their new advance in improvement as shown by the possession of gas works, may not prompt them to abolish an opposition establishment, the town council.

OBIT.—We regret to learn of the death of Mr. Thos. Leonard, which took place at his residence, lower George street, on Thursday last. Mr. Leonard was an old and respected citizen, and was for some years one of our active business men. He was a staunch Reformer, and in his death the town loses a valuable and estimable citizen.

SOCIAL AND BAZAAR.—Next Friday evening a parlour social and bazaar will be held at the residence of Geo. A. Cox, Esq. A large variety of fancy and useful articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, will be offered for sale. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the Church funds of the Charlotte street Methodist Church.

IT WILL soon be time that the candidates for municipal honors should practise at the glass, preparatory to making their annual fascinating bow to the electors. The citizens are just yearning to see, once more, the municipal bow and the irresistible smile that conducts surely to office and perhaps to honor. "Frailty thy name is woman."—not man—of course not. —COM.

SELLING OFF.—Mr. Thos. E. Pope, Market Block, has decided to go one better than the people who neglect to remove the snow from their walks and make a clean sweep of his immense stock of dry goods which must and will be cleared out the next six weeks. To secure this end there has been large reductions of price in every department. Read his advertisement and be astonished at the low quotations contained therein.

DRESSING POULTRY.—By attention to the following rules for the dressing of poultry, farmers will secure better prices and readier sale: "Poultry should not be fed for 24 hours previous to killing. Bleed well and pluck clean, leaving on the head, also the wings and tail feathers in. Entrails should not be drawn, neither should poultry be scalded. It is easily detected, and means from one to three cents per pound reduction in value. Pack firmly in nice, clean cases holding from one to two hundred pounds. Mark each case with correct weights—gross, tare, and net. Also, number and kinds of birds contained, and advise the firm to whom you ship of the particulars of your consignment, that its proper delivery may be looked after; and, when this is done, satisfactory results may confidently be looked for."

CHINA HALL.—Mr. McFarlane Wilson seems to have a desire to corner the Christmas trade, so extensive are the recent additions to his stock. A few days ago he received thirteen cases of goods direct from Germany, the fulfilment of an order sent to that country the early part of the year. The consignment consists of 1200 pairs of beautiful vases of silvered glass, Bohemian and alabaster ware. They are beautiful specimens of art and are sold at low prices the result of direct importation and only one profit. There was also a large assortment of card receivers and 140 toilet sets, of great beauty, fancy cups and saucers all manufactured to order for Mr. Wilson from samples. On Saturday night he received cases containing a ton of silver ware, embracing articles eminently fitted for holiday gifts as well as for the regular trade. China Hall has now a splendid stock and the person that cannot be suited there must indeed be hard to please.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The West Ward Trouble at an End—The Elections—Wood Wanted.

The Board met on Tuesday night.

Present, the Chairman in the chair, and Messrs. Stratton, Wrighton, Burnham, Sawers, Sproule, Denne, Weir and Rutherford.

After routine,

An account was received from Mr. Forsyth, repairing pump at Central School, $2.00, and ordered to be paid.

COMMUNICATIONS.

were read from Miss Smith, applying for a position as teacher in case of vacancy.

From Miss Keene, asking for appointment in case of vacancy.

Both referred to Committee on Appointments.

From Miss Ross, asking for an increase of salary from $210 to $240.—Referred to Committee on Appointments.

From J. Braden, inviting members and parents to visit the public schools, and asking the Board to appoint the afternoons of Tuesday and Wednesday, 14th and 15th inst., as examination days in all divisions of the public school.—Received.

From Mr. J. Braden, principal of the public schools showing that the attendance for November was as follows:

	On Roll.	Av. Att.
Central School	570	469
South Ward School	231	186
Third Ward "	165	133

Report received.

RESIGNATION.

From Mr. A. P. Poussette, resigning his position as member of the School Board, on account of lack of time to give adequate attention to his duties as such.

On motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, the resignation was accepted, and the secretary requested to notify the Town Clerk of the fact.

OTHER MATTERS.

The Chairman reported that Miss Beckett, Third Ward school, was ill and that Mr. Braden had supplied her place with Miss Brodie.

Mr. Stratton, Chairman of the Committee on School Supervision, brought up their report respecting the suggestions of the Principal of the Collegiate Institue, in the matter of fees, which was read, but after some informal discussion, he deemed it advisable to withdraw the report for the present, to enable the Board to consider the suggestions, before hurriedly adopting them.

THE THIRD WARD TROUBLE.

Mr. Stratton, Inspector, brought in a report in reference to the difficulties in the Third Ward Public School. At present there was full attendance and fair progress in all divisions of the school. He thought the trouble had arisen from misunderstandings and want of confidential relations. The backwardness of some of the classes was due to the irregular attendance, assisted, no doubt, by an unequal division of work. Miss Beckett's classes were now in good condition, one especially so. The difficulties in the Third Ward School had been settled amicably, but he suggested that the principal and teachers should be allowed to arrange a fair division of work in the Ward schools, as at present the teachers had not sufficient time, according to the programme to ensure the efficiency desirable before promotions.

The report, which was accompanied with a good deal of pertinent explanation throwing light on the subject, was received.

On motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, the Inspector, Chairman of the Board, Principal and teachers of the schools were intrusted with the matter of arranging classes in the Third Ward and South Ward Schools.

THE LATE DR. RYERSON.

Mr. Stratton, Inspector said that, he had received several communications respecting a monument to Dr. Ryerson, asking him to bring the matter to the attention of teachers and the Board. He thought that Dr. Ryerson's services to the cause of education deserved recognition.

The Chairman also urged Dr. R's. claim to some substantial marks of recognition.

On suggestion of Mr. J. R. Stratton the matter was left over till the next meeting of the Board.

BOARD ELECTIONS.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Weir, it was resolved to hold the election of public school members of the Board this year at the same places as last year (except in the Third Ward, in which the polling place was to be at the shop of George Sanderson) and that the following gentlemen be returning officers: No. 1, Joseph Dandy; No. 2, C. D. McDonald; No. 3, John Irwin; No. 4, Wm. Lee; and that a meeting of the Board be held the first Thursday in January after the polling, to give effect to the election, according to law.

WOOD.

In answer to Mr. Sawers, Mr. Sproule explained that the Property Committee had not been called together on account of the change in Chairmanship, and there being no necessity for such a call. He had purchased 50 cords of wood at $4.75 per cord.

After discussion,

Mr. Stratton moved, seconded by Mr. Sawers,—That the Chairman of the Property Committee, be directed to advertise for tenders for fifty cords of dry and fifty cords of green wood (beech and maple) for the use of schools, and report to the Property Committee before awarding the contract.—Carried.

The Board adjourned.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

RAILWAY MATTERS.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the M. R., had intimated to our Reeve that a new time table was to be made out and if any increased railway facilities or changes were required he would be prepared to consider them and meet the people of Lakefield on Friday. A number of our citizens consequently met at Mr. J. C. Sheriz's office to talk matters over. The President arrived on the noon train. The result is that we are to have an engine house built, a morning and evening train, and our station completed. The President also generously gave the land needed for the new street to be opened from Church to Strickland streets across the M. R. track. The train leaving here in the morning and returning in the evening, connecting with the Grand Trunk from the west, will be a great benefit to the travelling public. The mail train will remain as it is. Mr. Cox was heartily cheered on leaving the station. The large amount of shipping annually from this place entitles us to the increased accommodation and justifies the President in making the changes. On Saturday last as the noon train was coming in to Lakefield the engine ran off the track; no harm done, no one hurt, the train was delayed till evening.

At the annual meeting of the

SKATING RINK COMPANY

held on the 25th Nov., the following officers were re-elected: President, Dr. Caldwell; Messrs. Shearer, LeFevre, and Casement, Managing Committee; Captain Sacret, General Manager. The rink will probably be opened by the time this comes before the public. The rates, we think, are moderate especially for those who have large families, and will be duly announced to the public.

ACCIDENT.

A most singular accident took place within a mile of this village on Tuesday the 28th Nov. It appears that while Geo. Alfords was down in a well, 25 feet deep, drilling the rock, a good sized spring pig came along and fell down on the top of George, who had just been in the act of asking for something required. His father, fearing he was killed did not venture down into the well, but after a few minutes George came up presenting quite a bloody appearance but not dangerously hurt. The next thing to do was to elevate his pigship. Some of the neighbors were got and ropes fastened on and the pig twice raised to the top and let fall again. The third attempt proved more successful and the pig was landed safe; but instead of being all broken to pieces by his three tumbles 25 feet to the rock, he went off skipping much to Mr. Deuch's amusement. We soon expect to hear Mr. D's account of raising the porker, it will be spicy.

MUNICIPAL.

Not much excitement about elections as yet nor do we know who are to be the candidates; beside the old council we have heard the names of T. J. Nelson and W. J. Wallace mentioned, but all speculation so far.

CONCERT.

The postponed concert and dramatical entertainment will take place on Thursday evening 7th inst., in the P.C.A. Hall. Judging from the programme a treat is in store for those who attend.

R. and G. Strickland's saw mill has closed down, but will continue to do custom work through the winter, the shingle machine is also to be put in.

NEWS VARIETIES.

Festive Cowboys.

A gang of drunken cowboys boarded a train at Sweetwater Grove, Texas, a day or two since, drove the passengers off at the point of the revolver, bound the conductor and engineer back to back, then ran the train to Fort Worth and left it.

A Child Killed by Rats.

Last Sunday the family of Thomas Hughes, living near Spottsvile, Ky., went to church, to be gone all day, leaving an infant to the care of a colored girl. The girl went to a neighbor's, leaving the child on a pallet on the floor, and was also gone all day. When the family returned they found the child dead. It had been horribly gnawed by rats.

Man-Eating Savages.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A schooner from the South Sea reports when recruiting for Islanders the boats were frequently fired upon. A number of returned natives were seized, murdered and eaten by the inhabitants of Pasma and Apytonoi. The Islanders also boarded the Schooner Helena and incited recruits to seize the vessel. The mutiny was quelled and three marauders killed.

Sub Vice-Royal Splice.

The nearest approach to a royal wedding in Canada took place at Victoria, British Columbia, when joy-bells were rung at Christ Church Cathedral on Thursday morning, when Thomas Henry Rolfe, the Governor-General's valet, and Miss Vieillard, the Princess Louise's lady's maid, joined hands and were made one flesh. In the morning, amid a shower of rice and old shoes, the happy pair left for "England, home and beauty."

Novel Forgery.

C. Estabrooks, of St. Mary's, New Brunswick, has been postmaster there for a number of years. Some one forged his name to a resignation, which was sent to Ottawa and accepted. Hon. J. J. Fraser was authorized to obtain a person to fill the vacant position and S. Dayton was appointed. Estabrooks was considerably surprised on being informed of the fact and paid a visit to Fraser. Estabrooks will probably retain the position.

The Faith Cure Closed.

The Buffalo Faith Cure is closed on account of its manager's Miss Carrie Judd, inability to pay her bills. Having herself been cured by prayer, Miss Judd opened the institution and has had at one time or another a good number of patients there. Affairs came to a crisis, however, when Miss Wright, of Olean, who was afflicted with a spinal complaint, entered and was prayed for unceasingly and anointed daily with oil, after spending much time and money, left the place uncured and its reputation seriously impaired.

FATHER LYNCH TO LINDSAY

He is Appointed Parish Priest—Brief Sketch of His Life and Peterboro' Pastorate—Affecting Farewell Address—Lasting Memories of His Goodness Left Behind.

The entire community Roman Catholic as well as Protestant, were deeply grieved and surprised, at the intelligence that Rev. Father Lynch had been appointed Priest of the Parish of Lindsay and that his presence in Peterborough would hereafter be only a pleasant memory. A short time since we expressed the opinion that it would be a difficult thing for Bishop Jamot to accompany one to fittingly fill the place of the late Father Stafford, but had we fancied the possibility of Father Lynch being removed, the problem was of easy solution. Since the erection of Peterborough into an Episcopal See, Rev. Father Lynch has found the change to interfere sadly with the pleasant routine of duty in the parish, to which years of his earnest labor had reduced parish work. The requirements of the new state of affairs prevented him from enjoying that comparative leisure which years of faithful toil had made due to the autumn of his days. For nearly thirty years he has been in harness. He was ordained to the priesthood at Ottawa in 1854 by Bishop Guoy, was curate with his uncle Rev. Father Terence Smith, in the parish of Smith's Falls, four or five years, thence he came to Douro, from Douro he went to Cornwall, whence after passing six or seven years he was removed to Peterborough, where he has since labored with unprecedented success. Twelve years of pastoral connection has interwoven his life with the people, and now on the eve of departure, he confesses that his heart and soul are in Peterboro'. His personal regret at being compelled to leave is great, but like a true son of the church he submits to the call of duty and willingly begins a new life of labor, which he had fondly thought was closed—had merged from the heat and burden of the day into the serene sunset of his years.

Rev. Father Lynch leaves behind him not only his memory enshrined in the hearts of his flock, but substantial evidences of his care for their welfare. To the south ward Separate School in whose origin and maintenance he took such an active interest, he left a valuable library, his own personal property. In evidence of his thoughtful care for the young men of his flock, he made provision for counter attractions to the baleful allurements of saloons and other evil places of resort, by leaving to them his splendid private bowling alley costing about $600. The place is left in charge of Mr. H. LeBrun, but owing to the business pressure of the holiday season, taking up the young men's evening hours it will not be opened for use till the beginning of the new year. The equipments of the alley are complete both for play, warming and lighting. Thanks to the munificence of Father Lynch, the young men of the congregation will have a retreat for a cheering and health-give amusement, free from evil associations, for only the nominal cost of fuel and light.

On Sunday last, after the sermon, Rev. Father Lynch took leave of his congregation in a brief address, and so deep was his regret at severing the pastoral associations of a dozen years, that it was with a halting voice, broken with the sad eloquence of tears that he delivered the following

FAREWELL ADDRESS:

To My Dear Friends,—

I feel there is nothing more difficult to give expression to than gratitude for generous kindness, particularly when it so far exceeds the merits of its recipient. Since you became aware of my removal from the Episcopal See of Peterborough, you have manifested so much sorrow, and given me such substantial proof of your sincerity, that I find it impossible to refer to them all in the few remarks I am about to make, which must necessarily be brief. When I look back and consider the many munificent gifts received at your hands they would to any one, as they do to me, appear the very extravagance of generosity. How happy I should now feel if I deserved them. To the ladies of the convent of Notre Dame, my first acknowledgements are due, for their many and repeated acts of kindness. Their devotion to everything religious is proverbial of their order. The loud tolling of their parish bell, that awakens all to their devotions, bespeaks their praises. It re-echoes again their praise a noon and gladdens their hearts at the sound of the sweet Ave Maria. The lone peals of their parish organ also remind them of their zeal; and their splendid convent will ever record the sincerity of their piety, who contributed so much to the beautification of its surroundings.

And you, my dear little children, of the convent, you are everything that your parents and myself expected you to be. Your many handsome gifts and addresses, so generously bestowed upon me shall ever be treasured in grateful remembrance.

I should be sorry, my dear boys, of the separate school, if I should ever forget you, and particularly you, my dear little children, of the South Ward school, the future hope of the rising generation. Your school house with its little library, which now, as a personal memento, I am giving to you for your special use and benefit is now what I desire it to be from the beginning. One request I make to you my dear children, is to ask you to read good books and good publications, and nothing but them, and whenever you intend adding to your library, let me know and you may count on my assistance to the fullest extent of my means.

And you, my dear parishioners, on whom I depended for everything, it is to be hoped you will ever continue the exercise of your zeal in the cause of God and His Holy Church.

It is, as you are aware, the attribute of generous hearts to forgive and forget faults. You may have, for what I know, discovered many faults in me; forgive me my faults, but do not forget me in your prayers. Farewell my dear children of the parish of Peterborough.

Rev. Father Conway will, in the meantime, take the place of Rev. Father Lynch

We are informed that Rev. Father Lynch will not be allowed to leave Peterborough, which he will do next Saturday morning without receiving the most unmistakeable evidences, substantial as well as sentimental, of the appreciation of the both parish and people of Peterborough.

Dolly Dutton a Lunatic.

One of the smallest dwarfs ever exhibited in this country was Dolly Dutton, who made tours up to about ten years ago. At that time she was 18 years old, and said to weigh only twelve pounds. The reason for her retirement from public life was the difficulty in managing her. She was a freakish little creature, and sometimes would refuse to go on the stage at all, compelling her manager to refund the admission money. In 1875 she married a man of ordinary stature named Swain, but separated from him soon. Their only child died in infancy. The news of her being taken to an insane asylum, a hopeless lunatic, does not surprise those who have known her.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 7, 1882

A December Session.

The advisability of holding a December session of the County Council is a question of some importance and the arguments in favor of it seem to be such as to warrant the parties concerned taking the matter in earnest deliberation It is important that the retiring Council should close up the business of the year so as not to leave for their successors a mass of business, with the details of which, and the attendant circumstances, the latter can not be intelligently familiar. The possibility of an entire change in the Council should be kept in view, and therefore it does seem that the body familiar with the unfinished business of the past year are the only proper persons to close it up. If this were done, then, councillors while still in possession of office could be held accountable for any course of action contrary to the public interest, and they would also be entitled to applause for any specially beneficial, municipal legislation —the latter being of particular moment to the councillor in case of seeking re-election—the former to the people in case of the old councillor seeking re-election. All the affairs of the county for the latter half of the year in the present state of sessions are purely administrative; and, without for a moment hinting that the administration is careless or incompetent, it seems to us that it would be far more satisfactory to all concerned that the councillors should be allowed to give an account of their stewardship at a third session and place county affairs in an intelligible shape for their successors. The extra expense need not be great. With reasonable expedition the business might be concluded in two days. Some counties think they cannot do with less than four sessions per year, but this is perhaps as much an error in one direction as two would be in another. Three seem to be the happy mean.

The Monster Monopoly.

In another part of this issue we publish some interesting matters concerning the decision of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway to apply to Parliament to increase the capital of the Company from fifteen to one hundred millions of dollars. The act of incorporation limits the stock to twenty-five millions, and it cannot be increased without the consent of Parliament. The proposed scheme for increasing the capacity of the Syndicate for oppression and tyranny should be nullified at once. Their power for evil is one at which the country, if it looked at the matter with dispassionate deliberation, would stand aghast. The Syndicate has already arrayed itself against the commercial interests of the country, and with its present power the struggle against its monstrous monopoly will be a hard one, and one in which, under the most favorable circumstances, the public are easily liable to come out second best; but if the present increase is conceded, the power of the Syndicate will be so enormously augmented that they can laugh at opposition. The only redeeming feature in the proposed increase is the fact, as pointed out by the Globe, that if the bargain is reopened at one point it is reopened for discussion altogether, which might result in a no very delicate overhauling of the present elaborate privileges with which a subservient parliamentary majority invested the Syndicate. In parliament the opposition vigorously set their faces against the confirmation of the bargain, and they will, no doubt, as strenuously oppose the concession of the new demand; their position will be strengthened by the fact that their forebodings of evil to result from the confirmation of the bargain, have been largely justified by events. There is no doubt that the Government will actively favor the granting of the new demand, but it seems probable that with the already brief experience of the country of the tyrannical, monopolizing tendency of the Syndicate's course, they will find greater difficulty than at first in whipping their followers into the traces, though it is to be feared that the application of material arguments, when moral arguments fail, may secure their success.

Notes of the Day.

The "Blue Ribbon" Total Abstinence movement is making rapid progress, connected with the Church of England in England. The Bishop of Dover and the Dean of Canterbury were recently decorated with the blue ribbon.

The Montreal Star says that a special meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company was held on Tuesday, Mr. George Stephen, president, in the chair. There were present, Messrs. D. McIntyre, R. B. Angus and Hon. D. A. Smith, of Montreal; Mr. J. J. Hill, of St. Paul, and Messrs. Kennedy and Bliss, of New York. It was resolved to increase the capital of the company from $15,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Politics in Manitoba are decidedly interesting. Mr. Gilbert McMicken, the Speaker of the Assembly, and a strong Conservative has written an open letter addressed to Premier Norquay, in which he says, "I am at last compelled to mourn over your degradation, and, as a duty, to denounce you as unworthy of the confidence of the party, as untrue to your country, and unfaithful to every trust heretofore reposed in you."

New Brunswick probably has more miles of railroad in proportion to its population than any other country in the country in the world. The population is not more than 300,000, and the railway mileage within a year, if the present intentions of builders are carried out, will be in excess of 1,000 miles. This will give one mile of road to every 350 of the population, while the ratio in the United States is about one mile of road to every 500 of the population, and in England not more than one mile to every 2,000 of the population.

Deluded Irish girls and lads who subscribed from their hard earnings to the Fenian Skirmishing Fund will hear with poor satisfaction that the Committe on Investigation has made a report which sets forth that of all the money spent ostensibly for the skirmishing fund, only two items had the remotest connection with the skirmishing project. These refer to the purchase of two rams, costing $39,360, and Mr. Bressling's charges for the superintendence and construction of the same. The formidible character of these rams may be judged when it is known that one was sunk by colliding with a drifting scow and the other was cast away on the Jersey shore.

The decision in the case of McLaren vs. Caldwell, given by the Supreme Court, does not reality affect the spirit or intention of the Rivers and Streams Bill. The judgment admits that if Mr. Caldwell desired to use Mr. McLaren's improvements he ought to have compensated him therefor. In the Bill alluded to compensation was fully provided for, and it was based on the cost of construction, cost of maintenance and interest on expenditure. It may further be observed that this decision of the Supreme Court proves the absolute necessity of having a River and Streams Act to set at rest forever such aggravated suits as that of McLaren vs. Caldwell. We are, therefore, glad to learn that it is the intention, as it is the bounden duty, of the Government of Ontario to reintroduce and pass the Bill at the next session of the legislature.

Mr. Bannerman, ex-M. P. for North Renfrew, has returned to Ottawa from a tour in the Northwest. He left Ottawa in July last, and travelled as far as Norway House on the Nelson River, a distance of about 2,220 miles. From Winnipeg he took out a party of engineers to survey and take soundings of the harbor at Port Nelson, the proposed terminus of the Winnipeg and Hudson Bay Railway and steamship company, and to ascertain when the harbor opens and closes. The party expect to return some time next August. A preliminary survey has been made from Norway House to Limestone Balls, and twenty miles of the road located southward to Norway House. The soil in the vicinity of the latter place is excellent. The potato and vegetable crop is remarkably good. The first crop of wheat ever harvested there was saved this year early in September and yielded about thirty bushels to the acre. This speaks well for a district which was supposed to be ice bound for nine out of the twelve months of the year.

WHY RAW OYSTERS ARE EATEN.

Peter Berens, the oysters connoisseur furnishes the following regarding the prevailing habit of eating raw oysters: "Our practice in regard to the oysters is quite exceptional, and furnishes a striking example of the general correctness of the popular judgment on dietetic questions. The oyster is almost the only animal substance which we eat habitually or by preference in the raw or uncooked state and it is interesting to know that there is a sound physiolgical reason at the botton of this preference. The fawn-colored mass which constitutes the dainty of the oyster is its liver, and this is little less than a heap of glycogen. Associated with the glycogen, but withheld from actual contract with it during its life, is its appropriate digestive ferment, the hepatic diastase. The mere crushing of the dainty between the teeth brings these two bodies together, and the glycogen is at once digested without any other help than by its diastase. The oyster in the uncooked state, merely warmed, is, in fact self-digestive; but the advantage of this provision is wholly lost by cooking, for the heat employed immediately destroys the associated ferment, and the cooked oyster has to be digested, like any other food, by the eater's own digestive powers.

The Sad and Worthless

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices in which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H.B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitations or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. Druggists and dealers are warned against dealing in imitations or counterfeits.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption. Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y. 45

Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh

and consumption in the first stages are treated at the International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, where the Spirometer is used, an instrument invented by Dr. Souvielle of Paris, and ex-aide surgeon of the French army, which conveys the medicines in the form of cold inhalations to the parts diseased. Suitable constitutional treatment is used when required. Consultations and a trial of the Spirometer free. Poor people bearing certificates furnished with the instrument free. When not convenient to visit the office write, enclosing stamp, for pamphlet giving full particulars to International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, or 13 Phillips square, Montreal. 49-tf

It May Save Your Life.—The manufacturers have yet to hear of a single case of Dyspepsia or Biliousness, when Zopira was used as directed, in which it was not more than satisfactory. Many write that it is a wonderful remedy. We can show where as high as 40 pounds were gained by its use in breaking up chronic Biliousness and Dyspepsia. Its friends increase very fast, and all who use as directed are surprised and gratified. 49-4t

THE GREAT STOCK WATER.

The Prospect of the Syndicate Raising $95,000,000.

Bottled in London—Is Vanderbilt Coming in?—And is the Pacific to be Surrendered to the Americans?

The members of the Canadian Pacific company met at Montreal on Tuesday, and agreed that the capital of the company should be increased from fifteen to one hundred millions. On inquiry, we are informed that the increase is to be in the common stock of the company. The act of incorporation, however, limits the issue of stock or shares to 25,000,000, and no power is given to increase that quantity.

It would appear, then, that the company proposes to apply to parliament next session for power to increase its capital stock. Of course, if the bargain is re-opened at one point, it is re-opened for discussion altogether. The fact that the stock list was so small, and would be controlled by Canadians, was put forward as one of the reasons why the bargain should be accepted by parliament. If the amount of capital is to be quadrupled, and if, as would necessarily follow, the control of the road and its land grants should go into European hands, the conditions of affairs would be changed altogether. And the country will be entitled to compensation for the great increase in the amount of capital upon which ten per cent. will have to be earned before the government can reduce freight rates.

The above is quoted from the Globe by the Toronto World, which adds that we may take it for granted that this decision to increase the capital was only reached after consultation with the government. And we may further expect the government to do their best to secure the necessary sanction of parliament.

But this increase of stock is of momentous importance to Canada.

As to the amount. The syndicate have evidently found that they cannot realize sufficient money on their lands, bonds and present capital of $15,000,000 to carry on the work. They want more money in order to complete the line.

The syndicate baulked. Hitherto they have met with opposition in all their financial schemes. Many of them have been upset by an all-powerful, ever-watchful enemy. The bonds of the syndicate will not go in. London; the stock of the duke of Manchester's company will not go in London, as witness the present quotation at 53 shillings for the £3; which two facts go to show that the syndicate cannot sell their bonds or lands as they expected.

Who is the enemy? The Grand Trunk is this powerful enemy. The Grand Trunk is to-day the most powerful railway corporation in the world, and it is most powerful in the most critical place, in the London money market. The London brokers and bankers are all for the Grand Trunk and dead against its rivals. It can check the great American lines in this same quarter, and is doing so. The stronghold of the Grand Trunk is in London. It has worked against the duke of Manchester's land company, and as a consequence it has fallen flat. Instead of having access to the London market, the syndicate has been going to the bank of Montreal, and the North-west land company to Canadian investors.

What is the syndicate going to do? They are going to try a deal with the Americans. We should imagine that the increase of capital is to let Vanderbilt in. If this is done, all hope of the Pacific becoming a national Canadian highway must be abandoned. It will be run as a portion of the Vanderbilt system.

Why Vanderbilt and the syndicate? The Grand Trunk is the common enemy of these two roads, and they are about to combine to crush it, or at least to keep it in check. The Grand Trunk is fighting Vanderbilt right in his own territory, and is giving him all he can do; it is fighting the syndicate in eastern Canada, and once it gets into the Northwest it will fight it clean to the Pacific coast. The Grand Trunk has started on a from-ocean-to-ocean career, and it has got the financial backing to build to the Pacific. It can get all the money it wants. This may seem strange after its past history of almost bankruptcy and deficits, but it is now on its feet, it has gobbled its smaller rivals, and it has gained the confidence and care of the English investor.

The syndicates outlook. They may with an American connection like Vanderbilt be able to float this $85,000,000, but it is not by any means settled. Failing in a union with Vanderbilt they intend, so it was reported currently, to try and float the watered stock in driblets of five or ten millions at a time.

THE POSTAL CARD.

No one denies that the postal card is a great thing, and yet it makes most people mad to get one. This is because we are naturally sensitive about having our correspondence open to the eyes of the postmaster and postal clerk. Yet they do not read them. Postal employees hate a postal card as cordially as any one else. If they were banished and had nothing to read but a package of postal cards or a book of foreign statistics, they would read the statistics. This wild hunger for postal cards on the part of postmasters is all a myth. When a writer doesn't care who sees his message that knocks all the curiosity out of those who handle those messages. The man who would read a postal card without being compelled to by some stringent statute must be a little deranged. When you receive one you say: "Here is a message of so little importance that the writer didn't care who saw it. I don't care much for it myself."

Then you look over it, and lay it away and forget it.

Do you think that the postmaster is going to wear out his young life in devouring literature that the sender doesn't feel proud of when he receives it? Nay, nay.

During our official experience we have been placed where we could have read postal cards again and again, and no one but the All Seeing Eye would have detected it, but we have controlled ourselves and closed our eyes to the written message, refusing to take any advantage of the confidence reposed in us by the government and those who trusted it with their secrets.

All over our great land every moment of the day or night these little cards are being silently scattered, breathing loving words inscribed with a hard lead pencil, and shedding information upon sundered hearts, and they are as safe as though they had never been breathed.

They are safer in most instances because they cannot be read by anybody in the whole wide world.

That is why it irritates us to have some one open up a conversation by saying:

"You remember what that fellow wrote me from Belleville on that postal card of the 25th, and how he rounded me up for not sending him those goods?"

Now, we can't keep all these things in our head. It requires too much of a strain to do it on the salary we receive. a man with a very large salary and a tenacious memory might keep track of the postal card correspondence in a small office, but we cannot do it. We are not accustomed to it, and it rattles and excites us.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.

One of the greatest astronomical epochs of the century occured on Wednesday the 6th of December. The planet Venus then made her way across the sun's disk, and Canadian observers were this time on the right side of the earth to behold the rare phenomenon. The actual sight of the transit, except for its bearing on science, possesses no special interest. It is not a glorious spectacle, like a total solar eclipse, nor a weird combination of celestial beauty, like a total lunar eclipse, nor an awe-inspiring exhibition of omnipotent power, like a grand aurora, nor a startling display of celestial pyrotechnics, like a downfall of meteors, nor a sudden apparition of a great comet sweeping the skies with its gossamer tail.

A tiny black spot cut into the sun's border, moved slowly over his disk, and after a passage of nearly six hours suddenly disappeared. This is all that was preceptable to the naked-eye observer. But to the astronomer and the telescopist the event is full of the deepest significance. Though its instrumentality a solution is sought of one of the noblest problems ever elaborated by the highest exercise of human reason. To measure the unapproachable is the point at issue, and never, in any previous combat with immensity, have astronomers had at their command such resources for becoming victorious in the contest. The labor demanded was of the most severe and delicate nature, even when assisted by the most perfect instruments that have been invented. The utmost accuracy is required, or the result will be a failure. Measurements must be accumulated like grains of sand upon the seashore. Thousands of observations are often required in correcting an infinitesimal error. The grand object for which nearly one hundred transit expeditions have been organized, is to acquire the right of adding or subtracting less than one-tenth of a second to the solar parallax, from which the sun's distance from the earth is deduced.

The 6th of December was therefore a great day in the annals of the nineteenth century. Transit observers did their utmost to obtain a more accurate determination of the sun's distance. If they did not reach perfect success, and there is little hope of such a result, they will have the satisfaction of feeling that they are laboring in a noble cause, for the observations made during 1882 will be a rich legacy to aid the astronomers who, 122 years hence, will observe the next transit in 2004.

$10,000 DAMAGES FOR A RAT BITE.

The Rev. George W. Baker and his wife, Mrs. Caroline H. Baker, have instituted suit against Mr. W. A. Huff, proprietor of the Markham House Hotel, Atlanta, Georgia, for $10,000 as damages for several bites from a rat which Mrs. Baker received while a guest of the Markham, in June last. In the petition, which is filed by Mr. Baker, he sets up that he is a Baptist minister, and is engaged in the sale of books of a religious character, and at the time of the injury for which he seeks damages his wife was selling a book, on every subscription to which she received a dollar and a half to to two dollars in commissions; that her average monthly earnings were $200 up to the time she was bitten by the rat, and that without that injury she would have continued to earn that amount. In the month of June Mrs. Baker, in the prosecution of her work, came to Atlanta, and became the guest of the Markham, of which hotel Mr. Huff is the proprietor. She was assigned to a room on the second floor, which she describes as one of the highest priced rooms in the house. At night she retired after extinguishing the light; when suddenly she felt the cover on the bed move. She reached out her left hand, when her arm was seized by a large rat, which she says was so infuriated that before she could take the hand away she was bitten in eight places. The wounds became inflamed, and the arm became badly swollen, and erysipelas set in. The arm appeared as if it would mortify, and it seemed that Mrs. Baker would lose it, and perhaps her life. Mr. Baker recites the trouble, expense and pain which have been caused to himself and wife, and puts the damages at $10,000, $600, of which is set down as an actual loss, as what would have been his wife's earnings for three months, and $500 as an expense for medical attention. Mr. Baker says that Mr. Huff should have kept his beds free from vermin.

NAILING A LIFE.

George Manson, the lunatic, who confined in goal at Parry Sound drove a couple of three-inch nails into his brain, died on Sunday, 70 hours after completing his operation. Up to a late hour Saturday night he was well as usual, ate heartily, smoked, and talked quite rationally, but during the night of Saturday he sank into a heavy stupor from which it was almost impossible to arouse him; continued getting worse, and died at a few minutes past six o'clock Sunday evening. Dr. Walton, the physician who extracted one of the nails and failed to get the other out, held an inquest, which, however, eventually adjourned sine die without rendering a verdict. It appears that no post mortem investigation took place, at any rate no medical testimony was offered, and when the jury unanimously requested that another doctor be summoned to give evidence as to the immediate cause of Manson's death, the coroner refused to comply, saying that it was optional with himself as to whether or not he would call medical testimony and he did not consider it necessary to do so. The coroner's action creates a good deal of comment.

WOMAN HER OWN PROTECTOR.

The plucky struggle made by Mrs. Crosby, of Throg's Neck, New York, against a burglar several nights ago was an illustration of woman's ability to defend herself in case of emergency. Mrs. Crosby had no assistance whatever, her pistol being unloaded and her dog being called away by the frightened children, but she fought the intruder—a soldier—with such arms as nature had provided, and finally she threw the ruffian downstairs and drove him away. Such experiences are not pleasant; a strong man would prefer to avoid any such struggle even by daylight; but as woman as well as men are liable to encounter burglars at unexpected times it will be well for them to remember Mrs. Crosby's victory and that what woman has done woman can do. There is but one adverse criticism to be made upon Mrs. Crosby's defence of her home—her pistol was unloaded, but it is safe to believe that it never again will be so, and that other ladies who are provided with firearms will see that the weapons are ready for use against burglars.

Reform Convention.

Reformers in these ridings will be interested in knowing that Hon. Mr. Mowat has summoned a Liberal Convention to meet in the city of Toronto, on the 3rd and 4th of January, 1883. We hope the friends of good government in these ridings will see the necessity of taking prompt action to secure a full and representative attendance from this section. In the coming elections the Mowat Administration will have to meet the opposition of local Toryism and the power of the Dominion Government; therefore, the necessity of thorough organization, must be apparent to all.

THE REVIEW'S FACTS.

There are two ways which critics disposed to be unfair attempt to mislead the public. One is falsifying the facts; the other is so stating them as to suggest to the reader a false inference. Of the two methods the latter is the meaner and more cowardly, and—probably just because it is so—it is the favorite trick resorted to by the Review in its exposition of the record of the Mowat administration. We propose to justify this description of our contemporary's method by a brief reference to its treatment of the increase which has taken place in the annual expenditure of the Province.

The plan adopted is to print in parallel columns the amounts expended for certain purposes in 1871, and the corresponding amounts expended for the same purposes in 1881. The latter are of course considerably larger, and the inference is suggested that just because they are so, the administration of public affairs must have been characterised by extravagance, if not by corruption. We may say just at this point that the trick has not even the merit of originality; in resorting to it the Review is simply appropriating the method adopted in that ridiculous production, the pamphlet prepared by Senator Macpherson on the eve of the general election of 1879. Let us examine a little more minutely the nature of the Macpherson patent as revamped by the Review. The following are the more important details of the expenditure of the Province on current account in 1871 and 1881, respectively:—

	1871.	1881.
Civil Government	$114,613	$174,803
Colonization Roads	55,409	97,289
Legislation	94,177	178,964
Administration of Justice	182,621	251,119
Asylum Maintenance	149,713	393,792
Penetanguishene Reformatory	21,710	33,398
Immigration	29,712	34,826
Agriculture and Mechanics' Institutes	74,927	106,936
Hospitals & Charities	40,260	78,092
Education	351,306	502,824
Central Prison		70,159
Mercer Reformatory		24,072
Agricultural College		25,354

Subjecting some of these items to a very cursory examination what do we find? Take, for example, the expenditure under the head of "civil government." If the increase is justifiable, no charge against the Government can be based upon it. If it is not justifiable it should be easy for the Review to show that it is not. In the first place it is obvious that as the province expands, the amount of departmental business must increase, and a larger staff of employees must be kept for the purpose of doing it. Every one knows that during the decade chosen by the Review for purposes of comparison, Ontario made very rapid progress, that the area of settlement expanded, that new bureaus were erected and old ones enlarged, that the amount of correspondence carried on was enormously increased. This will account very largely for the increase of expenditure, but this is not all. Mr. Sandfield Macdonald organized the civil service of the Province on a scale, which he would himself have been compelled to enlarge in respect of salaries, as well as members. One of the first acts of the Liberal party after they came into power was to increase the salaries of the civil servants. This was no act of favor to political friends but an act of simple justice to political opponents, and the increase was cordially assented to by the then Conservative opposition. This fact recalls to mind the base treachery of the Conservative opposition of 1879. During the session preceding the general election of that year Mr. Meredith moved for a general reduction of the civil service salaries, with a view to making some capital against the Government. The Government, as a matter of party tactics, would have been justified in assenting to a proposal from the Conservative party to have the salaries of their friends in office cut down, but they had the manliness to resist it, though they knew that some of those whom they were thus protecting were plotting their overthrow and aiding the opposition all they could. Had they assented to a reduction then the Review would have had less chance of making claptrap comparisons now, and public servants of the Review's own stripe would have been so much the more shortened all these years. We leave the thinking public to judge of the degree of decency in those who in view of the history of this item in the Public Accounts, can complacently seek to forge out of it a weapon against a government that was willing to risk defeat rather than allow political opponents to suffer.

The next item is the expenditure on colonization roads. No service in the whole of the Public Accounts has been so much investigated as this one has been. Several aspects of it have been probed in the Public Accounts Committee, and on it several want-of-confidence motions have been based. If a single dollar of the appropriation has been in any one year of the ten misspent, surely the Review ought to be able to show it; if there is no charge of misspending them the mere increase is not necessarily to be condemned. The year 1871 was the last of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald's administration, and that gentleman was naturally anxious to make as good a financial showing for himself as possible. It is well known also that owing to the absorption of the crown domain by settlement elsewhere, the pressure of expanding population became more strongly felt in Muskoka, Parry Sound and Algoma districts. It would have been useless to invite settlers to go into these comparatively rough localities without first constructing those great leading highways, known as colonization roads. The further settlement runs back the larger the annual milage of new roads required and the more costly the work of making them. As a matter of fact a sudden increase took place in the very first year of the Liberal regime, for we find that whereas only $55,409 was spent in 1871, no less than $75,799 was spent in 1872, and only $97,289 in 1881. This means nothing more than that the comparatively parsimonious policy of Mr. Sandfield Macdonald was perceived by his successors to be a mistake unless a large part of the Province were to remain a wilderness impenetrable to settlement. And so far from the Review being able to say even that this locality has been neglected, its complaint is rather that the expenditure on the Midland colonization roads has been timed so as to affect, if possible, the general elections.

We do not propose to go through the whole of the expenditures in this article and shall therefore refer to only one more item, that of immigration. Taking even the years 1871 and 1881 it will be seen that the increase is trifling, but more significant still is the fact that during some of the intervening years it was much larger, running up in 1872 to no less a sum than $57,750. The truth of the matter is that in the earlier years of the Liberal administration, it was considered by all parties desirable to get as many immigrants into the country as possible, and more money was spent than would now be deemed expedient with a view to securing this result. But public opinion has for some years past been undergoing a change in this respect. There has been a growing tendency to question the utility of expenditures made to secure immigrants unless there is good reason to believe that they come to stay. All assistance for passages has been discontinued except from Quebec to points in Ontario, and only those who undertake to stay are assisted even to that extent. As a rule they are never lost sight of until they are placed in situations or located on farms, and no money is spent for any purposes except those just specified. The expenditure is kept as low as possible consistent with efficiency and the kind of work done is of a desirable kind.

We have only to say here in conclusion that at two general elections—in 1875 and 1879—the Mowat government went to the country on these same issues. On both occasions they were called upon to explain and defend all their expenditures. They did so most proudly, and with what result? In 1875 they were returned with a majority of nearly twenty; in 1879 they came back with a majority of over thirty. If Senator Macpherson's ponderous artillery could accomplish no more than this in 1879, how much is the Review's pop-gun likely to accomplish in 1883? Any school-boy could predict the result of this kind of assault.

Dodging Responsibility.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Review is exceedingly sensitive. It has begun to cry out before it is hit. From the fear that its ill-timed, wild, and overdrawn attempts to injure the Mowat administration, and thereby influence public opinion in favor of the Conservative candidate, may rather tend to injure him, it hastens to relieve him of responsibility respecting them. It is well known that the political writing for the Review is nearly, if not entirely done by Mr. Carnegie, but with regard to that we have little to say. Mr. Carnegie is the Conservative candidate in this riding, and whatever of political utterances, distorted as are the facts, and glaring the misstatements, published by the Review, are published with the sole intention of promoting his return. We therefore hold him responsible for these utterances, and shall continue to do so, so long as he continues to be a candidate. When a newspaper proprietor pitchforks himself upon a party as their candidate, he cannot expect to shield himself behind "journalistic etiquette" from having his utterances, whether of sanctum or stump, canvassed and criticised. The anxiety of the Review that Mr. Carnegie the candidate should not be held responsible for what Mr Carnegie, the editor, writes, is a plain confession that it has made misstatements that will be awkward for the candidate to justify. Mr. Carnegie is either responsible for the articles that appear in the Review or he is not If he is not and is, as the Review would seem to indicate, afraid they will do him harm, if he is ashamed of them, then let him repudiate them, which perhaps is the wiser thing for him to do.

POLITICAL.

Text of the Liberal Convention Circular.

The following circular letter has been sent to the President and Secretary of every Riding Liberal Association in Ontario. If there have been recent changes in the personnel of these offices it will be received by the old officers, who will doubtless see that it gets into the proper hands:—

P. O. Box 2 679.
TORONTO, 6th Dec., 1882.

DEAR SIR,—You will by this mail receive a circular letter from the Honourable Mr. Mowat, asking you to take the necessary steps towards calling meetings of our friends in each municipality of your constituency for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the Liberal Convention to be held in Toronto on the 3rd and 4th of January 1883.

In order that you may the more easily be able to give all the requisite information and instructions, allow me to make the following explanations and suggestions.

1. The basis of representation will be the municipality; and from each municipality at least six delegates should be selected. Of course more may be sent, for it is desirable that the delegation from each municipality should be as large and representative as practicable.

2. Meetings in each municipality for the selection of such delegates should be duly called for some day in the week before Christmas, if at all possible.

3. The President and Secretary of each Riding Association will of course be expected to see that the meetings in the municipalities for the selection of delegates are duly called and in due time.

4. There will be sent forms of credentials for you to distribute which will be signed by the Chairman and Secretary of such meeting and handed to the appointed delegates. Upon presenting those credentials at the Convention, certificates will be given admitting the bearer to all the meetings and to the privileges of special railway fare.

5. All Liberal members of the Dominion House of Commons and of the Local Legislature, as well as those who have been candidates in the Liberal interest for both Houses, and the officers of the riding and municipality Liberal Associations will be ex-officio members of the Convention.

6. So soon as the delegates are chosen in each municipality, would you kindly send a list at once to me at the above adress. In order that all arrangements may be completed before the morning of the Convention.

I have the honour to be,
Faithfully yours,
WM. JOHNSTON,
Secretary.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "Improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (66)

METHODIST UNION.

Sittings of the Union Committee—The "Rubicon" Crossed.

A long Strike Towards its Accomplishment.

The Union Committee of the different Methodist bodies in Canada, the Canada Methodist, Episcopal Methodist, Primitive Methodist, and Bible Christian, met in Toronto last week, Bishop Carman of the Episcopal Methodists, in the chair.

The first day was chiefly devoted to organization, but the report of the committee on Lay Delegation, was presented and the first clause, providing for the election of a lay delegate at the annual district meeting was passed, and further discussion deferred.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The committee of ministers and laymen endeavoring to settle upon a basis upon which the different branches of Methodism can unite at to-days sittings discussed at great length the question of lay delegation. The Committee on Lay Delegation reported recommending that laymen shall be eligible for election to all Annual Conference committees, with the exception of the stationing committee, but the presence of laymen at the examination of ministerial character was strenuously opposed. The clause containing this recommendation was finally laid on the table until the question of composition comes before the body.

THIRD DAY—THURSDAY.

To-days proceedings of the Union Committee will be found to be of unusual interest. Substantial advance has been made in the process of forming a basis of union, and it now seems certain that the onus of rejecting the plan and continuing the present state of affairs will be thrown on the laity first, and the ministers in the Annual Conferences next. The two points which seemed of paramount importance to the Primitive Methodists and the Bible Christians on the one hand, and the Methodist Episcopal Church on the other, have both been conceded in the lowest forms the three Churches could accept, and in the highest which the Methodist Church of Canada could grant. With the former bodies the principle of lay delegation is the sine qua non, and, while they contended for this being applied to the Stationing Committee, they have accepted it in the limited form of equal lay representation with the ministers in the Annual Conferences. The Methodist Episcopal delegation are bound down by the terms of their constitution to perpetuate the itinerant superintendency, and just enough to keep them out of litigation has been granted. It may now be said that the "Rubicon has been crossed," and the difficulties to be met are chiefly in detail and economic in their character.

FOURTH DAY—FRIDAY.

The Union Committee had only two meetings to-day, the business done not having the same importance as that of the previous day. Considerable progress was made, however, with the regulations for the organization of the Annual Conference, the constitution of the Stationing Committee having been agreed on. The Committee on Educational Interests reported that there will not be any seriously embarrassing circumstances attending the re-arrangement of this part of the Church's work. The Committee now appears to have admitted the principles upon which all the questions turn, and a basis of union being arrived at, is almost certain to be agreed upon; indeed many of the members are disposed to return to their homes in the full assurance that all that was worth contending for has been settled.

FIFTH DAY—SATURDAY.

The proceedings of the Methodist Union Committee on Saturday were chiefly confined to the completion of the organization of the General and Annual Conferences. The latter subject was reconsidered, and clauses which had previously passed the Committee and been definitely adopted was taken up again, and extensive changes made in the phraseology, though the principles were not touched. The whole afternoon session was taken up with the latter subject.

VILLIERS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A public meeting was called the other night in the Music Hall here, for the purpose of organizing a singing class, under the tutorship of Mr. Brown. A class of fifteen was formed, and instruction to the class will begin next Thursday at the Music Hall, when it is expected there will be large additions to the membership. There is every prospect of a successful course of instruction being carried on.

QUICK-WITTED.

A Georgia paper illustrates the quickness of the negro in learning, by the following incident:

A few days ago, a hog belonging to a negro in Rockdale County got out of its pasture and crept into a white man's field. Under the stock law the owner of the stock has to pay for damage; so the white man charged the negro two dollars damages, which was the value of the hog.

The negro told the white man to take the hog, but the next night the animal got out of the white man's pen and crept into the negro's field.

The negro drove him out, and took him home, then sent for the white man and charged him two dollars for damages.

The white man refused to pay it, and the hog is now the property of the negro. The hog has changed owners twice, and not a cent of money has been paid out.

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure, in the transaction of business.

For the Christmas Trade!

Furs! Furs! Furs!

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipsig, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR RAW FURS!

WILLIAM LECH.

1882. CHRISTMAS! 1882.

It is now the season of the year when people who are contemplating making purchases for Christmas and New Year's Presents, begin to study where they can lay out their money to the best advantage. There are several points to be considered. FIRSTLY: where they can find the best variety of New, Fresh Goods, suitable to their tastes. SECONDLY: where they can get the best value for their money. THIRDLY: where the quality can be perfectly relied upon. FOURTHLY: where they can deal with confidence and feel quite sure that there will be no misrepresentations made to them of the quality of the goods they wish to buy.

THE ABOVE CONSIDERATIONS CAN BE SATISFACTORILY FULFILLED BY MAKING YOUR PURCHASES AT

R. W. MUNCASTER'S
JEWELLERY STORE,
Cluxton's Block, George St. Peterborough

Where you will find the Stock Complete in every Department, and for Price, Quality, Novelty of Design, and Reliability, unsurpassed. Amongst the immense Stock will be found a full line of GOLD and SILVER WATCHES at all Prices and Makes. GOLD JEWELLERY in Necklets and Lockets, Watch Chains, Guards, and Alberts, Breast Pins, Scarf Pins, Charms, Bracelets. Brooches and Earrings set with Diamonds, Garnets, Aqua Marines, Turquoise and Pearls. GOLD RINGS. Ladies' Gold Rings mounted with Real Stones, in every conceivable design. Wedding Rings in all sizes and prices at a High Standard of Quality. Gold Keeper Rings in Chased, Engraved and Chased, and Engraved. SILVER JEWELLERY in all styles of Brooches, Earrings, Lockets, Chains, Necklets, &c.

SILVER PLATED WARE.

The above line of Goods are being cut upon so much of late that the Quality has become quite a secondary matter with some dealers. Their whole aim is centred in presenting a showy and trashy article, which will catch the eye and which will not wear much longer than a good quality of Pewter. Such a quality as that I do not keep at all. I have nothing but the best Quadruple Plate, made by the leading American Manufacturers, whose reputation is the result of supplying a first-class article to the public for the last fifty years. The Stock of Plated Ware consists of all the Latest Designs in Cruets, Butter Dishes, Card Receivers, Cake Baskets, Pickle Stands, Knives & Forks, Spoons in Tea, Table and Dessert, and Fancy Articles, suitable for Presents.

WATCH REPAIRING This Department is one which is sadly neglected in the average Jewellery Store. The object sought to be attained is to make as much money as possible out of customers by charging exhorbitant Prices and procuring cheap workmen. My reputation for work has been achieved by always doing GOOD, RELIABLE WORK, and charging a moderate figure for it, so that people leaving Watches with me for Repairs, know that they can rely on all work leaving my hands. THE MINOR BRANCHES of the Jewellery business not named above, are all carefully attended to by myself, and the system I have adopted in business has convinced people that any goods bought from me are always in every respect to be relied upon for Quality, Workmanship, Cheapness and Variety. THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC, as experienced by me in the large volume of trade done and which is steadily increasing, say that they appreciate my efforts to establish a Jewellery Store where they can buy goods without any hesitation, knowing that Muncaster's goods are of a standard which is always the highest, and that anything bought from him never fails to be exactly as represented.

DO NOT FAIL TO INSPECT MY IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE DECIDING ON YOUR PURCHASES.

Do not fail to Remember that MUNCASTER'S Jewellery Store is in Cluxton's Block, George Street, Peterborough.

McKEE & DAVIDSON

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 7, 1882.

To Holiday Buyers.

We beg to call the attention of our numerous readers to the holiday advertisements contained in this issue. They comprise the announcements of the most prominent, pushing and enterprising business men in town, such as we can recommend to public patronage with the greatest degree of confidence. We believe their advertisements are honest announcements of their facilities for supplying the public with seasonable wares and goods. We not only recommend our readers to give these advertisers the preference, but advise them, we believe, in their own interests, to patronize only those whose advertisements are to be found in these pages. We have an intimate knowledge of the whole of our advertisers, and have no doubt that their advertised stock, and their dealings with the public, will justify the most cordial commendation of them and their wares which we can make.

The advertisers of a town are the men who do the business of the town, and as the latter furnishes both a first class market to our country friends and a well stocked "base of supplies," it is therefore no more than fair that the men—the advertisers, who do the most towards making the town such should receive the undivided patronage of the surrounding country.

Effects of Protection.

The process of disenchantment in the matter of a high protective tariff is beginning to take place generally. In the United States the people have, in the recent elections, emphatically expressed their disapproval of the injury and injustice of a high tariff by throwing overboard the protectionist Republicans and electing by overwhelming majorities the low tariff Democrats. But mutterings of discontent which are gradually but surely growing more distinct are very plain in Canada. This is how a maritime province journal, the Moncton, New Brunswick, Transcript, talks about the Tilley tariff:—"The N. P. is an oppressive burden, and no amount of talk can make it otherwise. The people feel it to be a burden, and are bitter in condemnation of it. The oil, flour and meat tax is especially felt. That there is an abundance of smuggling there is no doubt, and must be as long as things are as they are. Smuggling is eating into the very life of the people, and dwarfing and undermining the spiritual life of the churches. The body of the people feel the law to be unjust and they do not hesitate to go through it when they get the chance. The present harrassing, oppressive fiscal laws are a premium to wrong-doing, and instead of our rulers making it easy to do right and difficult to do wrong, they have reversed that well-known axiom. It cannot be politically just to tax one class for the benefit of another. It cannot be righteous to enrich the rich at the expense of the poor; or to help those who can well help themselves, by taking from those who find life a struggle to exist. Blot out a few pages of the New Testament, then sophistry might, by specious arguments, give a semblance of justice and reason for the N. P., but as long as the New Testament is the acknowledged rule of right action, so long will it condemn the law made by man in the interest of the rich at the expense of the poor. The present prosperity is owing to the high price of fish, which the N. P. has no more to do with than the "man in the moon," as to creating it, but the N. P. has much to do with it in lessening the degree of prosperity enjoyed. The demand for fish in the United States and the West Indies is the main cause of the temporary prosperity we are enjoying.

St. Andrew's Day Dinner.

The Hospitalities of the Phelan House—A Pleasant "Gathering of the Clans"—Toasts, Songs, Speeches.

The members of the St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough, and other local Scots, celebrated the anniversary of the Patron Saint of Scotland, St. Andrew, by a splendid banquet at the Phelan House, on last Thursday night. A very large number surrounded the bountifully laden and tastefully disposed tables of mine host Snowden, of the Phelan House, which were worthy of all the praise so freely bestowed on them by the guests.

After the removal of the viands by the appreciative appetites of the guests, followed by the removal of the cloth, the succeeded. The chair was filled by Mr. Thomas Telford, President of the Society. The first and second Vice-Presidents, Messrs. John Paterson and A. Hewie, occupying the first and second vice-chairs respectively.

INTELLECTUAL PROGRAMME

"The Queen," was, of course, the first toast proposed, and was drunk with all the honors, as might be expected from loyal Scotchmen. Song, "God save the Queen."

"The Governor General and Princess Louise." Song, Mr. Gallstly—"Hail to the Chief."

"The Day and all who honor it." Mr. William Telford briefly responded, and concluded with the hope that all present would long be spared to honor the return of St. Andrew's Day.

He was followed by Dr. Kincaid, who, though a native of the Green Isle, was proud to say that he had Scotch blood in his veins. He believed such days could be honored in such a way as to impute nothing of disloyalty to Canada in their observance. The traditions of Scotland, he said, were the traditions of civilization in every part of the world. He referred to the prominent and foremost positions taken by Scotchmen in all quarters of the globe. He alluded to the fact that Scotchmen had ruled this country for the past fifth of a century, but he added, good-naturedly and truthfully, that it was time Canadians took their place.

Song—"Allister McAllister," by Mr. H. Bowie.

Mr. Hewie next proposed the toast, "The Heroes and Bards of Scotland." The roll of Scotland in both these capacities was a long and glorious one, but she still had heroes and bards, for Egypt had only recently brought out the former, and before the evening was over it might be shown that she still had bards.

Mr. Gallstly gave in fine style the song—"Scotland for me."

Mr. William Telford.

THE SOCIETY'S BARD

then favored the company with a reading of the following lines composed for the evening:

SCOT, WAD YE NA LIKE TO GANG BACK?

LINES FOR THE PETERBOROUGH ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY, NOV. 30, 1882.

O wad ye no like to gang back
To Scotia's wave beat strand,
Another wee bit keek to tak'
Of your auld native land:
There is within ilk leal true Scot
A laughin' wish, I wean,
To view anes mair that dear auld spot
Before death shuts his een.

How quick your true Scotch heart wad beat
Big tears of joy doon fa',
And ye wad loup wi' supple feet
Fra' the byre at the Broom claw:
To tread auld Scotia's hills anew,
The land of life's first spring,
'Twas there the raw Scotch milk ye drew,
First heard your mither sing.

How wad ye rub your een, I wot,
Like a youth at early morn,
To view again the auld thatched cot
That dear auld you were born:
And wade again that wimplin burn
Aft washed your youthfu' feet,
Or climb the craig's steep windin' turn
And pu the bruntsie sweet.

To peep into the auld skule house,
Where you learned your A B C's,
And chowed at times to shift the loose
Playin' marbles on your knees;
Speal up the hill among the broom,
Amo nut-trees to gather
A muckle bunch in brichtest bloom
Of Scotia's scented heather.

To tread again that silent glen
Where your forefathers staid,
Step gently on the soil which then
Drank up their dear heart's bluid;
With throbbin' heart and tearfu' ee
Walk o'er that sacred sward,
That auld stone marks some dear to thee,
Laid in that auld kirkyard.

Auld freends, auld cronies meet again,
With them ye aft did play,
Death thinned the ranks, those that remain
Their heads are turning gray.
For ilk true Scot I'll pledge my vows—
Ask his wish if ye please—
'Tis that he may tread Scotia's knowes
Ance mair afore he dees.

Though sunnier climes may be his lot,
He richer soil may claim,
He still looks back to that thatched cot,
His auld Scotch hame.
Though he has routs o'good and gear,
Land stock and a' thaithber,
His thochts gang back to days mair dear
When he toddled wi' his mither.

Man that forgets his place of birth,
Whether English, Irish, Scot,
Is only but a blank on earth,
Lives, dies and is forgot.
Perhaps but few that's sittin' here
Scotia again will see,
Still let us hand her memory down
Wherever our hames may be.

Though een grow dim, auld age prevail,
Same heads both gray and bauld,
Let not your love for Scotia fail,
Nor distance mak' it cauld.
It's only on nic nichts as this
The Scottish tensue gets bent;
Sent tells to flect the days o' bliss
They in old Scotia spent.

Perhaps we never back may gang
Her hills and glens to see,
Here let us lilt the gud Scotch sang
On Scotia fair and free;
No matter where you spend your days,
O dinna forget to gather
Upon St. Andrew's night to praise
Auld Scotia's hills o' heather.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, in proposing "The House of Commons and Local Legislature," said there were in both bodies men of broad views, who favoured the enactment of beneficial laws; and he had great pleasure in coupling with the toast the name of Dr. Kincaid.

Dr. Kincaid did not claim to be a politician, but he simply entered public life to assist at beneficial legislation. Hardly any deliberative body held more clever debaters than Hon. Edward Blake and Sir Charles Tupper. Canada was taking her place in the front rank among the nations, and though he, a Conservative, said it, he believed the finances of Ontario were in a sound condition, and that the Government had passed good legislation.

Mr. W. Cummings then gave the toast of "The Mayor and Corporation of Peterborough." The town was blessed with both a good Mayor and a good Council, and was therefore in a prosperous condition. The Mayor was unfortunately absent from town.

Song—Mr. Hewie, "Jockie and Maggie."

Song Mr. Bowie, "When the Auld Man Cam Hame."

"The Army, Navy and Volunteers," were briefly responded to by Mr. J. R. Stratton, who referred to the laurels gathered by them in every land, and payed a handsome tribute to our volunteer force.

Song—"Battle of the Baltic," Mr. Gallstly.

"The Learned Professions," was eloquently replied to by Dr. Kincaid, in a few remarks, which involved a graceful tribute to Canadian educational institutions.

Dr. Kincaid in proposing "The Press" spoke of the EXAMINER and Review in terms of high praise.

Messrs. J. R. Stratton and S. R. Armstrong, replied to the toast in fitting terms, on behalf of the two papers respectively.

"The Ladies," was gallantly proposed and enthusiastically honored.

Song—Mr. Hewie, "Wouldn't I Like to Marry!"

To "The Host and Hostess," who were well worthy of the honor, Mr. Snowdon briefly replied.

"The President and Officers of the St. Andrew's Society," brought to their feet Messrs. Telford, Patterson, Cummings and Hewie.

To "The Sister Societies," Messrs. Stratton and Butler briefly responded.

"God Save the Queen," was sung, followed by "Auld Lang Syne" in the good old style.

This brought the proceedings of one of the most successful St Andrew's dinners ever held in Peterborough to a happy close.

ENNISMORE.

WEATHER NOTES FOR NOVEMBER.—With interest do each of us watch the fulfilment of Vennor's predictions, but it being impossible for him to restrict his fore-telling to certain localities, still we must admit that during November, on several occasions, his fore-shadowings came correct. The month now closed has been one of very low temperature, and more inclined to frost than rain. The highest temperature was on the evening of the 10th and morning of the 12th, being 60° at sunset and sunrise respectfully, while we had two cold dips, one on the morning of the 18th, being only 1° above zero, and on the morning of the 28th, when the thermometer showed 7° below zero; making a total average for the month of 27°. One thing is worthy of note, that on the 28th day of November, 1881, same date as the dip this year, the thermometer was 3° below zero, while the average temperature of the month was 34.9°, or nearly 7° above 1882. Rain fell on 7 days to the depth of 1 1/5 inches. Snow fell to the depth of 11½ inches, making a total of water for the month of 3 1/100 inches. But it must be borne in mind both snow and rain fell at the same time on several occasions, thereby making it difficult to keep a true record of the snow. Rain fell on 10 days to the depth of 3½ inches, and snow to the depth of 4½ inches in 1881, presenting us with the fact that although now well in December, wells and swamps are still almost dry, and very few of the creeks as yet running. At the date of writing, December 3rd, there is splendid sleighing, and everything here predicts a busy winter.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keepingboys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

A HOUSEHOLD TRAGEDY.

He loved the fair Louisa Jane,
Louisa J. with warmth returned it;
Her mother heard the preferred suit,
And with a haughty sneer she spurned it.

The mother was counselling stout—
In fact, obese—which made her sulky;
She fairly waddled as she walked,
And every day she grew more bulky.

Louisa whispered to her love,
"If to our side you wish to win her,
Just say to mother when you meet,
That you are sure she's getting thinner."

He vowed he would, but at the time
With fear his tooth began to chatter;
His wretched mind became a blank,
And so he gasped: "You're getting fatter!"

One wild, weird shriek that matron gave,
She dropped that youth in all directions;
And, when her deadly work was done,
They bore him off in several sections.

AGRICULTURAL RETURNS.

INTERESTING FIGURES RESPECTING THIS COUNTY.

We extract from the November report of the Agricultural Returns of the Ontario Bureau of Industries some interesting particulars referring to the East Midland district, which includes the two Peterboroughs. The reports from which this digest has been prepared were made to the Bureau under date of Oct., 25th.

CORN, BUCKWHEAT AND SEED CLOVER.

The East Midland counties produce very little of corn, beans, or buckwheat. Throughout the northern portion corn will scarcely mature. In the more southern parts it was broken down to a considerable extent by the storm at the middle of September. Upon the whole it has turned out better than was expected at the time. Early beans are good; those which were late sown have not done so well; but, except as a garden crop, they are not much grown. The same remark as to early and late sowing applies to the buckwheat; the late sown was considerably damaged by the copious August rains. Not much clover seed is raised at any time throughout this district, but owing to the severe frosts of last spring, which threw out the clover, the crop of seed is this year smaller than ever.

POTATOES, TURNIPS AND OTHER FIELD ROOTS.

The root crop throughout the East Midland counties has been housed in fine order. The quantity will not compare favorably with some other sections, where from five to ten per cent. of the cleared land is under roots, but yet is very fair. Potatoes have been on the whole below an average through the whole district. All the correspondents agree in this except a few in Hastings county. The size has been deficient, however, all over, and many put the yield at fifteen per cent. less than usual. The rot has been troublesome on heavy soils, but as only a small proportion of this group is noted for heavy clay the ravages of the disease have not been extensive. The late planted have turned out better upon the whole than the earlier. Mangolds are gradually finding their way as an ally on the side of turnips, and our reports from this part speaks in high terms of the way in which they stood what is called a dry summer. Indeed the quantity of rainfall has been less over these counties than in many others. Carrots, too, have turned out a good crop. The turnip crop has surprised every one at the rapidity with which it has picked up this fall. Through the eastern part of the district there are complaints of these roots being small and below an average crop. The western, however, shows fully an average yield, but many of the correspondents complain of the small amount of land put under this crop. A great deal depends upon the quantity of stock kept the acre. As this is increased the acreage under roots will increase with it.

THE NEW CROP OF FALL WHEAT.

The East Midland counties vary as to the amount of fall wheat that is grown in them. Very little is sown over Hastings, the east of Peterboro', and Haliburton, the proportion mentioned by our correspondents being almost invariably abut five per cent. Rye throughout that portion of this district is a very common crop, and is this fall looking well, having been got in fine condition. In Victoria and the west of Peterboro' a large area of land is put under fall wheat. Over the former part of the district this crop was last season pretty thoroughly winter-killed, so that the encouragement to sow this fall was not very great. The crop over the western part of the group was better. Upon the whole our correspondents agree in saying that about twenty per cent. more land has this year been put under fall wheat than was last year sown. The summer fallows were in most excellent condition, but the barley or pea stubble was not in such good trim. The harvest being later, time of sowing was from a week to ten days later than usual. The soil at seeding time was dry, but the warmth of September and October has brought the plants well forward, and they present just now a fine appearance. That which was sown the earliest looks the best. A great many of our correspondents assure us that the acreage under fall wheat throughout these East Midland counties is annually increasing. No injury is reported from the ravages of the Hessian fly except in one township of Victoria county, and there it did no great harm. The soil through this group of counties is very full of lime, warm and sharp, though in many parts exceedingly stony. The sample of grain, therefore, is as a usual thing very fine.

THRESHING, MARKETING, FALL PLOUGHING.

Through a large portion of the East Midland counties the principal market is the camp of the lumberman. Though not so exclusively so as a few years ago, when lumbering operations were more extensive, the forests greater, and farming not so widely practised, it is yet true to all the northern part of this district. The lateness of the harvest has kept back threshing operations. Barley is the the great crop in the southern part of the eastern portion of this district. Very little of No. 1 was this year produced, and as that is about the only kind readily saleable at a fair price not so much has found its way to market. Prices of both barley and wheat have fallen so low that not much, if any, more than one-third of the crop has so far been sold. The lateness of the harvest, the threshing operations, and the hardness of the ground have retarded fall ploughing. But with good November weather the usual amount will be done—the more especially as little time has been spent in marketing grain.

LIVE STOCK, MEAT SUPPLIES, THE DAIRY INTEREST.

There has not been the same quantity of rain throughout the East Midland counties as in some other parts of the Province. The pastures towards the close of the season, therefore began to feel the effects of the drought. But, upon the whole, whilst not perhaps heavy they have been very good in this section. As a consequence stock have gone into winter quarters in fine condition. Not many cattle are fattened in this group of counties. The majority or those in fair condition have been sold off the grass—here and there a little meal having first been given. There will be a few left to fatten in the stalls and exported. The majority of those now remaining will be sold before Christmas. Sheep are about an average in number, and above it in quality. The most of the surplus of them, however, have been already disposed of in this section. There is a greater quantity of hogs fattened through this part of the Province than of any other kind of stock. The number this year is fully up to the average, and a large quantity of pork will be ready for disposal in another month. The supply of butter just now in the greater portion of this district is scarcely up to the average. There will, however, be quite a quantity for export. Very little cheese is made except in the southern portion of Hastings county, where the cheese industry is a very prominent one and cheese factories numerous. On the whole, the exports of animals and their products from this district will be very limited—a large portion of the supply will go out only to the lumbermen.

DRAINAGE OF FARM LANDS.

Underdraining has not made any great progress throughout the East Midland counties. Over Haliburton, North Hastings, North Peterboro', and North Victoria it would not be expected. In South Hastings, around Peterborough town, and through South Victoria a little has been done. As many correspondents remark, the farmers are but waking up to the great advantages of thorough underdraining. Those who have had the opportunity all agree in testifying that seeding was from eight to ten days earlier on drained than undrained lands. One esteemed correspondent in Victoria county expresses his belief thus: "I venture the assertion that there are not fifty acres of property underdrained land in this county." But he must be mistaken, for other correspondents mention various sections of Victoria in which underdraining is going on. The materials used are cedar rails, hemlock boards, stones and tile. The latter is the more commonly used, though the number of tile makers through the whole of the East Midland counties would seem not to be more than a dozen. This year there has been a greater number of drains put in than for many a year before. One valued correspondent in the south of Victoria county says: "This year there has been a great deal of underdraining done. For main drains the material used is hemlock boards, six inches wide, made into a box. It takes off a great deal more water than tile does, and hemlock is lasting. Of course the mouth of the drain should be stone for some five or six yards. For the lateral tile is almost wholly used. There are a few stone drains here, but they do not seem to suit so well. Every year here there is fully double the draining of the year before done."

MANURES AND ARTIFICIAL FERTILIZERS.

The preservation and application of barnyard manure is not sufficiently attended to, according to the accounts of our correspondents, throughout the greater part of the East Midland counties. It is, however, very generally used on the summer fallows and root crops, as well as a top dressing for a meadow in some sections. Throughout the northern portions of Victoria, Peterborough and Hastings, correspondents complain of the carelessness with which the manure is either left in the barnyard, or spread over the land promiscuously in the fall. There is not as much plaster used in this section as in the most of the western and central parts of the Province. Where used it is put on clover and meadows, and is in some of the townships used rather freely on peas. Salt is pretty extensively used, though all agree in saying not so extensively as last year. The same discussion as to its effects is carried on as in other sections. The majority claim that it at least brightens and stiffens the straw, whilst a great many claim, too, that it makes the grain plumper. It has been used principally as a top dressing for wheat and barley in this section. One of our correspondents in Peterboro' puts the matter thus: "Salt has been largely used for the past three years, and applied to barley and wheat. A great difference of opinion exists with regard to the effects produced. Some say they cannot notice any difference in the crop when sown; others say just the opposite. I think the quality of the land has a great deal to do with it—heavy clay seeming to be the most benefitted." Phosphates or other artificial manures do not seem to be at all used in the East Midland counties.

What is a woman worth?—Double you o'man.

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil, taken internally and applied according to special directions, this is the great household panacea for Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Pain, Inflammation, &c. 49-2t

The shorter the tunnel the sweeter the kiss.

Keep it in your family. The best remedy for accidents and emergencies, for Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Soreness, Sore Throat, Croup, Rheumatism, Chilblains, and Pain or Soreness of all kinds, is that marvellous healing remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil. 49-2t

Daughters, Wives, Mothers, look to your health! The many painful and weakening diseases from which you suffer, despairing of a cure, can be remedied by that unfailing regulator and purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters. Ask your Druggist for proof. 49-2t

The fisherman beats the lawyer by weighing fish in its own scales.

Don't Suffer with kidney disease when you can buy at your Druggist's a positive cure. Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure is the only scientific remedial agent for these distressing complaints ever introduced. All Druggists keep it. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 49-2t

Absentmindedness has been considered the mark of a great man, but a fellow never feels very big about it when he lugs a napkin away from the table in his handkerchief pocket.

W. T. Bray, Pharmacist, Wingham, Ont., writes that the sale of Burdock Blood Bitters, has very largely increased in that locality, and adds that he hears very favorable opinions expressed regarding it, and, if time permitted, could send many names of benefitted parties. 49-2t

As an old woman was lately walking through one of the streets of Paris at midnight a patrol called out, "Who's there?" "It is I, patrol," she replied: "Don't be afraid!"

Thousands have used Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure and willingly have testified to the immediate relief it gives after a few doses in kidney troubles, and how a few bottles always effect a permanent cure. No one can afford to be without it. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 49-8t

A lawyer, not over young or handsome, while examining a young lady witness in court, endeavored to perplex her, "Upon my word you are very pretty." The young lady promptly replied, "I would return the compliment if I were not under oath."

John Hays, Credit P. O., says: "His shoulder was so lame for nine months that he could not raise his hand to his head, but by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil the pain and lameness disappeared, and although three months have elapsed, he has not had an attack of it since."

A Wise Maxim.—"A stitch in time saves nine," not only in mending garment, but also in mending health. If Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam were used in the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs, many a "stitch in the side" and many a case of torn lungs might be avoided, that, neglected, rapidly develop into irreparable Consumption. 49-2t

An Ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and a few doses of Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure taken on the first sensation of pain in the region of the kidneys, will effectually ward of Bright's Disease and Stone in the Kidneys and bladder. All Druggists keep it. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 49-8t

Wilson, the celebrated vocalist, was upset one day in his carriage, near Edinburgh. A Scotch paper, after recording the accident, added, "We are happy to state that he was able to appear the following evening in three pieces!"

Mr. Perpetus Boileau, Ottawa, says: "I was radically cured of piles, from which I had been suffering for over two months, by the use of Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I used it both internally and externally, taking it in small doses before meals and on retiring to bed. In one week I was cured, and have had no trouble since. I believe it saved my life."

Amos Hudgin, Toronto, writes: I have been a sufferer from Dyspepsia for the past six years. All the remedies I tried proved useless, until Northrop & Lyman's vegetable discovery was brought under my notice. I have used two bottles with the best results, and can with confidence recommend it to those afflicted in like manner."

A good purgative medicine is one of the absolute necessities of the age. This want has been supplied by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., whose celebrated Cathartic Pills are known to be the safest, surest and best purgative medicine ever offered to the public. They are mild but certain in their effects, and keep the system in good condition.

A young man was intrusted with the money to bring his father home a good family sewing machine. He carried off a neighbor's daughter, married her, and brought her home, declaring she was the best sewing machine he could procure.

Nothing can supply the place of a beautiful silky head of natural hair. It is infinitely more comfortable than switches, and other preparations from the hair of unknown foreigners. What the country wants is reply postal cards, and to save trouble the reply might as well be printed on them in advance by the Government. The words "Verry sorry, but can't pay your bill this week—some other week," would about hit most cases.

The Source of Much Ill-Temper. When your husband comes home in bad humor, jerks off his boots and appears to be generally miserable, do not attribute it to business cares or hard times, but to its real cause—those terrible corns which are constantly annoying him. A word to the wise will be sufficient—buy a bottle of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. His corns will be quickly and painlessly removed, and his gratitude will be unbounded. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor sold everywhere. N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Proprietors.

IN THE CAUSE OF SCIENCE.

"Looking for the comet, were you?" mournfully exclaimed Mrs. Marrowfat.

Julia heard her mother's footsteps, but not in time to withdraw her cheek unobserved from young Mr. Mortimer Percie's vest.

"Yes," responded Julia, not knowing exactly what she said.

"And did you think you would find it in Mr. Percie's waistcoat pocket?"

Julia was silent. At her time of life she could not be expected to answer such a question. It is often a great disadvantage to be young.

GETTING EVEN WITH HIM.

Piron, the French author, having been taken up by the watchman of the night in the streets of Paris, was taken on the following morning before the lieutenant of police, who haughtily interrogated him concerning his business or profession:

"I am a poet, sir," said Piron.

"Oh, oh! a poet are you," said the magistrate, "I have a brother who is a poet."

"Then we are even," said Piron; "for I have a brother who is a fool."

A FORTUNE IN SILVER DOLLARS.

Jane Shaw, with her sister Susan, lived together in quiet life at 1,404 Spruce street, Philadelphia. They had considerable property, but not so much as was expected by their relatives, who were greatly surprised upon the death of Susan Shaw, who survived Jane but a short while, to discover hidden away in two old wooden chests exactly $21,804 silver dollars, which it took the executors and several members of the family three or four hours to count out upon the floor.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said—I will my district paper take, both for my own and family's sake? If such there be, let him repeat, and have the paper to him sent; and if he'd pass a happy winter, he in advance should pay the printer.

A Sure Thing.—In the treatment of Chronic Disease with that great system renovator and restorative, Burdock Blood Bitters, there is no uncertainty as to its action, its curative powers are speedily manifest by its marked effect upon the Liver, the Bowels and the Kidneys. Every dose performing its work in a perceptable manner. 49-2t

Dr. E. L. Sturtevant, speaking of the fecundity of weeds, mentions one vigorous purslane plant which contained nine branches, the average branch fifteen branchlets, the average branchlet 212 seed capsules, one average seed capsule seventy-five seeds, thus making for an estimate a grand total of 2,146,500 seeds.

 "Better be wise by the misfortunes of others than by your own." Take warning in time. Avoid quack nostrums by which thousands annually perish. Use only such remedies as are demonstrated above suspicion, foremost among which is Kidney-Wort. For torpid liver, bowels or kidneys, no other remedy equals it. It is sold in both dry and liquid form by all druggists.

The Niagara Falls Railway and Park Company gives notice of application for a charter of incoporation. It is to build a railway on the bank of the river from Horseshoe Fall to Queenstown, and to construct a tunnel to the top of the hill behind the museum.

"All ladies who may be troubled with nervous prostration; who suffer from organic displacement; who have a sense of weariness and a feeling of lassitude; who are languid in the morning; in whom the appetite for food is capracious and sleep at proper hours uncertain, should have recourse to Mrs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

At a meeting of the Hudson Bay Company held on Tuesday in London, the chairman spoke very cheerfully of the prospect of trading generally, and of the fur trade especially. He intimated that there was good ground for hope that a further return of capital would be made next June on land sales. The report was adopted.

The use of False Hair by ladies is a most disagreeable practice, from not only is it impossible to trace its origin, but also the natural hair is constantly changing while the dead hair retains its color. By the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer on the contrary, the color of the hair is rendered natural and always beautiful, glossy and a venerable crown of glory, every lady should use it, and to gentlemen whose hair is growing thin, it is a necessity. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists. 49-8t

A woman named Fleming, convicted of keeping a house of ill-fame in Toronto, was sentenced to the Mercer Reformatory for six months by the Police Magistrate. This is what these women most dread.

Dr. G. A. Baynes, Editor Public Health Magazine, Montreal, says: "We have now for some time been prescribing Dr. T. B. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya and we must, in justice to the Doctor, state that it is quite equal, if not superior, to any compound of the kind. We have used it in the first stages of phthisis with marked benefit, as also in cases of severe dyspepsia, where everything else had failed, and in many other affections. It is a pleasant preparation, and may be taken for a long time without 'palling' on the stomach."

The Elements of Bone Brain and Muscle, are derived from the blood, which is the grand natural source of vital energy, the motor of the bodily organs. When the circulation becomes impoverished in consequence of weak digestion and imperfect assimilation of the food, which should enrich it, every bodily function flags and the system grows feeble and disordered. When the blood becomes impure, either from the development of inherited seeds of disease, its contamination by bile, or other causes, serious maladies surely follow. A highly accredited remedy for these evils is Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, which eradicates impurities of the blood and fertilizes it by promoting digestion and and assimilation. Moreover, this fine alterative and stomachic exerts a specific action upon the liver, healthfully stimulating that organ to a performance of its secretive duty when inactive, and expelling bile from the blood. It likewise possesses diuretic and depurent properties of a high order, rendering the kidneys active and healthy, and expelling from the system the acrid elements which produce rheumatic pain. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

HOLIDAY PRINTING.—Merchants in want of holiday printing should bring it in soon so as to avoid the rush. New type, borders, etc., just in at the EXAMINER office.

FRIENDSHIP LODGE.—This lodge held a very successful oyster social on Tuesday night, the only drawback having been that some of those who were put down for the programme did not put in an appearance.

STOCK RAFFLE.—Rather larger game than geese and turkeys. There will be raffled for at Newhall's Hotel, (Scott's Corners), on Wednesday, Dec. 20th, at 6 o'clock p.m., a Durham heifer with first-class pedigree. Lunch provided for all ticket holders.

NEW WOOLEN FACTORY.—A new woollen factory for Mr. E. B. Wilson, 60x40 feet, and three stories high is to be erected at once by Mr. T. G. Hazlett, on the vacant lot at the west end of the iron bridge south side of Hunter street. Part of the machinery has been bought and the factory will be running before spring.

A WARNING.—On Monday evening a lad named Thornton, in getting off a double sleigh on which he had stolen a ride on McDonnell street, fell and the rear runners passing over his legs, crushed one of them badly. This will be a warning to this lad, at least, to forego so dangerous a practice.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Nov. 25th 1882, was as follows: Passengers and mails, $6,036.64; freight $16,689.54; total, $22,726.18 as compared with $14,365.77 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $8,360.41; and the aggregate traffic to date is 982,863.63, being an increase of $200.619.15 over 1882.

LODGE ENTERTAINMENT.—On Monday evening Peterborough Lodge of Good Templars, No. 340, gave a very successful entertainment. Readings and recitations were given by Messrs. Strainer, Lightbody and Mowry. Songs were given by Miss Watson and Mr. Sheppard, and two interesting and well presented dialogues were given by other members of the temple. A very pleasant evening was spent.

ANOTHER FIRE.—About eight o'clock on Monday morning the stables of the Stewart House, Mr. T. Cavanagh, proprietor were discovered to be on fire. The engine was at work in fifteen or twenty minutes afer the alarm, but the shed and most of the stables were destroyed. A brick fire wall and the exertions of the firemen, confined the flames to the premises. Mr. Cavanagh loss three or four tons of hay, besides the ordinary contents of a stable, and several hogs, burnt alive. He was protected by an insurance of $700 on a total loss of about $400. The loss of the building to Mr. Cluxton is abont $600 or $800. Insured for $300. Origin of fire unknown.

SOCIAL AND BAZAAR.—To say that the social and bazaar at the residence of Mr. G. A. Cox, on last Friday night, was a success is only a faint indication of the truth. The attendance amounted to almost a crush. There must have been over 350 persons present. The proceeds of the bazaar amounted to $310.53, and the receipts at the door to over $50, making the total amount realized for the Charlotte Street Sunday School over $360. The intellectual entertainment consisted chiefly of music, which was delightfully contributed by the Steinhaur brothers, Victoria College, Cobourg, Messrs. Davis and Heathfield and Misses Walsh, Shaw and Heathfield. All present were pleased with the entertainment and delighted with the graceful and generous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Cox.

THE RE-OPENING TO-MORROW.—The M. W. Grand Master, Mr. Henry Robertson, barrister, Collingwood, and Mr. J. B. King, Grand Secretary, Toronto, will re-open the old Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, No. 13, which ceased to work in 1850, on Friday, the 8th inst. The re-opening will, it is expected, take place with great eclat, as the preparations for the event have been extensive; part of the imposing ceremonies will take place in the afternoon, and between 5 and 6 p.m. the hall will be open to the public to visit and see the elegant furnishings. Mr. D. Belleghem, manufactured the furniture at his extensive factory, and it certainly reflects the greatest credit on his ability to turn out first-class work. Messrs. Munro & Alexander furnished all the carpets. Messrs. Watson & Son did the fresco work with the greatest taste and skill. Mr. G. B. Sprouls has placed in the hall a beautiful collection of art pictures of the latest and finest description. In the evening the brethren will attend a banquet; this lodge starts again with the brightest prospects, having among its membership many of our leading citizens who will, no doubt, give it a standing equal to that which it occupied in 1848-50. To-morrow may be looked forward to with pleasure by the members of Otonabee Lodge No. 13.

GOODS FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—The buyer will, we are sure, find in the stock of W. W. Johnston & Co., a variety of beautiful dress goods of all kinds at marvellously low prices. The most desirable Xmas novelties will be found at this first-class and reliable shop. Call and see.

FINE FURNITURE.—We beg to direct the attention of purchasers of furniture to the advertisement of Mr. D. Belleghem. His stock embraces every line of furniture required either in cottage or castle. The excellence of his work has expanded his business so that he is forced to enlarge his premises. His stock for the fall and winter trade is unusually complete. Give him a call.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.—Messrs. Rastell and Brownell, for two years proprietors of the Dufferin Advertiser have sold the paper and business to Mr. Richard Lees who has purchased it from them. The first issue under the new proprietorship is a very creditable one and gives good reason for predicting a prosperous career for the paper in the future, a prediction which we hope will be abundantly fulfilled.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf.

Wallace's for men and boys felt hats, fur and cloth caps, also ladies fur caps and muffs, newest styles and closest prices. 45-4t

METROPOLITAN GROCERY.—In laying in a stock of holiday groceries, don't neglect to call at the Metropolitan Grocery, (late T. W. Robinson & Co.,) at which an immense stock of fresh and seasonable goods have been laid in specially for the holiday trade. The variety and excellence of the goods is unsurpassed and the prices are exceedingly reasonable.

ST. LUKE'S BAZAAR.—Remember that the ladies of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham will hold a sale of fancy and useful articles, on Wednesday and Thursday, Dec. 13th and 14th. Dinner from 12.30 till 2 o'clock. Supper from 6 to 8. Admission ten cents. Remember the date and regulate your engagements accordingly, for you can't afford to miss this great bazaar.

Nothing can supply the place of a beautiful silky head of natural hair. It is infinitely more comfortable than switches, and other preparations from the hair of unknown foreigners. Hair may be retained, beautified, and actually restored by the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists. 49-3t

A SPLENDID STOCK.—R. W. Munoaster's mammoth announcement must convince the public that his establishment is the place to expend holiday money to the best advantage. His stock of plated ware, jewellery, watches, etc., is so complete that the most fastidious can be suited, and the prices are low. Don't fail to read carefully his holiday announcement in THE EXAMINER.

GREATLY IMPROVED.—The newspaper boom has struck Bowmanville strong. The last issue of the West Durham News comes to us in an enlarged shape and in other respects greatly improved. Its typography, make-up, selected and original matter, give evidence of great care. The News is a good sample of a live, newsy, well-conducted sheet, a credit to the Gale Bros. and to the town. We congratulate the News on its latest long stride forward.

DEEPLY AFFLICTED.—That afflictions as well as misfortunes come not singly is sadly exemplified in the triple bereavement that has befallen the family of the late Mr. Robertson. Within the short space of three months three of the adult members of the family have fallen victims to that insatiable disease, consumption, Mrs. Samuel English, Mrs. W. H. Anthony and on Sunday last Mr. John C. Robertson. The surviving members of the family have the sympathy of the community in their exceptionally severe affliction.

FAR AWAY WEDDING BELLS.—As will be seen by reference to the usual place in our columns, a former resident of Peterborough, Mr. R. J. Bird, of Emerson, Manitoba, son of Mr. John Bird, London street, has listened to the voice of wisdom and taken to himself a wife, thus adding another into the firm of Messrs Walton & Bird, hardware merchants, which will, we are sure, under the more auspicious conditions, flourish with renewed prosperity. We offer Mr. and Mrs. Bird our warmest congratulations and wish them all possible success in life.

A SOLID FACT.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

Diamond Brand	only	30c per Can
Selects	"	35c " "
J. B. L. Selects	"	40c " "
J. L. & Co's (Blue Points)	"	50c " "

Bulks from 40 to 50 cents per quart. Quotations every day at SMITH'S MARKET. 46.

TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.—The Exeutive of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance have set apart Sunday, December 17th, as "Temperance Sunday." Ministers of all denominations in Ontario have been invited to preach to their congregations that day on some phase of the temperance work. The proposal of setting apart a Sunday for special appeal is a good one. The magnitude of the evil warrants the churches in taking more active measures for its entire suppression. The work cannot be carried on without funds, and an appeal has been made to the ministers and people for the collection on that Sunday, to help in this direction. We trust that this request will meet with a liberal response, as the cause of temperance has suffered very much in the past for want of money to carry on its operations.

EXPLANATORY.—In our notice of Mr. Dumble's appointment to the Police Magistracy, there was one sentence that seemed to reflect upon the gentleman who conducted the police court business during the late Mr. Hatton's illness. All we have to say is that the words were not written with such an intention, though it seems that they could be tortured into that shape by any one maliciously or mischievously disposed. The sentence was written under the impression that in towns where there was a police magistrate, a justice of the peace could not exercise the duties of the position, unless by special direction of the incumbent, and, Mr. Hatton being unfortunately deceased, it was a fair inference, that it was desirable in the interests of local justice that an appointment should be promptly made. We had not the slightest intention of disparaging Mr. Menzies. During Mr. Hatton's illness he has very obligingly attended to the business of the court, and we are sure he conscientiously discharged the duties to the best of his ability without any remuneration except the thanks of the law abiding citizens of the community.

THE LATE DR. ALLEN.

In the death of the late Dr. Allen the medical profession has lost a member of marked ability and great promise—indeed the whole community are losers by his untimely removal. Dr. Allen, though born in England, belonged essentially to Peterborough, having lived here from a child. In the spring of 1878 he began the study of medicine, matriculated in the autumn of the same year, and the following spring passed his primary and two years later his final examination, receiving his degree of M. D. from Trinity College, Toronto. He then went to England, and the same year took his degree of M. R. C. S., in London, receiving special commendatory letters from Sir Wm. Jenner, M. D., and others. Last April he returned to Peterborough, and practised here until about six weeks ago when he removed to a village near Hamilton, where he had bought the house and practice of a physician. But he had only been there a few days when he fell ill with a very mild type of typohid fever, so mild, in fact, was the attack that he did not let his friends here know that he was ill. About two weeks ago, when he had almost recovered from the fever, inflammation of the stomach set in, and that was followed by congestion of the lungs. His physical system seems to have been reduced by hard study, and though none of the attacks were severe, and he had the best attention possible from two resident doctors, he did not seem to have any rallying powers, and on Thursday last his physicians decided that he would not recover, and at once telegraphed to Toronto for his brother and later in the day his many friends here were startled by the intelligence that Dr. Allen was dying. Mr. E. Allen and an intimate friend of the doctor left town on the first train, but reached the scene too late to see him alive. On Thursday night he seemed bright and conversed freely, but towards morning he began to sink, and expired at eight o'clock Friday morning. When it was known that the body would be brought here for interment, the young men in connection with the George street Methodist Church obtained permission to arrange for his burial. The funeral service was held in the George street church, which was draped in deep mourning. As the solemn procession entered the church the sound of the organ in a mournful requiem, muffled the tread of the procession as it passed up the aisle, preceded by the minister reading aloud the service for the dead. After the singing of that beautiful hymn, 'Abide with me,' Rev. Mr. Manning read the 4th chapter of 1st. Thes. After which in a short address he paid a very touching and beautiful tribute to the departed. The choir then sang the hymn beginning with "Asleep in Jesus," after which the congregation remained standing, while the Rev. Mr. Manning read the usual burial service. As the funeral left the church the organ sobbed forth the solemn strains of the "Dead March in Saul." Altogether the service was a most impressive one. The funeral procession consisted of, first, the bearers, Messrs. J. W. Flavell, A. Clegg, T. B. Braden, A. Emmerson, J. Pentland, James Junkin; next the hearse and sleighs containing the relatives; then followed the officers and teachers of the Sunday school and the members of his late class in all about forty; then followed a large number of sleighs. On the casket was a beautiful wreath of white flowers, a tribute of love and esteem from the Sunday school, of which he had been a member as pupil, officer and teacher for nearly twenty-five years. Much sympathy is felt for his wife, who is in London west and is just recovering from a similar attack of fever, and was thus deprived of the privilege of ministering to him during his illness, and had not the satisfaction of even a last look after his spirit had fled.

FATHER LYNCH'S LEAVING.

Honors Showered on Him from All Hands.

Address and Present from Protestant Citizens—The Feeling Address and Magnificent Memento from His Flock—Farewell reception at Notre Dame—The Choir join the Chorus of Commendation and Good Wishes—Escorted to Lindsay and Installed.

In our last issue we informed our readers that Rev. Father Lynch had been appointed to the Parish of Lindsay and given his farewell address to his flock. But he had become too dear and revered by his congregation and had won such golden opinions from both classes, that he was not allowed to escape without being made aware by tangible tokens, how deeply he was loved by the former, and how richly he had wrought himself into the regard of the latter.

Accordingly a committee of his congregation, accompanied by a deputation of Protestant citizens, waited upon the reverand gentleman at his residence, the Presbytery, on Saturday evening last. The former was composed of Messrs. Dr. O'Sullivan, John Hackett, T. Dolan, T. Cahill, T. Kelly, Dr. O'Shea, Jno. Garvey, E. Phalen, Jno. Delaney, John Sullivan, John Kelly, Joseph Lynch, D. McDonald, Bryan Lynch, C. McGrath, B. Morrow and others. The citizens depatation consisted of Messrs. R. Kincaid, M.D., M.P.P., H. H. Smith, Mayor, J. R. Stratton, Geo. Hilliard, M. P., and J. J. Landy.

They were ushered into the drawing room, warmly welcomed by Father Lynch, and Mr. J. R. Stratton read the following address:

Rev. Michael Lynch:

DEAR SIR,—Your many Protestant friends in Peterborough have learned with deep regret that you are, at an early day to remove from us, to assume the place occupied by the lamented Father Stafford, and they feel that they would be remiss if they would allow you to leave Peterborough, where you have resided so long without some token of the esteem in which you have been held by all classes of your fellow citizens during your residence amongst us.

Your many noble qualities of mind and heart, deep piety, genuine charity and disinterested activity among your people, have been well known to their Protestant fellow citizens, and your kind and Christian demeanour towards all who have had the pleasure of meeting you could not but secure the good will of those who may hold different religious views. Since your mission to Peterborough all have felt an ever increasing cordiality and friendliness between Catholics and Protestants, each learning to cultivate that mutual moderation which respects the sincerity and zeal of others, who we fondly hope, are also actuated by motives of piety and zeal for what each believes to be the truth; and the Protestants also attributed to your own moderation and wisdom the modifying influences that have produced such desirable results.

Your fervent zeal, deep piety, and unaffected charity, have commanded the respect of those outside your own church, and produced a deeply imprinted attachment and love of those whose spiritual interests you watched over.

You will please accept ....s token of the esteem of Your Protestant fellow citizens in Peterborough, and permit them to express a wish that you may live long to enjoy the blessings that must accrue to a life spent in doing good, following the footsteps of your venerated predecessor, and thus continue to promote the principles of Him whom you, in your labors and piety, serve, and extend and deepen feelings of good will in every sphere in which you may continue to serve your generation.

We are yours very respectfully, on behalf of your Protestant fellow citizens,

R. KINCAID, M.D., M.P.P.,
H. H. SMITH, Mayor,
J. R. STRATTON,
GEO. HILLIARD, M.P.,
J. J. LUNDY.

The address was accompanied by a handsome cane of ebony, with a head of solid gold, from R. W. Muncaster's establishment and engraved with:—"Presented to Rev. Father Lynch, by his Peterborough friends, December 1882."

The reverend gentleman returned thanks in a few words, and stated that owing to defective eye sight, Mr. Kelly would read his

REPLY,

which is as follows:—

My Dear Friends, and Fellow Citizens:

I must say that this reception of your very kind and flattering address, and beautiful present, gives me both surprise and joy—surprise, indeed that I should be deemed worthy of so much kindness at your hands, and joy inexpressible at this crowning evidence of the advancement of Christian toleration and mutual good feelings in this locality since first I trod the streets of your beautiful town.

You do me over honor in attributing to me so much credit for this happy and, I may say, heavenly state of affairs; because, busy, and socially secluded as the life of a Roman Catholic Priest must necessarily be, he has neither the time nor the facilities to cultivate much social relationship. But I am delighted to be able to say that the kind and generous toleration of my separated brethren; together with that beautiful, unbigoted and angelic odour which religious freedom causes to permeate our whole Canadian social atmosphere, have amply compensated for my shortcomings in this respect. 'Tis true that if I did not succeed in convincing others by my calm reasoning and quiet arguments, I do not remember where I ever wilfully sought, either in private or public, to wound their feelings by unfriendly assertions or bigoted attacks, and I am now proud to bear testimony of a full reciprocation of the same sentiments on your part towards me and my flock.

In your kindness and good nature you refer with unmerited prominence to my humble acts of charity. Here again I am delighted to be able to bear testimony to the noble and generous manner in which all my little charitable undertakings were seconded and aided by my kind and liberal Protestant fellow citizens. Owing to circumstances, which it did not lie in our power to alter, most of our Roman Catholic brothers came to Canada poor in this world's goods and poor also in spirits, though rich and buoyant in hope—this has left their children somewhat behind in material prosperity, but with their proverbial generosity, (another with the kind and generous charity of their Protestant neighbours, I enjoy the consolation of believing that during my four years in Peterboro', no fellow citizen has gone to bed cold and hungry for want of a helping hand.

Time will not permit me to reply at length to all of your generous and unmerited remarks, therefore I will briefly say that I thank you most sincerely from the bottom of my heart—I thank not only those present but all of my Protestant fellow citizens, for all their courtesies and kindnesses towards me as well as for this last tangible expression of good will.

I will ever prize this beautiful gift, not alone for its intrinsic value—which is great, but for the fond memories and associations which are entwined around it—particularly as indications of the gigantic strides of religious toleration, and the utter dwarfing of religious bigotry during the twenty-three years that have elapsed since my first coming to this town. Yes gentlemen, I assure you it will be long and fondly preserved among my most cherished memorials, and wherever duty calls me, it will often cause me to cast "one longing, lingering look behind."

Again thanking you for your kind address and valuable present,

I am, &c.,
MICHAEL LYNCH.

THE CONGREGATION'S CONTRIBUTION.

On behalf of the congregation of St. Peters's Dr. O'Sullivan read the following address:

To the REVEREND MICHAEL LYNCH, Parish Priest of Peterborough, upon the Occasion of his Removal to Lindsay.

Rev. and Very Dear Father:

The die is cast, the dreaded time has come and though we had fondly hoped and yearned that it might be otherwise, we are brought once more to sternly contemplate the sad reality, that there is nothing pleasing and permanent in this mundane and ever mutable existence. Some few months ago when our most amiable Bishop, in response to our expressed desire, kindly in the kindness of his kindest of hearts, promised to permit you to remain permanently with us, we little dreamt of such a speedy separation. Now as you are about to leave us, permit us your people and parishioners, to tender to you as a burthen to bear along, the fullest measure of our love, gratitude and admiration, the intensity of which must be imagined, because the English vocabulary fails in words adequate to its proper expression.

When we calmly reflect on the twelve long years you have spent in our midst (besides many years spent in the immediate neighborhood) devotedly and zealously guarding and directing our spiritual progress, as well as evincing the deepest interest in our mental, moral and material welfare; now gently chiding or rebuking the poor persistent sinner—now kindly soothing and encouraging the sorrowful and saddened penitent—again, lending cheering counsel and often material aid to the straightened and struggling venturer—or applying the soothing balm of sincere sympathy to the bereaved or broken heart, we ever see the same kind and indulgent father and faithful friend, who rejoiced with us in our prosperity and grieved with us in our adversity.

Did time or space permit us to particularise your many achievements in those years, our knowledge of your natural modesty would prevent it, but as special reasons for our grateful remembrance we may say, the comfortable and commodious edifices for our children are standing monuments to your devotion and zeal in the cause of youthful education, while our present state of solvency, clean balance sheets, and total absence from debt, is the greatest possible tribute to your economic management and financial success.

Such are our feelings at your leaving us, that we almost grudge you that quiet retirement, domestic rule, and unbroken regularity, so very grateful to old age, and in your case so well merited, and to enjoy which we believe is your principal reason in leaving Peterborough—in this we are more selfish than you are, at an early day to remove from us, to assume the place occupied by the lamented Father Stafford, and they feel that they would be remiss if they would allow you to leave Peterborough, where you have resided so long without some token of the esteem in which you have been held by all classes of your fellow citizens during your residence amongst us.

Your many noble qualities of mind and heart, deep piety, genuine charity and disinterested activity among your people, have been well known to their Protestant fellow citizens, and your kind and Christian demeanour towards all who have had the pleasure of meeting you could not but secure the good will of those who may hold different religious views. Since your mission to Peterborough all have felt an ever increasing cordiality and friendliness between Catholics and Protestants, each learning to cultivate that mutual moderation which respects the sincerity and zeal of others, who we fondly hope, are also actuated by motives of piety and zeal for what each believes to be the truth; and the Protestants also attributed to your own moderation and wisdom the modifying influences that have produced such desirable results.

Your fervent zeal, deep piety, and unaffected charity, have commanded the respect of those outside your own church, and produced a deeply imprinted attachment and love of those whose spiritual interests you watched over.

Splendid Resurrection of Old Otonabee Lodge No. 13.

Old Lodge Reminiscences - List of the First Officers - The Ceremonies of Re-Installation - Description of their Grand New Lodge Rooms - The Feast of the Fraternity - An All-around Success.

On Friday last, December 8th, an event took place in Peterborough, not only of peculiar interest to local Oddfellowship, but also of provincial interest. It was the resuscitatation of old Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, which has been dormant about 22 years. The lodge, in its day, was a most

FLOURISHING INSTITUTION

with a very large membership, consisting of the very best—the creme de la creme—of the citizens, in intellectual, social and financial standing. Alas! most of the members of its early existence have received their demission at the hand of death, to the celestial Grand Lodge, and it will doubtless be of interest to the members of the Order to give a few particulars of the origin of Otonabee Lodge, which occupied the ordinal position of thirteenth among the

PIONEER LODGES

of Canada. In the mutations of thirty years since the lodge became dormant, or rather defunct, the paraphernalia, books, papers, and seal of the Order have become scattered and, to a great extent, lost. But Dr. William Bell, one of its earliest members, has found, amongst his papers the

FIRST MINUTE BOOK

of the first year's work of the lodge. This venerable record contains a great deal of information relative to the personnel and workings of the lodge, and we present below a fac-simile, as nearly as printing can imitate writing, of the title page, which also contains the list of officers :—

—OTONABEE LODGE—

Number 13.

INSTITUTED ELEVENTH MARCH, 1846.

Friendship, Love and Truth.

NOBLE GRAND,
G. B. Hall, (Judge).

VICE GRAND,
Charles Perry.

TREASURER,
Henry Easton.

SECRETARY,
William Cluxton,

WARDEN,
James Scott.

CONDUCTOR,
Charles Forrest.

RIGHT HAND SUPPORTER,
Wm. Murney.

LEFT HAND SUPPORTER,
George P. Grover.

VICE :

RIGHT HAND SUPPORTER,
Wilson S. Conger.

Francis Murphy.

RIGHT HAND SCENE,
Dougal McKellar.

LEFT HAND SCENE,
F. Ferguson.

INSIDE GUARDIAN,
Brother Tremaine.

OUTSIDE GUARDIAN,

Of these officers all are dead but three or four, who are scattered, one in England, one in one place and one in another, and Mr. Wm. Cluxton, the first "Noble Grand," of the revived, and the first secretary of the old lodge, is the only one living in Peterborough, or is certainly known to be living anywhere. The minutes also contain the records of many men who afterwards rose to local eminence or were at the time in prominent positions. At the third meeting, held on the 3rd of March, 1846, there were proposed John Langton, Auditor-General of the Dominion, aged 39; Dr. John Gilbert M. P., aged 53; Alex. Macdonald M. P., aged 30, and P. M. Grover, aged 28—afterwards M. P. At the meeting of the 20th of April, James Stevenson, Esq., at that time 21 years of age and recorded with the addition of "clerk," was proposed, and he was "put through" on the 4th of May. At a subsequent meeting Dr. Burnham was "favourably reported," and Mr. James McCarrol, aged 32, then, editor of the Peterborough Sentinel, now of New York—was proposed on its 26th of April. Dr. Wm. Bell, druggist, aged 39, was also proposed at this time as well as Rev. R. J. C. Taylor, M. A. Mosson Boyd's name went in on June 15th. At the election of officers on the 6th July Mr. Charles Perry was made the second Noble Grand of the lodge, Wm. Cluxton, Vice, Charles Forest, Secretary and W. H. Wrighton, Pernanent Secretary. At the meeting of the 4th of November, 1846, the bill for the first set of regalia was presented. This regalia was of an exceedingly rich description in keeping with the style of splendor in which the lodge was carried on. Mr. Wm. Cluxton became N. G. on September 20th of the same year having passed in the short space of about six months to the highest chair in the lodge. The first meetings of the lodge were held in the

GRAND JURY ROOM

of the Court House, but on the 25th of July, 1847, a committee was appointed to attend to the purchase of a proper hall, and the result was that the large stone building, on Rubidge street, now occupied by Mr. Robert Nicholls, who has however made additions to it, was secured as a place of meeting. This hall was the scene not only of regular meetings but many a festive gathering, concert, etc., under the auspices of the members. For the members of those days were nearly all wealthy and the lodge as a lodge "lived rather high." In those days, too, the people were generally well-to-do, there was little sickness to relieve, no poor to care for, and from sheer lack of objects for the exercise of the cardinal principles of the order, and the ambition of members having been satisfied by passing through the chairs, interest in the order began to wane and continued to do so, till, in 1850 the lodge as such ceased to exist. But it has been resurrected and the new creation with one of the first chief officers of the old one at its head, with a large and influential membership, has entered on, if not as splendid a career, at least one of greater usefulness, and let us hope of a more lasting character.

PRELIMINARY STEPS

for the resuscitation of "old 13" have been for some time taken, and it would not be giving credit where credit is due if we omitted to mention that to Mr. G. B. Sproule, Dr. Bell, E. E. Henderson, Joseph McClelland and others, were the leading spirits in the undertaking that on Friday last was CROWNED WITH SIGNAL SUCCESS.

The following gentlemen composed the reception committee, of which Mr. John McKee was chairman: Messrs. W. Cluxton, Jas. Stevenson, Dr. R. W. Bell and H. H. Smith, Mayor. On the arrival of the midday train the committee met at the station, Mr. H. Robertson, Grand Master, Collingwood, and Mr. J. B. King, Grand Secretary, Toronto. The party entered sleighs and were driven to the Caisse House where they dined.

THE NEW LODGE ROOM

is situated in the third story of the Cluxton block. It is 25x65 feet in area with ceiling 18 feet in height, and is as excellently adopted to the purposes of Otonabee Lodge as if the designer, Mr. J. E. Belcher, architect, had specially planned it for its present purpose.

Its finish corresponds with the handsome nature of the splendid pile of which it forms a part The ceiling is coved, the cove springing from a bold entablature and terminating against the horizontal portion of the ceiling with an enriched moulding. The walls and ceilings were frescoed by Mr. J. W. Watson in a style of great elegance befitting the proportions of the room. The ceiling proper is tinted in pale lavender, the cove a warm mauve, and the mouldings are picked out in harmonizing tints, from dead white to ultramarine. The under surface of the frieze is of a delicate shade of lemon, enriched with a cordon of the "three links" in gold, alternately with a monogram composed of the letters F. L. T. The ceiling is also ornamented with three moulded ceiling pieces, the centres of which are painted red, white and blue, and ornamented with the "three links" in gold, surrounding the rod of the elegant three-light gasaliers in gold and bronze that depend from them and give light to the room. The walls are laid on in a rich shade of fawn color and profusely decorated with beautiful French chromo pictures. The carpets are of a rich Japanese pattern of the very latest style, and harmonize well with the other appointments of the room. A carpet of different pattern covers the N. G. and V. G. dais at either end of the hall and the raised side platform with tasteful bordering. The windows are fitted with dark brown shades and hung with cretonne lambrequins edged with deep ball fringe. The carpets and curtains were furnished by the establishment of Messrs. Munro & Alexander.

THE FURNITURE

supplied by Mr. D. Belleghem is of the most complete and elegant description. The chairs for the Grand and Vice Grand officers are of solid walnut, richly carved and upholstered respectively in crimson and blue rep. The side chairs, are gotten up in a similar manner, though smaller in size. Upon the upper parts of the frames of all the chairs are the three links, carved in high relief and gilt. On the right and left sides of the Grand chair are two elaborately finished cabinets for the use of the Secretary and the Treasurer. They are provided with a desk and drawers—the latter furnished with silver handles—pigeon holes, etc., and are elegantly finished in oiled walnut with French burl veneer panels. The seats for the supporters of the Grand chair are of walnut, upholstered in figured rep, with facings of puffed crimson plush. The side seats are of walnut frames, upholstered in crimson rep, and are broad and comfortable seats. In the centre of the southern wall is a double doorway, hung with cretonne portieres, giving on a short corridor, that opens by folding doors on the main hall. The platform opposite this is made movable, so that the space can be used as an entrance in case of concerts or other public entertainments. The ante-rooms, wardrobes and other necessary rooms, are well fitted up, and fittingly perform their share in making the suite of apartments of Otonabee lodge as complete, elegant, commodious and convenient as any in the Midland district, equalled by few, excelled by none.

At half-past two o'clock the ceremonies of were performed by Grand Master Robertson, assisted by Grand Secretary King. The lodge was called, and the petitioners aswering the summons, the old lodge was formed again, and received the Grand Master with all the honors. This ceremony as well as that of re-institution, installation, etc., was grand and imposing, the second made particularly impressive on the raising the lodge from its sleep of thirty-two years, and the infrequency of raising a lodge.

The following officers were installed in due form by the Grand Master, assisted by the Grand Secretary :—

Mr. Wm. Cluxton	N.G.
Mr. Jas. Stevenson	V.G.
Dr. R. W. Bell	R.S.N.G.
Mr. John McKee	L.S.N.G.
Mr. Wm. Ross	R.S.V.G.
Mr. H. H. Smith	L.S.V.G.
Mr. E. E. Henderson	Sec.
Mr. G. B. Sproule	Treas.
Mr. Jos. McClelland	P. Sec.

The appointed officers will be installed at a future meeting. The lodge adjourned at five o'clock and the rooms were then thrown open to the public, and the many visitors were greatly delighted with the elegant appointments of the apartments.

The lodge resumed in the evening. Applications to the number of nearly thirty for membership were read and received, and twelve or fourteen candidates initiated, gentlemen of good social and financial standing, a credit to any lodge in the land.

A pleasing feature of the proceedings was the presentation by Dr. R. W. Bell of the first minute books of the lodge and other relics.

Otonabee Lodge No. 13, though thus numbered, is in fact the third lodge in seniority in Ontario, standing next to Brock Lodge, No. 9, Brockville, and Cataraqui Lodge, No. 10, Kingston, the other lodges of earlier dates either belonging to the Province of Quebec or having ceased to exist.

The regular night of meeting of the lodge is Monday.

The brethren on leaving the lodge room repaired to the Caisse House to attend

THE TOASTS, ETC.

Mr. Cluxton explained that Mayor Smith, owing to absence from town, was unable to occupy the chair as had been intended. The brethren, he added were under a debt of gratitude to the grand officers who at so much personal inconvenience had made their valued visit. He added that it had been decided to drink the toasts in cold water.

The usual loyal toasts having been duly honored, the chairman proposed the "Grand Lodge of Ontario."

Grand Master Robertson in a most happy reply said that a similar gathering had taken place forty years ago, and that the same principles obtained then as now a signal proof of the permanency of the order, which was now so well established that there need be no fears for its future. There were now 60 grand lodges, 8,000 subordinate lodges and half a million members. He claimed no great antiquity for the order but gave some brief account of its rise and progress. It was increasing rapidly and had taken root in widely sundered lands, and it would now be found in every part of the world unostentatiously carrying out its noble principles by the relief of the sick and needy, and the education and care of the orphan. He was sure that Otonabee lodge would creditably exemplify the principles of the order. He returned thanks for the cordial reception given. It had given him great pleasure to assist the movement of the day.

Grand Secretary King judged from the vigorous hands into which it had fallen that a bright future awaited Otonabee Lodge.

Dr. R. W. Bell gave "Our Visiting Brethren."

Mr. A. L. Geen, Belleville, congratulated Otonabee Lodge on the promising start it had taken and wished it success.

Mr. W. C. Scott, of the Dominion Oddfellow, alluded to the provincial importance of the event and warmly commended the interest taken by the Noble Grand, Mr. Cluxton, in the resuscitation of the order.

Mr. J. T. Lacy, of Peterborough Lodge, thought the occasion was a red letter day for Oddfellowship in this district. He was glad to assist at the reopening of Otonabee Lodge and was sure that Peterborough Lodge would feel no jealousy, for there was an ample field for the noble work of both.

Mr. J. R. Stratton gave expression to the pleasure it afforded him to assist in the work of the day—a pleasure enhanced by the visit of the grand officers. He was sure that the utmost harmony would characterize the relations of the two lodges now in town. He regarded the character of the present membership of Otonabee Lodge as a guarantee of its future success. There was room in Peterborough for two lodges and a friendly rivalry in doing good would result in a more complete carrying out of the noble principles of the order. He wished success to Otonabee Lodge.

Grand Master King proposed "Otonabee Lodge."

Mr. Cluxton, N.G. gave a brief reminiscence of the old lodge and said that last summer Dr. Bell had come to him and showed him one of the old books with the names of the original members. As he ran his eye over name after name he uttered the sad commentary, "He's dead," "He's dead." But his interest had been awakened and he had joined heartily in the enterprise and felt greatly honored by being made the first Noble Grand. He thought the expansion of business and the growth of the town made two lodges a necessity. After alluding warmly to the advantages of the order he resumed his seat amidst hearty applause.

Dr. Wm. Bell endorsed what had been said adding that he was one of the original members, and the resurrection was largely due to the exertions of his namesake Dr. R. W. Bell.

Mr. E. E. Henderson proposed the press.

Mr. Scott, of the Dominion Oddfellow, replied as well as Mr. Toker, for the Review, and Mr. J. R. Stratton, for the EXAMINER, the latter concluding his remarks with the hope that Peterborough Lodge might be soon favored with a visit from the grand officers present.

Mr. Joseph McClelland thought justice would not be done if brother Sproule, who had taken so deep and active an interest in the revival of the Old Otonabee, that it was sometimes jocularly referred to as "Sproule's lodge," were not given due credit. He had great pleasure in proposing his health, which was honored with great enthusiasm.

Mr. Sproule said he was more of a worker than a speaker. The honor done him in associating him with the toast amply repaid him for what he had done. He declined to take all the credit, for there were others who had done as much as he. He felt kindly towards Peterborough Lodge and hoped that many an interchange of fraternal courtesies would take place.

Letters of regret were read by the Secretary, Mr. E. E. Henderson, from Mr. James Woodyatt, P. G. M., City Clerk, Brantford, who was initiated into the society three years previous to the time old Otonabee Lodge was first established, viz., in 1843, and has continued in active membership ever since, from Lieut.-Col. Cole, P. G. M., Brockville; from Mr. J. Ham Perry, County Registrar, P.G.M., Whitby; Dr. CL. T. Campbell, P.G.M., London; Mr. Wm. Fitzsimmons, P.G.M., Brockville; Mr. Edward Fish, Grand Secretary, Quebec; Mr. Wm. Badenach, Grand Treasurer, Toronto; Mr. John Donogh, Representative, Toronto; Mr. W. Marriage, Representative, Montreal; Mr. Thomas Woodyatt, Capt. W. G. Mutton, Toronto; and many others expressing regret at not being present and wishing the lodge the greatest prosperity.

After the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" the company separated all well pleased, not only with the closing episode, but with the entire proceedings of the day.

1882. CHRISTMAS! 1882.

It is now the season of the year when people who are contemplating making purchases for Christmas and New Year's Presents, begin to study where they can lay out their money to the best advantage. There are several points to be considered. FIRSTLY: where they can find the best variety of New, Fresh Goods, suitable to their tastes. SECONDLY: where they can get the best value for their money. THIRDLY: where the quality can be perfectly relied upon. FOURTHLY: where they can deal with confidence and feel quite sure that there will be no misrepresentations made to them of the quality of the goods they wish to buy.

THE ABOVE CONSIDERATIONS CAN BE SATISFACTORILY FULFILLED BY MAKING YOUR PURCHASES AT

R. W. MUNCASTER'S
JEWELLERY STORE,
Cluxton's Block, George St. Peterborough

Where you will find the Stock Complete in every Department, and for Price, Quality, Novelty of Design, and Reliability, unsurpassed. Amongst the immense Stock will be found a full line of GOLD and SILVER WATCHES at all Prices and Makes. Wedding Rings in all sizes and prices at a High Standard of Quality. Gold Keeper Rings in Chased, Engraved and Chased, and Engraved. SILVER JEWELLERY in all styles of Brooches, Earrings, Lockets, Chains, Necklets, &c.

SILVER PLATED WARE.

The above line of Goods are being cut upon so much of late that the Quality has become quite a secondary matter with some dealers. Their whole aim is centred in presenting a showy and trashy article, which will catch the eye and which will not wear much longer than a good quality of Pewter. Such a quality as that I do not keep at all. I have nothing but the best Quadruple Plate, made by the leading American Manufacturers, whose reputation is the result of supplying a first-class article to the public for the last fifty years. The Stock of Plated Ware consists of all the Latest Designs in Cruets, Butter Dishes, Card Receivers, Cake Baskets, Pickle Stands, Knives & Forks, Spoons in Tea, Table and Dessert, and Fancy Articles, suitable for Presents.

WATCH REPAIRING This Department is one which is sadly neglected in the average Jewellery Store. The object sought to be attained is to make as much money as possible out of customers by charging exhorbitant Prices and procuring cheap workmen. My reputation for work has been achieved by always doing GOOD, RELIABLE WORK, and charging a moderate figure for it, so that people leaving Watches with me for Repairs, know that they can rely on all work leaving my hands. THE MINOR BRANCHES of the Jewellery business not named above, are all carefully attended to by myself, and the system I have adopted in business has convinced people that any goods bought from me are always in every respect to be relied upon for Quality, Workmanship, Cheapness and Variety. THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC, as experienced by me in the large volume of trade done and which is steadily increasing, say that they appreciate my efforts to establish a Jewellery Store where they can buy goods without any hesitation, knowing that Muncaster's goods are of a standard which is always the highest, and that anything bought from him never fails to be exactly as represented.

DO NOT FAIL TO INSPECT MY IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE DECIDING ON YOUR PURCHASES.

Do not fail to Remember that MUNCASTER'S Jewellery Store is in Cluxton's Block, George Street, Peterborough.

MIDLAND DISTRICT DASHES.

The Cream of Occurrences Skimmed from Contemporary Columns.

COBOURG.

Cobourg is such a quiet town that rural owls come in and seize urban (so called) chickens. The Sentinel-Star says a young man missed several fowls lately, and wondered at the cause. The other evening he heard a commotion in the hen house, and going out, with the aid of a lantern discovered a large owl, which he shot. The bird was a monstrous one and measured about three feet from tip to tip of the wings.

BOBCAYGEON.

The demand for wood in the village at present is greater than the supply, and the price is up. The farmers should bring it in at once, for the price will come down with sleighing.

The Independent says enthusiastic deer hunter informs him that the still hunting at present is magnificent. We have every reason to believe him. Our collector went out a week ago to hunt up a few accounts, and he is still hunting.

Mr. John Mathie, the County Inspector of taverns has called at the hotels during the week. Mr. Mathie is an efficient officer, and most attentive to his duties. The liquor traffic of this neighborhood says the Independent is a marked improvement upon the time previous to the Crooks Act.

OMEMEE.

Two Omemeecites cleaned with a fanning mill 250 bushels of oats in three hours and a half.

The Omemee tannery is now heated with steam.

The Methodists will hold their usual anniversary on Christmas day. The Rev. R. Walker will preach on the 24th.

At the last meeting of the Omemee school board Miss Gertrude H. Moore was appointed assistant teacher in the high school, and Miss Lucy Woolly teacher for the junior department of the public school.

Putting down ties and rails on this end of the Missing Link was commenced the forepart of this week. Says the Herald in a few days the line will be completed as far as the big cut.

CAMPBELLFORD.

The "Curtis" farm, north half of lot 23 in the 1st concession of Percy, was sold by auction, in Campbellford, on the 18th inst. The purchaser was Mr. Valleau, of Codrington, who paid $3,4000 for it.

The Herald is informed that both chairs which have seated the chiefs of the municipalities of Campbellford and Seymour, during the past year, will be vacated with the close of the present year.

A change of teachers will take place in three departments of the Public School with the commencement of the new year. Mr. Deacon who has charge of the fourth department will cease after the expiration of his term. He will be succeeded by Mr. Campbell, of Millbrook. Miss Mather is to be promoted from the first to the second department, while the first department is to be taught by Miss Fleetwood. Miss Pollock retains her position in the third department another year.

The store of Mr. Newman, of Morganston, between Warkworth and Castleton, was broken into, one night last week, and robbed of good valued at between $200 and $300. The burglars visited the till, and took its contents also, amounting to $1.50.

PORT HOPE.

A petition is being talked of to persuade Coun. Burnham to offer for Mayor.

Mr. J. McHolm, of Hope, had potatoes in the market the other day weighing two pounds each.

Mr. Hugel has moved into his new residence, Augusta street. Mr. Hugel has shown very great artistic taste in finishing and furnishing his mansion.

Mr. D. B. Deering shipped another car load of boots and shoes to Winnipeg this week. The worthy ex-councillor, extreme Conservative though he has been, opening grumbles at the monopoly freight rates.

The Conservative Convention will meet next Monday. Mr. D. Marshall's stock is rising. Dr. Brereton though, does not intend to give up the political ghost without a struggle.

An incipient fire in the Custom House on Tuesday evening was discovered by Mr. Henry Helm, who chanced to be passing the building, in time to prevent much damage being done.

LINDSAY.

The Victoria County Council meets on Tuesday, December 13th.

The gas works building have been covered in during the past week. The roof of the generating room is of iron and slate. A large quantity of plant additional to that on the ground has been delivered. The gas-making apparatus is being fitted up and the connections between the parts of the work effected. The gas-holder is finished—a fine piece of work. It is confidently expected that gas will be turned on the mains in time to light the town up for Christmas eve.

Despite the cold weather the work on the town hall extension is going on, and rapidly, too. The walls are up and ready for the roof. The cornice above the west wall of the main building has been stripped off to make a connection with the roof of the addition.

The Warder says the long talked of change in the route of the Midland Railway through Lindsay is likely soon to be accomplished, and then all passenger trains will arrive and depart from the one place. This will be a decided advantage to persons travelling, as no change will be necessary to reach any point.

Mr. J. F. McCarty of this town, claims to be heir to a fortune of over a million rupees worth of property left by Gen. Frederick Wm. McCarty, who died in India.

Mr. A. Henry, ex-mayor of Napanee and ex-proprietor of the Standard, was in town Saturday. Mr. Henry is one of those fortunate newspaper men who are rated over $50,000, and consequently he has a paper-mill or so. He was on his way from Fenelon Falls where his company propose to establish a wood-pulp factory to supply their mill.

The private office of Mr. J. R. Dundas, M.P., has been fitted up in a very handsome manner. The walls are covered with a novel and strikingly handsome gold paper, supplemented by dado and freize in the most approved decorative method. A rich carpet but of a quiet pattern covers the floor. The furniture of the room is well in keeping with the general effect and is of walnut and includes a handsome double writing desk and in another piece a very convenient arrangement of drawers for the classification of wheat and barley samples. The office is undoubtedly the finest business apartment in the Midland district.

CURIOUS PATENTS.

Some investigating person has furnished the New York Times with a brief list of patents on small things which in many instances have proved great mines of wealth to the lucky discoverer. The list might be extended to a much larger number, but we only state those given in the Times. Among these trifles is the favorite toy—the "return ball"—a wooden ball with an elastic string attached, selling for ten cents each, but yielding to its patentee an income equal to $50,000 a year. The rubber tip on the end of lead pencils affords the owner of the royalty an independent fortune. The inventor of the gummed newspaper wrapper is also a rich man. The gimlet pointed screw has evolved more wealth than most silver mines, and the man who first thought of putting copper tips to children's shoes is as well off as it his father left him $2,000,000 in United States bonds. Although roller skates are not so much used in countries where ice is abundant, in South America, especially in Brazil, they are very highly esteemed, and have yielded over $1,000,000 to their inventor. But he had to spend fully $125,000 in England alone fighting infringement. The "dancing Jim Crow," a toy, provides an annual income of $75,000 to its inventor, and the common needle threader is worth $10,000 a year to the man who though of it. The "drive well" was an idea of Col. Green, whose troops, during the war, were in want of water. He conceived the notion of driving a two inch tube into the ground until water was reached and then attaching a pump. This simple contrivance was patented after the war, and tens of thousands of farmers who have adopted it have been obliged to pay him a royalty, a moderate estimate of which is placed at $,100,000. The spring window shade yields an income of $100,000 a year; the stylographic pen also brings in $100,000 yearly; the marking pen for shading in different colours, $100,000; rubber stamps the same. A very large fortune has been reaped by a western miner, who, ten years since, invented a metal rivet or eylet at each end of the mouth of coat and pants pockets to resist the strain caused by the carriage of pieces of ore and heavy tools.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. NEWS VARIETIES.

Startling Tragedy in Maine.

Citizens of Lockport, Maine, were startled Wednesday evening by hearing three pistol shots in rapid session, and shortly afterwards a horse and carriage ran into the yard of John Dodge. In the carriage lay Nellie Prelay, with a bullet hole in her left temple Charles Crowell jumped from the carriage before reaching the yard. Crowell had a bullet hole in his right temple. They were carried into Mr. Dodge's house, where both expired. They were insensible when found, and did not recover consciousness. Crowell called at the school house, at St. Albans this afternoon, where Miss Prelay was teaching, to take her home to North Newport to spend thanksgiving. Crowell had been paying attention to Miss Prelay for nearly two years. No motive can be assigned for the deed.

A Ghastly Discovery.

Thursday morning a large extra heavy whiskey barrel was left at the United States Express Office in Dayton, Ohio, by a man in a covered waggon, who had apparently driven in from the country. The clerks in the express office supposed it to be cider, and inserted straws for the purpose of sampling it, when they were horrified to find the barrel contained the dead body of a man partly decomposed. The direction on the barrel was "Dr. J. D. Citley, care of Dr. Herman, 80 West Eighth street, Cincinnati, Ohio." The Cincinnati police were instructed by telegraph to follow the barrel to its destination, which was supposed to be the Cincinnati Medical College. The grave of J. G. Pollock, a wealthy farmer, who died about ten days ago, and whose case puzzled the physicians here, shows signs of having been disturbed. His widow refused her permission to have any further investigation.

The G. N. W. Telegraph Co.

The annual meeting of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Co. took place in Toronto on last Wednesday. Mr. William Gooderham presided. An annual report was read indicating the extensive operations of the company during the year, which appear mainly to have been that of repairing and renewing the property leased from the parent companies, extensions of the lines in the Northwest, and various other matters. It is claimed that all the obligations incurred in the shape of dividends for leased lines have been promptly met. The legislative action of the last session of Parliament is referred to as strengthening materially the position of the Company, but the provisions of the Consolidation Act have not been availed of in consequence of the continuance of litigation, which, it was understood, should be settled before the results of Parliamentary action were allowed to take place.

Fatal End of The Toll Trick.

At the Coliseum theatre, Cincinatti, in the play of "Si Slocum," Frank Frayne shooting the apple off the head of Lucy Slocum, personated by Annie Von Behren, missed the apple and shot Miss Von Behren in the head. She died in fifteen minutes. Frayne was arrested and the play stopped. The audience supposed the victim was only slightly hurt. Frayne used a rifle, and was executing the backward shot. The catch snap of the rifle was imperfect and slipped as the hammer fell. When the curtain fell the excitement behind the scenes was so great as to create an alarm lest a panic would ensue among the audience. Frayne's cries and lamentations were so violent that he was heard before the curtain, and the audience was informed that the accident was slight but that the play would not proceed farther. The people then retired in order, though one lady fainted. Frayne will be released on $3,000 bail. His mental condition is serious. The remains of Miss Von Behren will be brought to Brooklyn. It is said she was engaged to be married shortly to Frayne.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keepingboys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 14, 1882

The Reform Convention.

A meeting of the friends of Reform in the Town of Peterborough will be held, on Friday evening next, in the EXAMINER office, for the purpose of selecting delegates to attend the Liberal convention in Toronto on the third and fourth of January. It is hoped that the friends and supporters of Mr. Mowat's administration will make it a point to attend.

Smith and the Monaghan's.

A meeting of the supporters of Hon. Mr. Mowat, in the Townships of Smith and North Monaghan, to select delegates to attend the Liberal convention in Toronto, will be held, in the EXAMINER office on Saturday December 16th, at 2 o'clock, and for the township of South Monaghan at Centreville on Monday, the 18th inst., at 3 o'clock. A full attendance in both cases is desirable.

The Toronto Liberal Convention.

When circumstances make it necessary for a body of men to make common cause it is also necessary and wise to take concerted action. The Reformers of Ontario and the supporters of Mr. Mowat are a unit in favor of retaining the blessings of good government, and resenting and resisting attacks made on the rights of their province. The general local elections are near at hand, and, undismayed by the reverses of the by elections, the opponents of Mr. Mowat's administration will put forth every endeavour to clutch the spoils of office. They are completing their organization, encouraged to do so by the assurance that they are backed by the Dominion Government influence, aided by all the arts of corrupting the electorate at which long and assiduous practice has made the latter dangerous adepts. Sir John comes out in this matter, openly, for a wonder, and in effect declares that by fair means or foul, the province of Ontario is to be made to subserve his political schemes, that no matter to what extent her rights are trampled on, how greatly the people's rights are injured, he will make this province his political tool and aid, by placing in power his pliant-willed and plastic-principled underlings, Meredith, et al. To accomplish this end, to instal his vassals in power in Ontario, he will stick at nothing that promises to promote his plans. The Syndicate is to be taxed, it is said, to the tune of $500,000—the people to be corrupted with their own money—and every form of debauching voters, learned by a third of a century's experience in ways that are dark, and tricks that, alas, have not always proved vain, will be employed. Mr. Meredith has placed himself in the hands of the Dominion Government, and to thwart this conspiracy, it is necessary that Reformers meet in council, as they will do, the third of next January. It will not do to depend on the rightness of a cause alone for success. Oliver Cromwell struck the key-note of success in every course of action, where opposition is involved, when he said, "Trust in God, but keep your powder dry." It is wise for the party to meet, to take counsel together. The present is a crisis in the history of the province; interests of momentous magnitude are threatened, by the combined powers of the Dominion Government, the local Opposition, backed by the Syndicate, and the willing swarms of monopolists created by the former, and if ever there was a time, when every true Liberal rallied to the ranks, it is now. We hope to see these two ridings fully represented at Toronto and we feel sure that they will do their full share in making the Toronto convention the grandest and most effective rally of the party ever seen in the province.

The Late Lieut.-Col. Haultain.

The whole community was greatly surprised at the unexpected death, after a brief illness of Lt.-Col Frederick William Haultain, which melancholy event took place at his residence, Brock street, Peterborough, on Saturday morning, Dec. 9th, 1882. The deceased gentleman at the time of his death was 61 years of age, having been born at Brussels on the 7th of November, 1821. He was the third son of Major-General Haultain, of the Royal Artillery. At the age of 16 years—in 1837—he entered the Military Academy at Woolwhich, and, passing his examinations in a very creditable manner, obtained a lieutenant's commission in March 1839. He was made 2nd captain in 1844, 1st captain in 1854 and a Lieut.-Colonel on April 1st, 1860. His first foreign service was in Halifax. He was also from time to time quartered at Quebec, Montreal, Kingston, Gibraltar and Malta. Besides, he was for many years Captain-Inspector of the Royal Gun Factories in Woolwich, Arsenal. In 1855 he was married in St. George's Church, Montreal, to a daughter of Major-General Gordon, of the Royal Engineers. He retired from the army in 1860, and coming to Canada, he took up his residence in Peterborough in September of that year. He was of sterling Liberal principles, and his merit and ability were so speedily recognized that the very next year, he was returned at the general election over a very strong opponent, the late Mr. Conger. There was another general election in 1863 and was again returned—by a majority of 106 over Mr. Charles Perry. For something like four years he resided in Montreal, where he acted as Secretary of the French Canadian Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church, of which he was an active and zealous member. In 1873 he returned to Peterborough to accept the office of Registrar, made vacant by the death of Captain Rubidge. He filled the duties of this position like he did those of every place in life with conscientious care and great ability. Col. Haultain was an active member and an elder of the Presbyterian church, and was pre-eminently earnest in promoting her interests, by the employment of all his talents, which, fortunately for the church's interests, were not stinted either in a moral, mental or material sense. But he was not only a zealous worker within the pale of his church, but his was a philanthropy, whose aims, wishes and labor extended to wherever there was good to do, evil to combat and suffering and sorrow to ameliorate or assuage. In instance of the one, he was ever ready to promote by his best exertions, all evangelical religious work, frequently holding religious services in places where the regular labours of ministers of the church were not available. The poor were his especial care, and as chairman of the Hall Trust and in the management of the Potestant Home, the kindly charity of his nature was revealed, in all its earnestness. However, greatly he will be missed in all other circles, the poor and needy will miss, more than all, the kindly word which was always seconded when necessity arose, by the substantial earnest of a kindly deed. Col. Haultain leaves a widow, four sons and three daughters, to mourn his loss, but they are not alone in their sorrow, for an entire community will lament the disease of a gentleman, who in the sterling philanthropy of a noble nature, merited in his dealings with the world about him, the credit of a kindliness of disposition and deed, such as less worthy men, deem to be the extent of these duties to their home circles. But words are weak to express his worth. He will receive full credit and reward at the hands of that Master, he has served so faithfully and in whose bosom he is forever at rest.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The Ladies Aid Society, in connection with St. Andrew's Church, intend having a sale of useful articles, on Thursday evening, the 21st inst. Refreshments will be served during the evening. Doors open at six o'clock. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged. 50-2t.

The effect of Falgnier's design for the embellishment of the Arc de Triomphe in Paris is said to be very disappointing, now that the scaffolding has been removed.

METHODIST UNION.

The Union Committee Complete Their Labours.

"The Methodist Church"—Matters of Detail Settled.

In our last issue we published a synopsis of the proceedings of the Joint Committee of the different bodies of Methodists, which met in Toronto, up to Saturday. Below will be found the continuation and conclusion of the report.

SIXTH DAY—MONDAY.

The sessions of the Joint Union Committee were taken up to day by discussions arising out of the proposed General Conference of the united Churches and in endeavours to provide an equitable basis for the necessary readjustment of the Superannuation Fund. It was finally decided that the first General Conference of the United Methodist Church shall be held in Belleville, commencing the first Wednesday in September, 1883, and that the principle to be adopted in reorganizing the Superannuation Fund shall be one of levelling up. In others words, if the Church to which ministers belong does not provide sufficient capitalized assets to put them on a par with the Methodist Church of Canada, then the ministers individually shall make up the amount.

SEVENTH DAY—TUESDAY

The question of the terms upon which the superannuation funds of the various churches should be consolidated received a full and exhaustive discussion. The gravity of the case was frankly admitted, and the perplexities arising from the diverse methods of administering this aid in vogue in the various churches were felt, and an honest effort made to settle the matter on an equitable basis. A long discussion was, as usual, prolific of amendments, but in the end one by Rev. Dr. Sutherland of nine clauses was adopted instead of a short clause in the Committee's report. The question of the amalgamation of the missionary sections was under discussion when the Committee rose.

EIGHTH DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The final session of the Joint Union Committee of the four Methodist Churches in Canada was held to day and the basis of Union thus completed will be launched freighted with the food hopes and the earnest prayers of the framers. It must be said that the Committee have not taken a restricted view of their work, but in many cases they have made disciplins as well as a basis of Union. Yesterday's work was pretty nearly confined to a discussion of the quarterly and district conference, the status of the missionary funds having debts, and, last, naming the united Church. "The Methodist Church" is the title favoured by the Committee, and it remains to be seen if the first General Conference will confirm the christening.

THE FIRST TO DECIDE

The Methodist Episcopal General Conference adjourned at Hamilton, subject to the call of the Bishop and the Secretary. It has been decided to call it for a special session, to consider the basis of union, on [illegible] at Toronto, [illegible] of the Joint Committee.

REMEMBER THIS.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness Nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in the use of Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all countries [illegible] malarial, epidemic, bilious, and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply, or sallow skin, bad breath, pains and aches, and feel miserable generally, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, and sweetest breath, health, and comfort.

That poor, bed-ridden, invalid wife, sister mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health, by a few bottles of Hop Bitters, costing but a trifle. Will you let them suffer? 50-4t

HIS ANSWER.

Learning simply by rote, and memorizing sounds and names, has its defects and disadvantages, as most teachers can testify. Some of its defects are well illustrated in the Pennsylvania School Journal, in answers given by scholars. A pupil was noticed examining his map very carefully.

His teacher asked him what he was searching for. He said, 'For jeopardy."

"But jeopardy is not a place."

"Yes, it is," said the pupil, "for I read in the papers this morning that a captain of an ocean steamer had telegraphed from the east that his vessel was in jeopardy."

Probably the most amusing illustration of this way of teaching and studying was the answer given to the question found in our geographies a few years ago:

"For what is the geology of Kentucky remarkable?"

The answer was, "From large bones and teeth found in this region of the country, it is supposed that this country was formerly inhabited by mastodons."

On an examination the pupil gave the answer in full, with a loud voice, correctly, with the exception of the last word, poor soul! he pronounced "Methodists!"

Such answers as these will continue to come from pupils so long as they are required to learn words without ideas.

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure in the transaction of business.

For the Christmas Trade!

To meet the wants of the Christmas buyer I have purchased extensively of the very best goods in the market—comprising:

Choice New Season TEAS—Green, Black and Japan.
Fresh Coffees, Cocoas and Chocolates
Sugars and Syrups
New Valentia Raisins
New Currants
London Layers
Dehesa and Black Basket Raisins
Sultana Raisins
Figs, Prunes, Grapes
Almonds, Filberts, &c.
Jams, Jellies, Marmalades

Cocoanut, Essences,
Vinegars, Fruits, Syrups,

Baking Powders
Sago and Tapioca,
Biscuits, Hams, Bacon
Preserved Meats and Vegetables,
Potted Chicken, Ham, Duck, Beef, Tongue, &c.
Sardines, Lobsters, Salmon, Mackerel,
Salt Fish, &c.

Ales and Porter--in Bottles!

I intend to make this a special feature of my business. I am now bottling the finest Ales and Porters, and can place them to customers at a much lower figure than that already imported in bottles. These Ales are now ready for use. All orders carefully packed and promptly delivered.

Bass & Co's Ale, and Guinness' Porter. Fine Hennessey Brandy, Martel Brandy, Pinnet Castillion Brandy. Gooderham & Worts' Whiskies, (7 year old.) Champagne, (Piper Heidsick's) Pints and Quarts, G. H. Mumm, and other makes. Imported Ports, Imported Sherries, Valencia

I have everything that the most fastidious can desire and respectfully invite inspection of my stock. Purchasing in immense quantities, I can guarantee to save you money on all purchases.

Everything that can be done to please my customers is done, and in that way I hold and increase my trade from year to year.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with grand success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "Improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (26)

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipsig, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

SANITARY SCIENCE.

Professor Bryce's Chat on the Subject

What the Provincial Board of Health is Doing—What is Wants to do—The Sanitary Condition of the Town—The Town Fathers to be Stirred up.

There was the slimmest of slim audiences at Bradburn's Opera House last Friday night to hear the lecture of Professor Bryce, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, on the subject of "Contagious Diseases; their Causes and Prevention." The attendance was so slight that it was decided that the lecturer should give a conversational synopsis of his lecture, and postpone the lecture proper to a more convenient season.

Mr. W. H. Trout was called to the chair.

subject was to have been concerning those diseases which it is the desire of the Provincial Board of Health, with the co-operation of local boards to remove as much as possible. But on this occasion he would merely speak of the work and objects of the Provincial Board of Health which was established by an act of last session, with the object of placing itself in communication with local boards of health where they existed, and where they did not, to establish them, to make all more effective in assisting the Provincial Board to carry out sanitary measures that were of the first importance. The Board had issued circulars to the clerk of every municipality inquiring into the sanitary condition of the neighborhood, and requesting them to present the circular to the Council and ask them to take action. The answers showed that in nearly every case the duties of the local board were performed in a most perfunctory manner, being chiefly confined to notifying residents to remove the ashes from their premises in the spring. The Board had issued a circular to physicians, clergy, high school masters and inspectors of public schools. It had also sent out large numbers of printed instructions for the resuscitation of the apparently drowned. The lecturer gave an interesting description of the manner in which the weekly bulletin of health was compiled, and spoke of the universal appreciation bestowed on the health map issued by the Board. Thus it was hoped to collect information respecting the causation of disease, and and to find out some relation between disease and local peculiarities of situation, soil drainage, etc. The board had made five or six important investigations into epidemic visitations of disease. Sarnia had a severe epidemic of typhoid fever. The town had built water works and through the influence of a councillor who owned property in the vicinity, the water was pumped from the bay only a 100 feet from the mouth of a sewer, and of course, typhoid fever was pumped through the town, the cases being confined to those families using such water, and there was no typhoid fever till the water was used. Another instance was cited where an epidemic of malignant diphtheria was confined to four or five houses in the neighborhood of a slaughterhouse, where the offal was fed to pigs and thrown out in corrupting masses, the stench from which was carried into the diseased houses. Another instance was given where the slops of the kitchen were simply thrown on the ground and allowed to find their way into the wells, which also received the soakage from privy pits. The great needs (to prevent such states of affairs) was efficient local boards of health. The town council was de jure a board of health, but they generally delegated their power to some broken down old man who confined his exertions to warning people in the spring to move the ashes from their back yards. There was no thorough supervision of drainage facilities or of the dangerous flow of privy pits into wells. Effective boards of health by investigating causes of disease, removing and preventing the expense of illness and death, could be made to pay. The life of each citizen saved would be a gain of $1,000. He next referred to the importance of a thorough construction of sewers and quoted statistics to prove that a low rate of deaths depended on their efficiency. There must be a complete isolation between sewers and houses with which they are connected. It was probable that soon the provision of local boards of health would be made compulsory. There should be no dabbling in sanitary matters. He pointed out how thorough and stringent were the health regulations in Boston and New York. In the former place a citizen reports a nuisance to the inspector, he to the central [illegible] and [illegible] is taken [illegible] York [illegible] the [illegible] Hill [illegible] the [illegible] Hill [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] Hill [illegible] to [illegible] the [illegible] Hill [illegible] to

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament Fourth Session.

(Special telegram to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, Dec. 13th, 1882.

The fourth session of the fourth Parliament of the Ontario Legislature, was opened in due form by His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, this afternoon. The following is the SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

With much pleasure I welcome you once more to the capital of the province, and to your important and responsible duties, as provincial representatives of the people. I congratulate you on the prosperity which during the present year the province has enjoyed arising in chief from the abundant harvest with which it has pleased Providence to bless the labours of a thrifty and industrious people. The progress of agriculture in the province during the past 12 years is extremely gratifying. Important services have been rendered to this great industry by the work of the Agricultural College and experimental farm, by the investigations and report of the Agricultural Commission, and by the other measures which have from time to time been adopted for this purpose by the Legislature. On the present occasion I desire to congratulate you especially on the important advantages which already have been secured by the Bureau of Industries, established in your last session. The statistical and other information relating to the agricultural interests of the province, collected by the Bureau, strikingly exhibits the magnitude and importance of these material resources. In the production of cereals especially, it is now ascertained that Ontario holds a foremost place when compared with the most favored regions of this continent. a system which, besides its other objects preserves for annually publishing carefully gathered statistics of the farm, the forest, and the factory, is a valuable agency for exhibiting the growth and capabilities of the Province, and will prove of the highest service in attracting immigration and wealth from other lands.

I notice with pleasure that during the present year there has been a marked increase over last year in the number of immigrants who have become permanent settlers in our province. I have much gratification in stating that the lumber trade which always constitutes an important factor of the general welfare and prosperity of the Province has alike as a source of provincial revenue and industry been in a satisfactory order during the year. The year's receipts from timber and crown lands, sales will probably exceed a million of dollars. I regret that the Federal authorities continue to dispute the title of the Province to its northerly and westerly portions, notwithstanding the unanimous award of the arbitrators which was made and published more than 4 years ago. Some recent correspondence has taken place on the subject with the federal government, and will be laid before you. The reports of the Provincial officers on the condition of the disputed territory, and on the local occurrences of the year will also be submitted for your information. I commend to your earnest attention the question of the territorial integrity of the Province. You are already aware that the act which was deemed necessary for protecting the public interest in rivers, streams and creeks has been disallowed by the federal government. The recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, as to the present state of the law renders some legislation indespensible in the interest as well of the public, as of lumbermen and all others whose business requires that they should have the use of our rivers and streams. The subject demands your renewed attention both in connection with the disallowance of the two acts heretofore passed, and as involving the legislative autonomy of the province. The revised acts respecting municipal institutions and respecting jurors and juries having from time to time received important additions and improvements. Bills consolidating the various acts on these subjects. will be submitted for your approval. Bills also for consolidating the public and high school law, will probably be laid before you.

I rejoice to state that our educational institutions continue efficient and progressive, and that the scholastic advantages of the Province keep pace with its rapid material development.

In pursuance of the policy of passing general laws wherever practicable for matters which otherwise would have to be provided for by private acts, there will be submitted for your consideration a Bill for the construction of Street Railways in cities and towns, a Bill to facilitate the erection of gas works by municipalities, and a Bill to provide public parks where desired by the ratepayers concerned and their municipalities.

Among the other measures which are to be submitted for your consideration are a Bill to supply defects in the election laws, a bill relating to law of insurance, a bill for the inspection of steamboats, a bill respecting private asylums for the insane and a bill for simplifying the practice of conveyancing and the laws of property.

The reports of the several departments of the public service for the year 1882 will be laid before you. Amongst them will be the first annual report of the Provincial Board of Health. I congratulate you upon the advantages which have already attended the creation and appointment of this Board, and from its operations during the year, I venture to hope that the Board is destined to prove an efficient instrument in promoting the health, comfort and well-being of the people. The report of the license department will show the operation of the license law during the year. I am glad to observe a determination on the part of our people to resist all attempts to relax the law for restricting the traffic in intoxicating liquor.

The public accounts of the receipts and expenditures in 1882 will be laid before you. The estimates for 1883 will be presented for your approval, and will be found to be framed with every regard for economy, consistent with the efficiency of the popular service.

I trust that the labours of this session may be marked, as those of past sessions have been, by wisdom and prudence, and may serve further to promote the prosperity and happiness of our population.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Council met on December 4th, pursuant to adjournment. Present—The Reeve, Mr. Collins, and Councillors Brealy, Brownscombe, Forster and Dobbin. The Reeve in the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A bylaw was introduced, received its several readings and was passed appointing Deputy Returning Officers for the municipal elections and the places where the voting is to take place. On motion of Mr. Foster, seconded by Mr. Brownscombe, the time for returning the Collector's Roll was extended to the 26th December. Some small accounts were presented and ordered to be paid. All parties having claims against the council are requested to forward them to the Clerk, so that they may be laid before the Council at its next meeting.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The fourth Sabbath School institute on the Keene Circuit will be held in Bethel Church, Otonabee, on Wednesday Dec. 27th, beginning at two o'clock, and the evening session at 7. An interesting programme for discussion has been provided.

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.—The manufacturers have yet to hear of a single case of Dyspepsia or Biliousness, when ZOPESA was used as directed, in which it was not more than satisfactory. Many write that it is a wonderful remedy. We can show where as high as 40 pounds were gained by its use in breaking up chronic Biliousness and Dyspepsia. Its friends increase very fast, and all who use as directed are surprised and gratified. 48-4t

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MUNICIPAL.

A meeting of the Village Council took place in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening last.

Present, His Worship the Reeve and Councillors Hull, Cox, McWilliams and Hill.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. K. Urquhart's request, asking a rebate on his drainage tax was considered. Mr. Urquhart had received no benefit, and should not have been assessed. It was decided to remit half as much as Mr. Urquhart had intimated would be satisfactory under the circumstances.

A petition was presented by T. J. Nelson, and others, asking the Council to see after the opening up of Water street, it having been encroached on by Ross & Co. and others.

The clerk was instructed to get legal advice on the matter.

Mr. H. Wynn also complained that the street given by Ross & Co'y in exchange for Concession street was only 58 feet wide instead of 66 feet. He had been opposed to the transfer and was still opposed to it, if it could be prevented, but if not the Council should see that the new street was made the proper width.

His Worship replied that he would have the affair investigated.

Mr. M. Harper, presented an account of $13.50, for the funeral expenses of the late Solomon F. Smith. It was thought best to leave it for the consideration of the next meeting, and in the meantime afford the friends an opportunity to contribute.

Mr. Wright asked for an appropriation to assist in building a belfry for the bell of St. John's Church. There was a fire alarm attached which would be always accessible to the public, and therefore a general benefit.

The Council was favorably disposed, but considered it advisable to postpone the granting of an appropriation, until the work was completed or in progress.

SKATING RINK.

The rink was opened on Monday evening; there was a good turn out and ice very good for the first. The would-be curlers were also trying their hands.

ST. JOHN'S CONCERT.

The concert on Thursday evening, 7th inst., was, considering the very stormy night, a greater success than could have been expected. All acquitted themselves most creditably. The local as well as the original hits in Messrs. Wright and Hilliard's Gendarmes "took immensely;" they were full of wit and humour. The characters in the farce were particularly well sustained.

Remember the Bazaar at the Convent, on the 21st and 22nd instant.

Municipal difficulties at Troy, N. Y., has resulted in that city being protected by two rival police forces. A serious riot was the outcome of the rivalry on Saturday. The old force refuse to be dismissed from office.

ANNIVERSARY SERMON.

Preached at Springville by Rev. Wm. Bennett.

The following is a synopsis of an anniversary sermon preached in the Presbyterian church, Springville, on Sunday, 19th Nov., 1882, by Rev. Wm. Bennett.

Ps. 90. 12.—So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto Wisdom.

This portion invites to a review of the past. "It is well to talk with our past hours and ask them what report they bear to Heaven."

There are three leading thoughts in the text.

1st. It is right to number our days.

2nd The object we should have in view in numbering our days is that we may apply our hearts to Wisdom.

3rd Divine teaching is necessary in order that this object may be gained.

We number our days when we take a survey of the time that is past, and when we project our thoughts into the future and consider the days that are to come. The expression, "our days," no doubt, includes the whole period of our natural lives. It is easy arithmetically to number the days that are gone. But how will we number those that are to come. No rule in arithmetic can help us. The present day is all we can reckon upon and not even the whole of this.

What are we taught by this exercise of the numbering of our days?

(1) The rapidity of the flight of time how swiftly the years of the past have glided away! Ask the old man of 80 or 90 years of age if he thinks it a very long time since his childhood, and you will hear from him the striking reply, "It is as nothing, as we advance in years time flies all the quicker." How soon to the old man the annual revolutions are made! "Time flies on restless pinions."

(2) The exercise of numbering our days should teach us the preciousness of time. If time flies fast it is not to be wasted. There is a certain amount of work to be done during the time that is allotted to each of us. It is all important than that we should catch the moments as they fly.

"Happy the man, and happy he alone,
He, who can call to-day his own,
He, who, secure within himself can say
To-morrow do thy worst for I have lived to-day."

To-morrow will never come:

"There is no to-morrow. Though before our face
The shadow named so stretches, we alway
Fail to overtake it, hasten as we may."

The numbering of our days should teach us

(3.) The uncertainty of time. We look into the future and we ask ourselves "How much longer are we likely to live?" To this there can be only the one answer, "I do not know." Nothing is more uncertain in the future than life and health. Better that it is so. "The veil that hides the future is woven by the hand of mercy."

"Oh blindness to the future kindly given,
That each may fill his circle marked by heaven."

I do not believe it would do us the least good to know the very hour of death. As a rule we would still postpone the great work of preparation. Old men who know they must die in a few months or at least in a few years, oftentimes have no more anxiety than they had when children. It is wisely ordered therefore that life is an uncertainty.

(4.) The object to be gained by the numbering of our years is that we may apply our hearts to wisdom.

(1.) To the obtaining of wisdom and

(2.) To the practice of wisdom.

The wisdom referred to may include philosophy, astronomy, geology, &c. The christian is not forbidden to make these subjects of study. The most eminent christians have. All, however, cannot. Time to the most is too short and too much occupied with other engagements. The study of science and philosophy is not the first duty of man. His ignorance of these will not stand in the way of his salvation. The wisdom referred to must be the "Wisdom of God"—an acquaintance with him "in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge" and "whom to know and to believe is eternal life." In view of the uncertainty of time—of the shortness of time, of the preciousness of time, is not this the knowledge after which we ought to strive?

It will avail us nothing in the long run to number our days unless we attain to this wisdom. Of what avail will the knowledge of science and philosophy be to the man who is not saved?

If we number our days aright we will not apply our hearts to the acquirement of wisdom, but to the exhibition of it also. In view of the shortness and uncertainty of time we will seek to live to the best purpose—that we may become useful to others. There is not one of us who has not one talent at least. For the use of this we are as responsible as if we had ten.

We manifest wisdom again in noting the work already done—when we ask ourselves the question, could I not have done something more and better? Have there not been errors which I can correct—omissions which I can supply—sins which I can avoid? Every one needs to improve. Do what we will we still come short.

Divine help is needed that we may be enabled to number our days in such a manner as to apply our hearts to wisdom. "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts to wisdom." We may number our days and yet this not be the effect. We may think of the time that is past—we may think of the shortness and uncertainty of the future, and yet be no better than we were before. We may see the errors of the past—may become greatly ashamed of what we have done and of what we have been and yet remain the same. Bad habits are not so easily corrected as that we can always depart from them by mere force of will. The psalmist thought he needed divine help to number his days aright, or he would not have offered up the prayer contained in the text. This is the secret of all our failures in our attempts at reformation—we trust to ourselves, we might almost as well think to convert ourselves at the out set as to keep ourselves from falling, or restore ourselves when we do fall.

Now to apply the aforegoing lessons to present circumstances. We have announced this as our Anniversary sermon. This pre-supposes the numbering of our days as your pastor. Ten years have elapsed since the time of our settlement over this charge. This is the longest we have yet had. I have had more comfort than ever before and not less prosperity. My temporal wants have been cared for, your engagements have all been fulfilled, you have done more than was promised on your part or expected on mine.

I would here mention with gratitude your great kindness in most graciously permitting me to leave your midst and to take up my residence in Peterborough; only for your liberality in this matter the education of my family must have fallen far short of what it now may be. May I express the hope that you have not suffered in consequence of my change of residence. I have tried to preach as well—I have tried to do pastoral work as extensively as I did while still occupying your comfortable Manse. Many other acts of kindness as a congregation you have shown. To the families from whom I have received so many favors on the Sabbath, when on my way to the other station I take this opportunity of returning my heartfelt thanks. To the families, also, from whom I have received valuable Christmas and New Year's gifts, I desire to express my sense of gratitude. May all your wants, temporal and spiritual, be supplied in time and throughout eternity.

Let me now speak a little with regard to the progress made.

By a reference to the Session Records, I see that your membership in 1862, ten years before my coming among you, was 135. In 1870 the membership had fallen off to 83, and in 1872, the year of my induction, it had been reduced as low as 69. Our membership at this date is 104. Had there been no diminution by death and removal our total membership would have been 133 or within 2 of what it was in 1862.

During the ten years that I have been your Pastor, 21 members have been received by certificate, and 43 on profession of faith. Our loss during these years has been 29. Thirteen have been removed by death, and 16 by certificate or voluntary withdrawal.

In a few days $4,000 will have been raised by you for stipend purposes. You have contributed $1,040 for the schemes of the Church. How much you have given for local purposes, for the remodelling of the former church, and for the building of this one—for church furniture and organ—for light, fuel, and care of the church, I have not computed. The number of baptisms during the ten years have been 52. Our Sabbath day collections are now twice what they were in 1872.

You will no doubt ask, "How do things stand in the other congregation?"

At the date of my settlement there were 21 names on the communion roll. The number at present is 35. Had we had no losses there would have been 48, more than twice what we had at the outset. The total additions have been 27—13 by certificate and 14 on profession of faith. During the ten years 13 have been removed. One has taken away by death; 12 have been dismissed by certificate, have left the bounds or have voluntarily withdrawn. 26 children have been baptised.

If we compare the rate of increase between the two stations for the 10 years, the difference is in favor of Bethany. There, there has been a two thirds, here there has only been a one half increase.

The contributions at Bethany are nearly the one half of what yours have been.

From the one pastoral charge then, there has been an addition to the church, on profession of faith, of 57. This is the clear gain to the church. Those received by certificate were not clear gain, for what we found others had lost. There was an average of 6 additions each year, during the ten years, upon profession of faith.

Taking the Assembly's statistics of last year as a specimen, this is rather more than the average over the whole church.

An average of six additions each year seems small. If you look at it in another light it is not so small. It is about six per cent. per annum. Take large congregations and estimate in the same way and see the result. Take a congregation of 300 members. Six per cent per annum would mean 18 additions each year—of 400 members, it would mean 24 additions each year, and of 600 members, 36 additions each year, which in ten years would amount to 360. Now you would think that a large increase, but it would be no larger in proportion than our own.

The contributions towards the Stipend Fund, have averaged about $10 per family. The obligations at Bethany are larger than at Springville. There the obligations are over $11 per family. Here the obligations are somewhat less than $10 per family. This is a much larger average than is found over the whole church. The average over the whole church last year was $7.64 per family, for stipend purposes.

Your average per family, towards the schemes of the church during the 10 years has been $2.60. This was just the average over the whole church last year. That you have come up to the average for the schemes, speaks well for you seeing you have paid so much more than the average toward the Stipend Fund. You have done well, but you have not yet exceeded your ability. In respect to contributions even we can make this the beginning of a new era. Arising from the review made there is ground for humiliation. We have come far short of doing what we could, we have come far short of doing what some others have done in like circumstances.

There are other parts of the Spirit in which we are still lacking. Love, gentleness, goodness, meekness, faith, temperance have not been in operation to the extent that they should.

This review of the past ten years should constrain to better preaching and more faithful pastoral work on the part of the Minister; and to a higher appreciation of the means of grace on the part of the people.

We all expect to do differently before we die—to live better lives, to be more loving to God and to man, less worldly, less selfish, more self-denying, more zealous in the cause of God. Let us begin to-day. Think of the shortness, the preciousness, the uncertainty of time. Think of the failures made, of the errors committed, the injuries upon ourselves and others inflicted, and say with David:

"I thought upon my former ways
And did my life well try,
And to thy testimonies pure
My feet then turned I.

"I did not stay nor linger long
As those that slothful are,
But hastily Thy laws to keep Myself I did prepare."

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

THE BABY'S DIMPLE.

Over the cradle the mother hung,
Softly cooing a slumber song,
And these were the dimple words she sung
All the evening long:

"Cheek or chin, or knuckle or knee,
Where shall the baby's dimple be?
Where shall the angel's finger rest,
When he comes down to the baby's nest?
Where shall the angel's touch remain
When he awakens my baby again?"

Still as she bent and sang so low,
A murmur into her mouth broke,
And she paused to hear, for she could not know
The baby's angel spoke:

"Cheek or chin, or knuckle or knee,
Where shall the baby's dimple be?
Where shall my finger fall and rest
When I come down to the baby's nest?
Where shall my finger's touch remain
When I wake your baby again?"

Silent the mother sat and dwelt
Long on the sweet delay of choice,
And then by her baby's side she knelt,
And sang with pleasant voice:

"Not on the limb, O angel dear!
For the charms with its youth will disappear
Not on the cheek shall the dimple be,
For the harboring smile will fade and flee;
But touch thou the chin with impress deep,
And my baby the angel's seal shall keep."

A GOOD EXCUSE.

Thomas Charlton hooked his chin over the prisoner's bar at the Police Court, and regarded His Honour with a bland smile.

"Thomas, you are charged with being drunk," said the court.

"I can't deny it," said Thomas grinning from ear.'

"You don't seem to be very sorry."

"I'm happy, Yer Honour," said the prisoner, giggling.

"What excuse have you for getting drunk?"

"I've got seven excuses, judge."

"Seven excuses?"

"Yes, Yer Honour, seven. Now I don't mind tellin' ye all 'bout it. Ye see, I've got six boys in my family, and las' night—it's a girl, judge.

Thomas got off.

CHANGED HIS MANNER.

The Arkansas Traveller tells us why Dr. Squint changed his manner. Billings saw Dr. Squint.

"Hello, my friend," exclaimed the doctor; "I am glad to see you. Around hunting for news, I suppose. You reporters are always on the go. You are the best reporter in Arkansas. Say, I'm going to have a little gathering of friends at my house to-morrow night, and my wife, who is a great admirer of you, by-the-way, sent you a special invitation. Let's have a bottle of wine. Say there, waiter, bring us a bottle of Piper Heidseick."

"I suppose you have heard, doctor, that I am no longer connected with the Daily Bloom."

"No."

"Yes, I have retired from the newspaper business. When do you say you want me to come around?"

"O, any time," replied the doctor, with an evident change of manner. "Say, waiter, never mind the wine. Bring us two beers."

PUT THAT RASCAL OUT.

While the congregation were collected at the the church on a certain occasion an old, dark-featured, skin and bone individual was seen wading his way up the aisle, and taking the seat near the pulpit. The officiating minister was one of that class who detested written sermons, and as for prayers, he thought they ought to be the original outpouring of the heart. After the singing was concluded, they were as usual called to prayer. The genius we have introduced did not kneel, but leaned his head devotionally upon his pew. The minister began by saying:

'Father of all, in every age by saint and savage adored—'

'Pope!' said a low but clear voice near the old hard features.

The minister, after casting an indignant look in the direction of the voice, continued:

'Whose throne sitteth on the adamantine hills of Paradise—'

'Milton!' again interrupted the voice.

The minister's lips quivered for a moment; recovering himself he began:

'We thank thee, most gracious Father, that we are permitted once more to assemble in Thy name, while others equally meritorious but less favored, have been carried beyond the bourne from which no traveller returns—'

Shakspere!' again interrupted the voice.

This was too much. 'Put that impudent fellow out,' shouted the minister.

'Original!' ejaculated the voice, in the same calm but provoking manner.

THE MISERIES OF A MEAN MAN.

Sometimes I wonder what a mean man thinks about when he goes to bed. When he turns out the light and lies down. When the darkness closes in about him and he is alone, and compelled to be honest with himself. And not a bright thought, not a generous impulse, not a manly act, not a word of blessing, not a grateful look comes to bless him again. Not a penny dropped into the outstretched palm of poverty, nor the balm of a loving word dropped into an aching heart; no sunbeam of encouragement cast upon a struggling life; no strong right hand of fellowship reached out to help some fallen man to his feet—when none of these things come to him as the "God bless you" of the departed day, how he must hate himself. How he must try to roll away from himself and sleep on the other side of the bed. When the only victory he can think of is some mean victory in which he has wronged a neighbor. No wonder he always sneers when he tries to smile. How pure and fair and good all the rest of the world must look to him, and how cheerless and dusty and dreary must his own path appear. Why, even one lone, isolated act of meanness is enough to scatter cracker crumbs in the bed of the average ordinary man, and what must be the feelings of a man whose whole life is given up to mean acts. When there is so much suffering and misery and heartache in the world, anyhow, why should you add one pound of wickedness or sadness to the general burden? Don't be mean, my boy. Suffer injustice a thousand times rather than commit it once.

THE USE OF FALSE HAIR by ladies is a most disagreeable practice, from not only is it impossible to trace its origin, but also the natural hair is constantly changing while the dead hair retains its color. By the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer on the contrary, the color of the hair is rendered natural and always beautiful, glossy and a venerable crown of glory, every lady should use it, and to gentlemen whose hair is growing thin, it is a necessity. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists. 49-8t

Susan B. Anthony has fallen heir to $30,000.

If, after all that has been said through these columns, you are still in doubt of the excellence of Thatcher's Orange Butter Color, is it impossible to devise a means that will induce you to give it one trial?

Notwithstanding the boasted "calchaw" of Boston, it is asserted that 50 per cent of the schoolboys of that city smoke.

A Cure for Croup. There is no better remedy for Croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil, taken internally and applied according to special directions, this is the great household panacea for Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Pain, Inflammation, &c. 49-2t

Duclerc the French premier, was at one time proof-reader on an obscure newspaper.

"Example is better than precept. It is well known that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headache and many other ills can only be cured by removing cause. To woman's wit must be accorded the credit of the discovery of an unequalled sparkling wine made from the juice of the apricot.

A WISE MAXIM.—"A stitch in time saves nine," not only in mending garment, but also in mending health. If Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam were used in the earlier stages of Colds and Coughs, many a "stitch in the side" and many a case of torn lungs might be avoided, that, neglected, rapidly develop into irreparable Consumption. 49-2t

The News announces that Earl Derby will immediately enter Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet. No others changes will occur at present.

It imparts a gloss and freshness to the hair which all admire.

The scriptures mention eight kinds of kisses, viz.: salutation, valediction, reconciliation, subjection, approbation, adoration affection and treachery.

All Druggists keep it. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 49-8t

The Grand Jury at the Middlesex Sessions in their presentment recommended the practic of corporal punishment for juvenile offenders.

It seems impossible that a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandlion, &c., should make so many and such great cures as Hop Bitters do; but when old and young, rich and poor, pastor and doctor, lawyer and editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer. 50-2t

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

The Grand Jury reported the jail in a clean and well kept condition, and regretted to see so many stalwart prisoners without employment.

The business of the Court was concluded on Wednesday afternoon.

Remember the Bazaar at the Convent, on the 21st and 22nd Instant.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

For the season there was a very light market, last Saturday.

The first skating carnival will be held on Dec. 29th, 1882.

Those who want to buy had better call and see I. Robinson's overcoats. 50.

Work on the Missing Link is progressing in spite of the weather. The steam shovel stops for neither storm nor snow.

Leaving out George street, it may be remarked that if a man is as dead as the snow by-law his friends have not much reason to be proud of him.

ROCK ISLAND BOOTS, hand made, just the thing for fall wear, to be had only at the wholesale and retail boot and shoe establishment of R. Stenson & Son. 40tf.

Don't be too hard on the bakers for keeping up the price of bread. Recollect that hops are dear, wood is money and labor demands high wages.

The man who shoots the bounding deer after the 15th of December, breaks the game law, and will perhaps find deer shooting dear sport.

On Wednesday morning a loaded coal sleigh got a certificate of good weight. It got "stuck" in the snow on George street, and required an hour's industrious digging to get the craft afloat.

During November there were registered with the town clerk, 18 births, 7 marriages and six deaths. It is needless to add that these do not include the whole number under these classes.

The Minister of Customs, Ottawa, has granted the freedom of the customs to the American canoeists that come into Canada to take part in the canoe camp to be held at Stony Lake next year.

Parents of pupils are cordially invited to visit the public schools on this (Thursday) and Friday afternoons, when they may judge of the progress of their children and of the style of teaching by having them then examined in any subject suggested.

There is a great scarcity of water in the wells, and farm stock, in some places in the country is with difficulty supplied with drink. There is no water in the swamps and the weatherwise, say that winter for that reason has not come to stay.

The coasting boys that dart out of that lane on the east side of Water street, just below Brock, will some of these days collide with some passing sleigh and be badly "broken up." Coasting on the streets is a very dangerous pastime, not only here but elsewhere in the town.

All are invited to the Bazaar at the Convent, on the 21st and 22nd Instant.

PERSONAL.

Messrs. A. Elliott and F. G. Birney arrived home from the Northwest last Saturday.

Rev. Father Conway, of Toronto, arrived on Thursday to take the duties of Rev. Father Lynch, at St. Peter's Church.

Messrs. Croft, Chamberlain and Calcutt local representatives are absent in Toronto, attending the meeting of the Ontario Licensed Victuallers.

Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, of St. Luke's, Ashburnham, takes charge of the "Children's Department" in the Church World, which is to be begun in the January number. He is also editor of the "Sunday School Lessons" of the same journal.

Mr. D. Hampton, formerly teacher in this town, has returned from Winnipeg to fill the position of headmaster of the Milbrook public school at a handsome salary. Mr. Hampton was in town last week and from his improved physical appearance Winnipeg must be an extremely healthy place. Mr. Hampton's duties commence on the 1st of the year.

All are invited to the Bazaar at the Convent, on the 21st and 22nd Instant.

A SOLID FACT.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

Diamond Brand	only	30c per Can
Selects	"	35c " "
J. B. L. Selects	"	40c " "
J. L. & Co's (Blue Points)	"	50c " "

CONDOLENCE.—At the meeting of Peterborough Lodge on Thursday night last, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—Moved by brother J. R. Stratton, seconded by brother John Sawers: That, whereas Almighty God, in the wisdom of His providence, has been pleased to relieve from earthly responsibilities and cares, and take to himself a most highly esteemed and well beloved brother, in the person of Dr. Allen, we the members of Peterborough Lodge, No. 111., desire to place on record, as far as words will avail, the deep regret and grief, that we feel at his loss. In his death the order has lost one of its promising members. In the councils of our gatherings he will be greatly missed, in both a fraternal and social capacity: That this lodge begs to tender to the bereaved relatives and associates of the deceased, its expression of heartfelt sympathy with the sad affliction that has bereft them severally of an affectionate husband, a dutiful son, a kindly brother and a faithful friend, which we can do the more feelingly because we feel that we have a large share in the respect and esteem, which his upright character and blameless life commanded, as well as in the grief, with which his removal from earth in the midst of usefulness and in the hope of manhood, has shadowed the hearts of all that knew him.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The regular meeting of the School Board took place in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening last.

Present, — Mr. Galvin, (Chairman), Messrs Cox, Isbister, Wilson, Sanders, and Dr. Caldwell.

Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was received from T. J. Bird explaining an error in his account, and quoting school supplies regarding which there was some discussion. It was finally decided to ask for tenders.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

W. H. Casement, for 16 cords wood	$36 00
Isaac Watson, for repairs	7 00
Corporation for lumber	3 25
	$46 25

On motion of Mr. Sanders, seconded by Dr. Caldwell, Mr. Isaac Watson was reappointed janitor at a salary of $80.00, he to find his own brooms and put the wood in the shed.

Mr. W. H. Casement was appointed returning officer for the annual school meeting.

The head master's report was received.

The Board then adjourned.

The following is a report of the attendance of pupils at the public school for the month of November.

CONCERT.

The Fairbairn family held their concert here on the 13th inst.; there was a fair audience, and a very pleasant entertainment.

LEGAL MATTERS.

Considerable interest was manifested in our last division court in a suit between P. Linster and Wm. McIlmoyl, both of Smith. Mr. Dumble for defendant. The facts are, briefly, that in the summer of 1880, Wm. McIlmoyl turned out a one year old heifer calf to graze on the road and lost it. Last spring, after nearly two years, he found it (as he considers) on the Mud Lake road, drove it home to the 17th con. of Smith, subsequently selling it to his uncle, Wm. McIlmoyl, on Mud Lake road. P. Linster, who had lost a three year old heifer last summer, finding the above mentioned beast near Wm. McIlmoyl's, drove it home as the one he had lost about three months before. McIlmoyl, however, still claimed the heifer and took it away from Linster, who by writ of replevin again obtained possession of the animal. Hence the suit. Both parties had marks; both swore positively as to the ownership, also a large number of witnesses for each. As all interested are highly respectable, no doubt an honest mistake was made by some one. Verdict for McIlmoyl.

A CURLING CLUB

has been organized here. The officers elected are: President, R. Graham; Vice-President, R. C. Strickland; Sec.-Treas., J. L. Bird; committee of management, Messrs. Casement, Eden and Clarin. Members, Messrs. Sherin, Hull, Smith, Shearer, Cochrane, Dr. Caldwell, McWilliams, Sacret, A. Strickland and J. P. Strickland.

LAKEFIELD DAM.

A survey of the waters between this place and Young's Point is being made this week by a Dominion engineer. We have, therefore, reason to hope navigation may be uninterrupted next year. It is a question, however, if the work will be done to the entire satisfaction of those who take every opportunity of snarling at the Ontario Government because it did not accomplish impossibilities.

CARNIVAL.

The Skating Rink Co. are making arrangements to hold a grand opening carnival on Thursday, 28th inst. The Peterborough band will be in attendance.

MUNICIPAL.

Nomination of reeve and councillors takes place in the council chamber tomorrow. The report that a strong effort was being made to induce Mr. J. C. Sherin or J. Hull to come out in opposition to our present Reeve, must have originated in some fertile or imaginative brain. Mr. S. informs us that he has not even been approached in any way regarding the reeveship; is quite satisfied himself and has heard no complaints. The Reeve will, no doubt, be re-elected by acclamation. For councillors, Messrs. Cox, McWilliams, Urquhart, Wallace, Nelson, and probably others will likely be candidates. They are all good men, and no doubt will poll a good vote if they make the attempt.

POLITICAL.

At a meeting held in Mr. Harper's, on Monday evening, by Reformers, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Reform convention to be held in Toronto, on 3rd and 4th of Jan., there were appointed: Messrs. Hull, S. Nelson, Galvin, Moore and Isbister.

MASONIC.

The installation of officers for Clementi Lodge takes place on the evening of St. John's day, the 27th inst.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The Methodist Sunday School holds its annual 'Xmas entertainment this evening.

The Bible Christian Sunday School's annual Christmas tree will be held on Christmas evening.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

L. O. L. ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At the regular meeting of Argyle L. O. L. No. 494, held in the Orange hall, Keene, on Thursday evening the 14th inst, the following officers were elected for the coming year:—

Bro. D. A. McFarlane	W. M.
" Wm. Dowdell	D. M.
" Robt. R. McIntyre	Chap.
" Jas. McIntyre	Sec'y.
" John T. Knox	F. Sec'y.
" Walter Renwick	Treas.
" John Baker	D. of C.

Committee.—Bros. Arch. McIntyre, Wm. Wedlock, Marshall Weir, Arch. McIntyre, jr., Adam Dickson.

After the lodge closed the brethren partook of an excellent supper provided in the hall, and a very sociable time was spent until midnight when all quietly dispersed to their homes. This lodge is in a very flourishing condition and meets on the second Thursday in each month.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

On Monday evening a meeting of the Norwood High and Public School Board was held in the town hall here.

There were present Messrs. W. E. Roxburgh, chairman, Robt. Scott, Thos. Rork, S. J. Griffin, P. W. Reynolds, Thos. Buck and Wm. H. Stephenson.

The object of the meeting was to select teachers for the public school, and assistant teacher for the high school. About 60 applicants answered the advertisement published for these positions, shewing that, notwithstanding the rigid examination now required from candidates as teachers in high and public schools, there is still a large number of young men and women who desire to follow this honorable and responsible vocation. The Board diligently and prudently applied themselves to the reading over the various epistles and testimonials of the applicants, one of whom, among the many accomplishments he said he was endowed with, stated that he "could handle a shovel, axe or pickaxe, and could make himself generally useful in making any repairs required in the school building." He had too many virtues, and consequently the vices, although it would be well for our Board did not require his valuable services to study the repairing business. The fortunate applicants were, Mr. Geo. E. Phœnix H. S. Assistant, salary $600; Mr. R. A. Lyons, Headmaster Public School, salary $400, a saving of $100 from the salary of last year in this department; Miss Ella Brooks, (re-engaged) Intermediate, salary $250; and Miss Ida E. Waters, of Norwood, for the Primary department, salary $250. The Board have acted wisely in retaining the services of Miss Brooks, as she has proved very successful in advancing the pupils in her department.

MUNICIPAL.

There is very little talk about our coming municipal election, and unless there is a bonus offered for candidates for our village governors, there is a poor prospect of the usual fun at our municipal election. Mr. Pearce, our present, popular and painstaking Reeve, will hardly be opposed this year, in fact it is well known that he could not be replaced by one who could as effectually conduct our village affairs. None of the old Councillors intend to offer themselves for re-election, their past public services sufficing to give them all they desire of municipal honors.

As the municipal election draws nigh, candidates for municipal honors are gradually coming forward. The names of Mr. R. Waters, Mr. Thos. Fraser and Mr. Wm. Hutchinson are mentioned for councillors; while Mr. John Finlay is again in the field to oppose Mr Pearce for the Reeveship. None of the old councillors, so far as we can learn, intend allowing themselves to be renominated, as their past experience of public offices and public censure, has utterly slaked their appetite for public honors.

RAILWAY WORK.

Work on the Ontario and Quebec Railway, notwithstanding the severe weather of the past couple of weeks, still continues, though the men have been put on decreased pay as well as on decreased hours of labor. Mr. Macdonell, on the Norwood section, has removed his navvies to the west end of his section and intends, as well as the other contractors along the line, to continue the work during the entire winter. Last Friday, the 15th, was pay-day, when the navies enjoyed their usual monthly jubilee.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Hugh Ryan and Mr. Lumsden, of the Ontario and Quebec Railway, were in Norwood last week, making their customary inspection of the work on the road. They are highly pleased with the excavating, filling and masonry so far prosecuted along the line in this district.

EXAMINER CHRISTMAS NUMBER.

The Christmas number of the EXAMINER was well received in this neighborhood, and no doubt your advertisers must surely be amply rewarded by liberally patronizing this annual publication, as it has to your correspondents certain knowledge found its way into the house of every family residing within reach of the Norwood Post Office.

LINDSAY.

The statistics of expenditure for the public health show an alarming mortality among our dogs and cats. During the last three months thirty-three dogs and eighteen cats—all presumably defunct—have been consigned to the cold tomb by the handy man of the town.

The building of the addition to the town hall is progressing as rapidly as the season will permit, but there is still a great deal of work to do. The hall will scarcely be fit for occupancy before New Year's.

The high school's report shows on the roll 67 scholars with an average of 50.

The public schools have a total attendance of 642 pupils, with an average of 502. The attendance at the schools is increasing and the necessity of obtaining an additional room and an increase of teaching staff will presently have to be considered.

Coun. Walker, who has been grumbling at the amount of charges in the finance report on account of public health, and which had been incurred chiefly in the burial of dogs and cats, gave notice of motion that he would at the next meeting of the town council introduce a by-law to place a tax on all dogs within the town limits.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 21, 1882

Democratic Simplicity.

Some of our contemporaries are vigorously denouncing the military parade at the opening of the Ontario Legislature, and demanding its abolition. It is claimed to be an absurdity in a democratic community. Of course if the parade is looked upon, in a strictly utilitarian light it is not of much use, but if it is not a necessity it is a very harmless pageant, and symbolizes the "divinity that doth hedge a King"—or to vary the quotation, a Queen, or at least her representative. There is in these degenerate days, altogether too much iconoclasm. The spirit of reverence that underlies all moral excellence is becoming sadly deficient. There seems to be a surplus of demagogic cant about democratic simplicity in this country. Civilized society demands certain forms and ceremonies, coming into play in all the intercourse of commerce and social life, that cannot be dispensed with; and our public life cannot be deprived of all ceremony at once, without making changes that would be too radical. The snobbery of democracy, that calls for the abolition of the harmless military parades at the opening of the legislature, might find the realization of its aspirations in the primitive and half-savage state of society that obtains in the far west of the United States, whose condition may be typified by the lawyer hoisting his boots ornamented with bowie knives on the judge's desk during the session of the court. This may be considered a beau ideal of democratic disdain of useless form and ceremony, untainted by the remotest touch of that spirit that makes civilized society a refined and cultured aggregation, and not a mere mob of uncivilized and semi-savage boors, but it something that would result here if the ideas of some ultra democratic sticklers for simplicity were carried into practice.

Notes of the Day.

AUSTRALIA is sending ship loads of corned beef to England, and those who have gone into the trade have made a good financial bit.

THE Bishop of Winchester, the Right Rev. Dr. Harold Browne, has declined the Archbishopric of Canterbury, on account of his advanced age. He was born in 1811. He has been on the episcopal bench since 1873.

The rapid extension of cotton manufacturing is noted by the Montreal Witness, which supplies the following figures. Two years ago there were seven cotton mills in the Dominion; now there are twenty one, engaging in the aggregate an approximate capital of six million six hundred thousand dollars.

A NEW penal code has been put into effect in New York State. It enjoins the strict observance of the Sabbath. It strikes us that what our neighbours over the line require is not so much a law to make them observe the Sabbath as a law to make them good Christians the rest of the week. We might say the same of Canadians with equal truth.

WHOEVER chose Ceylon as the place of exile for Arabi and his five companions knew what he was about. If there is a place in the world where the business of political agitator is impossible it is Ceylon. The isolated villages, separated by vast stretches of jungle, are veritable pools of human stagnation. Even British enterprise has been unable to do more than carry on the postal service and prevent the forests from overgrowing the plantations.

SENATOR PLATT, Chairman of the United States Committee on Pensions, believe that $150,000,000 will be necessary to meet the requirements of the next fiscal year. During 1885 but $100,000,000 will be required, and $75,000,000 the following year. These pensions are mainly for payment to warriors who fought in the late civil war, but many thousands of dollars are still paid out to veterans of the war of 1812-15, or their widows.

A SCOTCH clergyman, Dr. Waddell, thinks he has found out what is finally to be done with Satan, the father of all evil. The learned divine reads the solution of the problem in that revelation of an angel coming down with a chain and a key and binding the dragon and casting him into the bottomless pit. The angel, he says, is electrical science; the chain is a coil of telegraph wire, and the key is the telegraph key. The angel of the dream has come down with the coil and the key and is enshrouding the world with chain lightning. The preacher said that in exactly the same proportion that electricity encircles the world evil will be defeated, and the regeneration of mankind will progress.

ABOUT ten days ago a solemn requiem mass was said by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Kingston for the repose of the soul of Major Herbert, the young Canadian officer who recently died in Egypt. The service was attended by hundreds of Protestants, who listened to His Lordship's eloquent and touching defence of the Catholic doctrine of Purgatory and the efficacy of prayers for the dead. On Sunday last the Rev. Dr. Wilson, assistant minister of St. George's Cathedral, and one of the examining chaplains to His Lordship the Bishop of Ontario, attacked the Bishop of Kingston's remarks and expressed his regret that so many Protestants, including members of his congregation, had attended the Roman Catholic service referred to. The sermon was one of the most outspoken delivered in the city for many a day. Considerable feeling has been engendered on the subject. Each of the theological opponents is in his way a master at polemical discussion. Bishop Cleary has not a superior in Canada; while Dr. Wilson, although a young man, possesses profound theological erudition, and is a controversialist of a high order.

MR. WIGGINS, the Ottawa Civil Service astronomer, who predicts a terrible storm at sea in March next, which he asserts no ship can withstand or survive, is being called on to make known the mathematical and astronomical calculations on which he founds his predictions of a great storm in March. Now we doubt greatly, says a contemporary, that even if these were given the public would be able to understand them; besides we are informed that they involve effects whose causes scientists themselves would not recognize after long and careful study. But the proof of the pudding is the eating. On August 5th the British Whig published Wiggins' predictions of four continental storms that would occur during the year 1882. In one of these the Asia was lost, and they all occurred within a few hours of the time stated. The last which he named was December 13th, and it arrived on time, as we all know. These four were calculated in July last, five months ago! Such facts will do more to convince the public as to the great March storm than all the figures in the world.

A PRESBYTERIAN INDEED.

Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, has a witty and wide-awake Presbyterian elder of pronounced Scotch antecedents, who although a persistent advocate of the "Westminster Confession," will occasionally, for convenience sake and from an innate love of social religious intercourse, attend the meetings of his Methodist brethren.

At a recent prayer-meeting of the latter body of Christians that was held as preparatory to a centennial service in commemoration of the progress of Methodism in Nova Scotia, the presiding minister dwelt eloquently upon the wonderful growth and prosperity of the Methodist Church, and of its great founder, John Wesley. He also expressed thankfulness that to-day there were one hundred and nine Methodist ministers in Nova Scotia.

The meeting thus very naturally assumed a denominational character, and the minister asked our good Presbyterian brother to lead in prayer at the close. The elder complied, and after thanking the Lord for the many good things he had just heard "about this branch of Zion," he added with much depth of feeling, "O Lord we thank Thee for John Wesley, but we especially thank Thee for John Knox; we thank Thee for the hundred and nine Methodist ministers in our country, but we especially thank Thee for the hundred and thirteen Presbyterian ministers who are preaching the Word of Life throughout our land. Amen."

Presbyterianism will not lose any lustre by that earnest elder, even in a Methodist prayer-meeting.

THE DIFFERENCE.

A woman will take the smallest drawer in a bureau for her own private use, and will store in it dainty scraps of ribbon and fragments of lace, foamy ruffles, velvet things for the neck, bundles of old love-letters, pieces of jewellery, handkerchiefs, fans, things that no man knows the names of, all sorts of fresh-looking, bright little articles that you couldn't catalogue in a column, and at any time she can go to that drawer and pick out any one of them she wants without disturbing anything else. Whereas a man having the biggest, deepest and widest drawer assigned to him, will put into it a couple of socks, a collar-box, an old necktie, two handkerchiefs, a pipe and a pair of braces, and can't shut the drawer without leaving more ends of things sticking out than there are things in it.

"AS SAFE AS THE BANK OF ENGLAND."

"As safe as the Bank of England," is an assurance of safety which is never questioned. No one ever lost money in the Bank of England. Its notes are good all over the world. Many strangers go to see it. Only a few persons can go around at once, with a guide. In one room notes that have been paid have the corners torn off and holes punched in them. Over fifty thousand notes, worth a million pounds, are paid every day and then cut out. They are kept five years and if you give the number and date of a note, in less than three minutes it can be found; so that if you paid a note you owed and a man said you did not do so, you could prove that you had paid it. The largest note is one thousand pounds. One hundred and twenty men are in the room where paid notes are clipped, and 1,200 in all the bank. All the notes used are printed in the bank, and the printing machines keep register of every one. Here pensions are paid to crippled soldiers. Here gold and silver plate—private property—is kept. Two things I heard interested me. "Gold is very brittle," said our guide. "If you throw it about upon a counter—that is a number of gold pieces—and then sweep it off the counter, you will find that the fragments count up. We are very careful with them in the weighing-room. All the gold sovereigns that you put in your pockets in the morning with other pieces of coin, at night will not be just the same. We know that and weigh every sovereign that has once been out of the house. We have sent boxes of gold coin by express that have come back to us unopened, yet the rubbing of the gold has worn off five pounds worth." We came away, agreeing that this great bank is one of the world's wonders.

SEBASTIAN CABOT.

Sebastian Cabot was certainly in one sense the discoverer of America: it was he who first made sure that it was a wholly new and unknown continent. In his early voyages he had no doubt that he had visited India, but after his voyage of 1498 he expressed openly his disappointment that a "New Found Land" of most inhospitable appearance lay as a barrier between Europe and the desired Asia. As the German writer, Dr. Asher has well said, "Cabot's displeasure involves the discovery of a new world." In his charts North America stands as a separate and continuous continent, though doubtless long after his time the separate islands were delineated, as of old, by others, and all were still supposed to be outlying parts of Asia. In this, as in other respects, Cabot was better appreciated fifty years later than in his own day. His truthful accounts for the time discouraged further enterprise in that direction. "They that seek riches," said Peter Martyr, "must not go to the frozen North." And after one or two ineffectual undertakings he found no encouragement to repeat his voyages to the North American coast, but was sought for both by Spain and England to conduct other enterprises. He was employed in organizing expeditions to the Brazils, or to the north pole by way of Russia, but the continent he had discovered was left unexplored. He was esteemed as a skilful mariner and one who had held high official station; he died dreaming of a new an infallible way of discovering the longitude which he thought had been revealed to him from heaven, and which he must not disclose. The date of his death, like that of his birth, is unknown, and his burial-place is forgotten. But fifty years later, when Englishmen turned again for a different object toward the American continent, they remembered his early achievements, and based on them a claim of ownership by right of discovery. Even then they were so little appreciated that Lord Bacon, writing his Reign of Henry VII., gives but three or four sentences to the explorations which perhaps exceed in real importance all else that happened under that reign.

A YOUNG LADY BOYCOTTED.

The fashion of wearing birds as headgear is reported to be going out of fashion among the ladies of England. It is said that at a garden party a young girl was boycotted for wearing on her hat "two sweet little grey doves," which, she boasted, some one had shot especially for her. The other girls scarcely spoke to her, and made the men promise not to dance with her, and she was only reinstated into general favor when she removed her hat confessing that she had never thought of the cruelty to the birds.

The most wonderful curative remedies of the present day, are those that come from Germany, or at least originate there. The most recent preparation placed upon the market in this country, is the GREAT GERMAN INVIGORATOR, which has never been known to fail in curing a single case of impotency, spermatorrhœa, weakness and all diseases resulting from self-abuse, as nervous debility, inability, mental anxiety, languor, lassitude, depression of spirits and functional derangements of the nervous system. For sale by druggists, or sent free by mail on receipt of the price, $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Address F. J. CHENEY, Toledo, O., Sole Agent for the United States. A PROLIFIC SOURCE OF DISEASE.—A trifling indiscretion in diet may lay the foundation of confirmed dyspepsia, and there is no fact in medical science more positively ascertained or more authoritatively asserted than that dyspepsia is the parent of a host of bodily ills not the least of which is contamination of the blood and the maladies of which that is the direct consequence. Their original cause is, however, thoroughly eradicated from the system by NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, a medicine which only requires regular persistence in its use to cure dyspepsia and the many ills that arise from it. No deleterious mineral ingredient is contained in it, and though its action is thorough in cases of costiveness, it never produces griping pains in the abdominal region, or weakens the bowels like a violent purgative. It invigorates the system through the medium of the increased digestive and assimilative activity which it promotes, and is also a most efficient remedy for diseases of the blood, female weakness, &c., &c. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

1882. CHRISTMAS! 1882.

It is now the season of the year when people who are contemplating making purchases for Christmas and New Year's Presents, begin to study where they can lay out their money to the best advantage. There are several points to be considered. FIRSTLY: where they can find the best variety of New, Fresh Goods, suitable to their tastes. SECONDLY: where they can get the best value for their money. THIRDLY: where the quality can be perfectly relied upon. FOURTHLY: where they can deal with confidence and feel quite sure that there will be no misrepresentations made to them of the quality of the goods they wish to buy.

THE ABOVE CONSIDERATIONS CAN BE SATISFACTORILY FULFILLED BY MAKING YOUR PURCHASES AT

R. W. MUNCASTER'S

JEWELLERY STORE,

Cluxton's Block, George St. Peterborough

Where you will find the Stock Complete in every Department, and for Price, Quality, Novelty of Design, and Reliability, unsurpassed. Amongst the immense Stock will be found a full line of GOLD and SILVER WATCHES at all Prices and Makes. GOLD JEWELLERY in Necklets and Lockets, Watch Chains, Guards, and Alberts, Breast Pins, Scarf Pins, Charms, Bracelets. Brooches and Earrings set with Diamonds, Garnets, Aqua Marines, Turquoise and Pearls. GOLD RINGS. Ladies' Gold Rings mounted with Real Stones, in every conceivable design. Wedding Rings in all sizes and prices at a High Standard of Quality. Gold Keeper Rings in Chased, Engraved and Chased, and Engraved. SILVER JEWELLERY in all styles of Brooches, Earrings, Lockets, Chains, Necklets, &c.

SILVER PLATED WARE.

The above line of Goods are being cut upon so much of late that the Quality has become quite a secondary matter with some dealers. Their whole aim is centred in presenting a showy and trashy article, which will catch the eye and which will not wear much longer than a good quality of Pewter. Such a quality as that I do not keep at all. I have nothing but the best Quadruple Plate, made by the leading American Manufacturers, whose reputation is the result of supplying a first-class article to the public for the last fifty years. The Stock of Plated Ware consists of all the Latest Designs in Cruets, Butter Dishes, Card Receivers, Cake Baskets, Pickle Stands, Knives & Forks, Spoons in Tea, Table and Dessert, and Fancy Articles, suitable for Presents.

WATCH REPAIRING This Department is one which is sadly neglected in the average Jewellery Store. The object sought to be attained is to make as much money as possible out of customers by charging exhorbitant Prices and procuring cheap workmen. My reputation for work has been achieved by always doing GOOD, RELIABLE WORK, and charging a moderate figure for it, so that people leaving Watches with me for Repairs, know that they can rely on all work leaving my hands. THE MINOR BRANCHES of the Jewellery business not named above, are all carefully attended to by myself, and the system I have adopted in business has convinced people that any goods bought from me are always in every respect to be relied upon for Quality, Workmanship, Cheapness and Variety. THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC, as experienced by me in the large volume of trade done and which is steadily increasing, say that they appreciate my efforts to establish a Jewellery Store where they can buy goods without any hesitation, knowing that Muncaster's goods are of a standard which is always the highest, and that anything bought from him never fails to be exactly as represented.

DO NOT FAIL TO INSPECT MY IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE DECIDING ON YOUR PURCHASES.

Do not fail to Remember that MUNCASTER'S Jewellery Store is in Cluxton's Block, George Street, Peterborough.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 21, 1882

"Ample" Reasons.

The Review says the Opposition have given ample reasons for the retirement of the Mowat Government from power, and it proceeds to re-enumerate them, as follows:—

(1) They have greatly increased the Provincial expenditure since the days of the Sandfield Macdonald administration; (2) they have invaded our ancient rights of municipal self-government, and have usurped patronage from the local authorities; (3) they have studiously cultivated sectional jealousies, refusing a legal and speedy settlement that would give us our rightful territory; (4) they have invaded private rights, seizing upon the property of an opponent to reward with it a supporter; (5) they have deliberately opposed the repeated decisions of the Dominion Government in fiscal matters.

We may dismiss the last charge in very few words. As citizens of the Dominion, the members of the Mowat Government, and their supporters in the Provincial Parliament, have the same right as other people to support or oppose any particular trade policy for the whole country. They exercised that right at the last election, as they did at the election of 1878, and they did no more. In their administrative capacity they have nothing, and have not assumed to have anything to do with the fiscal policy of the Dominion. Incidentally they are now acting in such a way as to promote that policy if it is really a sound one. They are at this moment asking the manufacturers for statistics which, if obtained from year to year, will enable the people to judge of the progress of the various industries which the "National Policy" was intended to foster. If that progress is what it is alleged to be, then the Opposition should rejoice at the adoption of so efficacious a means of getting at such important and useful information.

With respect to the first of the above charges, we have already indicated the answer. The expenditure has increased, but there is in that fact by itself, no ground either for praise or blame. The greatly increased expenditure of the past twelve years has been for aid to railways, for distribution of surplus in connection with the municipal loan fund settlement, for education, for maintenance of public institutions, for the the payment of costs in connection with the administration of justice, for the construction of colonization roads, and for other objects equally legitimate. The policy of a liberal expenditure of public money for proper purposes, was before the people in 1875, and in 1879. On both occasions, and especially on the last named, the contest at the polls turned very largely on that very question, and yet the Mowat Government was on both occasions sustained, the last time by a largely increased majority. And so it will be again, unless the Opposition can prove that some portion of the expenditure has been corrupt in its character. The people of Ontario are not now going to reverse the policy of the past twelve years. The Review tells of a reaffirmed policy in fiscal matters; what has it to say in reply to the statement that the policy of liberal expenditure has been twice reaffirmed by the people? The vague charge that much of the expenditure "has been incurred, not for additional work but to reward political supporters and partisan bosses" is just like the Review. If it had anything definite to offer it would hasten to put it before its readers. What have the Opposition in the Assembly been doing all these twelve years that no part of this corrupt system has been exposed?

One would think that our municipal institutions had been handed down to us from the time of Alfred the Great, who is reputed to have devised trial by jury, and a great many other good features of our government. The truth is that, in a very imperfect form, our municipal law was enacted shortly after the union of the Canadas in 1840; that from time to time ever since improvements have been made in the system; that many of these improvements have been made under the the Mowat regime; and that since 1872 not a single backward step has been taken in any of the changes made. What the Review is driving at is (1) the change made in the license law, and (2) the change made in the Division Court Act. The licensing power was taken from the municipal councils with the approval of the vast majority of the community, including the members of Assembly. It was felt to be a bad thing for all parties that a premium should be placed on the interference of license holders in municipal elections, and none felt this more strongly than the liquor dealers themselves. Unlicensed selling was winked at by the granters of licenses to the detriment of the holders of those licenses, and the trade of selling was rapidly passing into the hands of a disreputable class of men because respectable vendors found it impossible to continue it. The patronage of the license system is a source not of strength, but of weakness to the Government, and in this county at all events, there is no possibility of charging the Mowat administration with unfairness, since two out of the three Commissioners are Conservatives. By a careful arrangement of words the Review seeks to create the impression that in taking into their own hands the appointment of Division Court officials the Government have been still further encroaching on the municipal functions. The appointment of these officials never was in the gift of municipal authorities. It was part of the prerogatives of the county judges; and no matter what abuses were perpetrated by the clerks or bailiffs there was no way of calling them to account. Every one who has read the reports of the Division Court Inspector knows that flagrant abuses were at one time very common, but though they were persisted in year after year, no remedy was possible. The power of appointment should have been taken years ago out of the hands of the judges and placed in the hands of men who could be called to account for not merely the character of the appointments made, but also for the conduct of the officials during their tenure of office. This is the position of affairs now, and the change is a long stride in the direction of popular government and away from irresponsibility.

On the Review's remarks about the boundary award there is little need to comment. As a matter of fact no decision or award that can be made by any judicial tribunal—whether the Supreme Court or the Privy Council—will have a particle more of validity than the award of the arbitrators has. Legislation by the Dominion Parliament is necessary to ratify any finding by any tribunal, and there is no guarantee that Sir John Macdonald would be a whit more ready to move the ratification of a Privy Council decision than he is now to ratify that of the arbitrators. Mr. Mowat is right in taking a firm stand on the award and the people, if they want that territory, must sustain him in doing so. If there is sectionalism in the matter it has been displayed by the people of Quebec, at whose bidding Sir John Macdonald has been acting. All we want is our territory, and if we cannot have it, then on those who keep us out of it be the responsibility for the consequences.

The Review's statement of the Streams Bill case is of course a caricature, or worse. That bill did not take away McLaren's property, and did not give it to Caldwell. It merely provided on the one hand, that no timber streams could be blocked by owners of the land alongside of them, and on the other that the owners of improvements should be adequately remunerated by those who used them. A more equitable, sensible, or effective measure was never enacted, and yet, though it was unquestionably within the jurisdiction of the Ontario Parliament, it has been twice disallowed by the Dominion Government. All the sophistry of the Review cannot cover up the fact that the fight at the coming election is to be one for provincial rights. This is not the result of the policy of the Ontario Government. The contest has been forced upon them, and they would have been recreant to their trust if they had abated one jot or one tittle of our rightful demands. Confederation may endure, or it may not. That is for the future to determine, but meanwhile the first duty of the people of Ontario is to stand shoulder to shoulder in the firm determination to have their own territory and their own powers unimpaired.

Hon. Mr. Wood's Successor.

Without wishing to pose as an adviser of the Mowat Administration in regard to the appointment of a minister, and without desiring to raise sectional feelings, we must express the opinion that the eastern portion of Ontario is entitled to claim a fuller representation on the Government benches. With the retirement of Hon. Mr. Wood, Hon. Mr. Fraser will be the only member of the Government, holding a constituency east of Toronto. And the eastern half of Ontario is certainly entitled to at least two out of the six ministers. We should be less confident in suggesting this right did we not feel that we had a good successor to propose to Hon. Mr. Wood. H. M. Deroche, Esq., of Napanee, the present representative of Addington, has been renominated by his old constituency and there is no doubt that the people will be proud to return him a fourth time as their representative. A dozen years service as an active legislator and industrious political worker, has furnished him with an experience and intimate knowledge of the affairs of the province that, coupled with his agreeable personal demeanour and gifts of oratory, qualify him for a position on the Treasury benches, as well as entitle him to some such recognition for his long and faithful services in the cause of Reform and good Government.

The Toronto Convention.

We are authorized to announce that all the Railways in Ontario, will issue single fare tickets to Toronto and return from any station, to anybody on the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th of January, 1883, good to return until the evening of the 5th. Any credentials, not having been obtained before can be procured in Toronto. Every Reformer, whether a delegate or not, who can get his credentials authoritatively signed, will, we have no doubt, be welcome to attend the convention. There is every prospect of the convention being a great success.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 21, 1882.

Reform Mass Meeting.

As will be seen announced by posters, a mass meeting of the Reformers of the West Riding will be held in the Caisse House Hall, Peterborough, on Wednesday the 27th day of December, at 2.30 o'clock, p.m. The main purpose of this meeting will be the election of officers of the West Riding Reform Association for the ensuing year, but, as other business of importance will be considered, it is desirable that a full attendance of the party be present. It is certain that within the next few months there will be a general election, and it behooves Reformers to have all the details of organization perfected in good time. From all parts of the province the notes of preparation for the coming contest are sounded, and in every riding the work of thorough organization has been begun, and this riding will not be true to the province and to itself, if it does not do its full share in perpetuating the tenure of power of the present able and economical Administration. In general terms the convention will have to both propound and prepare to furnish an affirmative answer to the question, "Shall West Peterborough send a Reform representative, to the Legislature at the coming general election?" The answer must be "Yes!" Let there be a large attendance of live working Reformers at the Caisse House Hall next Wednesday.

The Provincial Treasurer.

His friends will hear with regret that the Hon. S. C. Wood has determined to retire from the Legislature at the end of the present term, and not to seek re-election. Hon Mr. Wood has occupied a seat in the House during three parliaments, and has been four times returned by the electors of South Victoria. It is high praise to say that during his tenure of the portfolio of Provincial Treasurer; the work of his department has been performed with an excellence equal to any other department of the administration. He has shown thorough knowledge of the Provincial finances, both in general and in detail, and so thorough, capable and honest has been his administration that his enemies have been able to find nothing more serious than imaginary joints in his armour, mere specks, which though magnified by party malice, have proved to be nothing palpable or tangible enough to stain his record. Not only in the routine of departmental work, but on the floor of the House, has Hon. Mr. Wood demonstrated his peculiar ability for the office, which he now resigns for solely private and personal reasons. During the time that he has been Provincial Treasurer, the utmost harmony has existed between himself and his fellow members of the the Cabinet.

The retirement of Mr. Wood is the first change that has taken place in the personnel of the Mowat administration for years, a striking contrast to the Dominion Cabinet, where a shifting and shuffling policy, a policy of trimming, has necessitated continual changes in the custody of portfolios. In the retirement of Mr. Wood the administration will lose a clever and capable Minister, the House a clear and forcible debater, and South Victoria a representative whose record has reflected credit on the Cabinet and Legislature of which he was a member and also on the constituency that has honored herself in electing him four times as her representative. This whole district will regret the circumstances that compel "Casey Wood," as he is familiarly known, to retire from public life. Of course there will be considerable speculation as to his successor. That can well be an after consideration. He is good for this Legislature, and among the overwhelming majority that will mark Mr. Mowat's return to power, there will be, both as to members and ability, abundant material from which to select the successor of Hon. S. C. Wood, as Treasurer of the Province of Ontario.

THE STREAMS BILL.

We have referred to the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of McLaren vs. Caldwell, and the disallowance of the Streams Bill twice enacted. That bill, we believe, will be again enacted by the Ontario Legislature. The Hamilton Times puts the case in a nutshell as follows:—"Should the view of the Supreme Court which as usual accords with the policy of the Dominion Government, prevail, there will be quite a revolution in the lumbering business. A man who happens to own the land on both sides of a shallow place in a river, no matter how large the river may be, will become a king of the stream, and holders of timber limits higher up must sell out to him at any price he may dictate. The effect will be a considerable reduction of Provincial revenue from timber lands, and some men will be enriched by the impoverishment of others. The decision of the Supreme Court is of small comparative importance, as it affects only one case. Its evil effect would be nullified by the Provincial Act, but for the unwarrantable interference of the Dominion Government, which seems determined that justice shall be the exception and not the rule in this Canada of ours."

HACKETT'S

The Late Lieut.-Col. Haultain.

The Eloquent Funeral Sermon Delivered by Rev. Mr. Torrance, in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough.

Last Sunday morning, December 17th, 1882, St. Paul's Church was crowded with the congregation of the church and a large number drawn thither by the occasion out of respect to the memory of a truly good man, whose death is so universally lamented. Solemnity was added to the impressive scene by the altar rails being draped in black. The large assemblage listened to the discourse in rapt attention, very many at times giving way to tears.

The reverend gentleman chose for his text the 1st verse of the 15th chapter of St. Paul's second Epistle to the Corinthians:—

"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, an house not made with hand, eternal in the heavens."

There is much about the life and experience of the believer that cannot be understood by the natural man. His life is a hidden life, a life of faith in the Son of God; and his experience is due largely to the two natures which he possesses—the old nature and the new, the flesh and the spirit. The world knoweth us not because it knew not Christ. The things of the Spirit of God are foolishness to the natural man, because they are spiritually discerned. When Paul and Silas were cast into prison at Philippi, at midnight they prayed and sang praises to God, and the prisoners heard them. How strange must it have seemed to the prisoners to hear men in the condition of Paul and Silas singing praises to God? And what a striking commentary is this conduct of Paul and Silas in the prison at Philippi upon the Apostle's own words in the preceding chapter in this Epistle: "We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; perplexed, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed. Always carrying about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life of Jesus might be made manifest in our body." This is the paradox in the experience of the believer, which is incomprehensible to the natural man. How is it that the believer is able to use such language as this? It is because of the power of the grace of God to sustain him in the midst of his afflictions, and because he thinks of the glorious prospect awaiting him in the world to come. And so the Apostle adds, "For this cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." What a contrast between outward decay and inward renewal. The believer faints not under the afflictions which cause the outward man to perish, inasmuch as by these same afflictions the inward man is renewed day by day. He knows also that earthly affliction is light and transitory as well as means to the attainment of greater glory in the world to come. So long, then, as the eyes are fixed upon the things which are not seen he is not merely kept from fainting, but he is enabled to glory in his infirmities that the power of Christ may rest upon him. His experience is set forth by Paul in the 8th chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, "For I reckon that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which is to be revealed in us."

The subject presented in the text is THE CONSOLATION OF THE BELIEVER IN VIEW OF DEATH. To this subject I ask your attention, as being appropriate to the circumstances under which we meet to-day.

I. THE PROSPECT OF DEATH.—The apostle here speaks of death as the dissolution of the earthly house of this tabernacle. He speaks of it hypothetically, because those who are on the earth at the time of Christ's second coming will be changed without undergoing dissolution. "We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet." The rest of the human family, however, must die. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." There are two figures here used by the Apostle in referring to death—the figure of a house or tent, and the figure of a garment. The earthly house of this tabernacle is the believer's body—the outward man, the earthen vessel mentioned in the preceding chapter. The body of man in general is the tabernacle of the soul, the body of the believer in particular is the tabernacle also of the Spirit of God. The term is applied to the body of the Apostle Peter, when he says, "Knowing that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath showed me." When the earthly tabernacle is dissolved, the soul, freed from its prison, wings its way beyond earth's boundary into the immediate presence of God.

What are the characteristics of this earthly tabernacle which the soul throws off at death? It is a body of humiliation, and the characteristics are corruption, degradation and weakness. This the Apostle states in the 15th chap. of 1. Cor., when he contrasts the body which the believer now has with the body which he will have in the future. "It is sown in corruption." The body, which is fearfully and wonderfully made, is doomed because of sin to corruption. After man sinned the Lord God pronounced on him the sentence, "Dust thou art and unto dust shalt thou return." And the preacher refers to this sentence in the book of Eccl., when he says, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was and the spirit shall return unto God, who gave it." The body may be broken up, its different members separated from each other, its different particles of matter scattered far and wide. It is also liable to a great variety of diseases, to which sooner or later he must fall a prey. "Man that is born of a woman is of few days and full of trouble. He comes forth like a flower and is cut down; he fleeth also as a shadow and continueth not."

"It is sown in dishonor." It is thus degraded as well as corrupt. It is also the prey of evil passions, and sooner or later becomes polluted through disease. The face which blooms in youthful beauty takes on the incipient form of corruption and decay. Death now manifests its corruption, and we hide it in dishonor by burying it out of our sight. There is nothing more revolting than a skeleton or a body returning to the dust.

"It is sown in weakness." It is thus weak as well as degraded and corrupt. Weakness is its characteristic during life, and much more so in the article of death. In how short a time even the strongest body becomes fatigued. It cannot be used for more than a few hours without requiring repose. It is weak in comparison with the bodies of many of the lower animals. One stroke of the lion's paw will crush it to the earth. It is weak in comparison with the forces of nature. It is swept away by the furious storm and by the descending avalanche. The ascendancy which man gains over the lower animals and over the forces of nature is due, not to the strength of his body, but to the power of his mind. And still more is this weakness apparent when the body is laid in the grave. Then the powerful wrestler is in the same position as the little babe, his body a piece of dead matter, quite unable to move itself. If the earthly house of this tabernacle is thus corrupt, degraded and weak, it is surely a body of humiliation. We can thus easily understand the language used by the apostle in the verses which follow the text. He says, "For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house, which is from heaven." And again in the 6th verse he says, "For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened." This is strong language, yet it sets forth not the experience of the apostle merely, but the experience of believers at the present time. So long as we continue in the body we groan. This is our bitter experience up till the time that the earthly house of this tabernacle is dissolved and the spirit thus enters the Paradise of God. In the seventh chapter of the Epistle to the Romans, the Apostle sets forth this expression at greater length. He says, "I find then a law that when I would do good evil is present with me. For I delight in the law of God after the inward man. But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. Oh wretched man that I am! Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" This is the conflict between the flesh and the spirit, the old nation and the new, the conflict which extorts from the believer bitter groans. As the believer advances in the divine life, and as he discovers more clearly the requirements of the law and the extent of indwelling sin—the conflict rages more fiercely, and the longing for deliverance becomes more intense.

The groaning of the believer is often most bitter when he meets death, the last enemy. When the earthly house of this tabernacle is being dissolved, then corruption exerts its deadly power. The emancipation of the soul from the spirit is not easily won.

Corruption, degradation and weakness characterize the bodies of all mankind. In this respect there is no difference between the saint and the sinner. One event happeneth to all alike, because all dwell in bodies of humiliation. Great as is the difference between the soul of the saint and the sinner, their bodies undergo the same experience of suffering and death.

II. THE PROSPECT AFTER DEATH.—"We have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. It is evidently to the resurrection body that the Apostle primarily refers in these words. It is true he speaks of it as something which believers have at death; but in many other places he speaks of future blessings, as though they were actually possessed. What are the characteristics of the building of God, into which the soul will enter on the resurrection day? It is like unto the glorious body of the Lord Jesus, and its characteristics are incorruption, glory, power. This the Apostle states in the 15th chap. of Cor., the chapter to which we have already referred.

"It is raised in incorruption." Disease will never mar its beauty, age will never cause it to decay. The curse which fell upon the body of the first Adam will have no power over it. It will not be subject to death. The eyes of Jacob shall no more be dim for age; Meplubosheth shall not be lame in his feet, nor shall the senses of Barzillai be dull and languid. Pain shall not relax or emaciate the children of the resurrection.

"It is raised in glory." It will be free from everything that can offend the taste or suggest the slightest idea of impurity. The king's daughter is all glorious within; her clothing is of wrought gold." How glorious the body of the Lord Jesus! When transfigured in the presence of three disciples, his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. When Saul of Tarsus saw him on the way to Damascus, He was encompassed with a light above the brightness of the sun. If, as as we have reason to believe, the glory of His exalted state exceeds any representation which the eye of man can bear, what will be the glory of the resurrection body of the believer, which is to be fashioned like unto that of Christ?"

"It is raised in power." As the weakness of the body which the believer now has is the result of its corruptibility and dishonor; so the power of the body which he will have in the future will be the result of its incorruptibility and its glory. It will then be able to accomplish things far beyond the power of the present body. It will not be fatigued by constant employment, nor will it need to take repose in sleep. All the avenues for the entrance of beautiful sights and melodious sounds will be enlarged a hundred-fold. The resurrection body will be a spiritual body, a body fitted to carry out the promptings of the higher spirit in man, and in readier obedience to the will of God.

But while the primary reference of the Apostle is to the resurrection body, his words may be taken in a much wider sense. There is a blessed prospect for the believer immediately after. He has not to look forward to a gloomy period of unconsciousness between death and resurrection. No sooner is the earthly house of this tabernacle dissolved than the soul is carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom. When he is absent from the body he is present with the Lord. When he departs from this life, he departs to be with Christ, which is far better. It is with the dying believer as it was with the penitent thief to whom Jesus said, "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise." The eye of sense beholds the lifeless body, thin and wan, by reason of its conflict with disease; the eye of faith beholds a perfected spirit amid the joys of the paradise of God. How comforting this prospect of immediate blessedness. There is blessedness about the place. It is Paradise, the place to which Paul was caught up and when he heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter. There is blessedness about the company. It is with Christ. As He said in His intercessory prayer. "Father, I will that they also whom thou hast given me be with me, where I am that they may behold my glory which thou hast given me."

At death the soul of the believer departs to be with Christ, but not until the resurrection will the believer be fully perfected by his soul re-entering his glorified body. It is for this reason that the resurrection is constantly represented in the Apostolic writings as the great consummation for which the believer is earnestly longing. Thus the Apostle says, "And not only they, which have the first fruits of the spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body." And again the chapter from which the text is taken. "For we that are in this tabernacle do groan being burdened. Not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life." It is not for death merely that the Christain is to wait and groan, though after death there is the prospect of immediate blessedness, but it is for the resurrection, where he shall be clothed upon with his house which is from heaven. Great is the blessedness of laying aside the body of humiliation and departing to be with Christ; but still greater is the blessedness of becoming possessed of a spiritual body, fashioned like unto the glorious body of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is only reasonable then that the Christian should long for Christ's appearing. This is the time when the living saints are to be changed and the dead to be raised with glorified bodies. This is the time when the completeness of redemption is to be fully manifested, the redemption of the body from the power of the grave as well as the redemption of the soul from the pollution of sin. This is the time when the Redeemer is to see of the travail of his soul and to be satisfied, when the fruits of his victory are to be all ingathered and the power of Satan utterly destroyed. On the resurrection day, when the saints, countless as the dew drops of the morning, shall rise to meet their coming Lord, they will be able to repeat with far more triumph than ever before the words of the Apostle, "O death, where is thy sting! O grave where is thy victory? The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law. But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

But the words of the Apostle may be taken in a yet wider sense—to include the Christian's life in heaven throughout the ages of eternity. There is the prospect not only of immediate blessedness after death, of resurrection and glory; but also of unending happiness in heaven. Greater even than the blessedness of departing to be with Christ, and rising again with glorified bodies, is the blessedness of the Christian's life in heaven after the resurrection. Think of the place in which the Christian is forever to dwell, Heaven—How many figures are used to set forth its glory and its blessedness! It is a Paradise—watered by the pure river of the water of life, and in the midst of it there grows the tree of life, the leaves of which are for the healing of the nations. It is a country, of which Canaan of old was but an imperfect type—over whose broad fields the saints will have the privilege to roam—a country never to be visited by famine or pestilence or war. It is a city with streets of gold, gates of pearl and walls garnished with all manner of precious stones—a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God. It is a temple, filled with divine glory, a temple which ever resounds with the celebrations of Jehovah's praise. It is the Father's house in which the redeemed will gather as one great family, united by the closest ties.

Think of the companions with which the Christian is for ever to be associated. All the redeemed will be there, patriarchs, prophets, apostles, martyrs and the Lord's most highly honoured servants in every age. There the Christian will meet with loved ones who had fallen asleep in Jesus, never to be parted from them any more. Now they minister to the wants of God's people in the heavenly kingdom; men and angels will be in closest company. And above all, Jesus, will be there, Jesus the glorified Saviour, who redeemed us with His precious blood. Think of the employment in which the Christian is for ever to be engaged. It is the service of the Lamb, that service in which they had but imperfectly engaged on earth, but in which they now employ nobler powers. "Therefore are they before the throne of God and serve him day and night in the temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." What a prospect is this awaiting the children of God.

I have preached from this text to-day because I know it to have set forth the experience of one whose loss we now mourn, the late Lieut.-Col. F. W. Haultain. Not much more than a fortnight ago he seemed to be in the very midst of his career of activity and usefulness; now he has departed, fallen asleep in Jesus. He is dead, and though dead, he speaketh—speaketh in the silent eloquence of a consistent Christian life, as well as in the testimony which he gave during his moments of consciousness, on the bed of death. I refer to him to-day to magnify the grace of God, as I am sure that for no other reason could he bear reference to be made to him at all. It was while in Gibraltar in the year 1864 that the great change took place in his spiritual experience, which affected the whole character of his life. Up till this time he had been a thorough man of the world, a young officer living in pleasure, pursuing the things which are pleasing to the natural man. But in that year, which he ever regarded as the most memorable in his life, he was awakened by the Spirit of God, and after a time of great spiritual conflict, he came out clearly into the light. It was at once apparent to all who knew him that he had undergone a remarkable change. He lost his relish for worldly pleasures. He had no longer satisfaction in the society of worldly companions. It was his chief delight to study the Scriptures and to work for Christ. And so he went about among the poor and degraded, distributing tracts and setting before them the way of life. It was no light thing indeed for a young officer to become a Christian in this decided way. It involved the taking up of the cross and the endurance of afflictions for Christ's sake.

Such was the beginning of his Christian life, and his subsequent career fulfilled in every way the bright promise of those early days. So long as he was in the army he continued to witness for Christ, and from the day of his settlement in Peterborough, a great part of his time was given to Christian work. During the past six years I have had much intercourse with him, and I have observed some traits in his character, which seem to me especially worthy of note.

And I may mention first his love for the Word of God. From the time of his conversion, thirty years ago, until the time of his death, the Word of God was the subject of his constant study and meditation. And not content with deriving benefit from it himself, it was his great desire that others should be led to love it likewise. It was with this object in view that he held weekly meetings for the study of Scripture in different sections of the congregation. Those living in Auburn and in the south part of the town, as well as in one at least of the country districts, know by experience with what zeal he carried on these meetings for the study of the Scriptures. Often have I heard him say in speaking of that Bible, "That Book, that Blessed Book, what pleasure does the study of it give. It is a mine, containing infinite riches."

I may mention next the faithfulness with which he discharged his duties, as an elder. He believed that as an elder he was responsible for the spiritual oversight of the congregation, and that he must minister to those committed to his care. Accordingly, it was his habit to visit frequently the different families in his district, and to speak to the members personally upon eternal things. While he attended to all, he was mindful especially of the poor and the afflicted. Though by no means in perfect health himself, he was glad to sit up whole nights with the sick and the dying. Never do I remember to have been in his company for any length of time, without his saying something of the interests of the congregation and of the kingdom of Jesus Christ, nor did he confine his labours to his own district or to the congregation merely, but he regularly visited the prisoners in the gaol and the inmates of the House. He delighted in such visitation, both as a means of benefiting others and a means of blessing to his own soul.

Lastly I may mention his moral courage and unswerving loyalty to the truth of God. He was not one to abandon principle for the sake of expediency or to attempt any compromise between right and wrong. No. He would follow the path of duty, whatever the consequences might be. This is apparent from the stand which he took with regard to temperance many years ago, when temperance advocates were regarded as fanatics; apparent also from his identifying himself with the Presbyterian Church, because believing it to be more in accord than any other with the teachings of the New Testament. And many of us know by experience that in cases of special difficulty, he was the one who took the lead, the one who bore the brunt of the battle. Yes, to his faith he added valour. He had the courage of a good soldier of Jesus Christ. It was because he possessed this virtue in so high a degree, that some were unable to understand or appreciate his character. Col. Haultain required to be known in order to be properly appreciated, and the better we did know him the more ready are we to testify as to his worth. This is the one whose loss we mourn to-day, the one whose absence will leave so great a blank in our midst. A sense of loneliness creeps over us, as we miss the old familiar faces we were wont to see. Within the space of three short months we have committed one of our deacons and two of our elders to the tomb. We know not to whom the call may next come. Now while health and strength are given to us, we would seek to take the places of those who are gone. As brave soldiers we should press into the gap left by our falling comrades and grasp the banner ere it be torn from their hands.

I stated at the outset that my remarks were intended to magnify the grace of God. None was more ready than our departed friend to say, "By the grace of God I am what I am." He ascribed all to grace; free, sovereign grace. It was grace that transformed him from the man of the world to the disciple of Christ. It was grace that kept him steadfast amid the snares and temptations of his military profession. It was grace that made him an earnest student of the Word, a faithful elder, a courageous Christian. Yes, it was the grace of God which brought to him salvation, and taught him to live a sober, righteous and Godly life, and inspired him with the hope of Christ's appearing. Gladly could he sing with the saintly McCheyne:

When free grace awoke me by light from on high,
Then legal fears shook me, I trembled to die;
No refuge, no safety in self could I see,
Jehovah Tsidkenu my Saviour must be.

My terrors all vanished before the sweet name.
My guilty fears banished, with boldness I came
To drink at the fountain life-giving and free,
Jehovah Tsidkenu is all things to me.

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure in the transaction of business.

For the Christmas Trade!

To meet the wants of the Christmas buyer I have purchased extensively of the very best goods in the market—comprising:

☞YOUR PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Furs! Furs! Furs!

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipsic, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

WELLS, RICHARDSON & CO'S

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY,

For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, while prepared in oil, is so compound ed that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "Improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament—Fourth Session.

Thursday—Debate on the Address.

The Speaker took the chair at twenty minutes after three. Under the head of petitions, Mr. Gibson, of Huron, presented one from the village Council of Wroxeter, relating to the T. G. and B. Railway.

Mr. William Douglas Balfour, the new member for South Essex, rose to move the address, and was greeted with a very hearty round of applause. Mr. Balfour is a spare, dark-haired man, on the sunny side of forty. He is editor of the Amherstburg Echo, and a better speaker than newspaper men generally are. He began in rather a low tone, but the house was all attention, and his opening remarks were audible in every part of the building. The aggressive note was sounded in the second sentence of the speech, when he spoke of his constituency as "one of the most prosperous and progressive—he meant progressive politically as well as in other respects"—a declaration which was received with a good deal of cheering. Mr. Balfour dealt with the address point by point, touching upon the Boundary Award, the interference of the Dominion Government with provincial elections, the Rivers and Streams Bill, the Crooks Act, the establishment of the Bureau of Industry, and the financial and educational policy of the Government. In his against the charge of using the License Act for political purposes, and in his statement of the advantages derived from the working of that statute, Mr. Balfour was evidently at home, and spoke with much lucidity and precision. A satirical reference at the close of his speech to the efforts being made by the local Conservatives to construct a new platform in the place of the one so ruthlessly destroyed at the bye-elections, was received with a good deal of laughter, particularly when Mr. Balfour added, "no doubt with the assistance of the Chieftain, with Mr. Plumb to infuse it with poetry, Mr. Boultbee to give it its morale, and Mr. Thomas White to tell us that Quebec does not care what Government rules the province of Ontario, and an effort will be made to reconstruct it." The speaker closed by saying that while he was not of the Government, he would heartily support it so long as it administered affairs so honestly and capably as it had done in the past. Mr. Balfour sat down amidst a perfect ovation from the Government benches.

A SLAVISH SUPPORTER

Mr. O'Connor, of South Bruce, was to have seconded the address, but in his unavoidable absence, the duty fell upon Mr. Charles Drury, of East Simcoe. Mr. Drury is a farmer, and looks like it. He is an oldish man, with dark grey beard and hair, and a manner that is rather cautious than hesitating. Mr. Drury's speech was an eloquent eulogium of Ontario's Agricultural Commission, the Bureau of Industry, and the farmers and farms of the province.

On the conclusion of Mr. Drury's speech, Mr. Meredith asked if the Government meant to proceed with the debate on the Address. Mr. Mowat having answered in the negative, the House adjourned at 4.20 p.m.

FRIDAY.

The Speaker took the chair about half-past three.

The Provincial Secretary presented to the House copies of the correspondence since last session between the Provincial and Federal Governments in relation to the boundaries of Ontario.

The debate on the Address was resumed, Mr. Meredith taking the floor and reviewing in a brief and generally vague manner the proposed legislation of the Government as foreshadowed in the Address. Though delivered in the usually pleasing style of the leader of the Opposition the speech was anything but weighty or convincing.

Mr. Meredith spoke an hour and a half and was followed briefly by Hon. Mr. Fraser, who sharply corrected Mr. Meredith's misconstruction of Hon. A. Mackenzie's views on the value of the Indian lands in the disputed territory.

HON. MR. MOWAT'S SPEECH.

The Attorney-General rose at 5:25 and, with the exception of the adjournment for an hour and three-quarters, kept the floor till a quarter past nine. In an able speech he dealt candidly and pointedly with the vague charges preferred against the Government, reaching the pith of each question with a skill that frequently elicited the applause of the House. In fact the speech exhibited the Attorney-General's straightforward honesty of purpose and ability as a legislator and executive officer in its real light, and when he sat down with the statement that he courted the fullest investigation on his conduct of the affairs of the Province, the applause which followed was a genuine expression of the thorough confidence of his supporters.

Hon. A. Morris followed on the Opposition side in a speech of an hour and a quarter, after which the House adjourned till Monday.

MONDAY.

The debate on the Address was resumed to day by Mr. Hay, who dealt at some length with the License question, the Boundary Award, and Disallowance. He showed that Sir John Macdonald had all along been actuated by hostility to the rights of Ontario, and urged that the position of the Conservative party sapped the foundation of the Federal system. Messrs. O'Connor, Field, Bettes, and Dorable followed on the Reform side, and Messrs. Madill, Baskerville, and White on the Conservative. Mr. Creighton claimed the floor when the debate was adjourned and the House rose.

PETITION AGAINST RAILWAY AMALGAMATION.

The Attorney General to-day presented a petition from the corporation of the County of Oxford setting forth that they had bonused the Credit Valley Railway to the extent of $200,000 for the purpose mainly of securing a competing line of railway, and on certain conditions contained in a bond given by the Company. They state they do not object to the proposed amalgamation of the Ontario & Quebec Railway if after the amalgamation a similar bond be given the County by the Company, to be declared binding by the Legislature. Also that the rights of the county to the representation they now have on the Board of Railways shall be continued.

IN THE MORNING SOW THY SEED.

Sow though the rock repel thee
In its cold sterile pride;
Some cleft then may be riven
Where the little seed may hide.

Fear not for some will flourish;
And though the tares abound
Like the willows by the waters
Will the scattered grains be found.

Work while the daylight lasteth,
Ere the shades of night come on,
Ere the Lord of the vineyard cometh,
And the labourer's work is done.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Don't Know It.

There are many farmers who have extra good butter cows and do not know it. They have poor pastures in summer, and no shelter and indifferent feed in the winter. In the house they have no convenience for making butter; the milk is set where there are no arrangements for keeping it cool in the summer, and in the living room exposed to the odours of the kitchen in winter; and neither the quantity, nor the quality or any index of what a cow can do is kept.

The Harvests of the World.

Estimates of the harvests of the world for 1882, just issued by M. Etienne, an eminent French crop statistician, show that the yield of grain for the northern hemisphere generally has been the most abundant known since these reports were first collected. All over the world there has been better than an average harvest, with no deficiency reported either in Europe or America, and cheapness and abundance of food will be the fortunate lot of the poor for the next year.

Value of Leached Ashes.

Leached ashes are good for almost any crop, but should be applied with other fertilizers that contain vegetable substances, like barn manure. Thus applied on most of soils, and for nearly all crops, 25 cents a bushel would be cheaper than commercial fertilizers. Fifty bushels of ashes applied to an acre of land, in connection with two cords of good stable manure, would produce better results for most crops than 150 bushels applied without other fertilizers, or five cords of stable manure applied with no other fertilizer with it.

Begin With the New Year.

Every farmer should keep a book in which to paste agricultural scraps. Every one in reading a paper will see a number of things he will wish to remember. He will perhaps see suggestions the value of which he will desire to test, or hints he will want to be governed by on future occasions, and yet, after reading the paper he will throw it down and will probably never see it again. In such a case all the valuable articles will be lost. To prevent such a loss, every reader should clip from the papers such articles as he desires to preserve and remember, and paste them in a scrap book. Such a book at the end of a year or two will be very interesting and valuable.

Blanketing Horses.

There are many farmers who almost wholly neglect the use of horse-blankets, while, on the other hand, there are many others who seem determined to lose no opportunity to get their horses covered with blankets. As the truth in argument is frequently found between two extremes, it is also probable that in this matter an intermediate course is to be desired. The proper uses of a horse-blanket are to promote the comfort of the horse and prevent it taking cold. That many people keep their horses covered in order to keep their hair smooth and make them look a little better than they otherwise would the writer does not question. But this is hardly a proper use of the blanket, and certainly is not to be recommended.

The question concerning which farmers are most interested is whether, during the cold season, ordinary farm horses need blanketing. If the stables are boarded as closely as they should be, it does not seem at all necessary to blanket a horse, unless he has been at work. While he is merely standing in the stable he does not need a blanket any more than a cow needs to be covered. If the barn is so loosely boarded that a horse cannot keep comfortable while standing in it, the owner ought to repair his building. His call is for boards rather than blankets.

When the horse has been driven any distance or has got warm while at work, he should have a blanket put on whenever and wherever he stops. Even if the stop is but a short one he should be covered. Many a horse has been seriously injured by standing a few minutes in the cold after having been driven.

When put into a stable, unless both stable and weather are quite warm, a blanket should be put on for a short time; but should not be allowed to remain a great while. When a horse has been exposed to a cold rain or has been out in a snowstorm he should be rubbed dry with straw or hay, and a blanket put on for an hour or two. But, unless the horse has long been accustomed to it, there seems to be no possible advantage in keeping him constantly covered with a blanket while he is doing nothing but standing in a barn.

Judgment is needed in selecting blankets as to thickness. With the design of getting the best one I could find for a reasonable price, I once bought a very thick and heavy blanket. I have often been sorry that I bought one so heavy, since during much of the time it is wholly unsuitable. In the spring and fall, when the weather is not extremely cold, and also when the horse is in a warm stable, the blanket is very much too thick and warm. If I put it on when the horse is sweaty or wet with rain or snow, he does not dry off well. There are but very few times in the course of a year when this heavy blanket is just right. While a very thin and light one is not desirable, yet one of medium thickness is much better than one which is of extra weight.

Those who want to buy had better call and see I. Robinson's overcoats. 50.

Kitchen Knowledge.

A LITTLE water mixed in with butter will prevent its burning when used for frying.

THE leaves of parsley eaten with a little vinegar after partaking of onions will prevent the offensive breath that the latter imparts.

TENDER tops of new beets blanched, and then fried in butter, make an excellent garnish or relish for roast pork, or for beef. Vinegar may be added, or not, as you please. Drain them well before frying.

CURRY vinegar is made by adding three ounces of curry powder to one quart of vinegar; let it stand in a covered earthen dish or jar near the fire for three days. This gives an excellent flavour to all kinds of sour pickles. Remember, when using it, that a little goes a great way.

FLANNEL that has become yellow from being badly washed may be nicely whitened by soaking it two or three hours in a lather made of one-quarter of a pound of card soap, two tablespoonfuls of powdered borax, and two tablespoonfuls of carbonate of ammonia, dissolved in five or six gallons of water.

IN making soap, it is better to boil the vegetables separately from the meat and strain both meat and vegetable water, and mince the vegetables before putting them with the so strained liquors. Soaps are more wholesome, and far more palatable for hot weather than meats, but a good piece of meat is required to make nourishing soup.

TO MAKE BREAD-PUDDING.—Put the scraps of bread into the oven and toast brown, roll them, while hot, quite fine. To two cups of crumbs, take one quart of milk, three eggs, one cup of raisins. Sauce for the above, one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, the same of flour; mix together then add the juice of one lemon, or any flavouring desired.

CRACKED wheat makes a very nice dish if baked with plenty of water added from time to time as it is needed, to allow the wheat to expand. It should bake slowly for from five to six hours and it will then be found to be remarkably sweet and wholesome. It is delicious if baked with milk instead of water, but will then need more attention when in the oven to prevent scorching.

POTATO puff with the addition of a little cold meat makes an excellent breakfast dish. To two cups of cold mashed potatoes allow two well beaten eggs, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, and one cup of sweet milk; beat all together until very light, the add the cold meat, chopped very fine. After mixing thoroughly put it in a shallow pudding dish, and bake for from twenty minutes to half an hour. If preferred, you can bake in well buttered gem-pans.

BANANAS are delicious for tea; slice them—not too thin—scatter powdered sugar over them, and before it dissolves squeeze the juice of several oranges over them, or they may be cut up and mixed with them, or they may be served with cream and sugar alone. They make an agreeable dessert with whipped cream sweetened and flavoured with vanilla poured over them. A tablespoorful of gelatine dissolved and stirred into the cream gives a little body to it. Serve with sponge-cake.

A NICE and easily made suet pudding is made of one cup of suet, chopped fine, and with every bit of gristle removed, one cup each of molasses, milk and fruit; raisins and currants mixed, or dried, cherries are better for this purpose: one heaping tablespoonful of soda, dissolved in a little hot water, complete the ingredients called for, with the exception of flour enough to make a stiff batter. Take care to stir the flour in so gradually as to be certain not one lump, if ever so small, is left. Steam in an earthen pudding-dish for three hours; serve with wine sauce, or with common pudding sauce of flour, sugar, butter and water.

THE TIME TO SELL WHEAT.

Mr. Walker, statistician to the New York Produce Exchange, has compiled a valuable little table showing the price of wheat at New York during the first half and the last half of each of the last sixteen years. The table follows:—

NEW YORK MARKET.

Crop of year.	Average Prices 1st half.	Average Prices 2nd half.
1866	$2 35½	$2 40½
1867	2 32½	2 20
1868	1 72	1 56
1869	1 35	1 39½
1870	1 39	1 50
1871	1 53½	1 60½
1872	1 67	1 56
1873	1 54½	1 41½
1874	1 13½	1 26
1875	1 28	1 17½
1876	1 33	1 60
1877	1 33½	1 17½
1878	1 03½	1 07½
1879	1 18	1 21
1880	1 16	1 23
1881	1 39½	1 33

The year for this purpose is from September 1 to August 31, and the grade of wheat taken is No. 2 spring. It will be seen that in eight of the years the price has been higher in the last half of the year, in eight of the years higher in the first half. So far, then, as this table teaches anything, it shows that the farmer who markets his wheat at the first opportunity realizes a greater sum in a series of years than does the farmer who holds his wheat over the winter. Of course it might be possible for a lucky man to strike every year that particular time in which the price of wheat is highest. But on the other hand it is quite possible that a man of excellent judgment might hold over his wheat and lose money by it; or he might sell at once and lose money. The fact is that in these days the markets are so thoroughly under the control of rings and speculators that the possession of foresight is sometimes an absolute detriment to a business man. The circumstances upon which he founds his judgment may be all right, but at the last moment some combination for "bulling" or "bearing" the market irrespective of real values is made, and his whole calculation falls to pieces. This being the case, and the table above proving that in a series of years there is nothing gained by holding back crops, farmers would do well to consider whether for the sake of a problematical gain they can afford to stand the certain losses from ratage, shrinkage, evaporation, etc., which often reduces the bulk of wheat by as much as fifteen per cent, in six months.

A VEXED CLERGYMAN.

Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial bottles given away at Taylor and McDonald's Drug Store.

"Lor bress your soul, he ain't no male friend of mine." "Who is he, then?" "He am only my husband."

DESSERT SET.

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

(From the Boston Globe.)

Hence, Editor's—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Best Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents' love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special burden of suffering, or joy at relief from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and thousands of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1881.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Beatley, of this place, and have received relief from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly,

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT.

The sweet Christ-month, the month that Love was born,
That ever was an edict until now.
What though the blossom hasn't set on the bough,
What though the earth of beauty's place be shorn?

Lo! in the woods, beneath the frost-kissed sod
The holly lights the path—December's rule—
And underneath the scarlet berry grows,
As if to tell us Love is living still:

Living, albeit under ruder skies:
Though the glad glory of the year be past,
With frost and death Love lingers to the last,
And in Love's breast her blossom never dies.

'Tis nursed with thoughts that come with Christmas chimes—
That "greatest time" when Love and Peace are crowned,
When the world's woes in one great joy are drowned:
The summer of the soul is Christmas-time.

Is it but fancy? On the midnight air
Forever sound those wild harmonious bells;
Through vacant vales and long-deserted dells
Mysterious anthems echo everywhere.

In deepest solitude the Christian's soul
Stirs to a thrill of some strange touch divine;
Apart from shrines he heeds the sacred sign
That holds the world in Love's sublime control.

REMEMBER THIS.

If you are sick Hop Bitters will surely aid Nature in making you well when all else fails.

If you are costive or dyspeptic, or are suffering from any other of the numerous diseases of the stomach or bowels, it is your own fault if you remain ill, for Hop Bitters are a sovereign remedy in all such complaints.

If you are wasting away with any form of Kidney disease, stop tempting Death this moment, and turn for a cure to Hop Bitters.

If you are sick with that terrible sickness Nervousness, you will find a "Balm in Gilead" in the use of Hop Bitters.

If you are a frequenter or a resident of a miasmatic district, barricade your system against the scourge of all countries—malarial, epidemic, bilious, and intermittent fevers—by the use of Hop Bitters.

If you have rough, pimply, or sallow skin, bad breath, pains and aches, and feel miserable generally, Hop Bitters will give you fair skin, rich blood, and sweetest breath, health, and comfort.

In short they cure all Diseases of the stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Nerves, Kidneys, Bright's Disease. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

That poor, bed-ridden, invalid wife, sister mother, or daughter, can be made the picture of health, by a few bottles of Hop Bitters, costing but a trifle. Will you let them suffer? 50-4t

THE COURT FOUND HIM QUALIFIED.

When I was a young man I spent several years in the South, residing for a while at Port Gibson, on the Mississippi river. A great deal of litigation was going on there about that time, and it was not an easy matter to obtain a jury. One day I was summoned to act in that capacity, and I repaired to court to get excused. On my name being called I informed his honor, the judge, that I was not a freeholder, and therefore, not qualified for service.

"I am stopping for the time being at this place."

"You board at the hotel, I presume?"

"I take my meals there, but have rooms in another part of the town, where I lodge."

"So you keep bachelor's hall?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you lived in that manner?"

"About six months."

"I thing you are qualified," gravely remarked the judge, "for I have never known a man to keep bachelor's half the length of time you name who had not dirt enough in his rooms to make him a freeholder. The court does not excuse you."

THE MULE'S MISTAKE.

Ex-Congressman Bill Slemmons tells of a pair of feet that must have been objects of great regard in their day. One day a party of men, including Jackson, the man of big feet, were preparing to attend a political barbecue. It was soon discovered that there was no way of conveying Jackson, as all the vehicles were full. "Let me ride that mule over there?" asked Jackson. "There isn't a man in the world that can ride that animal. He'll work to a buggy or plow, but no man can stay on his back." "I'll try him, any way," and the determined man instructed several negroes to catch the mule and hold him. The animal plunged and kicked, but finally Jackson secured a seat in the saddle. Every one expected to see him dashed against the ground; but the mule looked around and saw the man's feet and walked peacefully away. He thought it was a pair of shafts.

HARD ON THE LAWYER.

"I've stolen a coat," said a man to a lawyer, "and I wan't you to defend me. Think you can prove me innocent?"

"Oh, yes. We can prove that you were in an adjoining township when the coat was stolen, and that the prosecution is malicious."

"How much will you charge?"

"What sort of a coat is it?"

"First rate; never been worn any."

"Well, I won't charge you anything. Just give me the coat."

Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh

and consumption in the first stages are treated at the International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, where the Spirometer is used, an instrument invented by Dr. Souvielle of Paris, and ex-aide surgeon of the French army, which conveys the medicines in the form of cold inhalations to the parts diseased. Suitable constitutional treatment is used when required. Consultations and a trial of the Spirometer free. Poor people bearing certificates furnished with the instrument free. When not convenient to visit the office write, enclosing stamp, for pamphlet giving full particulars to International Throat and Lung Institute, 173 Church street, Toronto, or 13 Phillips square, Montreal. 49-tf

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is mild and soothing in its immediate and apparent effects, and possesses far-reaching and powerful healing qualities which its persistent use will demonstrate in any case of coughs, colds, throat or lung troubles of any kind.

Musical problem—If a man blows his own trumpet, can his opinions be sound?

What can be more convincing than this. Here is a professional man of long practice and high reputation bearing direct and positive testimony to the value of a remedy which he has thoroughly tested. Who can read and doubt? Assuredly no one of common sense.

Nothing like being well up in arithmetic. A Vassar College girl has gone into half mourning. It is for a half-brother.

☞"One man's meat is another man's poison." Kidney-Wort expels the poisonous humors. The first thing to do in the Spring is to clean house. For internal cleansing and renovating, no other medicine is equal to Kidney-Wort. In either dry or liquid form it cures headache, bilious attacks, constipation and deranged kidneys.

A caustic wit, in speaking of an impecunious friend, said, "He settles his debts just like clock-work—tick, tick, tick."

Jos. Béaucin, M.D., Hull, P. Q., writes: Dr Thomas' Eclectric Oil commands a large and increasing sale which it richly merits. I have always found it exceedingly helpful; I use it in all cases of rheumatism, as well as fractures and dislocations. I made use of it myself to calm the pains of a broken leg with dislocation of the foot, and in two days I was entirely relived of the pain."

"This insurance policy is a queer thing," said Dobbs reflectively, "If I can't sell it, I cancel it; and, if I cancel it, I can't sell it."

Mr. H. McCaw, Custom House, Toronto, writes: "My wife was troubled with Dyspepsia and Rheumatism for a long time; she tried many different medicines, but did not get any relief until she used Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery. She has taken two bottles of it, and now finds herself in better health than she has been for years."

"Patrick, were you a minor when you landed in America?" asked the naturalization officer. "No, your honour; I was a bricklayer."

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes, : I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of rheumatism, has given relief when doctor's medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery."

Everybody goes to Saratoga to drink the water, but that doesn't explain why bartenders there are paid $200 a month, and its hard to get them at that.

IN DYSPEPSIA WE HAVE IN WHEELER'S PHOSPHATES AND CALISAYA a remedy worthy of the attention of sufferers from this protean disease. Cases occur which resist ordinary treatment. Headaches and drowsiness after eating continue, irritability, restlessness and depression of spirits, tongue coated, disagreeable taste in the mouth, stomach and bowels deranged, liver torpid, and systemic evidences of disordered nutrition. These symptoms readily yield to the Elixir when other means fail.

Prof.: "If you attempt to squeeze any solid body it will always resist pressure." Class smiles and cites examples of exceptions which prove the rule.

BROWNVILLE Oct 4, 1882.

I write to tell you of the great and lasting benefits I have received from Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. I had disease of the lungs for over two years. All the doctors I tried considered my case hopeless. A friend recommended your Balsam. When I began taking it I had violent coughing-fits and strangulation from phlegm; my feet and limbs were swollen, and hectic fever had full possession of me. The Balsam relieved all these symptoms and made a complete cure of me. I am desirous of making my cure known. R. WITHERS.

"You say your wife gets mad and raises a row?" "I should say she did. She makes enough fuss to run a freight train forty miles an hour." "But if you knew that she was in the habit of getting mad, why did you marry her?" "Because if I had held back she would have got madder than ever."

TESTIMONY OF AN EMINENT PHYSICIAN.—The proofs which authenticated the claims of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites to be regarded as the finest pulmonic in use, emanate in many instances from physicians of eminence. Dr. J. Cortis, of St. Thomas, writes as follows:—

"During ten years of active practice I have had occasion to prescribe Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites. Since your preparation came under my notice I have tried it, and take great pleasure in saying that it has given great satisfaction and it is to be preferred to any I have ever used or recommended. I have used it in my own family during heavy colds, and in every instance a happy result has followed. I cheerfully recommend its use in all cases of debility arising from weakness of the muscular or nervous system."

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.

A friend in need is a friend in deed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particular by those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Sold by Taylor & McDonald.

TEST OF THE WATERWORKS.

A GRAND SUCCESS IN EVERY WAY.

Last Friday a final test of the Peterborough water works system, was made to ascertain if everything was in order and if the works answered the standard aimed at, and the result was a success beyond all expectation. We have heretofore given full descriptions of the works, machinery, mains, etc. The test was made by Mr. Sartees, consulting engineer and Mr. Belcher, engineer, assisted by the contractors, officers of the company, and members of the fire brigade. The first was made by attaching four branches of hose, with the result that with only one pump employed and a pressure of ninety pounds the water was thrown with inch and an eighth nozzle, above the highest buildings—at the post office, Taylor's drug store and Mr. Cox's block. With one stream from a 1¼ inch nozzle and only sixty pounds pressure the immense volume was thrown far above the tower of the Claxton block. The machinery pumps and every thing behaved in a satisfactory manner, and Mr. Surtees was delighted and unhesitatingly recommended that the work to be accepted from the contractors. The latter are: for the water wheels and machinery J. C. Wilson & Co., (Mr. Merrill), pumps, Buchanan & Co., (Mr. Perry), trenching, Mr. Kinsella, mains, Mr. Walter Drury. The work of these gentlemen was all highly approved of as exceedingly satisfactory to the company. The contractors all bear testimony to the square and straightforward treatment they received from the company. We have not space to particularize respecting the test, but it was eminently satisfactory to the company, and engineers and should convince any unprejudiced person that Peterborough in her new system of waterworks has as good as any in the province. It is a matter of congratulation all round that the enterprise has been crowned with such signal success.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

A merry 'Xmas to all our readers.

Municipal politics more than quiet. Nominations on Friday.

Delightful seasonable weather promised for Christmas.

The Good Templars of Peterboro' are organizing a district lodge.

The examinations of candidates for entrance to the high schools took place on Wednesday and to-day.

The snow has played havoc with the regularity of the local trains as well as of all the trains in the country.

On Tuesday morning the thermometer registered 12° below zero in town and in the country 15° below zero at sunrise.

A detective would have a hard job to discover evidences of the annual Christmas fair that took place on Tuesday.

The man who tries to hire a horse and cutter on Christmas morning "will be left."

These beautiful moonlight nights make a brisk demand on the livery keepers' cutters.

The Examinations for promotion in the public schools were held yesterday and to-day. The schools will close for the year on Thursday night.

L. O. Lodges 49 and 80 held an enjoyable entertainment in the District Orange Hall, George Street, on Tuesday night.

The English Church Mission Sunday school on Sherbrook street, will have a holiday supper and entertainment on Thursday evening next.

The beautiful prizes to be given at the Carnival at the rink on Friday night, are on display in the show window of Mr. A. McNeil's Habiliment Hall, George st.

PERSONAL.

Messrs. J. C. Bailey, Chief Engineer of the Midland Railway, and Lumsden, Chief Engineer of the Ontario and Quebec R. R., were in town a day or two last week.

Mr. McClellan, LL.D., Inspector of High Schools, visited the Collegiate Institute and was greatly pleased with the results of the examination.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The trustees of school section No. 4, Smith, Miss Weir teacher, are liberal hearted gentlemen. They have voted a sufficient sum of money to give every pupil a present to be given at a Christmas tree entertainment at the close of the school. In addition there will be other amusements, such as readings, recitations dialogues, etc., to give variety to the pleasure of the evening. This disposition of the funds may be thought not be exactly constitutional, but the hearts of the trustees are no doubt in the right place.

Fortunately Valvular disease of the heart is not very common; its disturbed action may be due to indigestion, liver irregularities &c., A stomach disturbed with wind or indigestable food will cause pain and fluttering by crowding on the nerves of the heart. Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy all such difficulties. 51-2t

Mr. Jos. Daly, of the Daly House, Lindsay, passed through this village last week on his way from Peterborough, where he had purchased a handsome as well as comfortable new bus, to run in connection with his popular hotel.

Mr. Thomas W. Race, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell "Recorder," writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Biliousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work, the medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms. 51-2t

THE ROAD TO HEAVEN.

There is many a road, or there seems to be,
To the land of immortality;
To that beautiful land where angels sing,
And the seraph folds its shining wing,
Where all is love and peace and joy,
And each in good their time employ:
For Heaven is not for rest alone.
The happy throng that surround the throne.
Are there on ministrations of love to fly,
To benefit poor humanity.
Some go with crowds and pomp and show,
And seem to say to their friends as they go:
"These will take us safe to the shining shore."
So they cross the river with a golden oar.
But find when they reach the beautiful gate
That the way to Heaven is much too strait.
For the soul to pass with its golden load;
None go in there but through Jesus' blood.
Others say we must fast and pray,
And walk along in that mournful way;
Never laugh nor sing, nor join with glee
In the happy song of melody.
And thus we must plod along this road
That leads to happiness and God;
Never mind, though you don't feel happy here.
You will soon be changed to another sphere
Where fasting and praying will be at an end—
But I fear that their souls will never blend
With those happy spirits and angels bright,
Who live in the midst of Eternal Light;
And happy as birds in the joyous spring,
While of redeeming love they sing.
There are many roads; but they oft lead astray—
There is only one strait and narrow way;
And Jesus will lead that soul to the throne
Who puts his trust in Him alone.

THE LADY STUDENTS MUST GO.

KINGSTON, Dec. 15—A deputation of citizens waited on the faculty last evening and through their efforts the difficulty has been arranged. After a conference which lasted till nearly morning an agreement was arrived at. The faculty agreed that the education of the lady students should be carried on entirely separate, and when they complete their studies no others are to be admitted to the university. The students felt quite elated over their victory, and indulged in a little sport at the conclusion of the conference.

OMEMEE.

On Tuesday last Mr. Geo. English, boss sportsman of Omemee, returned from a five day's hunt, north of Kinmount, bringing with him five fine deer.

On Sunday the sleighing was so good and the weather so delightful, a large number of young men came from Peterborough and Lindsay to this village. There was noticed among them quite a number of young men formerly residents of Omemee.

ONE.

The FIRST ingredient in DR. WILSON'S PULMONARY CHERRY BALSAM is an extract of wild cherry bark, which soothes the irritated surfaces in the lungs and air passages, acts as a tonic to the stomach, giving a healthy appetite, has a soothing, sedative influence on the heart and blood vessels, preventing palpitation.

TWO.

The SECOND loosens and displaces the tough, stringy phlegm which causes so much pain and distress, and which is the cause of the the convulsive coughing.

THREE.

The THIRD ingredient heals. It is the vital property of the peculiarly soothing and healing gums of the white pine and fir of southern climes, at the same time grateful and beneficial to the stomach.

FOUR.

The FOURTH ingredient is a pleasing and soothing lubricant that supplies the place of the mucous secretion which, while the organs are healthy coats the mucous membrane, keeping it soft and natural. It at first supplies the place of the decreased secretions and assists in restoring them so as to perform their proper and most important duties.

All these working together, beneficially, make DR. WILSON'S PULMONAY CHERRY BALSAM the best cure known for throat and lung diseases.

☞Sold in 25 and 50 Cents Bottles—the 50 Cents size containing double the 25 Cents size. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 28, 1882.

The Contrast.

A comparison of the political history of the provinces of Quebec and Ontario for the last half score of years gives a result which is not only astonishing, but of the greatest interest at the present time. Under Tory rule, our sister province has been going rapidly from bad to worse, till at the present time she is burdened with debt, and a prey to the corrupt machinations of designing politicians. Bystander, which has recently been revived, and which generally views political parties with a wise and impartial discernment, has this much to say of the present political system in Quebec. "Party," it says, "has degenerated into the vilest faction; public life has become a cesspool of intrigue, and government will soon be a domination of scoundrels. With Quebec, at all events reform is a matter which admits of no delay." On the other hand, Ontario is prosperous in all her internal concerns. Instead of being in debt she has, after having been generously provided with all the public institutions necessary, with the wants of the service of every department, adequately if not liberally supplied, a surplus of between four and five millions on hand. Her rulers are free from corruption, and have, during their long tenure of office, so economically conducted matters, that on the occasion of seeking an endorsation of their course, from the people, they have been each time honored with an increased support. And even now, their record is so clear, that the handful of the Opposition in the local house have allowed the address, in reply to the speech from the throne, to pass without formulating one single charge, or attempting to impugn the government record, except on the vaguest and most general charges, chiefly founded on newspaper gossip, and since amply disproved. Yet it is sought to displace the Reform Government in Ontario with Mr. Meredith and his "ragged band of followers" as a Conservative paper calls them. With the example of the dire and disastrous effects of Tory rule in Quebec before them; with the beneficial effects of Reform rule in Ontario before them, the electors of this province are asked to withdraw their confidence from Mr. Mowat and transfer it to Mr. Meredith, who has not even the merit of having confidence in himself, but acts the part of underling to the Dominion Government. With Tory rule in Quebec, we see a state of financial embarrassment, and, as the Bystander asserts, a government that will soon "become a domination of scoundrels." With Reform rule in Ontario we have a prosperous people, healthy finances, a clean balance sheet, and honest and capable administrators, whose gravest crime as charged by their opponents, is loyalty to Ontario, as against the intrigues of Quebec and the Dominion Government, who find in these same opponents, the willing tools, to work out their plans on the territorial rights and legislative independence of this province.

Sessional Siftings.

As during last session, the Opposition, instead of assailing the position of the Government, are obliged to fight on the defensive. Mr. Young emphasized the fact that fully four-fifths of Mr. Meredith's speech was devoted to explaining and excusing the attitude of the Opposition.

The weakness of the opposition speeches in the debate on the address consists mainly in the speakers having to deal chiefly in elaborate apologies for their own course. When they made a feeble onslaught on the government policy, they did not rise to the task of suggesting anything better.

Mr. Lauder charged the Commissioner of Crown Lands with having promised during the late campaign in Muskoka to expend money in building colonization roads, Mr. Pardee positively denied having made any such promises,—and another scandal affecting the government might have been floated about had it not been "squelched" in the start.

"I don't know that it makes very much difference where the boundary of Ontario is," said an opposition orator. It is not surprising that a party whose ideas are fairly reflected in that remark finds itself in a miserable and hopeless minority in Provincial matters. The people are not going to trust those who cannot even make a decent pretence of interest in the maintenance of Provincial rights.

Mr. Lauder sees the hand writing on the wall in East Gray, and his hopes of becoming a Cabinet Minister, independently of Mr. Meredith's certain failure to get across the House at the next elections is gone. His old constituents are determined that if they shall have to blush for their representatives they shall do so for one of themselves, therefore there is little chance of Mr. Lander securing a re-nomination.

It is understood that neither Mr. Boulter, of North Hastings, nor Mr. Sinclair, of North Bruce, will seek re-election. Both of these gentlemen have been members of the Legislature since 1867, and owing to their long connection with the House will be greatly missed. Mr. Lauder, another of the few survivors of the first Parliament of Ontario, paid a fitting tribute to the retiring members.

Mr. Meredith delivered his usual Boundary Award speech with rather more than usual vehemence and gesticulation. He also took occasion to virtually repudiate the utterances of the Tory organ on the "Marmion" question, by maintaining the right of any one to whom a text book was objectionable or offensive to protest against its use. But his disclaimer comes rather late in the day.

THE gingerly way in which Opposition speakers dealt with Sir John's Yorkville pledge to wrest the liquor licenses from the control of the Ontario Government, shows that the crafty knight was indulging in one of his political jokes, which happened, on this occasion to be a new one. They felt that the Tory Convention went too far in the face of the Confederation Act, which says distinctly as words can express that the Provincial Legislatures shall have exclusive control over liquor licenses.

Itis hard to tell what Mr. Meredith wants. In the debate on the address he and his followers, declared vehemently that they had no desire to relax the liquor license regulations. The municipalities do not want to be bothered with the issue of licenses and, what do Mr. Meredith and the Opposition want—except office? True, they find fault with the administration but they have not the courage of their convictions. They dare not formulate a single charge against the government in respect of the Administration of the License Act. If the Opposition fail in this matter, are the electors to be asked to condemn the government on newspaper gossip? If Mr. Meredith and his friends could discover any fault with the administration of it they would be only too happy to do so, and as this is their last chance before the elections, one may be sure if it was in their power to do so they would not hesitate.

PORT HOPE.

Mr. T. H. Ambrose was elected Harbor Commissioner on Monday by the Council

The Government Engineer surveyed the site for the new Post Office, on the vacant lot South of the News office, on Wednesday.

Mr. John Tamblyn, First Deputy-Reeve of Hope, died last Thursday. An immense concourse of friends paid the last tribute of respect to his remains on Sunday.

Port Hope merchants complain of the scarcity of money in comparison with the corresponding season last year. So many farmers holding their grain in this locality contributes not a little to the stringency.

The report of the Harbor Master shows that the receipts this year to December 1st have been, —Exports $17,260.82 Imports, $5,758,86—Total, $22,019,68. The receipts to the corresponding period last year were $24,173.88. From that statement it will be seen that there is a reduction this year of $2,154,20.

COBOURG.

Hattie Haight, the cook of the stranded schooner Midland Rover, who was drowned in Toronto bay on Tuesday moring last, was born in Cobourg. She was well known here.

The Presbyterian Church of this town having undergone extensive repairs, is to be re-opened on Sunday, the 17th inst. The services will be conducted by the Rev. A. B. McKay, of Montreal, and the Rev. P. M. F McLeod of Toronto.

Mr. Mann, an employee at the car works, while coming out of one of the shop doors after work one evening last week, missed his footing and fell, breaking his right arm, at the wrist. He had just recovered from a long illness, and had only resumed work a few days previous to his accident.

STARTLING SCENE.

SUDDEN DEATH OF AN OLE MAN AT A PRAYER MEETING.

About half-past seven this evening, as prayer meeting was about to commence in the Baptist church vestry, corner of Spring Garden road and Queen street, Halifax, an elderly gentleman named Lamont, who was in the habit of attending these services, entered the hall and took a seat. The congregation of people in the hall then saw the old man suddenly let his head drop back as though he was fainting, and hastening to his side they found to their horror ee was apparently dying. Several gentleman at one started out to procure doctors, but immediately after the departure of the messengers Mr. Lamont expired. His body was carried to an adjoining room to allow the prayer meeting to be opened. Mr. Lamont was about 75 years old, and had been a member of the congregation of Granville Street Baptist Church for a number of years. He was a suffer for a long time from asthma.

THE C. P. R. R.

THE WINNIPEG Times says that, unless the Canadian Pacific Company can raise a large sum of money during the winter, the whole scheme will collapse. This is a self-evident electioneering appeal to the fears of the timid, and it will create no alarm among those who keep their heads cool. The 25,000,000 acre land grant, is worth about $6 an acre cannot collapse, neither can the money subsidy of $25,000,000. The Company may have to slacken its speed, but this would be a distinct benefit to the country and to itself. The Times evidently has not heard of the rumour current on the street, last Friday, to the effect that the Company had lately secured a loan of $10,000,000.

LINES

IN MEMORY OF THE REV. JOHN BURNET, M.A., BARRY, SCOTLAND.

The good, the faithful soldier of the cross,
That man his race, fought the victorious fight,
And left behind his friends to mourn the loss
Of one whose faith was as the shining light.

Now, freed from earth'ring flesh, his spirit pure
That always soared above the things of time,
Doth in his maker's presence stand secure,
Redeemed and glorified and made sublime.

In his blest home, he'll meet those whom below
His burning words oft roused to sense of sin;
Whose hard hearts melted by the Spirit's glow
Have heard the Saviour's knock, and let Him in.

These ransomed ones will shine as jewels rare,
Upon the glorious crown on His fair brow
While many still on earth, taught by his care,
Are walking with their God and Saviour now.

Methinks I see him on the platform stand,
Of Duncanstone's old church, just as of yore:
Christ's love for sinners vile of every land,
The gospel's peaceful message he'd outpour.

His speech would move the impenitent to tears,
Till hardened sinners quailed beneath his word
As he would melt their hearts or wake their fears
By tales of love, or terrors of the Lord.

Oh! blessed life to live, to try to save,
Those that in sin and sorrows path do stray;
To teach the hope of life beyond the grave,
To those who here have thrown their lives away.

Oh! let us all his Master love and fear,
Think more of Heaven, and less of this world's care;
That we may part below without a tear,
To meet above in bliss beyond compare.

GLADSTONE.

ALL ENGLAND HONORS HIM.

The chief consideration in the political world of England during the week has attached to the occurrence of the fiftieth anniversary of Mr. Gladstone's return to the House of Commons. The universal and outspoken tribute of the English press to his genius furnishes in itself a fitting climax to an extraordinary career. For a moderate and temperate estimate of him one must turn to his political opponents. The Times, which is not too friendly, says that only the next generation can calmly examine a career more remarkable than that of any English Prime Minister. His contemporaries stand too near him to see him as he is. His energy of will, his fire of passion, leave his adherents no room for a questioning obedience, and no leaders have been followed with a more enthusiastic faith. Foes join with friends in recognition of his extraordinary powers.

Where shall we look for any to match his readiness, his adroitness, and his vast store of knowledge in debate, his ingenuity and versatility as a financier, his faculty of infusing passion into the commonplace of conversation, and his unquestionable dominion over a majority resting on a democratic basis? Public feeling has been excited in no small degree, and, directly or indirectly, the effect will probably be to retard Mr. Glarstone's retirement. Already Mr. Gladstone has relieved himself of a great burden, and has been succeeded as Chancellor of the Exchequer by Mr. Childers, while the re-organized Cabinet which he will head when Parliament re-opens will be equivalent to a new and more powerful Government. Lord Derby's accession is regarded by Liberals with great distrust, particularly since his speech at Manchester on Wednesday evening. It showed very clearly that he does not agree with the Government policy in Egypt, and there is not much to be looked for in a statesman who prescribes as a remedy for Irish troubles the spending of a few millions of Government funds in the wholesale deportation of the small farmers and their families to America or the colonies. Such a course would be intolerable if it were not happily impracticable. Public opinions in England demands now-a-days that the Irish shall be treated from the standpoint of common humanity at least.

REMEMBER THIS.

If you are sick Hop Bitters will surely aid Nature in making you well when all else fails.

A GREAT MORAL LESSON.

At a meeting of some coloured Methodists in Kentucky it was decided to make a collection. The president passed the hat himself, and in order to encourage others he put in a ten cent piece. After the collection, during which every hand had been in the hat, the president approached the table, turned the hat upside down, and not even his own contribution dropped out. He opened his eyes with astonishment and exclaimed: "Fo' goodness, but I'se eben lost de ten cents I started wid!" Then there was consternation on the faces of the assembly. Who was the lucky man? That was the question. He could not blush, or turn pale, for all were as black as night. It was evidently a hopeless case, and was summed up by one brother, who rose in his place and said solemnly: "Dar 'pears to be a great moral lesson roun' heah somewhar."

THE GREAT FIGHT.

HOW THE GRAND TRUNK IS ATTACKING THE PACIFIC RAILWAY SYNDICATE.

(From the Winnipeg Times, Dec. 21.)

The Grand Trunk is attacking the syndicate all along the line. Grand Trunk influence has done much to cripple the land company of which Lord Elphinstone is and the duke of Manchester was the president; and Mr. Hickson's agents are making a vigorous onslaught upon the credit and standing of the C. P. R. in the London market. The financial journals there are unanimous in urging English investors to have nothing to do with the bonds Mr. Stephen and his associates are trying to float. A private cable despatch from London says the action of the provincial rights party is being quoted as evidence of the instability of the syndicate's tenure, and of the determination of the people of Manitoba to upset its contract.

If the syndicate should be driven to the wall by the powerful combination which is attacking it, how would it fare with Manitoba and the Northwest? Construction would cease, and the road already built would doubtless be shut down. The development of this country would be put back fifty years. The fall of the syndicate would empty Manitoba of its wealth and population, and ruin every man who had anything to lose. Syndicates as strong as this one have come to grief. In 1873 Jay Cooke & Co., engaged in the construction of the Northern Pacific, fell and brought down with them scores of well-known houses and hundreds of private investors. The contest now going on between the syndicate and the Grand Trunk is a desperate one. Next year the syndicate have to construct the 400 miles of heavy work lying between the Saskatchewan and the Rocky Mountains, and to begin the construction of the 700 miles of rock section lying between the Landing and Lake Nipissing. Money, and an enormous amount of it, must be obtained, or else the company will go under. It is no exaggeration to say that Mr. Stephen and his colleagues are face to face with a most trying crisis; and as the fortunes of Manitoba are bound up with theirs, our position is also a critical one. At this juncture it is our duty, as it is also to our interest, to put no weapon in the hands of the syndicate's great opponent. The fate of Mr. Norquay or of Mr. Greenway is a trifling matter compared with the life or death of the Pacific railway company.

During the cold snap two weeks ago, Joseph Robinson started from Brandon for the Souris district, land hunting. His long absence excited anxious friends; and careful search instituted resulted in the finding of his dead body frozen stiff thirty miles from Brandon.

The Rock Lake Herald thinks that if there was less land given to the syndicates and speculators the land would be taken by real settlers. The growth of the country would be healthy as well as rapid. People wishing to secure the land would not be obliged to go to the States for homesteads, and railroads would be built as fast as they were needed.

Mr. A. W. Ross has sold the corner of Portage avenue and Main street, Winnipeg, for $115,000 to an English syndicate, who will erect a palatial brick block. This is the principal business stand, and Mr. Ross gave $70,000 for it in April last. The adjacent property sold for $225,000. There is an improved feeling in real estate. The attack in England upon the Canada Pacific causes some degree of uneasiness, but the feeling is not panicky.

KINGSTON, JAMAICA, DESTROYED BY FIRE.

The fire which broke out in the business quarter of Kingston, Jamaica, on Monday evening was not extinguished until Wednesday. The loss is now estimated at three million pounds. The fire, which was incendiary, began in a quantity of shingles in a lumber-yard and as a high wind prevailed immediately gained great proportions. All the warehouses, wharves and stores were consumed, Four hundred stores in all were destroyed. Buildings which were regarded as fire-proof succumbed to the flames. Five persons are known to have been burned to death. A law will be passed prohibiting the use of United States shingles hereafter.

ONE.

The FIRST ingredient in DR. WILSON'S PULMONARY CHERRY BALSAM is an extract of wild cherry bark, which soothes the irritated surfaces in the lungs and air passages, acts as a tonic to the stomach, giving a healthy appetite, has a soothing, sedative influence on the heart and blood vessels, preventing palpitation.

TWO.

The SECOND loosens and displaces the tough, stringy phlegm which causes so much pain and distress, and which is the cause of the the convulsive coughing.

THREE.

The THIRD ingredient heals. It is the vital property of the peculiarly soothing and healing gums of the white pine and fir of southern climes, at the same time grateful and beneficial to the stomach.

FOUR.

The FOURTH ingredient is a pleasing and soothing lubricant that supplies the place of the mucous secretion which, while the organs are healthy coats the mucous membrane, keeping it soft and natural. It at first supplies the place of the decreased secretions and assists in restoring them so as to perform their proper and most important duties.

All these working together, beneficially, make DR. WILSON'S PULMONAY CHERRY BALSAM the best cure known for throat and lung diseases.

Sold in 25 and 50 Cents Bottles—the 50 Cents size containing double the 25 Cents size. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 28, 1882

The New Year.

The dear old year is dying and we stand on the threshold of another. The old year has been so good to us and the young year is so promising, that it is with great contentment that THE EXAMINER sits down for a cosy chat with its ten thousand readers. It has visited your homes so often and been so kindly welcomed that it now considers itself one of the family. It has sympathised in your sorrows, rejoiced in your prosperity, and been taken into your confidence. In proof of the reality of its adoption, it has been invited to take part in the family councils and its valuable advice has been freely sought, for what shopping expedition to town has been organized without advising with its advertising columns? It has chatted with you about the crops, it has gossipped with you over the news of the day, over the chances of trade, the hope of the harvest, and the state of the market; its home-coming has always been welcome, and its most delightful hours have been when it spoke its mind to you about the prosperity of the past year, for it has been a prosperous one The ventures of trade knew not lack of luck; earnest labour and honest toil have met with unstinted reward; barns have bulged with crops at wall and roof; the garner has groaned with the burden of golden grain, and the silver lining of the clouds has been turned outwards almost the year round. When the past is delightful to recall, its cheeriness projects itself into the future, and brightens that too. It is easy to be hopeful when the heart is grateful with remembered good. The old year has dealt out kindness so bountifully to us that we cannot distrust his successor, and in that spirit THE EXAMINER wishes all its readers A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Nothing if not Dishonest.

When our esteemed contemporary, the Review, is particularly severe and bumptious in condemning the conduct or utterances of some political opponent, one may be sure that such a state of indignation is simulated to hide its own guilt in making some crooked or deceptive excuse for its self-righteous wrath. Hon. Mr. Pardee, in his speech on the address stated, as his opinion, that if disallowance of the Streams Bill prevented its becoming law, millions of dollars worth of property would be virtually confiscated.

The Review points out Mr. Hardy's alleged duplicity in making such a statement, when, as it attempts to show, the statute books already (Timber Slide Companies Act of 1881, and Revised Statutes, Chapter 153) contains a law which covers the ground assumed by the Rivers and Streams Act. The acts quoted by our contemporary, give the rights claimed by it, but the Review carefully conceals one fact, and therein lies the dishonesty of our contemporary in suppressing the truth, and thus obscuring the merits of the question, and throwing dust in the eyes of its readers. The statutes quoted give their powers only to companies, formed for a specific purposes, and in this consists the difference between them and the disallowed Rivers and Streams Act. The latter gives to individuals the rights that the other statutes give only to companies, while at the same time it does not interfere with the rights of such companies. And in this fact its beneficial nature consists. Under existing legislation the individual owner of timber limits has no authority to take means to secure the use of slides, which any person not a company may erect, and is therefore excluded from a market—unless he goes through the expensive routine of forming a company of "not less than five persons," (R. S. O., chap. 153, sec. 1,) to secure the exercise of his individual rights, as guaranteed him by the provisions of the Rivers and Streams Bill, which provides for the exercise of individual rights without encroaching on corporate rights.

Therefore Mr. Pardee was not wrong in his premises when predicting the loss that might accrue if the Rivers and Streams Bill did not become law. But the Review was simply dishonest in concealing by the generous quotations of statutes, chapters and sections, the difference between companies and individuals respectively, which formed the very essence of the contention of the Commissioner of Crown Lands, as hypocritically complained of by the local organ of the Opposition apologists, and no-policy politicians of the Tory party in Ontario.

The East Riding Candidate.

In East Peterborough Mr. Blezard is understood to be again a candidate. He has been a useful and attentive member, and has done good service to the constituency. In Toronto he is considered to be one of the best men in the assembly for work in Committee, and it is there that the most important work is done. During the four years he has represented the riding he has made many friends, and there can be but little doubt as to his re-election.

The Bobcaygeon Independent thus introduces the subject of the Reform Candidature of East Peterborough, and its expression of opinion free from danger of imputation of party bias, is entitled to earnest consideration, for this paper has a mind of its own, hits where it sees a head and in the expression of the truth spares no party. The above is so comprehensive an epitome of the qualifications of the representative of East Peterborough, that it is only necessary to add that Mr. Blezzard is a practical farmer, one that has the welfare of that noble calling so thoroughly at heart, that the promotion of the interests of his constituency, essentially a constituency of farmers, will be, as it has been in the past, naturally his first care. His experience of legislation has been such that his industry and attention to the duties of his trust, have made him very largely master of its routine as well as its merits, and therefore his services will be proportionately more valuable, than a new man of otherwise equal merit. Besides he is a faithful supporter of the present government, which in giving the franchise to farmers' sons, in instituting a college specially for their training; which by giving an earnest and intelligent attention to the agricultural interests of Ontario, by all odds, its predominating industry has done so much to contribute to the development of the vast resources of this province in this respect. He is also in accord with the government in its aim to secure the additional territory, to which this province is entitled. In giving his aid to the accomplishment of this object, he will help to secure a vast revenue producing territory, whose acquisition will help to almost indefinitely postpone the consideration of the subject of direct taxation, which the gradual exhaustion of natural resources under the most economical management, will perhaps force upon the province in the far future, and which in the province of Quebec under the reckless extravagance of Tory misrule is staring that ill starred province in the face. Mr. Blezzard is a true and trusty friend of the East Riding and with their native shrewdness the electors see this and will place his re-election beyond the region of doubt, if thorough organization and hard work combine to secure the expression of the opinion of the riding. No matter how favorable an opinion is held unless expression gives it effect, it is worthless. A vote, unless it is polled is as valueless as a blank ballot paper.

The Toronto Convention.

The Liberal convention will meet in Shaftesbury Hall, at 2 p.m., Jan. 3rd, 1882, and if possible all delegates should, on arriving, report at the hall before that hour. The names of all delegates should be sent in to the secretary at once. A programme of the convention, hotel rates and other information, will be sent to the riding headquarters before Jan. 1st.

East Riding.

A convention and mass meeting to select a candidate in the Reform interest will be he held in Norwood, on Monday, Jan. 18th.

COLLECTING A LAWYER'S NOTE.

A wag of a lawyer was sitting in his office the other day, deeply engaged in unravelling some knotty question, when a gentleman entered and inquired:

"Is this Mr. Z—?"

The student of Blackstone, raising his eyes from the legal book before him, replied:

"If you owe anything, or have any business in my line, then Z—is my name: if you have a claim to present, I am not the man. If you called simply for a social chat, you can call me any name you choose."

"I propose to present you with some business in your line. I have a note of twenty-five dollars which I want you to collect."

So saying he handed the lawyer a note, and departed to call again next day.

As soon as he was gone the lawyer ascertained that it was one of is own promises to pay.

The next day his client again appeared and inquired,

"Well, what success?"

"All right; I have collected the money. Here it is, less my fee," handing him $15.

"Good!" said the client. "I have made two dollars and a half by this operation."

"How so?" said the lawyer.

"Well," replied the client. "I tried all over the city to sell your note for $12,50, and couldn't do it."

HOLIDAY ANNOUNCEMENT.

In presenting my Holiday Announcement, I wish to extend my most cordial thanks to the many customers who have encouraged me with their valued patronage since I embarked in business. It is a matter of gratification to know that my business is steadily increasing; a fact, which, while it imparts a cheering outlook to the future, is also flattering evidence of the success of my efforts to give satisfaction to my customers. Such practical appreciation will furnish a stimulus to my hitherto constant aim to supply only goods of the best quality at the lowest figures. Thanks to the liberality of my patrons, my sales are large, and I am thereby enabled to buy in large quantities for cash, and to sell at close prices.

In the coming year I shall relax no effort to make my business worthy of a continuance of the generous patronage of the public. I heartily invite all heads of households to favor me with an inspection of my stock, which I feel certain they will find equal in QUALITY, VARIETY and LOWNESS OF PRICE to that of any other house in the County of Peterborough.

My rule is to sell only the best goods, such as I can recommend, with the confidence that the order will be repeated, to sell them at the lowest living margin of profit, trusting to abundant sales—"small profits and quick returns"—to be a profitable substitute for high prices and a slow trade; to represent my goods only as they are, and, as the customer on trial, will find them to be, in short, to place myself and my patrons in such relations as will insure mutual confidence, mutual profit and mutual pleasure in the transaction of business.

For the Christmas Trade!

To meet the wants of the Christmas buyer I have purchased extensively of the very best goods in the market—comprising:

Choice New Season TEAS Green, Black and Japan.
Fresh Coffees, Cocoas and Chocolates
Sugars and Syrups
New Valentia Raisins
New Currants
London Layers
Dehesa and Black Basket Raisins
Sultana Raisins
Figs, Prunes, Grapes
Almonds, Filberts, &c.
Jams, Jellies, Marmalades
Cocoanut, Essences,
Vinegars, Fruits, Syrups,
Pickles and Sauces (all makes)
Mustards (Keen's and Colman's)
Baking Powders
Sago and Tapioca
Biscuits, Hams, Bacon
Preserved Meats and Vegetables, Potted Chicken, Ham, Duck, Beef, Tongue, &c.
Sardines, Lobsters, Salmon, Mackerel, Salt Fish, &c.

Ales and Porter--in Bottles!

I intend to make this a special feature of my business. I am now bottling the finest Ales and Porters, and can place them to customers at a much lower figure than that already imported in bottles. These Ales are now ready for use. All orders carefully packed and promptly delivered.

Bass & Co's Ale, and Guinness' Porter. Fine Hennessey Brandy, Martel Brandy, Pinnet Castillon Brandy. Gooderham & Worts' Whiskies, (7 year old.) Champagne, (Piper Heidsick's) Pints and Quarts, G. H. Mumm, and other makes. Imported Ports. Imported Sherries. Valencia Wines. Altar Wines, Clarets, &c. Rum, Gin, and other makes of Wines and Liquors at Rock Bottom Prices. Tobaccos, Cigars, and all other Goods that are found in a First-Class Grocery and Liquor Establishment.

I have everything that the most fastidious can desire and respectfully invite inspection of my stock. Purchasing in immense quantities, I can guarantee to save you money on all purchases.

Everything that can be done to please my customers is done, and in that way I hold and increase my trade from year to year.

☞YOUR PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

B. MORROW.

Furs! Furs! Furs!

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipzig, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

☞HIGHEST PRICES PAID FOR RAW FURS!

VILLIERS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Owing to the dry season during the fall a scarcity of water is severely felt in this locality.

A large amount of snow has fallen and made very good sleighing.

The farmers of this neighborhood have nobly completed their threshing. The grain having turned out above the average, judging from the well filled granaries.

The Wild Cat has been laid up for another season, having thrashed for upwards of three weeks and has been very successfully run by the managers, Messrs. J. and R. Wood and F. Redpath. They, on one occasion, unloaded her, put her into position and was ready to thrash in twelve minutes. Who can beat that?

A SINGING SCHOOL

was held at the Music Hall, Thursday night, the 14th, where was uttered some harmonious sounds by the assemblage, and by the leader. The pieces were sung by the assemblage with perfect correctness, and by so doing they received much praise from their leader. I think the gentlemen deserve the most praise as far as the singing was concerned. One gentleman especially did extra well, because he had the assistance of a female who resides north of the railroad track. 12 more joined, which makes 27 in all. When the homeward march began, a well known couple, being somewhat terrified at what happened the previous night, entered the residence of one of the business men of Villiers and remained there until all danger was over, whence they proceeded to their homes.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.

In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worth of praise and which really does as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by all druggists.

$100 REWARD

is offered for any case of Catarrh that can't be cured with Hall's Catarrh Cure. Taken internally. Price 75 cents. John McKee, Druggist, Peterboro'.

Generally speaking outside of the legal fraternity there is not a great deal of clothing to be found in a law-suit.

Get Rich.

When Hops are $1.25 per lb. as now, an acre will yield $1,000 profit, and yet the best family Medicine on earth. Raise Hops, get rich in pocket; use Hop Bitters and get rich in health. 51-2t

Boys are like railway carriages—oftentimes they can only be kept upon the right track by judicious use of switches.

Nothing can supply the place of a beautiful silky head of natural hair. It is infinitely more comfortabl than switches, and other preparations for the hair of unknown foreigners. Hair may be retained, beautified, and actually restored by the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists. Sold in Peterborough by J. D. Tully. 49-8t

One way to make money is to take a half pound trout, fill it up with shot and then go and bet it weighs a pound and a-half.

Mr. Thomas W. Race, Editor and Proprietor of the Mitchell "Recorder," writes that he had a prejudice against Patent Medicines, but being induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters, for Biliousness that occasioned such violent headache and distress as to often disable him from work, the medicine gave him relief, and he now speaks of it in the most favorable terms. 51-2t

It is said the German word "pungsten" comes from the old Greek "pentecoste." Yes, and dyspepsia comes from sauerkraut.

THE USE OF FALSE HAIR by ladies is a most disagreeable practice, from not only is it impossible to trace its origin, but also the natural hair is constantly changing while the dead hair retains its color. By the use of Cingalese Hair Renewer on the contrary, the color of the hair is rendered natural and always beautiful, glossy and a venerable crown of glory, every lady should use it, and to gentlemen whose hair is growing thin, it is a necessity. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists. Sold in Peterborough by J. D. Tully. 49-8t

Frugal landlady of boarding-houses: "Coming home to dinner, Mr. Brown?" "Hearty boarder: "Well, perhaps, if I don't feel hungry."

BOILSTOWN, N. B., Jan. 6, 1882.
I caught a cold last fall on the stage coach while going to Chatham, which settled in a very severe cough, and finally I was confined to my room. I feared it would very soon terminate in consumption as I was growing weaker and weaker every day. I got very much alarmed; could not sleep for want of breath, when my doctor advised me to try Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam, I felt sceptical at first, but after using one bottle found I was recovering, and on finishing my third bottle was a new man, cough all gone and completely cured. It is well named the great remedy.

YELLOW AS A GUINEA.—The complexion, in a case of unchecked liver complaint, culminating in jaundice, is literally "as yellow as a guinea." It has this appearance because the bile, which enables the bowels to act, is directed from its proper course into the blood. In connection with this symptom there is nausea, coating of the tongue, sick headache, impurity of the breath, pains through the right side and shoulder blade, dyspepsia and constipation. These and other concomitants of liver complaint are completely removed by the use of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, which is also an eradicant of scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, ulcers, cancers, humours, female weakness, jaundice, and lumbago. It tones the stomach, rouses the liver, and after relieving them, causes the bowels thereafter to become regular. High professional sanction has been accorded to it, and its claims to public confidence are justified by ample evidence. Price, $1.00. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Ask for Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac-simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

They were getting ready for a Sunday excursion, and the father said: "Wife can carry the sandwiches; Billy can carry the shawls and spy-glass; Johnny can carry the umbrellas and lemon-sugar, and I'll carry the money."

Fortunately Valvular disease of the heart is not very common; its disturbed action may be due to indigestion, liver irregularities &c., A stomach disturbed with wind or indigestable food will cause pain and flattering by crowding on the nerves of the heart. Burdock Blood Bitters will speedily remedy all such difficulties. 51-2t

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 28, 1882.

The Game of Slander.

The success that has attended the administration of the "Crook's Act" by the present Government has roused the envy and jealousy of their opponents, and to gain a point against it the latter have to resort to the game of slander and misrepresentation. One strong point with them is to attempt to make the Act a political engine, and the commissioners agents of terror. Not long ago our local contemporary made some vague charges of this nature, but upon our challenging it to mention a single name, it found it more difficult to make names than statements out of whole cloth, and discreetly dropped the subject. But the Evening News of Toronto, a sort of evening rehash of the Mail, is less scrupulous, but no less dishonest. It preferred serious charges (clipped eagerly by the Review) of terrorism exercised over applicants for licenses, against Mr. C. B. Doherty, a license official of Toronto, alleging even the statement of Mr. John Paterson, a hotel keeper, in confirmation. This statement Mr. Paterson publicly denies, and Mr. Doherty also denies that he has prostituted his authority in any way and courts the fullest investigation, saying, "Let my accusers produce their proof, and I am ready to go before the Government at any time." But that is what these slanderers will not do. Why, even the local representative of West Toronto, Mr. Bell, rebashed the above insinuative in the house, and it is but of a piece with all the charges against the administration in respect of the License Act, or of anything else for that matter. What they cannot prove they assert and when detected and exposed they strike off on another trail in pursuit of another slander. If the "Crook's Act" is so vilely administered, why not formulate one of the score of charges hinted and have it proved? They know that this is impossible, is the reason. The Act is condemned because it defrauded municipalities of their rights. What municipalities have complained?

The fact is, all the Tories want is to get into office, and to secure this, knowing they have no chance of success on their merits, they pursue a policy of trumped-up charges, thinking, doubtless, that though they are promptly and thoroughly disproved, some of them may stick. To show in a general way the factious nature of these charges, it may be said that out of some four thousand license holders, not a single one has protested against the action of the Commissioners or Inspectors, either by laying their grievances before the Government, or writing to the press. Straight lying is the most formidable mode of attack made against the Government in their administration of the license Act. The Review republished the slander of the Evening News against Mr. Doherty, now let it be honest once, "just for a change," and republish Mr. D.'s denial and the denial of Mr. Patterson, one of its alleged witnesses.

Mr. Hardy's speech was a vigorous and effective defence of the Ministerial position, in which the hypocritical course of the Tories upon the license question was thoroughly exposed. The Provincial Secretary showed that the tendencies and affiliations of the Conservatives were such as to preclude the possibility of any measure in the direction of temperance reform emanating from that source. He claimed that the Crooks Act had improved the character of the licensed houses, and that the mass of the licenseholders were satisfied with it. It was only the politicians on the Tory side who wished to create dissatisfaction. A significant feature in connection with the deputation of the licensed victuallers to Ottawa, so frequently referred to during the debate, is that two of the number were political brewers. They have no further interest in the license laws than to secure the greatest possible consumption of beer.

The debate in the address closed, and on the reassembling of the House the real work of the session will go on with vigor. The debate has served to show the weakness of the Opposition, no less in its oratorical ability than in voting strength. The Opposition have lost what moral strength they might have possessed by making of themselves a second fiddle to the Dominion Government rather than confining their attention to the legitimate issues of the Province.

SCHOOL SECTION NO. 4, SMITH.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

The closing day of the term in school section No. 4, Smith, known as the Beaufort school was one that will be pleasant to remember by those that took part in the exercises, and the delightful episode that varied so pleasantly the routine of school work. Mr. Porter, the teacher, having signified his intention to resign his position for the purpose of attending the Normal school in Toronto, it was the most natural thing in the world, that the pupils, who have learned to esteem and love him for his many excellent qualities both as a teacher and a gentleman, should express their own feelings and reflect those of the entire section by suitably recognising the occasion of Mr. Porter's separation from them, by some tangible token.

The examinations, which passed off most pleasantly last Thursday were witnessed by about fifty visitors. The standing of the school may be inferred from the fact that this school, though it was Mr. Porter's first engagement, came out best as the intermediate examinations last spring. Addresses were delivered by Mr. W. McAllister, who, in the course of a few brief but well chosen and timely remarks complimented the teacher and pupils on the success that had undoubtedly attended his efforts to teach and theirs to learn, also by Messrs. M. Galloway, Earr and J. Riddell.

Miss Lizzie Wood, daughter of Mr. H. Wood, then advanced and read the following

ADDRESS.

MR. PORTER,—We desire, as you are about to leave our district, to express our sincere thanks for the unremitting attention you have given the school since you have entered upon your duties as teacher here. We know from what you have done, your full wish to carry us forward in every branch of our studies with all the minuteness and close searching that could insure the success of your scholars.

And while the teaching so profitable to the pupils, the attainments made under your preserving care must have been very gratifying to yourself, the parents, the trustees and all concerned; not forgetting the high commendation of the Inspector, Mr. Tiller.

And it is with very great pleasure we now present you with a small token, which please accept and be assured sir that while you go to pursue your further course of advancement you carry with you our best wishes and most lively expectations that your efforts may be crowned with pleasing and noble success.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,
LIZZIE WOOD.

The "small token" which was a handsome ring, a pin and a set of cuff buttons in gold, was presented by Miss Mary Crosba. Mr. Porter was deeply affected by these proofs of the success, with which he had done his duty, said in reply that it was with great regret that he severed the pleasant associations of the past, which though severed for the present, would be subjects for pleasant recollections, but pleasure alone was not the first aim of life, and he felt it is duty to aim at higher attainments that would better fit him for discharging the future duties of his profession. This was his first school, and he owed it largely to the active minds and willing dispositions of his pupils that he had met with as much success as he hoped he had done. The entire proceedings of the day were very successful and pleasant.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NOMINATIONS.

The nomination of candidates for Reeve and Councillors took place on Friday last. Very little interest was manifested in this annual event, there being but a meagre representation of the "free and independent," who, though they evidently want better men than those who occupied the municipal benches for the expiring year, seemed to care very little who were to be our local legislators for the coming year. At any rate; the electors present thought they had enough of the old councillors, as not one of them was renominated, though in justice to them we should state that they also had enough and to spare of the electors. The following nominations were made:

For Reeve—J. B. Pearce and John Finlay.

For Councillors—Wm. Hutchinson, R. W. Waters, Thos. Fraser, Hiram Reynolds, and W H. Minaker.

After the nominations Mr. Pearse addressed the electors at length, giving some important financial details of his term of office, the particulars giving the utmost satisfaction to those present. Mr. J. J. Griffin, a well-tried and devoted public servant, also gave a satisfactory statement of expenditures made by him during the year. Mr. Griffin did not seek re-election, as he is about leaving the village for a wider and more profitable field of labor, and it is to be hoped, a more lucrative and more thankful one than being a councillor of the village of Norwood.

MASONIC.

At the regular communication of Norwood Lodge, No, 223, A. F. & A. M., held in the Lodge room here, the following brethren were duly elected officers for the current Masonic year

W. Bro. Wm. H. Stephenson	W.M.
Bro. Thos. Fraser	I.W.
" P. W. Stevenson	J.W.
" Daniel Wigmore	Chaplain.
" T. Burke, (re-elected)	Secretary.
" J. A. Butterfield	Treasurer.
" Isaac Powell, (re-elected)	Tyler.

These officers were installed on the 27th instant, when the members celebrated this festive occasion by an oyster supper and conversazione. A very enjoyable evening was participated in, and an increasing interest manifested in this ancient institution.

TEMPERANCE.

A very lively interest is now awakened in the temperance cause in this village, and never was there a better time in its history for the vigilant operations of the temperance party. Sunday and Monday alike the vilely intoxicated can be seen roaming through our streets, or the victim of strong drink can be seen sleeping off his intoxication on our public highways or a snow-bank. Of course those are among the lower class of our railway navvies, among the latter, however, there are a number of men who are sober, honest and industrious. Many of these take a lively interest in the temperance movement here, and have probably joined the association recently formed under the auspices of the Methodists. A very interesting public meeting was held in the town hall here on Wednesday evening last, when the hall was filled to its utmost capacity. An eloquent appeal on behalf of temperance was made by the Rev. Mr. Watch, of Belleville, and his address was listened to with appreciative attention. Speeches were also delivered by the Rev. Mr. Carmichael, resident Presbyterian minister; Rev. Mr. Cleary, resident Anglican minister; Rev. Mr. Thos. Sanderson, of the Methodist Church, and by Dr. Ford. At the close of the speeches, a call was made for those desirous of signing the pledge, when a large number among the audience promptly responded. A temperance meeting has also been formed in connection with the Methodist congregation of South Dummer, and is also doing good work in the temperance cause.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament — Fourth Session.

LAST Thursday the House adjourned over the Christmas holidays after an unexpectedly short sitting, during which, however, a good deal of business was transacted. Nineteen Bills received a first reading, the majority being Government measures. Among the most important of these were Bills respecting street railways, public parks in cities and towns, private lunatic asylums, public creameries and tree planting, and measures consolidating the Acts relating to the Education Department, the Public and High Schools, and jurors. The Legislature have ample work cut out for them when they re-assemble on the 4th prox.

DUMMER.

A well attended school exhibition was given in the school room, S.S. No. 2, Dummer, on Wednesday evening of last week, by the teacher, Miss Maggie A. Mark, and her pupils. The exercise consisted of dialogues, recitations and vocal music, which were all well rendered. The singing in concert by the whole school was exceptionally good, showing great painstaking on the part of the teacher, and well deserved the heartily given applause of the audience. At the conclusion of the interesting programme, Miss Mark was pleasantly surprised by her scholars presenting her with a handsome work-box and a pair of vases. On behalf of the school Miss Eliza McMillan read the address, and Miss Maggie Howden made the presentation. Miss Mark replied to the address in suitable and feeling terms.

AN ANTE-POST MORTEM.

Some of the minor officers of the law are occasionally fond of using legal and other phrases with very little conception of what they really mean. An overseer of the poor, some years since, was called on for his opinion, at a meeting of the Board, as to what to do with a poor fellow who was ill. it was thought, with the small-pox. With a grave look that spoke volumes of official wisdom, he replied, "I ain't quite satisfied with this case. In my judgment we'd better have a post-mortem examination of the man first; and then, if he really has got it. why, send him to the hospital."

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

REMEMBER THE PLACE:—Pengelly's old stand, 3 doors west of Cavanagh's Hotel, Hunter Street, Peterborough.

1882. CHRISTMAS! 1882.

It is now the season of the year when people who are contemplating making purchases for Christmas and New Year's Presents, begin to study where they can lay out their money to the best advantage. There are several points to be considered. FIRSTLY: where they can find the best variety of New, Fresh Goods, suitable to their tastes. SECONDLY: where they can get the best value for their money. THIRDLY: where the quality can be perfectly relied upon. FOURTHLY: where they can deal with confidence and feel quite sure that there will be no misrepresentations made to them of the quality of the goods they wish to buy.

THE ABOVE CONSIDERATIONS CAN BE SATISFACTORILY FULFILLED BY MAKING YOUR PURCHASES AT

R. W. MUNCASTER'S
JEWELLERY STORE,
Cluxton's Block, George St. Peterborough

Where you will find the Stock Complete in every Department, and for Price, Quality, Novelty of Design, and Reliability, unsurpassed. Amongst the immense Stock will be found a full line of GOLD and SILVER WATCHES at all Prices and Makes. GOLD JEWELLERY in Necklets and Lockets, Watch Chains, Guards, and Alberts, Breast Pins, Scarf Pins, Charms, Bracelets. Brooches and Earrings set with Diamonds, Garnets, Aqua Marines, Turquoise and Pearls. GOLD RINGS. Ladies' Gold Rings mounted with Real Stones, in every conceivable design. Wedding Rings in all sizes and prices at a High Standard of Quality. Gold Keeper Rings in Chased, Engraved and Chased, and Engraved. SILVER JEWELLERY in all styles of Brooches, Earrings, Lockets, Chains, Necklets, &c.

SILVER PLATED WARE.

The above line of Goods are being cut upon so much of late that the Quality has become quite a secondary matter with some dealers. Their whole aim is centred in presenting a showy and trashy article, which will catch the eye and which will not wear much longer than a good quality of Pewter. Such a quality as that I do not keep at all. I have nothing but the best Quadruple Plate, made by the leading American Manufacturers, whose reputation is the result of supplying a first-class article to the public for the last fifty years. The Stock of Plated Ware consists of all the Latest Designs in Cruets, Butter Dishes, Card Receivers, Cake Baskets, Pickle Stands, Knives & Forks, Spoons in Tea, Table and Dessert, and Fancy Articles suitable for Presents.

WATCH REPAIRING This Department is one which is sadly neglected in the average Jewellery Store. The object sought to be attained is to make as much money as possible out of customers by charging exhorbitant Prices and procuring cheap workmen. My reputation for work has been achieved by always doing GOOD, RELIABLE WORK, and charging a moderate figure for it, so that people leaving Watches with me for Repairs, know that they can rely on all work leaving my hands. THE MINOR BRANCHES of the Jewellery business not named above, are all carefully attended to by myself, and the system I have adopted in business has convinced people that any goods bought from me are always in every respect to be relied upon for Quality, Workmanship, Cheapness and Variety. THE VERDICT OF THE PUBLIC, as experienced by me in the large volume of trade done and which is steadily increasing, say that they appreciate my efforts to establish a Jewellery Store where they can buy goods without any hesitation, knowing that Muncaster's goods are of a standard which is always the highest, and that anything bought from him never fails to be exactly as represented.

DO NOT FAIL TO INSPECT MY IMMENSE STOCK BEFORE DECIDING ON YOUR PURCHASES.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense.

THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE POPE.

Replying to the congratulation of the cardinals yesterday, the pope said, alluding to the Martinucci case; "A fresh attack upon the independence of the sovereignty of the papacy has recently been made. The consideration which formerly was shown for the holy see and dictated by politicial prudence and reasons of state has now been put aside." The pope added that despite everything he would continue to defend the rights and interests of the church.

James Lillywhite, the celebrated cricketer, is dead, aged 57. He was a son of William Lillywhite (the Nonpareil) the old Sussex bowler, brother of John Lillywhite, the celebrated Sussex player, who died a few years since, and cousin of James Lillywhite, the slow bowler, who retired from Sussex cricket club last year after a service of 20 years. He first appeared at Lord's in 1851, and won in various matches much renown. He has of late years been master of athletics in Winchester collage and Cambridge university.

THE ENGLISH LAND COMPANY.

AN OFFER FOR THE PURCHASE OF NINE TOWNSHIPS.

We understand, says the Post that Major Evans and Mr. E. R. Osler, the commissioners of the Canadian Land and Emigration Co., residents of Toronto, have received an offer for the purchase of nine townships on the following terms:

NEW YORK, Oct. 5, 1882.

DEAR SIRS,—I am instructed by James S. Ross, Esq., of Quebec to make the following offer for the Canadian Land and Emigration Company's property, real and personal, in the county of Haliburton.

The price offered is eighty thousand dollars, payable as follows; He will assume the debentures and the interest from 1st July, 1882 (amount exclusive of interest), $31,500. He will pay cash on signing the papers, $20,000. Balance $28,500 in three equal annual instalments, namely, $10,000 twelve months from the date of signing the papers; $10,000 twenty-four months from the date of signing the papers; and $8,500 thirty-six months from the date of signing the papers, all with interest at the rate of five per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually on unmatured accounts.

The property is all the real property of the county of Haliburton, say in the nine townships of Dysart, Harcourt, Guilford, Harburo, Eyre, Dudley, Clyde, Havelock and Bruton, being about 326,638 acres, including all mills, houses and other improvements in which the company have any interest, and personal property of all kinds and descriptions in the county of Haliburton. Also claims against settlers and rights of all kinds, maps, plans, field notes, and all other documents relating to the lands also a payment in advance by Booth of $3,209, and all existing timber licenses and interest thereunder up to first Oct., 1882, and thereafter, excepting amounts payable by Irwin & Boyd, and Bronson & Weston on account of past timber dues, say for 1881-2.

As soon as this offer is accepted the documents may be prepared for signature and the transaction carried out.—Yours, etc.,

P. S. STEVENSON.

The commissioners in transmitting the offer to the directors in England recommended its acceptance, and it is probable this will be the result. The following is an extract from a letter of one of the solicitors of the company in Toronto: "The inferior pine and the hardwood left would yield an income only by the company starting new industries, which would involve an investment of fresh capital, and would be successful only if looked after by men who thoroughly understood the work. I suppose the shareholders would hardly risk any more money in a venture which would be doubtful. I have not much confidence in the company being able to sell these lands to small buyers; not only are the surrounding free grant lands a bar to this; but every one who wants land is looking towards the Northwest prairies to invest. It seems to me that in view of the danger of the decreasing revenue and the liabilities of the company that they cannot afford to remain inactive, and that either they must spend money in making the small pine and hardwood productive or sell." The change of proprietorship, if accomplished,, no doubt means greater energy and enterprise in the development of he back country.

HOW TO HAVE COMPANY.

It is not so very hard to have a little company to tea or to spend the evening if one only knows how to plan her work, and does not attempt to crowd too much into one day. If the cake is made the day before it will be fresh enough, and if you are so unfortunate as not to be entirely successful in making or baking, you will have time to remedy this trouble by trying again. If salad is to be part of the supper, the chicken may be prepared in the morning, and then late in the afternoon the dressing may be prepared and the salad mixed. When it is in the dish and ready for the table, wet a clean cloth in vinegar and lay over the top; this will keep it moist, and it will not lose its flavor by standing. If you are to have sandwiches, they may be buttered early, and a damp cloth laid over them. Have the dishes and silver ready and put in a convenient place where you can get them with no delay and trouble of counting. Silver may be rubbed and table cloth and napkins laid aside days before. Above all, after having done these things, do not worry; think over all the times you have been out to tea, and you will hardly be able to recall a single time where anything went very badly. Avoid confusion; if any one is to help you, be she servant or friend, let her distinctly understand what her duty is to be, so that you will not interfere with each other. A few experiments will convince you of the good sense of these directions.

CANADA'S

Famous Humorous and Satirical Illustrated Weekly,

GRIP.

Containing in each issue the cream of current original humor, by pen and pencil).

Grip is as well known from end to end of the Dominion as the Globe or Mail, and wields an influence second to neither.

Grip's Cartoons are famed not only throughout Canada, but in America and England, and, in the opinion of good judges, they are uniformly equal in point of wit and power to those of any comic paper in the world.

Lord Dufferin (who is still a regular reader of Grip)—with his subscription well paid up in advance—testifies his warm appreciation of the ability displayed in the paper from week to week, and avows it a matter of astonishment to him.

This opinion of England's leading diplomat is endorsed by Sir John A. Macdonald, Hon. Edward Blake, and other representative public men of Canada.

Grip has no politics beyond the public good. It seeks to deal fairly and faithfully with both parties, and is never afraid to put the plain truth in black and white. We are at all times happy to receive suggestions for Cartoons on all political subjects; and provided such suggestions are founded on fact and of a suitable nature, we shall use them regardless of which party they affect.

Grip is pure in tone and sentiment, and is, in every respect, a family journal. Hundreds of parents throughout the Dominion declare that the weekly visit of Grip is looked forward to by their children most joyfully, and its power as an educator is heartily acknowledged.

Grip is now in its tenth year; and its circulation is large, though not so great as it should enjoy as a recognized National Institution. This grand young Dominion should earnestly support its only Illustrated Comic Journal, especially as that journal is in all respects a credit to Canada and its

THE MARCH TEMPEST.

DR. WIGGINS' PREDICTION CAUSING UNIVERSAL ALARM—A MEXICAN PORT MASTER MAKES ENQUIRIES.

The prediction of prof. H. Stone Wiggins of the great storm in March next, has travelled like the wind and is now known in almost every habitable quarter of the globe.

Scientists have made investigations, with the result that a great amount of credence is placed in the prediction.

Our telegraphic depatches have announced the reception at the seats of science in other countries of the forewarning notice issued by the professor some time since, and letters of enquiry are received by him frequently. No later than yesterday Prof. Wiggins received the following from Mexico:

Mr. H. Stone Wiggins, Ottawa, Ontario.

DEAR SIR.—I have read in the New York Semi-Weekly Times of the 28th of September last a prediction of yours about a great cyclone that is to sweep through the earth of the Pacific Ocean, Europe, England, and North America. Said cyclone will strike the earth on the 11th of March, 1883, and you advise shipbuilders to put their vessels high on stocks and farmers to secure their hay, cattle, etc., from the storm.

Please to communicate me if such prediction is founded on science. If the Gulf of Mexico will also be visited by the destroyer, what parts and the course it will follow.

In doing so you will do a great service to humanity, as the people shall be prepared for the coming event.

Your obedient servant,
JOSE C. DIAZ,
Port Master.

SOMEHOW OR OTHER WE GET ALONG.

I.

The good wife tusstled about the house,
Her face still bright with a pleasant smile
As broken snatches of happy song
Strengthened her heart and hand the while.
The good man sat in the chimney nook,
His little clay pipe within his lips,
And all he'd made and all he'd lost,
Ready and clear on his finger tips.

II.

'Good wife, I've just been thinking a bit.
Nothing has done very well this year.'
Money is bound to be hard to get,
Everything sure to be very dear.
How the cattle are going to be fed,
How we're to keep the boys at school.
It's a kind of debit and credit sum
I can't make balance by my rule.'

III.

She turned her around from the baking board,
And looked him with a cheerful laugh:
"Why husband dear, one would really think
That the goodrich wheat was only chaff.
And what if wheat is only chaff,
As long as we both are well and strong:
I'm not a woman to worry a bit,
Somehow or other we get along.

IV.

"Into all lives the rain must fall,
Over all lands the storm must beat,
But when the rain and the storm are o'er
The after sunshine is twice as sweet.
Through every straight we have found a road,
In every grief we have found a song.
We have had to bear and had to wait,
But somehow or other we have got along.

V.

"For thirty years we have loved each other,
Stood by each other whatever befell;
Six boys have called us 'father' and 'mother,'
And all of them living and doing well.
We owe no man a penny, my dear,
We both of us loving, and well and strong
Goodman, I wish you would smoke again,
And think how well we have got along."

VI.

He filled his pipe with a pleasant laugh,
He kissed his wife with a tender pride,
He said, "I'll do as you tell me, love,
I'll just count up on the other side."
She left him then with his better thought,
And lifted her work with a low, sweet song,
A song that followed me many a year—
"Somehow or other we got along."

Farm, Garden and Household.

Agricultural Implements.

The closing year has been one of unprecedented activity among our implement manufacturers. Orders have been far in excess of the ability to supply, and several of our manufacturers have this year increased the dimensions of their buildings, some of them having doubled their capacity. In London alone three new manufactories have been erected. Where manufacturers formerly talked with satisfaction of turning out hundreds of plows, horse-rakes, seeders and harvesters, &c., they now talk of turning them out by the thousand. To show the great extent that self-binders are being constructed, one manufacturing firm has now ordered sixty thousand dollars worth of twine, or 250 tons, for the use of their harvesters alone. The opening up of our northwest has caused a greatly increased demand, but such is the name that Canadian harvesters have attained that some of our manufacturers are shipping largely to Europe, India, Australia and South America. Recently when at Messrs. Waterous & Co.'s workshops Brantford, we saw five saw-mills and grist-mills, with engines and boilers complete. They were in the act of packing them to fill orders from Australia. Other orders were in for more to be constructed. The firm were also constructing some for Chili. Their saw-mill has gained such a name in that Republic, beating the English and American machines, that they could supply that country to much greater extent than they do. In fact Mr. Waterous complains bitterly because he can get no rebate from the Government for material that he imports, then manufactures and ships to foreign countries. He says that a refund is made to others, but on account of his necessity of mixing iron etc., he could not obtain a rebate unless he were to perjure himself.

Rules for Farmers' Clubs.

1st.—That we the farmers of the neighborhood of do form ourselves into a society to be called the Farmer's Club.

2nd.—That the object of the club is to be the more general spread of agricultural knowledge among our families by means of meetings at which essays, lectures, debates, etc., will be heard, agricultural periodicals taken, and a library formed.

3rd.—That there shall be elected from the members a President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer. (The last two offices can be joined, if desirable.)

4th.—That the meetings of the club shall be held monthly at o'clock in the evening, during the months of 5th that a small fee shall be paid by each member to defray any necessary expenses, the amount to be fixed by the members.

6th.—It will be the duty of the Secretary to keep minutes of the proceedings of the meetings.

7th.—That the subjects to be discussed shall have been selected at the previous meeting, and be such subjects as farmers are most interested in, and should be as seasonable as possible.

It would be desirable to hold an open annual meeting during the summer months, such as an excursion, pic-nic or harvest home, in which the families of members and others might participate.

By the Way.

"The country is too full of quacks and 'hoss professors' remarks the Breeders Gazette, and imaginary 'spavin' is their profit.

By the way, it is nothing but want of combination that prevents farmers from having their just complaints attended to. —Mark Lane Express.

A Welsh rarebit, in the shape of Black Queen, a four-year-old Welsh cow, the pick of a herd sold the other day in England, brought the extraordinary price of $1,750.

A cream separator worked by a single horse, was exhibited at the recent dairy show, London; another was an appliance for cleaning milk cans by machinery.

The Echo Farm Company, which bottle 3,000 quarts of milk per day for the New York and Brooklyn trade, buy largely of Litchfield Coun., farmers, p[illegible] promptly, with nothing off for leakage, care or sour. The cans in which collections for delivery are made must have a ventilator in the cover, which is described as "the bottom of a funnel inverted and soldered into the lid."

It used to be said by Mr. McCombie that Polled Angus cattle would become the dominant breed "of England, and therefore of the world." The London Agricultural Gazette remarks that "it seems in the face of recent sales to be taking its place exceedingly." "Did anybody ever know," our contemporary continues, "such a wave or tide of good fortune as has lately overtaken this stock, and Welsh and Berkshires, as well."

Transplanting Trees in Winter.

Mr. E. W. Cornell, in the Prairie Farmer, gives these suggestions about transplanting trees in winter, a useful method when time is a matter of importance, or where the immediate securing of large specimens for the lawn is desired.

When properly done, the holes should, of course, be dug when the ground is not frozen, and the soil placed in a compact heap, and covered on the south of the hillock with some coarse litter from the horse stable, to keep a portion of the soil from freezing, which will give the planter access at any time during the winter. Sufficient loose soil to pack about the ball of earth will be taken up with the tree, which will be nearly sufficient of itself to fill the receptacle, and the dressing will be just where wanted to spread about the tree for winter protection, and for immediate nourishment in the spring. Experience has taught me that it is highly needful to furnish some fertilizer for all transplanted trees at the time of removal. In balling out trees, it is not advisable to wait until the ground is frozen hard, as is often done, which greatly increases the labor and expense.

It is only necessary to dig a narrow trench about the tree, which may be quite near the trunk; the soil being damp will be held by the many fibrous roots from falling into the trench, which should be deep enough for cutting down through the horizontal roots, which, with most trees, will require a depth of from fifteen to twenty inches, laying bare the tap roots. Having dug about all the trees in like manner, all you have to do is to wait until the ball of earth is frozen, when you have only to chop off the main perpendicular root, and, with the trunk for a lever, two men can readily load upon a stone-boat or sleigh, a tree, with a ball of earth attached as heavy as a team can haul. When arrived at the place of setting, drive the boat or sleigh upon the heap of soil in such a manner that it will incline toward the pit, and in a moment you may slide the tree to its appointed place.

Tramp some of the soil from under the dressing around the ball of earth; put the litter about it, and the work is done much better than it could be at any other season of the year; for the multitude of fibrous roots in the ball of earth preserve the tree from any check until the larger roots can throw out a colony from the points where they were cut off. There is no necessity of losing one tree in a hundred by this method, while a large tree can be removed with as much safety as a small one, providing the ball of earth attached be correspondingly enlarged. This method is exceedingly favorable for the resetting of large evergreen trees, which otherwise is attended with much danger of loss from the least drying of the roots. It is a work well adapted to the winter, as it can readily be discontinued at an inclement season, to be resumed at any favorable moment.

If the trees are large the following is a good plan for transplanting, cutting the trench, &c., as before described: Take the hind wheels and pole or reach of a wagon and to the end of the pole attach two chains somewhat longer than the pole, with hooks at the end; the wheels are now backed up to the tree, the pole elevated and carried to the tree and the end fastened securely to the trunk, taking care against rubbing by the use of old carpet or canvas; the saddle or cross piece now rests against the base of the trunk, the chains are then attached by the hooks to some of the larger roots, and after the branches have been tied close together the tree is ready for removal.

Recipes.

GINGER CAKES.—Beat up 4 ounces of butter with 4 ounces of sugar, an ounce of ground ginger, and the yolks of four eggs, well beaten. Add flour to make a fine paste, roll out very thin and bake 20 minutes.

BRIDE CAKES.—Beat up 8 ounces of butter to a cream, add the whites of 7 eggs, well beaten, then a pound of sugar then the beaten yolks of the eggs; lastly beaten in a pound of ground rice very thoroughly; drop on a baking tin, sift sugar over the small cakes and bake 20 minutes.

COLD CREAM.—A. T. sends the following: One half ounce spermaceti, twenty grains white wax, two ounces oil sweet almonds, one ounce pure glycerine, six drops oil of rose; melt the first three ingredients together, and when cooling add the glycerine and oil of rose, stirring until cold.

MACCAROONS made as follows: Remove by scraping, the skins of half a pound of the best almonds, and pound them to a paste in a mortar or bowl, with two tablespoonsful of water flavoured with vanilla essence; beat up the whites of 8 eggs to a froth; add a pound of white sugar and mix evenly with the almond paste. Drop it on tissue paper in small rounds and bake twenty minutes.

DOUGHNUTS OR FRIED CAKES.—Make a batter of flour, eggs well beaten and sugar, and add a few caraway seeds. Have ready a pan full of hot lard and drop into it large spoonfuls of the batter, or the batter may be made stiff enough to stamp out into rings, or made into flat cakes, which are cooked in the hot lard until browned. When taken out, a little white sugar is sifted over them.

MINCE PIES.—A pound of lean, tender beef and two pounds of suet are chopped fine; three pounds of currants, three pounds of pared apples and half pound of candied lemon are chopped fine and added to the former. To these are added the juice and grated rind of a lemon, two pounds of white sugar, and half a grated nutmeg and a quarter of an ounce each of mace and cinnamon pounded fine. A pint of good cider and a glass of brandy are also added, and the whole is well mixed. Pack into a stone jar to keep.

BEAN SOUP.—Soak a quart of navy beans over night. In the morning put them over the fire in three quarts of water, with three onions fried in a little butter, one small carrot, two partly cooked potatoes, a small piece of salt pork and salt. Boil slowly five or six hours. Then pass through a colander and return to the fire. Season with salt and pepper. Bits of bread fried brown in butter make a pleasant addition; celery and clover are sometimes added; a cupful of cream mixed with the soup makes a pleasant change.

DR. AUSTIN'S

PHOSPHATINE

Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882.

Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Beatley, of this place, and have really received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremour which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (62) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly,
J. S. WETHERILL.

AN OLD, OLD QUESTION.

A spirit that from earth had just departed
Lingered a moment on its upward way,
And looking back, saw, as though broken-hearted,
Its friends and kindred weeping o'er its clay.
"It seems they loved me dearly. that I know,
My life had been which happier," it said,
"Why only as our parting have they shown it—
Their fondest kisses keeping for the dead?"

A TRUE GHOST STORY.

The Rev. Dr. Baker is and has been for thirty years the Rector of a prominent parish on the eastern shore of Maryland. He is a resident of the town of Camden, and has—or had some twelve years ago, when this happened—a mission charge in the village of Venice, sixteen miles distant, and between these places he was constantly on the road. About six miles from Camden was the country residence of Judge Silverton, a well known and venerable parishioner of the worthy doctor. This gentleman had been dead about six weeks when Dr. Baker happened to be returning from Venice to Camden one afternoon in a carriage with Mr. Alden, a prominent citizen of the former place. It was in broad daylight, just before sunset, and not far from Judge Silverton's gate, when a carriage drawn by a white horse passed them rapidly from behind and was soon out of sight.

"That fellow must be in a hurry to reach Camden," remarked the doctor.

"Did you notice anything particular about that vehicle?" inquired his companion.

"Only that it moves very quietly. I heard no sound as it went by."

"Nor did I," said Mr. Alden; "neither rattling of wheels or noise of hoofs. It is certainly very strange."

In a few minutes the matter was forgotten and the two drove on, conversing on other things.

They had proceeded about a mile, when suddenly the same horse and carriage again passed them from behind, and again in the same absolute silence, notwithstanding the hardness and narrowness of the road. Nothing could be seen of the driver except his feet, the carriage curtains hiding his body. There was no cross road by which a vehicle in front could possibly have got behind without making a circuit of many miles and consuming several hours. Yet there was not the least doubt that this was the same conveyance which only a little while previous had passed on before, and the two gentlemen looked at each other in blank amazement and with a certain suggestion of awe which prevented much discussion of the matter, especially as the horse was to all appearance the well known white habitually driven by the deceased judge. Another half mile brought them in sight of Judge Silverton's gate, when for the third time the ghostly team dashed by—again from behind—in the same mysterious silence. This time, however, it turned, in full view, into the Judge's gate. Without a word of comment the doctor quickened his horse's speed and reached the gate only a few yards behind the silent driver. Both Mr. Alden and himself peered eagerly up the long open lane leading to the house, but neither carriage nor wheel track were visible though it was still clear daylight, and there was no outlet from the lane, nor could any vehicle have possibly, in the time occupied, accomplished half the distance. In the simple language of Pliny, 'Nothing worthy of note followed." The peculiar features of this strange incident are that it was equally and simultaneously evident to two witnesses, both entirely unprepared for any such manifestation, and differing widely in temperament, habits of life, and mental capacity and educational attainments, and, by mere accident, taking this journey together, and that to this day both of them—witnesses, be it noted, of unimpeachable credibility—attest it and fully corroborate each other, but without being able to suggest the slightest explanation.

SHE DIDN'T DARE DO IT.

The other day a man and a woman came to a sudden halt on Grand River street, and the woman dropped a basket she was carrying, and called out:

"I will! I will! I'll not live with you another day!"

"You'll leave me, will you?" he calmly asked.

"Yes, I will!"

"When?"

"Now—right off—this minute!"

"You'll go away?"

"Yes, sir!"

"I wouldn't if I were you."

"But I will, and I defy you to prevent me! I have suffered at your hands as long as I can put up with it!"

"Oh I shan't try to stop you," he quietly replied. "I'll simply report to the police that my wife has mysteriously disappeared. They will want your description, and I shall give it. You wear No. 8 shoes; you have an extra large mouth; you walk stiff in the knees; your nose turns up at the end; your hair is the color of a brick terra cotta, the newest in fashion; your voice partakes of the—"

"Wretch! you wouldn't dare to do that!" she screamed.

"I certainly will, and the description will go into all the papers."

They glared at each other for a minute like cats.

Then he walked on. She looked up and down the street, gritted her teeth together, and then picked up her basket and followed on after.

He had what they call the deadwood on her.

H. F. MacCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use."

A paper that is always full of good points—A paper of needles.

Good health is impossible when the blood is impure, or when it is thin and cold. Under such conditions one disease after another is developed. Boils, headaches, pimples, neuralgia, rheumatism, etc., are the result of impure blood, and the wisest course is to make the blood pure, rich and warm by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The United States Congress meets one week from Monday next.

Humanity's great hope for the future is alone to be realized in improved conditions of matrimony. What a profound obligation does this fact involve! Those who realize the responsibility can hardly do better than take advice from Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham whose wonderful remedies for the cure of all diseases peculiar to women are so justly celebrated. Send for pamphlet.

"Durability is better than show." Durability of health is worth more than the wealth of a Vanderbilt. Kidney-Wort is man's co-laborer in maintaining health. With healthy liver bowels and kidneys, men and women will always be in good health. If the bowels are torpid, if piles torment, if the back is full of pain, get a package of Kidney-Wort and be cured without more suffering.

A lady once asked St. Francis de Sales whether she might use paint to improve her complexion. His reply was—"Some holy men object to its use, while others see nothing wrong in it. I would adopt a middle course, and grant you a dispensation to paint one side of your face only."

Walter Linton, of Waterloo, writes that Hagyard's Yellow Oil has done great good in his family, his wife being cured of Callous lumps that other medicines failed to remove, he also states that a neighbor was promptly relieved of Rheumatism by the same remedy. 51-2t

Notwithstanding the orders given to the Tory organs to drop the discussion of the Marmion question some of the party journals persisted in allusions to the matter, which has resulted in a change of programme by the local Opposition, who have abandoned the project to move a resolution censuring the Minister of Education upon the matter.

WORTH KNOWING.—A Fact Worth Knowing. The best household remedy known for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough and all throat and chest troubles tending toward Pulmonary Consumption is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam to be procured of any Druggist. 51-2t

A gentleman, who had taken the right of shooting over a moor in Ayrshire at a high rent, bagged only two brace the first day. After counting the price, he grumblingly remarked to the tenant of the moor that the birds had cost him two guineas the brace. The tenant very innocently replied, "A weel, sir, ye may be thankful ye had gotten sae few o'them; they're far too dear."

GOOD ADVICE.—It our readers will accept proffered advice, they will always keep a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil at hand for use in emergencies, such as Burns, Scalds, Wounds, Lameness, Croup Chilblains, Rheumatism and all varieties of aches, pains and inflammations; it will ever be found reliable. 51-2t

PROF. N. WATKYNS BUEL, M. D., New York, says of Wheeler's Elixir:—"After having used your Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya for over two years in my daily practice, I must give it my unqualified approbation. During a practice of over twenty years I have used many scientifically prepared compounds, made to fulfil the same therapeutical indications as your Elixir, but none of them proved with me as valuable as yours. To the medical profession I would especially recommend it as the best remedy with which I am acquainted for the successful treatment of that large and constantly increasing class of overworked and nerve-exhausted women."

Application may be made to Mr. JAMES WASON, or Mr. GEORGE D. CALVERT, the Company's Valuator, Peterborough.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing quality it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sale of Periodicals.—The usual annual sale of Magazines, Illustrated Papers and other Periodicals will take place at the Mechanics' Institute on Monday evening, January 8th, at 8 o'clock.

Bank of Toronto.—This bank has opened its new office in the Cox Block, next door south of the G. N. W. Telegraph office. The premises have been fitted up in handsome style, and of course with all the conveniences, because commonly done for banking business.

Mechanic's Institute.—All those who intend joining the evening classes, or who have already given in their names, are requested to meet at the Institute rooms, on Tuesday evening, January 2nd, at 8 o'clock. Members of the Class Committee will be there to make final arrangements.

Midnight Service.—The Incumbent of St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, wishes to announce through our columns that the usual midnight service will be held in the above church, on Sunday next, New Year's Eve, at 11,30 p.m. Cards bearing the watchword for the year will be distributed to all in attendance.

The Nuptial Knot.—Christmas day was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Councillor Rutherford in a delightful manner by the solemnization of the nuptials of Mr. R. Mann of Campbellford, formerly of Auburn mills, and Miss Rutherford. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Manning, in the presence of a large number of guests. After the bridal banquet the happy "one" took the four o'clock train for Belleville, en route east, on their wedding tour. We offer our best congratulations, and hope that the happiness of the honeymoon hours, may be more than realized in all the after years of their wedded life.

Traffic Returns.—The traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Dec. 16th 1882, was as follows; Passengers and mails, $5,255.45; freight, $9,084.53; total, $14,439,98 as compared with $14,125 99 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $313.-99; and the aggregate traffic to date is $1,029,769.69, being an increase of $204,-694.99 over 1881.

Markham Economist.—We are glad to notice the evidences of the thrift of our esteemed contemporary the Markham Economist. Its Christmas edition is among the neatest, best printed and best arranged of those that have paid us a visit, and we have no doubt that its advertising patrons will be abundantly rewarded for the liberal patronage they have bestowed upon it. We wish our cotem. continued success.

James Vick.—From the appearance of Vick's Floral Guide, which is on our desk, we should judge that the young Vicks are "chips of the old block," as the Floral Guide with its lithographed cover is handsome enough for the parlor table. It is printed on the best of paper, has three colored plates of formation. Those who send 10 cents for it cannot be disappointed as the plates alone are worth the amount. Apdress, as in past years, James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

A Solid Fact.—It is a solid fact that for solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

Diamond Brand	only	30c per Can
Selects	"	35c " "
J. B. L. Selects	"	40c " "

Bulks from 40 to 50 cents per quart. Quotations every day at Smith's Market. 46-

St. Thomas Evening Journal.—We welcome to our exchange list the St. Thomas Evening Journal which has entered on the second year of a prosperous and well appreciated existence. In an intelligent community it could not fail of success for it possesses all the requirements of a first class evening journal; newsy crisp, and comprehensive in its local, keen, caustic, wide awake and vigorous in its editorial utterances. Its mechanical make up is highly creditable. Both the town and the proprietors may well be proud of the Evening Journal, and we give our congratulations to both and our hearty wish for success.

Week of Prayer.—At a meeting of several ministers of the town convened for the purpose of making arrangements for the observance of the week of prayer, commencing January 1st, 1883, they appointed to hold one union service (namely) on Wednesday evening, January 3rd, to be held in the George St. C. M. Church at 7.30 o'clock, thus leaving it optional with the individual churches to adopt any course they may see fit, for the further observance of the occasion, in appointing meetings in their own separate congregations. It is hoped that the several churches will be well represented at the union service on the Wednesday evening when addresses touching the several subjects designed for the week of prayer will be delivered by the ministers present. Let there be a general response.

The Skating Carnival.—Don't forget the event of the season, the grand fancy dress skating carnival on Friday night at the rink. A large number of valuable prizes are offered and it is certain the competition will be something to know as there are a large number expected from a distance. Don't fail to go.

Separate School Trustees.—The election to fill vacancies in the Separate School Board, were held on Wednesday with the following results. No. 1 ward, Mr. Thos. Cahill, re-elected; No. 2, D. Mercer, by acclamation; ward, Mr. Lonsay reserved; No. 3, Henry Carveth, by acclamation; ward, Mr. Charles Grant; No. 4, Mr. McGrath, re-elected.

Senior Exhibition.—The election for vacancies in the Peterborough School Board caused by the expiry of the term of office, were held on Wednesday and resulted in the return of all the former members by acclamation, as follows: No. 1 ward, Mr. J. [illegible]; No. 2, Mr. W. H. Weighton; No. 3, Dr. Geo. Beatham; No. 4, Mr. J. Sawing.

The Rivals' Game.—On Christmas day a game of curling was played on the rink between games composed of Messrs. Robert Hall, W. H. Clarkson, E. Hartley and John McClelland, and Messrs. Adam Hall, Andrew McNeil, R. S. Matthews, and W. G. Ferguson, the latter being victorious by a score of 19 to 18, a close contest.

Fire Alarms.—On Tuesday morning there were two alarms of fire, one at the Oriental, a false alarm, and the other at the Telephone office, caused by a block of wood burning off at the bottom in an upright stove and falling against and through the door, on the floor. A large hole was burned through the floor over the cellar where Flavelle Bros. had 7 or 8 tons of pork piled within a foot of the floor. The fire was put out without the engine which was not brought out.

Xmas Day.—If the quiet, decent, merely celebration of this holyday—both religious and secular—is a sign of a Christian community, then Peterborough is deserving of that title. Services were held in the churches, some of which were beautifully decorated, the merry jingle of the bells mingled with the light and innocent laugh of pleasure seekers. Former residents of the town received and gave glad greetings. The boys came home from college to make the family circle complete and peace and good will, generally characterized the doings of the day.

The Convent Bazaar.—The good sisters, by carrying into this undertaking the quiet energy and thoroughness that characterize the sisterhood everywhere, are to be congratulated on a most gratifying success. There was a large attendance on both Thursday and Friday and the sale of the many beautiful articles offered was brisk and prices good. The Art gallery under Rev. Father Conway's charge was a great attraction. Pleasure was added to business by the delightful music supplied by pupils of the congregation and by other ladies. The entire affair was a splendid success and the sum realised was a most handsome one.

See to it.—Zopessa will cure the worst case of Dyspepsia. A single dose will relieve in a degree that shows its wonderful curative powers, and its peculiar action upon the stomach and digestive organs. It is a positive and absolute cure for costiveness and constipation, acting in a remarkable way upon the system, carrying off impurities. As a Liver regulater its actions are remarkable. It tones and stimulates the Liver to action, it corrects the acids and regulates the bowels. A few doses will surprise you. Sample bottles 10 cents. 52-4t

Bro. McClelland, P. M. W., was elected representative to the Grand Lodge. This order is progressing favourably and during its short existence has acquired a large and constantly increasing membership.

The Convent Concert.—The concert held in the convent of Notre Dame on St. John's day—Tuesday evening—was a grand success. The hall was crowded, and the entertainment was of a high order. The programme consisted of instrumental music by Misses Lauder, Calcutt, Delaney, Fawcett, Henry and Lynch. Songs were contributed by Misses Dunn, Tierney, Bagley and Annie Dunn. Misses Collins, Henry, and Delaney, assisted by pupils of the convent, rendered a pleasing dialogue, and the tableau representing St. John was very effectively placed, Miss Cook, representing St. John and Miss Muncaster, the angel. At the close of a delightful evening Bishop Jamot complimented the performers, and thanked the parents for their attendance.

Sudden Death.—On Tuesday night Mr. Jno. Flavelle, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Peterborough, died very suddenly. He had for a long time been suffering from a painful chronic disease, but has been able to be about and no later than Tuesday was walking on the streets. At tea time he was suddenly attacked and grew worse till at 8 o'clock his physician gave up hope and his sons in Lindsay were wired and arrived at twelve o'clock in time to bid their father an eternal farewell, about ten minutes before his death. He was conscious to the last. Mr. Flavelle was a native of the County Cavan, Ireland, and came to Peterborough about 35 years ago, since which time he has been a resident of the town. The funeral takes place from the family residence to-day (Thursday) at 2 o'clock.

The Undaunted Mosquito.—The Christianizing influence of Christmas has its effects on everything but that sanguinary gore-pumper, the mosquito. A ruthless, red communist, he has no respect for persons and bores through the quivering epidermis of either prince or pauper with the most truculent sang froid. Nor has he any regard for sentiment or season. On Christmas day, a Charlotte street gentleman, was sitting in his dining-room engaged in the doubly herculean task of digesting a tender Xmas turkey, and an equally tough Mail editorial, and a mosquito actually perched on his right hand, out-spread on the table, and pierced through the cuticle over the first metacarpal bone, and began pumping up the "crimson current of a life" as though the June bug were carolling in the rose trees out-side. The sufferer repressed a cry of pain and summoned the family and guests to inspect the monster, who, after being duly identified, was duly mashed. In Derbyshire, England, the primroses were blooming and strawberries ripe in the hedge rows in November, which is less of a wonder than a live mosquito in this "Frozen Canada of ours" on Xmas day.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

A great many Christmas are visiting Peterborough for the holidays.

Special meeting of Town Council on Friday night.

The skating rink was very favorably discussed for the grand carnival on Friday night.

A Derby "rig" could not be procured on Xmas day for love nor money—especially not for money.

The banner of the St. Andrew's Ladies Aid Society was a complete success. All the work was sold, and the amount realized over $160.

There was a good attendance at the True Blue's second annual ball, held in Hall's Music Hall on Xmas night. Supper was served at the St. James hotel.

The congregations of the Lake Street separate school were held last Thursday in charge of Bishop Jamot and Rev. Father Conway. The Murray Street congregations took place the following day.

Last Friday evening the hand serenaded Mr. A. D. Stevens, a typo, on whose recent assumption of the benedictine bonds we offer our congratulations, at his new residence, and were highly pleased with the hospitable reception accorded.

Work that was interrupted by the cold snap, has been resumed on the Charlotte street Methodist Church. The side walls are up to plate-height, and if the mild weather holds the building will be enclosed this week.

At the Christmas tree festival in the Bible Christian Church, on Saturday night, Mr. F. W. Miller, the leader of the choir, was presented with an address and a purse of money in recognition of his invaluable services.

Their splendid new instruments were the Christmas box of the band, and were first used on Tuesday for practice. These new pieces will add interest to the usual holiday serenade series of the band, when we hope their delightful free concerts will be practically remembered.

PERSONAL.

Mr. T. W. McBain, formerly of Cameron & McBain, of this town, now of Darlingford, Manz., is on a visit to Peterboro.

Mr. Fred. Hughes, Mr. Alf. Tate and a number of old Peterborough boys now residents of the U.S. are in town spending Xmas.

Mr F. H. Dobbin, the genial "local" of the Lindsay Post was in town on Christmas day, helping to ring the wedding bells of Mr. Mann of Campbellford, and Miss Rutherford, daughter of Councillor Rutherford.

Mr. John O'Donnell, L.D.S., formerly of this town, has been appointed special agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, between Toronto and Belleville. Mr. O'Donnell is now in town and is meeting with much success in the prosecution of the company's business here. He will remain in town for a few days.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.

WORTH AND MERIT RECOGNISED.

We are pleased to note that Mr. A. H. Gilbert, who has been in Peterborough about fifteen months, connected with the office of the Canada Life, was not permitted to take his departure from town without receiving tangible tokens of the respect and esteem which his sterling character tended to evoke. He has been an active worker in the Sunday School of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. Having heard that Mr. Gilbert, in pursuance of his business promotion, would leave Peterborough, the members of his Bible class, called upon him at his residence, and thoroughly surprised him with the following

ADDRESS:

Dear Mr. Gilbert:

The members of your Sabbath School Bible Class have greatly appreciated you as their teacher. They cannot allow you to go away from them without expressing to you their sense of indebtedness for the pains you have taken in helping them to study the Scriptures, and their sorrow that you cannot continue to be their teacher. They fully believe that the lessons of the Bible are fully experienced in one's heart and manifested in one's life only when they have been apprehended first by the mind. You have quickened our desires. You have increased our endeavors to learn these lessons, while your own life has been a demonstration of their value. May your opportunities for continuing this good work ever be equal to your a daptation to it, and may your life long be precious in the eyes of the Lord. Before bidding you good-bye, we beg of you to accept of this case, not for what is in it, but as a token of our association together; not that you may sport it in your prime only, but also lean upon it in your old age. And may we all be permitted to renew in the land where none grow old, the interesting subjects which we must now cease to discuss together.

The Members of Mr. Gilbert's S. S. Bible Class.

Peterborough, Dec 21st, 1882.

The address, which was read by Miss Webber, was accompanied with a handsome gold-headed ebony cane, presented on behalf of the donors. Mr. Gilbert was somewhat delightfully startled at the unexpected evidence of the good feeling that existed between himself and his associates. He thanked the visitors in feeling and fitting terms, and assured them that the occasion would ever be a verdant spot in his memory, and their gift would be religiously preserved as a tangible evidence of the pleasant hours spent together and the amicable relations that had always characterized their intercourse.

In the departure of Mr. Gilbert, the Sunday School loses a diligent, devout and active member, the Canada Life a live, pushing, painstaking and successful employee. It is a great credit to the insurance offices of Mr. Cox that they prove so successful a training school in the important branch of modern commercial life, such as insurance has come to be. Mr. Gilbert is the second that has graduated from this school in Peterborough, and assumed positions of higher trust in the respective eastern and western metropolitan cities of Canada, Montreal and Toronto, and we have no doubt that the invaluable business training received in Peterborough will lead them to success in the wider and more responsible sphere of action to which they have been promoted. Mr. Gilbert goes to Toronto to take the position of General Manager of the Sun Life Assurance Co. for the Toronto district.

We are heartily sorry to part with Mr. Gilbert; he is a sterling young gentleman, personally popular; but such is the way of the world. They who would rise when merit beckons onward and upward, cannot remain in one place, and we hope Mr. G. has entered on a career of success, such as his business ability and integrity render probable.

Its certainty.—To cure Dyspepsia and Biliousness is not speculation, but is proved with letters from persons of high respectability coming in. Zopessa is an absolute cure. 52-4t

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Record of the Ballots.

Everything Passes off Quietly A good Natured Contest List of the Lucky —The Council of 1883.

The beginning of the New Year was celebrated in town by sharp, well contested, but good natured struggle for councillor's seats in three wards of the town. The burning question was, rather paradoxically, the water works question, which with the personal popularity and claims of the several aspirants, formed the only issues in the local contest. The fate of the ballot box was more equally distributed than usual, one of the former members in each ward retiring from the council board, Mr. Poussette in number two ward and Mr. Alford in Number One by resignation, and those in the other wards by the decision of the electors.

The following is the result of the polling:

NUMBER ONE WARD.

Thos Cahill	187
John McNaughton	178
R S Davidson	144
Adam Hall	131
S F Allen	122
John Corkery	86
J Hall	21
G B Sproule	5

In justice to Mr. Sproule it may be stated that he was not a candidate, a few who were ignorant of his retirement having marked their ballots for him.

NUMBER TWO WARD.

The members elected by acclamation, Messrs. Thos. Kelly, W. Paterson and C. W. Sawers were formally declared elected on Tuesday.

NUMBER THREE WARD.

John Douglass	183
Wm Yelland	180
A Rutherford	167
Geo Burnham	141
E B Wilson	111
R E Wood	87
H B Merrick	7

In justice to Mr. Merrick it may be stated that he was not a candidate, and a few who were ignorant of his retirement marked their ballots for him.

NUMBER FOUR WARD.

Thos Menzies	111
Henry Denne	88
J J Hartley	87
Chas Richardson	80
Thos Gemmill	41
A H Clegg	24

Therefore the composition of the

TOWN COUNCIL OF 1883

will be as below, the names of the new members being distinguished by an asterisk-prefixed.

H H Smith, Mayor.
Councillor Thomas Kelly.
" Walter Paterson, Jr.
" Campbell William Sawers.
" Thomas Cahill.
" John McNaughton.
" R S Davidson.
" John Douglass.
" William Yelland.
" A Rutherford.
" Thomas Menzies.
" Henry Denne.
" J J Hartley.

THE COUNTY.

The following returns show the result of the polling in those municipalities in which the elections were not decided by acclamation as published in our last issue.

BURLEIGH, ETC.

F. Elmhirst, Reeve; Councillors, W. Wilson, John Myers, James Scott, Isaac Lean.

LAKEFIELD.

R. C. Strickland, Reeve, by acclamation. Councillors, Wm. Cox, sr., 109; Thomas Jos. Nelson, 89; Kenneth Urquhart, 80; John H. McWilliams, 76; Wm. J. Wallace, 67; Richard Hill, 54. The first four were elected.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

For Reeve—Mr. H. Collins, 127; Mr. Barnard, 70; Majority for Mr. Collins, 57. For Councillors—Messrs. Dunlop, 134, Forster 132, Breal? 129, Brownscombe 123, Dobbin 98, Robson 68, Clark 23 and Young 27. Messrs. Young and Clark had withdrawn their names.

NORWOOD.

Reeve. J. B. Pearce. Councillors—T. Fraser, Wm. Hutchinson, Hirant Reynolds, W. H. Minaker.

ENNISMORE.

To one unacquainted with the state of affairs in this township, it would seem that there was a great number of aspirants to the office of councillor, as twelve candidates were nominated. This was not the case, however, as some of the men nominated never consented to become candidates and were not present at the nomination at all. Of those nominated, Messrs. Galvin, Calvert, Gannon and Scollard resigned before the opening of the poll. The others contested with the following result:—Messrs. Donoghue, 74; Nurse, 70; O'Connor, 66; J. McCarthy, 61; Curtin, 58; T. McCarthy, 34; Cummings, 32; Leonard, 11. Mr. O'Connor, the only member of last year's council, that now retains a seat at the Council Board, has been elected for five successive terms, which is a sure demonstration of the people's confidence in him. Mr. McCarthy, the ex-Reeve, is one of the oldest municipal officers in the county. Mr. Nurse, the new man, is much respected and may be termed "a solid man," while Mr. Donoghue is an old and tried member of former councils. Although defeated the vote received by Mr. Curtin shows that he is also well thought of.

GALWAY.

M. Mansfield, reeve. John Molineaux, John Lambert, Daniel Read, James Allen, councillors.

(From our Own Correspondent.)

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A sad and fatal accident occurred on Wednesday afternoon last. It appears while Mr. William Dickson and his brother-in-law, Mr. Jas. Weir, were engaged in cutting wood about a quarter of a mile from the village, when a tree which they were telling lodged in another. They worked away at it until it became loose, and its fall caught Mr. Dickson bruising his arm and side, and by some means or other the axe which he had, swung around, inflicting a severe gash in the thigh. Dr. Shaw was soon in attendance, but all efforts proved unavailing. In a short time death put an end to his sufferings. He was a young man about 23 years of age.

ICE FISHING. There has been quite a number of bass caught through the ice last week.

PUBLIC SCHOOL. We believe the services of Miss Wright of Peterborough has been engaged for the year 1883, for the junior department of Keene Public School.

MATRIMONIAL. Quite a brilliant affair took place at the residence of Mr. Wm. Campbell, Postmaster of this village, on Wednesday evening last. Mr. J. H. Cruikshand was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Maggie Miller, youngest daughter of the late Mr. James Miller, of Otonabee. We believe there were no less than 150 guests who sat down to a sumptuous repast, After which there was a grand display of costly and numerous wedding presents. We wish the happy pair bon voyage on the ocean of life.

CHRISTMAS TREE. The annual Christmas Tree was held on Tuesday evening last, under the auspices of the Methodist Church. It was successful throughout, and everything passed off pleasantly. Proceeds in aid of the library fund.

QUARTERLY REVIEW. The review of the Sabbath school lessons for the past quarter took place in the Presbyterian church, on Sabbath evening last. Rev. Mr. Andrews reviewed the lesson with his usual ability, taking up each month separately. Miss Reid presided at the organ. Collection in aid of the S. S. library.

KEENE CHEESE FACTORY. During the season of 1882 the record made by Keene cheese factory is highly creditable both to the company and the patrons. There have been delivered at the factory, 999,935 lbs of milk, from which were produced 95,665 lbs of cheese, which realized, $10,411.06. Less the expenses, which were $1,913.71, leaving a net profit of $8,498.35. The earnings of the average cow not deducting expenses, was $31.55. This exhibit must be very gratifying to those who see in our dairying industries a future of wealth, which will give not only substantial returns but will produce a beneficial effect in relieving the soil from the effects of the over cropping, which has done so much to impoverish its condition and minimize its productiveness. Mr. James Drummond is president of Keene cheese factory and Mr. D. P. McFarlane, secretary. The annual meeting will be held on Feb. 14th.

All Winter Goods will be sold at great Reductions during January, at Hall, Innes & Co's.

SMITH S. S. NO. 4.

CHRISTMAS TREE ENTERTAINMENT.

On the evening of Friday, December 22nd, an entertainment was held in School Section No. 4, Smith, Miss Weir, teacher. The entertainment consisted of music, recitations, tableaux, etc., most creditably rendered and presented. Though the night was most unfavorable there was a large number present. From a gorgeous and beautiful 'Xmas tree Santa Claus removed the gifts and personally presented them to the delighted pupils, forgetting none, and to add completeness to the season of gift giving, Miss Weir was presented with a handsome writing desk, accompanied with an address, from the pupils of the school. Miss Weir has severed her connection with the school and is about to leave the section, hence the recognition of her services and the tribute to her worth as a lady and teacher.

Seventy-one cases of small-pox were reported in Baltimore last week.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL!

A "Masked Battery" of Brilliancy and Beauty.

A Splendid Success—Fine Weather and Large Attendance List of Masks Prize Winners.

Last Friday night was the first attempt to compete against the other attractions of holiday week, by a Fancy Dress Skating Carnival and the result was a most gratifying triumph to the management. There was a very large attendance of spectators, and the number of masks, though perhaps not so large as in former years, was sufficiently great and of sufficient merit to give, and of such beauty as to present a most brilliant and entertaining spectacle.

The ice was in excellant condition, and the rink was tastefully decorated for the event of the evening. Deep festoons of evergreens depended from the gallery railings. The glare of gas jets was supplemented by a prodigal display of Chinese lanterns, suspended on cords stretching from gallery to gallery. The orchestra—so to speak—was occupied by the Fire Brigade Band, which, by the rendition (in superb style) of a liberal programme of selections, contributed greatly to the gayety of the occasion.

Shortly after eight o'clock the different masks began to take the ice, each costume, in its bizarre or beautiful appearance, being greeted with laughter or applause. Though the number of costumes were limited, there was greater "variety" than is usually seen in such a gathering. There were no two costumes alike, and in this variety consisted a good deal of the interest of the scene. Many of the costumes were elaborate and costly, and all were excellent representations of the period, character or country impersonated. The judges took the stand, the band struck up and the motley procession began its glittering progress, and was certainly a "big thing on ice." The levelling process was complete, all distinctions being swept away in the democratic mingling of the varied assemblage. The "Gipsy Queen," with her gay garb and air of piquant diablerie, was of equal social importance with the meek and modest "Nun," and the "Countess" could put on no airs over the humble "Fish Wife," with her well filled creel. The "Jockey," trim and neat as though he had just left the weighing scales at Newmarket or Epsom, hob-a-nobbed, with a "Spanish Grandee" and "Rory O'More" chummed with the ebony "Nagur" or the bloody "Turk." Bright sunny "June," fresh and charming as a rosebud new dipped in dew, was the belle of the ice, and nothing could excel the gallantry with which rollicking "Robin Hood" assisted little "Bo-peep" in the search for her missing sheep. The gay and dashing "Gleaner" gathered more admiring glances than golden grain. The "Stars and Stripes," the "Scotch Lassie" and the "Sailor Girl," gave variety to the glittering scene, while "Good Luck" was everywhere present in her most bewitching form. A "sergeant" and full private of the Volunteer artillery and a "Gunner" of H. M. Ship "Cyrus" formed the body guard of all this loveliness assisted by a "Knight of the Red Cross" armed cap-a-pie, watched jealously by shrewd "Uncle Sam." A "Sailor Boy" and a "French Courtier" added another "Variety" to the national representatives, while "Half-and Half" was the only type of Old England; and the "lost cause" and the losing cause were suggested by the "Young Nig" and the "Young Cree Indian." The gay Charles II, and the languishing and lily-lorn Bunthorne typified the gallantry of the 17th, and the aestheticism of the 19th century, while Augustus Spoopendyke, vigorously anathematized the "dod-gasted" "Topsy" who was always in the way, the phlegmatic German, calmly took in the scene and puffed the incense of his praise over all. Along side this brilliant spectacle the "roarin game" was at its height, the music and the lights, the smile of beauty and the whole dazzling scene proving too weak to distract the curlers' attention from their sport. "Soop her up," "gie me an inturn," etc., were heard in the pauses of the music as though all the pageantry of a masquerade carnival were a thousand miles away.

The following is as complete a list as was obtainable of the characters and the persons supporting them:

THE CONTEST FOR THE PRIZES.

The judges, after due deliberation, awarded the prizes as under. They were to be deeply sympathized with in the difficulties which attended their duties. In some cases the contest was so keen that no little deliberation and consultation was requisite to come to a fair decision, such as was arrived at. The following is the prize list:

BEST LADY MASKER'S COSTUME. 1st, Miss Ida Huston, "Good Luck;" 2nd, Mrs. J.—K. McIntyre, (Oriental Hotel,) "Gypsy Queen."

BEST GIRL'S (under 15) COSTUME. 1st, Miss Nelly Wrighton, "June;" 2nd, Leta Gray, "Variety."

BEST GENT'S COSTUME.—1st, Fred Cox, "Robin Hood;" 2nd, Geo. B. Mowry. "Jockey."

BEST BOY'S COSTUME.—1st, Harry Huston, "Red Cross Knight;" 2nd, Kenneth Kincaid, "Young Cree Indian."

BEST COMIC COSTUME.—1st, Wm. Logan, "Dutchman;" 2nd, Frank Larone, "Topsy."

BARREL RACE.—In this contest, which consisted in the competitors passing through three headless barrels laid horizontally, there was a great deal of fun. Fred Sherwood was the winner; John Ross, 2nd.

ROUND THE RINK RACE.—For this there were about eight or ten entries, but Fred Sherwood won in a canter, with Joseph Harvey a fair second.

THE HURDLE RACE. This event was called, but tumbles, promising broken crowns, taking place at the first hurdle, it was withdrawn.

The gentlemen who officiated as judges were Messrs. J. J. Lundy, H. LeBrun, A. Elliot, B. Morrow and Robert Hall.

Mr. A. McNeil acted as master of ceremonies, and it was to his exertions that everything, so far as arrangements went, passed off so smoothly.

After the herald had announced the prizes, the skaters unmasked and again filled the ice, and skating continued to the delightful music of the band till about 10.30, when "God save the Queen" completed a programme that from the beginning had been carried out with a smoothness and pleasantness that stamped the first Fancy Dress Skating Carnival of the season an unqualified success.

LAKEFIELD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

MINSTRELS.

The Georgia Minstrels gave their entertainment on Friday evening, Dec. 29th, to a full house and were well received.

CONCERT.

Mrs. J. C. Sherin gave her concert on the same evening as the above in the P. C. A. Hall. There was a good house, a full programme, a very pleasant evening spent, and a financial success.

CHRISTMAS TREE.

St. John's church gave their annual Christmas tree to the pupils of their S. School on Saturday evening, in the P. C. A. Hall. There was a good attendance and many little ones were made glad by the gifts distributed from the tree.

CARNIVAL.

The carnival took place on Thursday as advertised. Owing to the preceding week being so mild, and such a rush of festivities in the village, there were not very many in costume, nor a very large number of spectators, but the skaters were well represented after 7.45. We believe it is the intention of the managers to give another about the first of February, and distribute prizes for best costumes, &c.

CHRISTMAS GIFT.

Rev. Mr. Clark of this village was presented by his congregation of North Smith on the evening of 23rd December, with a splendid set of harness, bells and driving whip. This was the first 'Xmas tree given in the neighborhood, no doubt it will not be the last. The evening was unfavorable, but the church was well filled.

SCHOOL MEETING.

The annual school meeting was held in the council chamber, on Wednesday, 27th December. Mr. John Isbister and Mr. Thos. Gordon, jr., were nominated by Mr. Geo. Cochrane and seconded by Dr. Caldwell, to fill the two vacancies. Dr. Armour was nominated by Mr. Sanders and seconded by Mr. L. Steele. This made a poll necessary; it will take place on Wednesday before your issue of this week. The annual report was read by Mr. Casement, secretary of the School Board, and was received. Not many out and little interest taken so far.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Polling took place on New Year's day, and passed off very quietly, but a large vote was recorded. State of poll as follows:—Wm Cox, 109; T. J. Nelson, 89; K. Urquhart, 80; J. McWilliams, 79; W. J. Wallace, 67; R. Hill, 54. Consequently the first four are elected, and will make an efficient council. Short addresses were made by the councillors elect, as well as by the beaten candidates who seemed to take their defeat in good part. Three cheers were given for the Queen and candidates and the meeting broke up.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Wednesday last the horse of Mr. Henry Collins, either with a view of setting him a good example, or out of jealousy of his efforts to make a good run at the municipal elections, started on a run on its own account. The worthy reeve was fortunately not thrown out, but the cutter was smashed to pieces

McKEE & DAVIDSON

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 3, 1883.

The Nominal Leader of the Opposition.

Heretofore in his parliamentary career, Mr. Meredith has not demonstrated in the smallest particular his ability to control the affairs of this province; and his maiden effort, so to speak, this session, to show the people of Ontario that he is the man to take the reins of government from Hon. Mr. Mowat's hands, is a most palpable and pitiable failure. His speech on the Address debate was a vague tissue of generalities, when it did not consist of irrelevant matter, such as a very large portion of it was, in reference to certain by-gone utterances of the Globe. Instead of being a vigorous onslaught on the policy of the Government, as foreshadowed in the speech from the Throne, it was merely a washy waste of words; of carping querulousness, not caustic criticism. In fact, instead of suggesting something better than the government bill of fare of which he complained, his best endeavours were devoted to excusing and apologizing for the course which he and his friends had pursued in hostility to the interests and rights of the province whose destinies he is now seeking to bring under his control. Mr. Meredith patently lacks two chief qualifications for a man of his political aspirations. He has neither independence of thought and action, nor loyalty to the best interests of the province he seeks to govern. The man that cannot rule himself is not fit to rule others; and the man that has not brains enough to originate a policy of his own, is not fit to be intrusted with the carrying out of a policy devised and put into his head or hands by a politician, who has ever shown himself to be the enemy of Ontario, when Ontario's interests clashed or seemed to clash with those of a faction of Quebec politicians. Mr. Meredith is the nominal leader of the Conservative party of Ontario, and last summer party expediency suggested the propriety of a provincial convention. Who, in fact, called that convention? Mr. Meredith? No; his political superior, Sir John Macdonald, assisted by a couple of outside lower province politicians. A competent board of arbitrators awarded a hundred thousand square miles of territory to Ontario, and the Dominion Government, as the price of the allegiance of a certain set of Quebec supporters, refused to ratify this award, thus depriving this province of 65 million acres of valuable mineral and timber lands. The Ontario Legislature, in the session of '80 passed resolutions recognizing the justice of, and demanding the ratification of this award, and Mr. Meredith and his supporters, with a single exception, voted for them. Yet the next session, when the same resolutions came up, Mr. Meredith having in the meantime received his orders from Ottawa, voted against them, voted against the rights of the Province of Ontario. The Dominion Government usurped the right of disallowing the legislation of this province, thus violating our legislative independence and aiming a blow at the Confederation. In such an attack on the dearest right conferred on us by the Confederation Act, namely, control of our own local affairs, Mr. Meredith joined the enemies of the province in the attempt to deprive us of the very essence of self-government. Thus it will be seen that Mr. Meredith has handed over his independence of action into the hands of Sir John Macdonald, who in turn is controlled by the promptings of the anti-Ontario envy and jealousy of the Quebec Bleus. His loyalty to his province is so thoroughly lost in loyalty to his party leaders, that he seems to suffer no qualms of conscience in sacrificing the former to the demands of the latter. If Mr. Meredith were Mr. Meredith alone, modestly mediocre in ability, and temperate in political intelligence and aptitude to govern as he is, it would be an immensely risky business to make him premier of Ontario, but when he descends to allowing himself to be made a political puppet, operated by strings pulled from Ottawa, it would be madness. Under these circumstances, Mr. Meredith's claim to the confidence of the people of Ontario is the quintessence of political effrontery, and his chance of having it recognised is about as probable as the discovery of the Northwest passage.

Notes of the Day.

VIENNA is preparing to celebrate the sixth hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the house of Hapsburg.

THE local election campaign in Manitoba is red hot. The Disallowance-Monopoly party expects, of course to carry the province with Syndicate money.

AGAIN the coronation of the Czar of Russia has been fixed. The beginning of the summer is the time selected for the ceremony, and his European tour has consequently been postponed till the autumn.

THE real estate boom in Winnipeg appears to be reviving. Mr. A. W. Ross has sold the property on the corner of Portage Avenue and Main street, which cost him $70,000 less than a year ago, for $115,000.

SINCE 1879 the stock of whiskey in bond in the United States has run up from a little over a year's supply to the present extraordinary figure of about 85,000,000 gallons, or equal to nearly six years' consumption.

THE most sensible article on Christmas is that of the St. Croix Courier whose editor sent each of his subscribers their accounts, reminding them that "peace and good will to men will never prevail on earth so long as the printer is neglected."

AN Ottawa despatch states that Mr. Jas. Bethune will go to England at the end of January to move before the judicial committee of the Privy Council for leave to appeal from the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in the celebrated case of McLaren vs. Caldwell. It is to be hoped that this report is true, as a final decision is much to be desired.

THE buildings in Chicago during the past year has never been exceeded except in the year succeeding the great fire. Five thousand and thirty building permits were issued with a frontage of new structures of a lineal measurement of fourteen miles. The total cost of the buildings erected is probably $20,000,000. Suburban towns show equal growth.

SOMEBODY in Newark, New Jersey, has invented an odd sort of charity scheme. The scholars of three of the public schools of that city have been requested to bring one potato each on the last day of school, for the benefit of a charitable institution. There are about 1,800 scholars in the three schools, and the receipt of as many potatoes is expected. The statistical busybodies must now set to work to figure out how many bushels will be realized.

THE Toronto Mail, which entered on its existence with the modest claim to being the "gentleman's" organ, shows in practice a peculiar interpretation of what is gentlemanly. In a recent issue it calls upon all good Tories to force politics into the municipal elections, to put down that "fourth rate cabal," the Mowat administration, of course—and its "tenth rate tools in the country, the scum of the people and the scorn of all good men." Honest electors, who have voted for supporters of the Mowat administration, remember when solicited for your votes for a Tory candidate, that the organ of the Tory party calls you the scum of the people.

SEVERE distress is expected to prevail during the winter in many districts in Ireland, and various proposals for the relief of the people have been engaging the attention of the Government. The latter have taken what appears to be the ill-advised step of depending entirely on the ordinary machinery of workhouse relief. They have refused to establish relief works at which the starving peasantry might obtain employment, and have laid down the rule that able-bodied persons shall not receive out-door relief until the workhouses are full. This is a stupid blunder in the direction of pauperizing the people, and accustoming them to depend upon charity instead of giving them the opportunity of earning enough to keep them alive. The London Times commends the action of the Government in firmly resisting the "demoralizing expedient" of relief works. We cannot understand the reasoning which holds it demoralizing to provide work for starving people, yet sees no objection to maintaining them in enforced idleness at the public expense. But no wrong-headedness on the part of the London Times need occasion any surprise.

"ARGO" writing to the Toronto World from Winnipeg gives a gloomy picture of the country under the policy pursued by the present federal administration. We quote his concluding words:

"Huge tracts of land, larger than many European principalities, have been granted to public favorites. Bonanza farms are in full blast, grabbing land and evicting squatters. These schemes for extracting money from the settlers called colonization companies, with which some Ontario clergymen have the shamelessness to be associated, are blighting the growth of vast districts. High offices of trust are filled with aged political fossils, relatives of cabinet ministers, anybody and everybody who ever rendered the To y party a service. A motley crew, with the one distinguishing feature of insatiable greed for money common to all. Feudalism and landlordism, the curses of older countries, are being firmly founded: and the fairest heritage that God ever allowed a foolish people to possess is being subjected to burdens that can be cast aside only by a revolution. The prospect of seeing the North West under the control of our present corrupt and insensate government for the next five years must fill every patriotic Canadian with gloomy forebodings."

A LIVELY CHRISTMAS DAY.

Christmas Day here was a lively one, remunerative to the local bureau of finances, and a busy one for our sole Justice of the Peace, Mr. Reeve Pearce, who sat nearly the whole of the day dealing out justice to disturbers of the peace. The first batch was composed of several interesting females and their squires, who were spending Sunday night and Christmas morning, in bliss, conviviality and debauchery, in a house on Queen street, occupied by one Mrs. Fry. A raid, on the complaint of another occupant o the same house, Jos. Woodcock, was successfully carried out by constables McLachlin and Hill, accompanied by the Reeve, in the midst of their revelry, when a number of the inmates were captured and confined, while two females and several males made good their escape. On Christmas morning Mrs. Fry, Matilda Newal, S. Newal, John Sloane and James Donoghue, were arraigned, the former for keeping a disreputable house, and the others for being inmates of the place. Mr. Pearce gave the case a searching and patient hearing, determined to do justice to the village by breaking up such a den of infamy in our midst. S. Newal and J. Sloan were each fined $10 or 40 days in gaol, and John Donoghue was fined $5.00 and $2.50 costs. The trial of the others was adjourned to Tuesday, but in the interim it appears they left for foreign parts. The fines were promptly paid. On the same afternoon, John Crauford and Roland Scriver were arraigned before the same Magistrate for fighting and disturbing the peace. A number of witnesses were examined in this case, each of the delinquents endeavouring to saddle the cause of the quarrel upon the other, and Mr. Pearce, who also gave this trial a more patient hearing than it deserved, fined each $2 and costs $4, making their Christmas revelry rather an expensive performance.

APPRECIATED.

On Christmas day the Rev. Mr. McCleary, English Church Minister here, was presented with the sum of $20 by the members of his Norwood congregation, and also $10 by those of his Westwood congregation, given to him as a Christmas gift, and as a token of their appreciation of his unremittent and valuable services as their pastor. The English Church here was beautifully and tastefully decorated, and reflected the highest credit on the members of that congregation. The decorations were designed by Miss Minnie Butterfield, and attractively placed on the walls of the church under her directions.

CHRISTMAS ENTERTAINMENTS.

Very successful Christmas entertainments were held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches here, both edifices being filled to their utmost seating capacity. Christmas trees loaded with costly presents were the attractions of the evening, though well arranged programmes of readings, recitations, and vocal and instrumental music, also furnished excellent food for pleasing the large audiences in both churches. The financial results were also very gratifying in both instances.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The nominations for Reeve, Deputy-Reeve and Councillors, took place in the Town Hall, Keene, on Friday of last week, as published in your last issue. Mr. John Laing was called to the platform. He gave statistics how the monies were spent during the past year, the amount spent in the various subdivisions amounting in all to about $3,000. He gave items for the various bridges and roads leading thereto. He said that owing to the building and repairing of the Lakefield bridge, the Nassau bridge and the swing bridge at Peterborough, the county rate was much higher this year than usual, the amount spent being $14,000. He spoke of the suit between the county and the G. J. R., or more properly Mr. Bickford, the former manager. After thanking the ratepayers for their confidence in the past, he hoped their confidence would not be misplaced in him for 1883. After a few preliminary remarks by the Deputy Reeve and Councillors, and the hour having expired, the meeting was brought to a close.

"NEWSPAPER DRILL."

How Children Study Dry Subjects and Enjoy the Process.

Possible Revolution in Imparting Knowledge—Practical Demonstration of the New System's Advantages—Scholars Criticising Editors.

(Pittsburgh, Pa., Paper.)

It has long been a matter of complaint among educationists everywhere that the ordinary methods of trying to interest the children in their school work have been comparatively unsuccessful. One teacher after another has made a break off from the dry bones of text-books, and endeavoured by combined oral teaching and anecdote to make a lesson in history or geography less dreary than the youthful mind generally feels it to be. Others have attempted to educe ideas from their pupils by permitting during class time a system of cross-examination of themselves by their scholars. The success thus obtained, however, has been but partial at the best. A new departure, which was tried here some three years ago, and has since become in vogue in some of the Massachusetts towns, not only promises, but from all appearances, answers well. This is the introduction of newspapers into the school, from whose columns were at first read, either by the teacher or the pupil, certain extracts, which the children had then to replace in their own words. They were in this way exercised in English grammer and composition, and so "brought past the wearisome bitterness of their learning" in these branches by simple and easy stages. To this succeeded a system of condensing the extracts, "boiling them down," in such a way as to resemble the daily summaries of news given in most journals; and this was followed in course of time by a criticism of the style of the extract not seldom a short editorial or editorial note, and grammatical slips, solecisms or inelegancies in expression, or clumsiness in the formation of sentences, came under the purview of these youthful sitters-in-judgment on the labors of the members of the "Fourth Estate." These were occasionally very far from being correct, but frequently enough hit blots of no in considerable magnitude—these, it may be noticed, generally in reports of everyday occurences, sent in by the local reporters, whose unnecessary verbiage, trite phrases and too evident straining at "piling up the agony" in their endeavourings after sensationalism were mercilessly exposed and ridiculed. The exercise was, and always is, as a rule, concluded by a summing up, more or less exhaustive, on the part of the teacher, of the criticisms offered, and the remarks made by the pupils, praise and blame being meted out with apt discrimination, and the extract so treated as to show its exact meaning sometimes no very easy task—according to the logical construction and corollation of the words employed.

A FURTHER ADVANCE.

The work thus tentatively begun was adopted systematically in the Public Schools of the city, of which your correspondent lately visited some, in order to see for himself and give your readers some idea as to the working of the system in its present shape. The first institution visited was the High School. The students in the class were girls of the same age as those attending the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes in Canada. The teacher was a lady, and the time devoted to the exercise one hour. No notice had been given of the intended visit, and everything was going on as usual, the lesson taking the place of the usual reading lessons of the day. The various journals published in the city were taken up, and extracts read from them, comprising editorial, local, telegraphic and miscellaneous matter. It happened to be the day succeeding the recent State elections, and as young America is nothing unless political, the bias of its mind was naturally enough inclined that way. With a few exceptions the Republican, though not the Stalwart, element was apparently in the ascendant, and it needed all the teacher's firmness to keep the comments on some of the editorial and local effusions within the bounds of legitimate criticism. A glance at the faces of the pupils revealed the political sympathies of their belongings. The few Democrats were openly triumphant, and could afford to let pass the statement of "facts" as set forth in the Stalwart journals, confining themselves to levelling the shafts of merciless ridicule and sarcasm—bitter, such as the sex alone knows how to let fly—at the grammatical slips—in the case of one paper they were all too many of which the excitement of the hour had been the parent. "The lager bier of Fatherland alone could have inspired a blunder like that, was the shot fired by one black-eyed damsel, evidently of Hibernian origin, at her neighbor, a blonde German girl of lymphatic temperament, whose purpling cheek, nevertheless at once showed how her sensitive heart was pierced, first by the defeat of her candidate—your Canadian emblem—Beaver, and then the slipshod apology made for his defeat by his journalistic would-be-champion. She had her revenge. "'Every one of every class, age and sex are in ecstacies.' 'Every one are, are he? How's that for Monogahela rye?" shrieked out the Teutonic fraulien, almost at the top of her voice, regardless of time or proprieties; and the teacher prudently winking at the almost pardonable breach of discipline, and allowing the delinquent her triumph, wisely passed on to the foreign telegraphic column which teemed with interesting despatches.

BULLETINING THE NEWS.

These were rapidly read out, and a few minutes given to the pupils to summarize and bulletin the items. In an inconceivable short space of time this was done by them, first on their slates and then on a large blackboard similar to those set up outside of newspaper offices. The best of the headings, local and telegraphic, were looked for by the teacher, and selected for the honor of appearing in this quasi public form—an honor eagerly sought for. Some were purely sensational; some were elegantly expressed too elegantly for the purpose—others were terse and pithy; others witty or alliterative; a few flat, stale and unprofitable in their verbosity. These were all duly criticised, and the reasons given for their acceptance or rejection. One, the offspring of an appreciative punster's mind, was so obviously open to objection as to look for no other fate than rejection. It ran: "The Beaver Dam Explodes." The teacher looked mischievous; the maiden perpetrator's face was as demure as in church. There was no need to give a reason for not bullettining the news in that way. "Ambignity," said the mistress, "is undesirable in such matters," a remark which provoked a loud smile.

A JUVENILE CLASS.

In another school, not in the best part of Pittsburg either, the children, ranging from eight to nine to at most thirteen years of age, were similarly employed. In their case the reading was wisely confined to the accident and minor criminal offences. No little amusement was excited by the account of one incident which the reporter of a highly sensational penny-dreadful evening paper had given full length, in appallingly realistic detail. It told how a small boy called say Johnnie Fox had fallen in front of a locomotive in one of our crowded streets, and had been "snatched (so said the heading) from the devouring jaws of death" by a "hero in every-day life," taken home, "restored to his agonized parents," and with difficulty "recalled from the dark valley." "Please, teacher, it's all a lie," piped a small voice. A little arm held out showed whose were the somewhat forcible utterances. It was Johnnie Fox himself, who had been knocked down in the mud by an ignoble wheelbarrow at quite a safe distance from the passing train, caught up by his irate father, carried into the house, and soundly spanked by his mother for getting his garments defiled by Pittsburg mud, —and oh! what mud is that same! "A very good example of the way in which most evening newspaper items are got up," was the teacher's quiet observation.

TEACHING GEOGRAPHY

by means of the newspaper was the next exercise. This was being gone through in another school by pupils of a somewhat higher age: —A telegram from Paris was read out by one of the pupils. The teacher, having ascertained from the reader the geographical position of the French metropolis, gave the word, "Open atlas on France." Paris was found and localized. Immediately each pupil in turn told all he or she knew as to the city. This was done in their own words, and from the necessity of the case, without reference to any text book. Population, religion, political government, the name and course of the river running through it, were all given quickly and accurately. A rapid resume of its history since the fall of the Empire was very neatly and concisely afforded by a little maiden, who, by the way, hailed from the neighborhood of the Three Rivers, Quebec. India, Africa, South America, Canada the United States, Mexico, England and Ireland, were one after the other taken up according as the despatches contained anything concerning these countries, and it was astonishing how various and how manifold was the knowledge displayed. The teachers in every case said that they could put more historical and geographical learning into the heads of their pupils in one hour by this method of localizing geography and associating it with the history of past and passing events than they could in a month under the usual tedious and distasteful system of causing the scholars to cram so many pages or paragraphs from their class books into their wearied brains. The truth of this statement was in evidence.

OTHER RECOMMENDATIONS of the scheme—no longer an innovation in the schools of this city—are to be found in the fact that the method thus pursued brings before the pupils and fixes in their minds and memories words, phrases and ideas not commonly met in their class-books or in those they usually read or the society in which they mix. It helps to sharpen their appreciation of bright and descriptive writing, to quicken their power of analysis and synthesis, to aid in developing their faculties of condensing and expanding, to say nothing of creating within them a healthy curiosity as to the manner in which the "world wags" and fostering within them a wholesome curiosity as to the why and the wherefore of the scenes of daily occurrences in the "passing show." It likewise stimulates first the imitative and then the inventive faculties of their understanding; it improves their grammatical and orthographical knowledge, and engenders in each student a spirit of emulation as to who shall produce the best paragraph or short essay in the quickest time, or give out from the treasure-house of his brain the most varied store of things new and old concerning the localities and events referred to in the telegrams, editorials, and miscellaneous selections. It is no matter for wonderment, therefore, that this 'newspaper drill' is encouraged by the school authorities as a method whereby the children are taught how and what to read, and having read, to write the information thus received on the 'recalling tablets of the mind' for future use. Much less need it surprise the reader to be told that the entertainment and amusement thus provided for the pupils act as a powerful inducement to regularity in attendance at school, and to a large extent takes the place of a truant officer, whose duties here, if there are any such officials, are certainly conspicuous by their non-performance.

MILLBROOK.

BRUTAL OUTRAGE.

On Friday evening, about half-past nine, just after the close of the Penny Readings, as the Rev. Rural Dean Allen was passing round Cosgrove's Corner, he observed a fight going on, two parties pummelling each other, on the ground. These two turned out to be young Charley Guy and a young man of the name of Lamb. Mr. Allen stepped forward, with the view of pulling Guy off of Lamb, who appeared to be getting badly punished, and, for this humane act, he was brutally assaulted by a young man, called young Chopper Fallis, who has now become so notorious, that his father says, he is now in his proper place—in gaol. Fallis struck Mr. Allen in the face, for interfering, when he claimed he was showing fair play. Mr. Allen only having an umbrella with him, attempted to defend himself therewith, when Fallis smashed the umbrella, and felled the Rev. gentleman, and kicked him several times on the head, before he was pulled off of him. The Reeve, Mr. A. Ferguson, Mr. Thos. Gillott, Mr. Joseph Ferguson, and others, were speedily on the spot, as was Constable Fallis, and the ruffian was very soon lodged in the black-hole, where he rusticated till mid-day. Police Magistrate Holland, of Port Hope, was sent for, to assist the Reeve in conducting the case. After the evidence was taken, their Honors sentenced Fallis to two months in gaol, at hard labour, to give security, himself in $500, and two sureties of $350, each, to keep the peace. Millbrook Messenger.

BOBCAYGEON.

DEATH OF REV. MR. AVANT.

On Christmas morning says the Independent the village was shocked by the announcement that the Rev. Mr. Avant had passed away at eleven o'clock on Sunday night. But few had been aware of his illness and still fewer knew anything of the final and more serious attack. The reverend gentleman had been confined to the Parsonage for a few weeks with a severe cold and sore throat. On Wednesday he felt so much better that he went out in the open air. Thursday he was not so well; Friday, worse: Saturday, it was known that an attack of typhoid fever had set in, and on Sunday night he breathed his last. Mr. Avant was an English, unmarried, and aged 33 years. He had been in this country about ten years, and a still less time in the ministry. Mr. Avant was liked by his congregation and popular throughout the neighborhood, for beneath a gentle and a kind exterior beat the heart of a man. A man in the most noble sense of the world. He was without relatives in this country, and it is probable that to the need of the timely counsel and kindly actions that can only be received from those who are nearest and dearest to us, may be attributed in a great measure his early demise. His labours in his parish were most successful, and besides the numerous material monuments that he has left to recall his name, his remembrance will live in the hearts of many friends. If there is any virtue in a public display of respect, when it is of no earthly use to the interested person, the funeral on Wednesday was largely attended from the entire district, and by all denominations. The reverend gentleman served his master in a manner that he conscientiously hoped would prove acceptable. That his hopes will be fully realised is the devout wish of all who knew him.

LINDSAY.

The new room for the use of the town council will be ready for occupation about the first week of next month. In fact the first meeting of the newly-elected council may be held in their improved quarters.

A meeting of Lindsay Reformers was held in the sociation rooms in Hamilton's block on Wednesday evening and a large delegation named to attend the convention at Toronto.

A Toronto architect who happened to be in town on Saturday was recommended to take a look at the local high school buildings. He looked the edifice over and said that it was the worst looking high school building in the six Midland counties.

Mr. Uriel Cann of Mariposa, near Little Britain, bought a four year old bull on the 14th February last when he turned the scales at 1,335 lbs. Mr. Cann fed him to the 14th May and sold him at 1,777 lbs., a gain of 440 lbs. in ninety days or not quite 5 lbs. a day. Can any of our cattle feeders, asks the Post, beat that?

The school law provides that a trustee convicted of a felony or misdemeanor shall ipso facto vacate his seat and the remaining trustees shall declare his seat vacant and order a new election. This has been done in the case of John Saul Little, lately a school trustee at Kinmount, now in Lindsay goal for assault. Paul Crego having been elected for the unexpired term.

Referring to a paragraph in the Post last week the enquiry was made as to who could beat the big load of straw drawn to the paper mill by Mr. D Hoolahan, weighing 5,560 lbs. net. This has been beaten by Mr. T. Fee, who on Thursday delivered at the mill a load of straw, drawn from the Homewood farm, weighing 6,000 lbs. net, or three tons. If this can be beaten then Mr. Fee proposes to bring in four tons at one load, just to make a record worth keeping. The regular loads drawn to market all fall by the same team were 123 to 124 bushels of wheat.

PORT HOPE.

Mr. A. Hugel was elected Mayor of Port Hope by acclamation.

The pastors of the Bible Christian and First Presbyterian congregations in town will (D.V.,) exchange pulpits next Sabbath morning.

The exportations of grain for this year from this harbor have been as follows:—Wheat, 201,735 bushels; Barley, 666,562 bushels; peas, 95,625 bushels; rye, 44,578 bushels.

Mr. Martin Parker, Jr., of South Monaghan, according to the News, is taking active measures among the farmers to compel the lessee of the Rice Lake gravel road to put it in a better condition. The local merchants, and also the Town Council could not do better than assist Mr. Parker in his laudable work.

On Sunday one of Port Hope's very oldest inhabitants passed away, in the person of Mr. Edward Dodd, aged 74 years. Perhaps no one in town was better or more favorably known. The funeral on Wednesday was very large.

The following is a statement of the coal that has been imported in this port this year:—Midland Railway, 6,456 tons; Geo. Wright & Sons, 6,115 tons; J. A. Brown & Co., 2,917 tons; Peterborough Gas Co., 520 tons; Port Hope Gas Co., 312 tons; W. H. Braund, 140 tons.

A correspondent of the News is responsible for the statement that $700 were received across the bar at the local taverns on Christmas day. As those figures 'represent 14,000 "drinks," it makes a rather remarkable showing for a sober town of 5,000 inhabitants.

The Change in the "Globe."

The recent change in the management of the Globe shows that this journal has come to be an "institution" of the province of such recognized importance and influence, that any event affecting its management or policy engages the attention of every class of the community. And the name of Brown has been so long associated and identified with the Globe that news of Gordon Brown's retirement from the editorial management of the journal of which his brother, Hon. Geo. Brown, and himself are the founders and makers, gives ground for no little comment and conjecture. That they have succeeded in carrying out their aim in making the Globe the leading daily newspaper in the Dominion, far beyond the hope of successful rivalry, few will deny. As a newspaper pure and simple it has not, nor has ever had, in Canada, an equal. As a political power it is certain that it has exercised a tremendous influence, such as no other journal can hope to accomplish. But the attainment of these two leading positions has involved a very large expenditure of capital, such as a limited constituency as the Globe necessarily possessed in Canada, with the most liberal patronage was not able to make remunerative, and hence, while the Globe distanced all competition and disheartened all rivalry, its very success in this respect placed it in an unsatisfactory financial condition, and hence the change in the management. What causes led to Mr. Gordon Brown's retirement are not, of course, publicly known, but it is certain that his resignation of the managing editorship will not make any difference in the political complexion of the Globe. The succession of Mr. John Cameron, late of the London Advertiser, is a guarantee that the Liberal principles, of which the Globe has been the leading champion for over a third of a century, will still receive an unflinching advocacy in its columns. Life long opponents of Mr. Gordon Brown, who have hitherto shown their love to him by the most venomous abuse, now beslaver him with fulsome flattery, and insult him with crocodile sympathy, with the view, no doubt, of weakening the influence of the great Reform journal under its new management. The Globe has been too long the champion of a liberalism whose beneficial effects are to-day seen permeating every stratum of the political community, to be now allowed to fall behind in the journalistic race, and we feel sure that the great Reform party, whose growth and strength has advanced pari passu with the growth and influence of the Globe, will not for the sake of a name desert the Globe so long as it remains true to the principles of Liberalism and political advancement, which its past career has been so effectual in promoting.

The whole stock of Carpets will be sold much under regular prices for cash only, at Hall, Innes & Co's.

Mr. Gordon Brown has an advantage over his late brother. The Conservative ribstabbers waited till Hon. Geo. Brown was dead before beslavering him with sycophantic and hollow praise. They insult Gordon Brown by fulsome laudations to his living face. How little and mean some men can be!

Catholics and Politics.

The following criticism from a Peterborough correspondent, evidently an Irish Catholic, published in the last Tribune, neatly hits off the Toronto Telegram and the Conservative Catholics who have become Tories. It is a fact, as "Peterborough" observes, that there is not one instance of a Conservative Catholic in this province who, while one, has identified himself with any prominent Irish question. Nor are there Protestant Irish either. To Hon. Edward Blake belongs the credit of obtaining from the Government the grant of $100,000 towards Irish relief a short time ago. It was forced from Sir John Macdonald. "Peterborough" evidently understands what he says:

To the Editor of the Tribune.

SIR,—The last Tribune contains an extract from the Telegram to the effect that "the ablest of the Irish Catholics are "nearly all on the Conservative side, in "local as well as Dominion affairs," and that "Irish Catholic Reformers have not "one man in the platform or in the "press to put forward who is the equal "of a dozen Irish Catholics that could "be named."

The Telegram is a funny paper. The editor is fond of poking fun. And then this sly fellow so chuckles over it. Although not an Irishman himself, he knows exactly the weak spots in those he dubs Irish Catholic Conservatives, and can tickle them up every time. Catholic Reformers are common men, but they have no weak spots. He says we have not one man on the press or on the platform. Why does the canny chiel leave out the pulpit? Don't he and the Mail know we have one or two there at any rate? But he is too kind to Catholics of both parties. He knows very well there are no speakers, writers or thinkers Irish Catholics any way. They are not wanted. All that sort of thing is done for us you know. The Telegram and Mail do it, and do it so well, and with such nice consideration, that we rather like it. Then it spares us so much bother. The thinking and writing for one's self and about one's own business is such a nuisance. Oh my! but the Telegram and Mail are good, great, and learned papers. And the editors are so real smart very smart. All Conservatives are smart. Even plain Reformers when ogled over, at once take up the polish and become smart. They become men of dignity and gentlemen right off and feel it in their bones. The Telegram says "we have not one Irish Catholic "Reformer equal to a dozen Irish "Catholic Conservatives." That is too much from Mr. P——e. Reformers all round won't take that odds. But we have a few who could wipe out a dozen each of such folk without straining themselves. Conservatism is a broad and forgiving creed. It takes in a good many Irish Catholics and often lets them out again; but it holds on to a certain class that can well be spared from the Reform ranks. These may be untutored Rebels or Fenians to-day, but to-morrow, if they go over, it is all right. They are scholars and gentlemen truly loil, and fit for press, platform or Senate. Living in the country we are not supposed to hear and know everything. Will the Telegram enlighten us by naming one Irish Catholic Conservative in Ontario who, as such, has been "more associated with Irish questions than Irish Catholic Reformers" as such. Pity that Irish Catholics, some of them at all events, have not more self-respect, more back bone, than to allow themselves to be rubbed up and down and in with such fulsome stuff.

PETERBOROUGH.

Dec. 26, 1882.

Death of the Rev. H. C. Avant.

Just as we went to press last week we heard of the lamented death of the esteemed Incumbent of Bobcaygeon, the Rev. H. C. Avant, whose funeral took place on the 27th of December. We are now enabled to present our readers with a short account of his recent illness and sudden end.

The Rev. H. C. Avant was for a time organist at St. Luke's church, Toronto. He afterwards entered the Theological class at Trinity College and was ordained Deacon on the 22nd of December, 1878. The ordination was held by the late Bishop of Algoma, acting for the Bishop of Toronto, who, was at that time in very precarious health. Mr. Avant's first act as Deacon, was to read prayers at St. Luke's, Toronto, on the evening of his ordination day. During the period he resided in Toronto he made many firm friends. A thorough musician, a very pleasant companion and a gentleman in word and deed, all who came into contact with him loved him. When he announced his intention of studying for the church, no one was surprised, for his sole aim and endeavour was to advance the interests of the body to which he belonged. His whole temperament was spiritual and devout, and his happiest hours were spent in God's House. On resigning his position as organist, the congregation of St. Luke's made him a very valuable present of theological books, containing among others, a complete set of Lange's commentary on the Old and New Testament. Shortly after he had finished his studies at Trinity College, he was sent out as a Lay reader to the Mission of Bobcaygeon, then vacant. His earnest efforts even then gave token of the high position he would take in future and the people, thoroughly appreciating his services, were unanimous in soliciting for his appointment there when he should be ordained.

Accordingly he was sent, arriving in Bobcaygeon early in January 1879. From that time his efforts were unremitting to further the cause he had so deeply at heart and his labors were crowned with abundant success. A heavy debt existed on the church in the village, this through Mr. Avant's strenuous exertions was first removed. A new church was built by him and entitled St. Alban's, and a congregation of earnest workers were gathered round it, in the township of Verulam. These buildings freed from every cent of indebtedness were afterwards consecrated and another structure at Dunsford also free and unencumbered was dedicated to the worship of Almighty God. Nor was this all. While the material structure was attended to, the spiritual building was not forgotten. Mr. Avant threw himself heartily into every effort which was calculated to deepen the inner life of his people. He instituted a mission under the Rev. O. P. Ford which was productive of lasting good. The young were trained by him in church doctrine, bible truths, and the old and careless were reclaimed and influenced for good. The communicants largely increased and the attendance at all the churches was most encouraging. Everywhere the people heartily seconded their pastor's efforts and none stood aloof. But the heavy strain, mental and physical, at last told its tale on a constitution never very robust. Long Sunday drives and much speaking for he had never less than three services and sometimes four, weakened him greatly during the last summer. But he seldom or never complained, except when closely questioned, and then he would acknowledge feeling tired. Less than two months ago he visited Peterboro' and preached in St. John's church twice. He was then far from well and almost immediately on his return he was obliged to seek medical care. Dr. Bonnell was called in and pronounced the disease to be typhoid fever. He rallied sufficiently once to leave his bed, but the effort to go about was, we fear, his death blow. He was taken to the residence of Mr. Boyd, but every attention and care that could be lavished upon him, and nothing was wanting, came too late. Delirium set in on Friday, continued all day on Saturday and Sunday, and late on Christmas Eve, the fourth anniversary of his ordination, his gentle spirit passed peacefully away. The watchers hardly knew the exact moment, so quiet, so gentle was the end. Thus died the much esteemed, greatly beloved Incumbent of Bobcaygeon, for whom now many a sigh and regret is heard, not by his own flock merely but by the whole community. His remains were laid to rest in the Verulam cemetery in the mission he loved so well and to which he gave some of the best years of his active and self-denying life. We may well say of him in the words of Holy Writ, "He rests from his labours and his works do follow him."

Good Brussels Carpet will be sold for 90 cents and $1.00 per yard, during January, at Hall, Innes & Co's carpet sale.

West Riding Reform Association.

At a largely attended meeting of the Reformers of the West Riding, held in the Choate House Hall on Wednesday of last week, the following officers of the Association were duly elected:

PRESIDENT T. G. Hazlitt, Esq.,
VICE-PRESIDENT Mr. James Henry.
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT—T. G. Fitzgerald, Esq., Deputy Reeve of Smith.
SECRETARY Mr. J. R. Stratton.
TREASURER Adam Hall, Esq.,
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE W. Paterson, J. Bertram, B. Morrow, Geo. Edmison, and J. W. Fitzgerald.

The executive committee were charged with the duty of organizing the party in Riding for the coming campaign. The names of several gentlemen have been mentioned in connection with the Reform candidature of the Riding but without their assent. It is not known who will be the candidate, but at the proper time a Convention will be called and a candidate nominated whose chances of election, will be made the most hopeful by a thorough organization of the local resources of the party, backed by the just cause he champions and the unimpeachable record of the government he will be nominated to support. The party is working with the utmost unanimity and an enthusiasm that augurs well for success.

East Riding Mass Meeting.

By an unfortunate clerical error, in our last issue we announced the wrong date for this gathering at Norwood. Remember, the date is Norwood, Monday, Jan. 8th, 1883. There will doubtless be a full representation of delegates from the several municipalities, and no doubt a candidate will be selected. It is very probable that Mr. Blezard will be the nominee, and that he will accept. The Reformers of this riding are going into battle well organized, and will no doubt be rewarded by a triumphant return of their candidate. The party generally are requested to be present, as several gentlemen will deliver addresses on the several political topics that are foremost at the present time.

TORONTO REFORM CONVENTION.

An Unprecedented Success.

We learn by telegram received as we go to press, that the Liberal convention that met in Toronto, on Wednesday, Jan. 3rd, was in point of numbers a magnificent success. There was an immense attendance of delegates, the East and West Ridings of Peterborough being represented by the following gentlemen: Messrs. W. Patterson, jr., J. Bertram, M. Sanderson, W. A. Morrow, T. G. Choate, Joseph Griffin, D. Kennedy, B. Morrow, John Garbutt, J. W. Fitzgerald, W. Graham, J. Laing, J. A. Gillespie, Jos. Tully, Geo. Cochrane, W. J. Miller, W. Simpson, Dr. W. H. Taylor, A. R. Kidd, S. McKibbon, John Hall, G. J. Galvin, Thos. Munro, Geo. B. Sproule, Geo. Dunsford, Robert Walton, D. A. MacFarlane, A. W. Tully, J. Nelson, A. Nelson, W. Drummond, D. McLeod, G. Edmison, J. R. Stratton, James Henry, W. E. Roxburgh, G. M. Roger, T. Frazer, and others.

The wise citizens of Toronto on Monday last, decided at the polls in favour of a free public library, voted on concurrently with the Mayoralty, by a majority of nearly two to one—5,300 to 2,500.

The Dominion Parliament is summoned for the despatch of business on the 8th of February.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The patrons of Myrtle cheese factory held their final meeting for winding up the business of the year, in the Town Hall, on Friday, the 29th December, at 1 o'clock p.m. Although the roads are good for outside business, and mostly all in the township busy, still a good number of those interested assembled shortly after the time appointed. The auditors, John Galvin, jr., and Joseph James, pronounced the books correct, as kept by Thomas Telford, sec.-treasurer. The directors for the past year were William Sullivan, Patrick C. Sullivan, David Geary, Patrick Crough and William Crough, with Alexander Clark and Thomas Telford for salesmen. Although the dairy was started on a small scale and being a new industry to most of us, still we must congratulate William Cribbin, the manager, and all those connected with it, for the success and general satisfaction expressed. It must be borne in mind that although the building was erected in the spring and the cheese making only commenced on the 22nd of May and shut down on the 2nd of October, while previous to that date several had quit, owing to having furnished their quota of milk. According to the secretary's book, there was delivered at the factory 325,902 lbs of milk, from which was sold 32,324 lbs of cheese, amounting to $3,435.35, and divided amongst the patrons, less some small expenses, all being satisfied. It is now our intention to use all our endeavours to double the business of the enterprise during the coming summer. Alexander Clark was appointed a delegate to attend the meeting to be held in the Drill Shed, Peterborough, in March, to make arrangements for sales for the ensuing year.

THE GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY.

The reports of the Grand Trunk and Great Western Railways were issued in London, England, last Monday, Jan. 1st, together with statements of account to the 11th August last. The accounts show a balance available for dividend on the first and second preference stock of £170,000. After the payment of three per cent. on both stocks £424 is carried forward. The increase of working expenses of the road is slightly greater than the increase of receipts. The Great Western Road's earnings are insufficient to meet the dividend of five per cent. on the preference stock, and the deficiency of £6,000 is made good out of the items at the credit on the company's books in conformity with the deed of union. The passenger traffic shows an increase of fifteen per cent., but this increase is swallowed up by a decrease of twenty per cent. in the freight earnings. The working expenses are slightly higher. The first ordinary meeting of the proprietors of the united company will be held in March, when the accounts from the date of union to December will be submitted. The Directors congratulate the proprietors on the benefits which have already been derived from fusion and the marked success attending it, which they regard as the commencement of a new era with improved prospects.

A TERRIBLE TRACEDY!

Four Persons Murdered by a Hired Man.

Others Dangerously Wounded—Courageous Girls to the Rescue.

HAWKESBURY, Jan. 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, of Little Rideau, were brutally murdered, and their sons George and Willie and daughter Emma dangerously wounded, by their man-servant between five and six o'clock this morning. The murderer first attacked Mr. Cooke at the barn with an axe, killing him there, then Mrs. Cooke in the shed adjoining the house. Entering the house he attacked George, who was in bed, inflicting probably fatal injuries. Willie, Emma, and Maggie coming to the rescue, the two first were dangerously wounded; the latter, however, succeeded in wrenching the axe from him and kept him at bay till, on the approach of of a neighbor, he fled and has not yet been arrested.

FURTHER DETAILS,

in the Little Rideau tragedy, go to show that the murderer first attacked Emma Cooke in the upstairs store-room adjoining the house, strangling her with a rope. Mrs. Cooke evidently having come to her daughter's assistance was next strangled in the same way. He next attacked Mr. Cooke, who had gone to the barn-yard, where he killed him with an axe, literally chopping his head to pieces. Then entering the house he proceeded upstairs to the room occupied by George, who was asleep, striking him, inflicting two fearful wounds in the temple with the axe, from which he shortly afterwards died; then rushing into Willie's room, struck him up the thigh, inflicting a dangerous wound. Willie although disabled, grappled with him.

RESCUED BY HEROIC GIRLS.

The noise alarming his sisters, Maggie and Fannie, brought them to his assistance. In the struggle which ensued Maggie secured the axe, and the murderer then seized a lamp and struck Fannie with it, wounded her severely on the head. He then fled down the back stairs; the two girls going by the front stairs, met him in the dining-room, armed with a poker, when he struck at them with it. They defended themselves, and closed a door on him. Maggie ran to the front door, where she hailed a passer-by, who summoned assistance, upon hearing which the murderer fled, and was seen to cross the river going in the direction of the St. Philip station of the Canada Pacific Railway. Nothing further has up to this been heard of him.

A GHASTLY SPECTACLE.

The house presents a most ghastly spectacle, the bodies of the four victims, Mr. Ruggles W. Cooke, Mrs. Cooke, Emma and George being laid out in it. The floors, walls, and doors are besprattered with blood. Willie's wounds are so serious as to afford but slight hopes of his recovery. The murderer, Frederick Mann, a young Englishman lately from London, has been but three months in their employ, is about five feet six inches high, rather slight, with fair complexion. He left without a coat, wearing plain grey pants and leather moccasins. Mr. Cooke, the murdered man, was a very respectable farmer residing near Little Rideau. Great sympathy is felt for the family.

"Wells' Health Renewer" restores health and vigor, cures Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility. $1.

The statistics of Quebec's shipping for the past year show a falling off in the number of vessels arriving there and also in the tonnage.

Charles T. Casselman, Druggist of Chesterville, writes to the Proprietors of that Sovereign Tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters, "Your Burdock Blood Bitters, give universal satisfaction. All your medicines sell well, and many of my customers will take no other." 1-2t

Seven thousand men are now working on the British Columbia section of the C. P. R., and rapid progress is made. The contract will, to all apearances, be completed within the allotted time.

PRECAUTIONARY. There have been many predications against fire published but let a person become acidentaly burned or scalded, and few people know what to do in absence of a doctor. The very best remedy known is Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great Household Panacea for all painful inflammatory diseases. 1-2t

THOUSANDS have used Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure and willingly have testified to the immediate relief it gives after a few doses in kidney troubles, and how a few bottles always effect a permanent cure. No one can afford to be without it. Sold by J. McKee, Peterborough. 49-8t

The President of the Hungarian Council has declared that the Austrian Government would seek allies not for peace. He states that he cannot see any ground for apprehension of war.

Mrs. McArthur, of Hopeville, says regarding Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, that she would not keep house without it. She can not speak too highly of its merits as a remedy for Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, weak lungs and all pulmonary troubles. A cold may be cured by it in one day. 1-2t

Later despatches from Paris convey the impression that the suicide of Count Von Wimpffen, the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador, was connected with the recent financial embarrassment of the Union Generale.

O. Bortle, of Manchester, Ontario Co., N.Y., writes: "I obtained immediate relief from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I have had asthma for eleven years. Have been obliged to sit up all night for ten or twelve nights in succession. I can now sleep soundly all night on a feather bed, which I had not been able to do previously to using the Oil."

George Kelay of Dunchurch, Parry Sound, for the last six years suffered from Dyspepsia, had had tried Doctors and Patent Medicines, until out of patience with all treatment, but was induced by a friend to try Burdock Blood Bitters, before finishing one bottle he was astonished at the result, and declares he never felt better in his life, and "I could name" says he) "half a dozen others who have) derived great benefit from the medicine." 1-2t

O'Brien was arraigned yesterday at Dublin, charged with seditious libel. The prosecution was postponed to await the result of a motion in O'Brien's behalf for leave to prove the truth of the charges made in the objectionable article. A journalist at Tuam has been sentenced to gaol for inciting intimidation through the columns of his paper.

Decline of Man.

Nervous Weakness, Dyspepsia, Impotence, Sexual Debility, cured by "Wells Health Renewer." $1.

EMERSON, MAN. JAN. 17, 1882.

About a year ago I was taken with a severe cold which settled on my chest and brought on bleeding of the lungs. I bled very freely and was very low. I feared it would ultimately turn into consumption. Consulted a number of physicians, and used a number of so-called cough remedies and lungs pads but all to no avail until I saw a notice of Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam in a paper: Although a forlorn hope I purchased a bottle, and to my surprise found it doing me good. I persevered in its use and am now completely cured. Please publish this that others may be saved

Yours truly,

MISTHER EDITHUR:—Arn't yez really and thruly ashamed of the Ontayrio Opposishun? I am. It an Imposishum they ought to be called. Only think of it? Not a word agin the Ayconomikal management of the Finances of the Provinee! Not a charge again the conduck of any of the Departments! Not a syllable agin the honisty of the Mowat Government! And why? Bekase thare isn't a Blot or a Stain upon which they can lay their hands! Left without a leg to stand upon, they are unable to formulate a solithary charge, supported by the first bit of evidence, agin the prudint oversite of of our affairs by the Liberal Administhrashun. They have bin challenged for proof. And dhriven to the wall, they resoort to vague and unfair giniralities, and their Organ to speers and blackguardism agin the decint and able min who are honored and trusted with the confidence of the people. So impregnible is the posishun take be the Governmint in defince of Provinshal Rights, and upon all other queshtuns of Provinshal Policy and Sound Statesmanship, that nothing is left em but to take a shy at an unforchunate License Inspecthor! Misther Doherty is a jintleman who discharges his juties satisfactorily, and who defies them to the proof. But widhout proof they attack this respectable Catholic jintleman! Is it bekase he is a Catholic? Well, if "Down with Doherty," is all the cry, they have to go to the counthry, I predikt for the imposition a bigger defate at the forthcomin' elecshuns than that which resulted from raisin' the cry of "Marmion" at the bye-eleckshuns. Thair posishun is abjeckt and pitiful bi the counthry, and here is what I've to say about it.

DOWN WITH DOHERTY.

Good people have pity!—Look on our position!
Her Magesty's loyal, played out Opposition.
All means we have tried - to get a majority.
From the Streams Bill to Marmion down to—Doherty!
Ontario's Rights we have set at defiance
Our Chieftain commanded he is our reliance—
Mowat must go (on the Chieftain's authority)
We've gone it, blind, on all things—down to Doherty!
The Boundary Award is our vexation:
We've voted and voted - to stultification
For and against it was suited his policy—
And on all other questions down to—Doherty!
Beaten at all points on all issues raised by us
And the Mail editor stark'staring crazed by us—
Nothing is left, but like Paudhaen O'Rafferty—
As we can't beat the Government - down with Doherty!
To our jibes and abuse the only as tardy
Our attacks upon Crooks, and Pardee and Hardy
Have only brought us a reduced majority
We've enough of His Grace—so down with Doherty.
By the Boundary Award swamped up to the arms—
Perishing in the Streams Bill, and full of alarms
Mowat's triumphant policy—Our platform!
O, poverty!
Nothing to go on, but—down with Doherty!
No more at prisint from
Yer thrue friend till death.

AFTER A PRODIGAL.

On the 28th of September an English "blood" calling himself "George Thornycroft," alias Thomas Heatherly, son of a British clergyman, created a sensation in Kingston. He beat the British American Hotel out of a board bill of $32, and secured from Mr. J. W. Fralick $33 on a fictitious cheque for £100. For the later offence he was arrested, but released. He confessed everything and threw himself upon the mercy of Mr. Fralick. Letters were sent to England, but the answers failing to arrive in reasonable time the the young man disappeared. To-day a gentleman from England arrived for the the purpose of securing Hetherly, and taking him home. The stranger was sent to Canada by Rev. Dr. Heatherly. Heatherly's place of residence is not known.

Riches in Hop Farming.

At the present prices, ten acres in Hops will bring more money than five hundred acres in any other farming; and, if there is a consumer or dealer who thinks the price of Hop Bitters high, remember that Hops are $1.25 per lb., and the quantity and quality of Hops in Hop Bitters and the price remains the sameas formerly. Don't buy or use worthless stuff or imitations because the price is less. 1-2t

A pleasant and Effectual Cough Remedy. If you will go to your nearest druggist and ask for a 25 cent bottle of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, you will possess the best known cure for Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Hoarseness and all throat and lung troubles that terminate in Consumption. 1-2t

Two gentlemen were lately examining a ploughshare on a stall in a market-place. "I'll bet you a guinea," said one, "you don't know what this is for." "Done," said the other "it is for sale." The bet was won and the wager paid.

Mrs. D. Morrison, Farnham Centre, P.Q., writing about Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, says: "George Bell used it on his son, and it cured him of rheumatism with only a few applications. The balance of the bottle was used by an old gentleman for asthma, with the best results. It acts like a charm."

Tomato juice is a sure cure for wart so it is said. A Missouri girl began canning tomatoes with nineteen warts on her hands, and quit with never a one in sight. That was good for the girl, no doubt, but how about the tomatoes?

A little girl, some three or four years old, has been corrected by her mother somewhat severely. In the same family was another little girl of three and a half years, staying temporarily, whose mother was not living. As soon as the two were alone this latter one expressed her sympathy for the culprit as follows: "I'se sorry for 'oo. My mamma is in Heaven. Don't you wish your's was?"

CONTENTMENT.

My own fireside, and one kind heart
Are all the charms I crave;
Delights from which I would not part
For honors of the brave.
And by the fire I'd nightly weave,
Warm fancies into rhyme;
And strive to live that I might leave
The world without a crime!

My love's pure voice would lightly tell
How sweet the poet's theme;
While I should feel how great a spell,
From simplest songs might beam.
For great's the power of humble words;
They reach the humblest mind,
And in the hearts of truest men.
The surest welcome find.

And tired with labor I should live,
In feeling far from earth:
And not those tranquil moments give.
For all that thrones are worth.
My home would be a sphere of peace.
And cares would take their flight:
As labor's battles close and cease,
In hallowed hours of night!

Farm, Garden and Household.

Stock Raising on Small Farms.

The owners of small farms, or farmers engaged in a system of mixed husbandry, often over-estimate the advantages for stock raising possessed by those with large farms and who make this a specialty. The latter do possess important advantages, but there are some compensations to the stockman on a small scale.

The man with a thousand acres, a herd of hundreds, etc., can have men employed who will give their whole attention to one branch of the work, and learn to do this better than the average laborer. The large farmer has advantages in selling. He can make up one to a dozen car-loads of stock ready for the market; can sort them to make them sell to the best advantage; can have buyers come to his place or ship as he chooses. Full use at home is found for one or more stallions, bulls, etc., and the cost of keeping them counts as a little matter. But the small farmer—he with one hundred acres for instance—has also his advantages. He can rear and feed a few colts, steers, pigs or lambs with almost no outlay for extra labor and very little perceptible cost in food. He needs horses for his farm work. Often brood mares serve his purpose equally well, and the one, two or three colts dropped each year cost comparatively little to rear. Cows for a home supply of milk and butter, of course, will be kept, and often there is abundance of grass in the pasture for a few young things, and in the winter the stalk-fields, the straw stacks, the soft corn, etc., can be eaten by these when it might otherwise be mainly wasted. In the winter the large stock grower must have men whose main business it is to feed and care for the stock. The small farmer can add the little additional work as a part of the necessary "chores" and scarcely notice the extra time or labor. Of two farmers of the class we are speaking of, the one "with a little extra stock" will usually do as much and as good work during the summer in the fields as his neighbor who only "keeps a cow or two, and enough hogs for his own meat." In the winter the fact that some extra labor is provided for each day is often a positive advantage.

The small farmer has another advantage. It seems to be a law of animal life that the fewer of any sort of animals that are kept within a given area, the more healthy they are. We once asked a large and very successful swine breeder this question: What is the greatest number of hogs that can be kept together with the highest precentage of profit on each? To this he promptly answered, "One. The profit on each hog decreases in proportion as you increase the number." His idea was that the health and thrift of the herd decreased in proportion as the numbers augmented. The greater economy of feeding and management which the large farmer or feeder may practice may possibly more than compensate for this loss of health and thrift, but the illustration served to show that the advantages are not all on one side.

It is not necessary to money making and deserved success in fine stock breeding that there should be a large herd or flock. On the islands of Jersey and Gurnsey nearly all the herds are quite small. In horse breeding, there is no reason why the man with three or four mares may not take a high rank as a breeder.

Even for the "renter," if he can secure a lease of the land for three or five years, a fair degree of attention to stock growing will be much better than the exclusive grain growing, which is so often the rule with the class. We have known instances in which two renters seemed "to just about make a living;" but at the end of five years one would have a lot of live stock worth a few hundred dollars; the other would have less than when he commenced.—Breeder's Gazette.

A Little Farm well Tilled.

Every Saturday during the summer and fall, and frequently at intervals throughout the week, may be seen a smaled-sized, muscular little man of somewhat sallow features, dark eyes, and small chin whisker, drive on to the London Market Square, he and his boy seated on an immense waggon box, well filled with the vegetables of the season. Mr. Abel Steele is well-known to the Directors of the Western Fair and all the surrounding county fairs, where he never exhibits his mammoth specimens without getting a host of prizes. At the late Western Fair Mr. Steele took ten first prizes out of fourteen entries. His farm, situated in Lobo, near Melrose, contains only fifty acres, part of which he keeps in bush so as to supply himself with firewood and fencing timber. He also reserves a portion for hay, pasture and cereals. The remainder he cultivates for vegetables. When Mr. Steele, a few years ago, contemplated the purchase of this small farm, some of his friends advised him to have nothing to do with it, as it was nearly all a tamarac swamp. Mr. Steele carefully examined the soil and found it for the stamp—a thick alluvial deposit of unsurpassed fertility, a great portion of which might be accounted for, but a large track thereof would almost puzzle a geologist to analyze. Mr. Steele affirms that after digging three feet down in some places he comes on an inexhaustible supply of shells and a mixture of apparently decayed vegetable and animal matter. To this together with the adoption of a thorough system of drainage, he attributes his secret of success. As he keeps day and date for everything he does on the farm, the following will show the operations or net returns for the season so far: Total number of acres ploughed twenty-five from which he took 21,000 cabbages, 4,000 cauliflowers, 800 bushels of potatoes, 1,000 heads of celery, 1,000 melons, 130 bushels of wheat, 180 bushels of barley, 140 bushels of oats, 1,200 dozen cobs of corn, 150 bushels of onions, 150 bushels of tomatoes, also carrots, turnips, etc., say 300 bushels, and three tons of hay. Besides he keeps a number of cattle, pigs and poultry. His hired help averages one-and-a-half hands all the year around. His family is small, but they materially assist him. His cabbage crop alone will net him nearly $1,500. The total value of his crop is $3,000 besides a quantity of life stock he will have for sale. This shows what good management, earnest application and sterling industry can do on "a little farm well tilled."

Domestic Hints.

MILK, if put into an earthen can, or even a tin one, will keep sweet for a long time, if well wrapped in a wet cloth.

LEMON PUDDINGS.—One pint of sweet cream, six eggs, beaten very light. Mix with the cream one large cup of sugar, grated rind of two large lemons; juice of one lemon. Line a dish with pasté; pour the mixture in, and bake.

REMEDIES FOR BURNS.—Peppermint and sweet oil are standard remedies for burns. In doing up a burn the main point is to keep the air from it. Flour sprinkled over a dry cloth and bound on will keep out the air until other remedies can be procured if not at hand.

HOW TO MAKE MEAT TENDER.—Cut the steaks the day before into two slices about two inches thick; rub them over with a small quantity of carbonate of soda; wash off next morning clean; cut into suitable thickness and cook as you choose. The same process will answer fowl, leg of mutton, etc.

MOLASSES GINGERBREAD.—Take a piece of butter the size of an egg, melt it and add to it a pint of nice molasses; stir in a quart of flour and add a teaspoonful of ginger. Dissolve an even tablespoouful of soda in a cupful of milk, strain, and add this to your mixture, then flour enough to roll out. Roll half an inch thick and bake in sheets. It is improved by standing an hour before baking.

A SWEET OMELET.—Beat up six eggs very light; add a spoonful of flour, a little fine sugar and nutmeg. Put this into an omelet pan; stir until it sets; then loosen the edge with a knife; have ready any kind of preserve; spread it over the omelet with a spoon as quickly as possible, roll it over, slip the omelet from the pan on to a long dish, and sift a little white sugar over it while hot.

TO MAKE COCOANUT AND RICE PUDDING.—Boil one teacupful of rice in milk until soft and dry. Whilst it is still hot stir into it a quarter of a pound of butter. Then add the well-beaten yolks of six eggs, a pound of sugar, a grated cocoanut, and rosewater or lemon peel to taste. Stir in the stilly-beaten whites of four eggs, and bake. When cool spread over the top the whites of two eggs, beaten to a stiff froth with some sugar and the juice of a lemon. Colour it a little in the oven, or with a salamander.

HOW TO REMOVE GREASE SPOTS.—Grease spots can be removed from silk by sprinkling French chalk on the spot and laying the garment away on a shelf in a dark closet. If the stain is obstinate this may have to be repeated. In ordinary cases this will be sufficient, but where the grease is not fresh and has spread it may be taken out by placing blotting paper over it and applying a hot iron to it. Do not let the iron stand on it long, and it must not be very hot, as there is danger of the colour of the silk being changed.

INDIAN CORN GEMS.—Two cups of corn meal; one pint of sweet milk; two eggs; two teaspoonfuls of baking powder; one tablespoonful of sugar; one tablespoonful of butter. Beat up the eggs thoroughly, then add the milk, sugar, and butter, stirring all together. Now mix the baking powder with the meal, and sift these into the mixture last. Bake in hot gem pans (the cast-iron forms are best) in a well heated oven for thirty minutes. Try them with a broom splint to see when they are done.

Gaining a World Wide Reputation.

About 150,000 bottles of medicine and 3,000 Spirometers, the invention of Mr. Souvielle, of Paris and Ex-aide Surgeon of the French army, have been used by physicians and patients during the last year for the cure of catarrh, catarrhal deafness, bronchitis, asthma, consumption in its first stages and many diseases of the head, throat and lungs. Consultations with any of the surgeons belonging to the Institute free. Poor people showing certificates can have spirometers free. Write enclosing stamp for pamphlet giving full information to either of the Canadian offices where competent English and French specialists are always in charge. Address, International Throat and Lung Institute, 13 Philips Square, Montreal, P.Q., or 173 Church street, Toronto, Ont. 52

Consumption Cured.

Turbans with fur band and gathered cloth crowns are worn with redingtoes of cloth trimmed with fur.

Tan coloured silk stockings are worn with the tan coloured gloves that are part of many full dress toilets.

Dashes of red appear everywhere in the toilet, from the plumes on the bonnet to the "clocks" of black silk hose.

Real bullion embroidery decorates the dog collars of black velvet which are worn with low dress waists, and which greatly enhance the fairness of the complexion.

The fashionable fan is of large ostrich feathers, mounted with shell, amber, ivory or pearl, and ornamented with a bird with long tail plumage falling on the sticks.

The newest turbans of folded cloth or velvet, are without brims, the folds reaching down to the hair, and are without trimming.

Brocaded flounces, with the figures of velvet raised on repped silk, are the elegant trimmings for the fronts of trained dresses of silk or velvet.

Theatre bonnets are made of velvet, in small gathered puffs that begin in the middle of the crown, and are trimmed on the edge in front and back with frills of gold lace.

Floral buckles are used to catch up the folds of the drapery of evening dresses. These buckles are large and square, and are made of cardboard covered with silk; small flowers are then sewed thickly upon them.

Gold tinsel lace trims puffed white tulle skirts of ball dresses. The puffs of lace arranged alternately from the skirt over its silk lining. The pointed waist is of gold-coloured satin edged at the neck and sleeves with lace.

New ball dresses are of shrimp-coloured crepe de chine with white tulle flounces embroidered with white feathery floss. The low-pointed bodice is of pomegranate-coloured satin, with high square neck and elbow sleeves, and is laced behind.

Straight English collars with the points turned back in front are made of black and coloured velvet over a piece of stiff lining, and worn with a jabot of cream-white lace that falls low on the dress waist, and forms its only trimming.

Black satin does not lose its prestige for the long-trained dresses worn at small dinner parties. Jetted lace laid over pink or salmon surah trims the front of the waist and skirt. The sleeves are entirely of the jetted lace, the satin lining being omitted.

French grey cashmere combined with Ottoman velvet makes a charming dress for the house or street. The velvet skirt is pleated in hollow box-plaits; the cashmere waist is peaked in front, has short paniers attached, and the back is in princess style with great fulness, made by raising the back of the skirt in box-plaits with erect heading high on the tournure.

Cloth costumes are made with two bodices; that for the house is a basque with vest collar and cuffs trimmed with cord gimp in designs of Gothic points; that for out-door wear is a long pelisse with full pleating at the back trimmed with gimp twice the width of that of the basque. The skirt which is to be worn with either of these bodices is plain, in front falling on a balayeuse plaiting, and has all its fullness drawn to the back and massed in quadruple box-plaits.

The hair is dressed in the simplest manner with the most elaborate toilets; no false hair is worn. The Psyche knot at the back cannot be too small, but must not be braided. The front hair is combed straight back and the forehead is shaded by light and fluffy locks arranged in any irregular, unstudied way that is becoming, the forehead is less covered than formerly. The only ornaments worn are a panache of feathers or some jewelled pin, or a comb of jewels.

HOOPLESS AND STAVELESS WOODEN BARRELS.

MR. Mark L. Deering, mechanical engineer, of Cleveland, has recently taken out a patent for a barrel without staves or hoops, all in one piece. The material he uses to make this seamless barrel is wood pulp. A certain amount of this pulp is placed in an iron cylinder, the inside of which is shaped exactly like a barrel. This cylinder, is made to revolve by an ingenious arrangement both ways; that is, the ordinary way that a barrel would revolve, and revolve at the same time head over head at right angles, at about 100 revolutions a minute. The centrifugal force of this double revolution throws the pulp equally in every direction, spreading it, so to speak, equally all over the inside surface of the cylinder. After being revolved in this manner for three or four minutes, air is then pumped through the bung (which is made tight around the pipe conveying the air) till a pressure of 100 pounds to the inch is obtained. This is done without cessation of the movements of the revolving cylinder. The pressure of this air squeezes all the water in the pulp through the brass lining of the cylinder, which is perforated with minute holes, and is carried away in the grooves of the iron cylinder. After being revolved for three minutes under this pressure, the two halves of the cylinder are opened and a perfectly shaped barrel is taken out, all complete, with heads in, which is laid aside for twenty-four hours for the purpose of being seasoned, when it is then placed in a drying-room, heated by steam to 160° of heat, and kept there for about three days, when it is taken out all finished for the market.

THE MEDICAL FACULTY were among the first to recognize the value of Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda as a remedy for throat and lung affections, premature decline and general debility. Physicians not only recommend it for incipient consumption, bronchitis, asthma and minor pulmonary and bronchial troubles, but speak in the highest terms of it as a means of enriching the blood and counteracting a hereditary tendency to consumption. In every part of the Dominion and throughout the United States it has attained a popularity as wide-spread as it is deserved, and the evidence attesting its efficacy is voluminous and convincing. The Cod Liver Oil, which in its pulmonic constituent, is absolutely pure and does not nauseate the stomach; while the Hypophosphites, superadded to and chemically blended with ingredient possesses invigorating properties which render it most desirable in diseases involving such a tremendous waste of tissue and loss of bodily substance as incipient consumption, which it checks with a promptitude truly marvellous. In addition to its pulmonic effect, it imparts tone to the whole system, and being a fine blood depurent, counteracts a tendency to scrofula. Moreover it is sold at a reasonable price, the cost of the smaller bottles (the contents of one often sufficing to break up a bad cold) being 50 cents, and of the larger, $1.00. Prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont.

Furs! Furs! Furs!

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipzig, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

ONE.

The FIRST ingredient in DR. WILSON'S PULMONARY CHERRY BALSAM is an extract of wild cherry bark, which soothes the irritated surfaces in the lungs and air passages, acts as a tonic to the stomach, giving a healthy appetite, has a soothing, sedative influence on the heart and blood vessels, preventing palpitation.

TWO.

The SECOND loosens and displaces the tough, stringy phlegm which causes so much pain and distress, and which is the cause of the the convulsive coughing.

THREE.

The THIRD ingredient heals. It is the vital property of the peculiarly soothing and healing gums of the white pine and fir of southern climes, at the same time grateful and beneficial to the stomach.

FOUR.

The FOURTH ingredient is a pleasing and soothing lubricant that supplies the place of the mucous secretion which, while the organs are healthy coats the mucous membrane, keeping it soft and natural. It at first supplies the place of the decreased secretions and assists in restoring them so as to perform their proper and most important duties.

All these working together, beneficially, make DR. WILSON'S PULMONAY CHERRY BALSAM the best cure known for throat and lung diseases.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Butler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs, Buffalpes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall shoulders from a misfit guaranteed.

AT REST.

BURIAL OF SIR HUGH ALLAN—AN IMPOSING PAGEANT.

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—The remains of the late Sir Hugh Allan were consigned to their last resting place to-day. The funeral was in every sense a public one, the Mayor, Aldermen and civic officers heading the procession, with the police and fire brigade ranged on either side. Following the hearse came the immediate family and near relatives of deceased. Among the chief mourners were the four sons and a brother of the lamented man. The remaining part of the cortege was composed of leading citizens walking six deep and stretching nearly half a mile. There was no mercantile, manufacturing shipping or other city interest that was not extensively represented. Reaching St. Andrew's Church, the coffin was taken in and the usual burial service read by the pastor, Rev. J. Edgar Hill. The religious ceremony being over the procession re-formed and proceeded to Mount Royal Cemetery, where the body was deposited in the family vault, where also the remains of Lady Allan rest. The pall bearers were Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, Hon. John Hamilton, Messrs. Joseph Hickson, Robert Anderson, Mr. Geo. Hague and Mr. Henry Lyman.

JUDICIAL ELOQUENCE.

A TERRIBLE LESSON READ TO THOSE WHO BETRAY SHOP GIRLS.

In New York Miss Katie Holthusen, a good-looking young woman about twenty years old, was plaintiff in a breach of promise suit yesterday, before Judge Barrett and a jury. She sues Benjamin Schlesinger for $10,000 damages. In the factory of the defendant there are employed about one hundred girls, among them the plaintiff, who was employed at a salary of $4 per week. She swore yesterday that she got into good graces of Mr. Schlesinger, and he gave her presents and finally under promise of marriage effected her ruin. Mr. Schlesinger denied that he had ever promised to marry the fair plaintiff. The Judge in his charge to the jury said: 'There is something inexpressibly sad about this case. I find nothing amusing in it. At the same time I am not sorry) revolting as are many of its details) that it has been brought before us. Entirely independent of your verdict, entirely independent of the particular interests of these parties, I think it is well that the community should occasionally see something of our boasted civilization; see just what it means, and be brought face to face with what there is beneath the surface. I am not one of those who believe in ignoring vice. That is neither wise nor safe. The only true philosophy is that which seeks the truth below the surface and does its best to remove what is dangerous to the public health or to the public morals. To me it is a very pitiful picture, that of those girls employed at low wages, barely adequate for sustenance, surrounded by every possible temptations—that which springs from actual want and pressing need. There is another very sad thing to me about this case, and that is the low atmosphere of vulgar animality which runs through it and the cheapness with which female virtue and female honor have been treated.

'That feature of the case is positively sickening. The utter disregard of those sacred things which are implanted in every man's breast; the lightness, the levity, and even the brutality with which reference has been made to the weaker and the gentler sex. I shall say no more upon that subject lest my feelings should affect your judgment for I confess that I feel too much about it.

The jury retired and by direction of the Court a sealed verdict will be returned to-day.

TO RID THE HOUSE OF RATS

A writer in the Scientific American gives a simple plan by which any one can rid his premises of rats, and keep these detestable vermin away permanently.

He says: "We clear our premises of these detestable vermin by making whitewash yellow with copperas, and covering the rafters and stones in the cellar with it. In every crevice in which a rat may tread we put the crystals of copperas, and scatter the same in the corners of the floor. The result was a perfect stampede of rats and mice. Since that time not a footfall of either rat or mouse has been heard about the house. Every spring a coat of yellow-wash is given the cellar as a purifier, as an exterminator, and no typhoid, dysentery or fever attacks the family. Many persons deliberately attract all the rats in the neighborhood by leaving fruit and vegetables uncovered in the cellar, and sometimes even the soap-grease is left open for their regalement.

Cover up everything eatable in the cellar and pantry, and you will soon have them out. These precautions, joined to the service of a good cat, will prove as good a rat exterminator as chemists can provide. We never allow rats to be poisoned in our dwelling, they are so liable to die between the walls and produce much annoyance."

A PARISIAN TRAGEDY.

Paris is excited over a peculiarly Parisian tragedy just enacted in the Rue de Richelieu. M. Apport, a rich diamond merchant, had separated from his wife and was living with his daughter, a beautiful girl of 18. It is said that she had been deserted by the man who seduced her under the promise of marriage, but all that is certainly known is that M Apport, after writing to the police announcing his intention, and another letter making arrangements for a double funeral, plunged a dagger into his daughter's breast, and then blew out his own brains. The father was dead and the daughter dying when the police arrived. One son, aged 15 years, remains, who is at present laid up with typhoid fever. Madame Apport still lives in Paris and is well known among a certain set. M. Apport leaves a large fortune and a will making his son his sole heir.

RUSSIA AND ENGLAND.

There are rumors of an impending difficulty between England and Russia in regard to the privileges recently granted by the Emir of Bokhara in favor of Russian merchants. The local Government in Russian Turkestan has practically closed the Centeral Asian markets to goods from England and India by imposing heavy duties on some articles and totally prohibiting the import of others. As Turkestan is an integral part of the Russian empire, Lord Granville held that the existing commercial treaties between Russia and England were of equal application on the banks of the Oxus as on the shores of the Black Sea or Baltic. Representations to this effect have been made to the Russian Government, but with what result is as yet unknown.

A HUMOROUS SCOTCH MINISTER.

The Rev. Patrick Robertson, of Craigdam, Aberdeenshire, by his homely talk and his familiar illustrations which he carried into the pulpit, won the hearts of his people, became a power in the locality, and drew crowds to hear him from long distances. His popularity in Aberdeen was shown by the crowds that be attracted whenever be preached, where his plain-speaking, his broad Scotch, his quaint, forcible and sometimes ludicrous illustrations were novelties. In lecturing on that question in the Shorter Catechism, 'Is any man in this life able perfectly to keep the commandments?' Mr. R. gravely, said, 'Ye can nae mair dee't, ma freens, than a coo can clim' up a tree.' Again, lecturing on Jacob's ladder, and of the angels of God ascending and descending it so easily, he contrasted this with the futile attempts of the self-righteous man to enter heaven by his own merits or good works, and forcibly pictured this the 'awkward sprawling o' the sinner on the rungs o' the ladder.' 'Ma freens,' said he 'he may get sae far; but jist the farrer he thinks he is abeen his fellowmen, and the nearer he thinks he is to the yetts o' heaven, jist the sairer will be the clype he will get when he dis fa,' for fa' he will.' In lecturing on the characters of Mary and Martha, he very pithily described Mary as a 'fine quate, quate dacent crattur; but Martha, according to him, was a bickerin,' bumptious, rampagin' bodie, and like a lot o' ither women, she had a gay lang tongue o' her ain when she could fa' fout o' the very Saviour himself.' Mr. Robertson was gifted with a lively and powerful imagination, which sometimes ran away with him. In a powerful action-sermon on the crucifixion, in which the hour and power of darkness were depicted with an eloquence of the highest order, Mr. Robertson stated that during our Lord's ministry on earth Satan and his angels had collected their forces from the utmost ends of God's beneficient scheme of salvation. 'In our earth at this time,' said he, 'the whole of the hellish host were collected, and in Judea,' he said, 'a' the brown deevils in America, a' the black deevils o' Africa, and a' the white deevils o' Europe, besides those in Asia, war a' gathered thegither.' Observing, as he spoke, one of his hearers scratching his head, with a doubting and incredulous look on his face, he stopped suddenly and said—'I see some of you are dootin' this, but, my freens, fat I say is Gospel truth, for is is not said there that oot o' ae man a whole legion of deevils cam?—and that was in Judea.'

Preaching a sermon on the woman who, having lost a piece of money, lighted a candle and with a besom swept the house until she found it, according to him the woman represented the Church, the candle was the Truth of God's Word, and the besom was the discipline of the Church. Applying this to the various churches, he said that in the Romish and Episcopal Churches there was neither candle nor besom, neither truth nor discipline; in the Established Church they had but the glimmer o' a candle, and a' that they had for a besom was only a han'le o' ane; and in the Independent they had a cannel—that he would not deny: but they had far owre mony besoms. Ilka member had a besom, and he swipet, and she swipet, and a' body swipet, and atween them they raised sic a stour that nae ane o' them could see the cannel for the clouds o'dust they had raised.

Mr. Robertson became minister of Charlotte Street Church, Aberdeen, where he died at the age of 94, and was buried in Nellfield Cemetery.

TIRED OF HIS HAND.

Whiskey, and not the old scriptural maxim "If thy right hand offend thee, cut it off," or words to that effect, is supposed to have been the cause of the strange, rash act of a man named Joseph Flem, who parted with his bread hook last Thursday on the C. S. R. track. Engineer Upper tells the story as follows: As the express he was piloting westward was leaving Ridgeton, he saw a man sitting beside the track, and when the engine was so close to him that he knew it could not be stopped, he lay down and held his right wrist across the rail, while he carefully disposed the rest of his body so as to escape the coming train. The engineer tried to slacken the speed, but before the train was stopped the man was considerably in the rear. When the trainmen went back they found Fleming sitting by the track nursing the stump of his arm, but unable to give any satisfactory reason for his strange act. His home he says is in Dumfries. He was taken to Ridgetown and is being cared for there.

JUMPING AT CONCLUSIONS.

It is related by an exchange that a lady, who had been married over a year, wrote to her father in the city saying: "We have the dearest little cottage in the world, ornamented with the most charming little creepers you ever saw." The old man read the letter and exclaimed: "Twins, by thunder!"

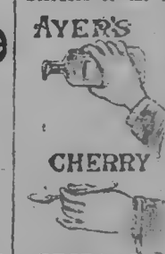
THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.



In these diseases the [illegible] combination of the medicinal principles and curative [illegible] of the finest drugs, [illegible] power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest child will take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept on hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices and inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs die hard, and active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while [illegible]th, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as any worthless preparation and the ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

MANHOOD
HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

THEFT. On Tuesday, Henry Hodgins was arranged before P. M. Dumble, on a charge of stealing a coat from a boarder at Bell's hotel, Simcoe street. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two months in jail.

A COASTING CALAMITY. The evil effects of coasting was shown on Monday, when a sleigh thus used frightened a horse driven by Mrs. Darcy, accompanied by another lady. The horse ran away and injured himself and wrecked the cutter. The ladies were uninjured.

THE CANADIAN BAPTIST. This excellent religious journal, and organ of the Baptist body comes to us in an entire new dress and greatly improved in every respect. It is now one of the most neatly printed, well managed and conducted of our religious exchanges.

NEW YEAR'S BALL. On New Year's night a very pleasant dancing assembly was held in the Opera House, under the management of the Fire Brigade Band and the Firemen. There were about 75 or 80 couples present. Music was furnished by the band orchestra. The object was, besides the enjoyment, to add to the band fund, and it was fairly successful.

FIRE.—On New Year's morning about two o'clock a fire broke out in a vacant and dilapidated building on Sherbrooke street, formerly a furniture factory. The firemen turned out, and while failing to save the structure, saved another adjacent building on the east from destruction. The building belonged to the Poole estate, and was worth about $500, which was covered by insurance to that amount.

TO BE TRIED AGAIN. The case of Ottosen vs. Sproule, in which the plaintiff was non-suited at the last assizes, came up for hearing on appeal in Toronto and judgment was delivered on Saturday last. The following is the report of the judgment:

"OTTOSEN V. SPROULE. Action against a physician for malpractice tried at Peterborough before Osler, J., and a jury, when the plaintiff was non-suited. Judgment: Order nisi absolute, sitting aside the non-suit and for a new trial. Costs in the cause. L. W. Sawers by C. T. Blackstock for the order nisi; D. W. Dumble by G. H. Watson, contra."

"COW BY-LAW." At the session of the town council held on September 4th, 1882, a by-law was passed to "prohibit" the running at large within the corporation limits, of horses, cattle, swine and geese. The by law provides that none of these animals shall be allowed to run at large except in charge of a competent person to prevent their depredations; and all such animals found running at large shall be impounded. Regulations are made for appraising damages, and the by-law also provides that an officer shall be appointed each year to enforce the by-law, to be styled the "Street Protector." The by-law came into effect "from and after" the 31st Dec. 1882.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MASS MEETING. On Monday morning the different denominations united to hold a Sunday school mass meeting in the George street Methodist Church. There was an immense audience, the body of the church being nearly filled with pupils and teachers, while parents and the general public filled the galleries. The exercises throughout were very entertaining and instructive. Mr. J. H. Roper occupied the chair; Rev. Mr. Joliffe addressed the children, Rev. Mr. Manning the teachers, Rev. Mr. Bell the parents, and Rev. Mr. Torrance brought the exercises to a close by pronouncing the benediction.

THE FISK JUBILEE SINGERS. Don't forget the date of the appearance of the celebrated Fisk Jubilee Singers in the opera house. The date is Thursday evening, January 11th, 1883. At their last visit these sweet singers had an overflowing house, and everybody was delighted with their entertainment. The exceeding sweetness and beauty of the music, and the finished manner of its execution left so deep an impression on all minds that all who heard them will rejoice to know that they re-appear again on Thursday, Jan. 11th. The prices of admission are, 35 cents, reserved seats 50 cents. The plan of the hall will be opened at T. Menzies' book store in a few days.

THE SERENADE SERIES. On Tuesday night the Fire Brigade Band finished its annual holiday series of serenades of the citizens. It is pleasant to say that their reception was this year the most cordial of any. Those visited by the band were lavish of their hospitality, and also of more substantial recognition, such as is due so excellent an organization. It is the subject of general remark that the playing of the band is vastly improved by their new instruments. The music is much softer and sweeter, and the boys play with greater spirit. The members of the band are gentlemanly and well behaved, always willing to oblige the public, and we are glad to note that the public have not shown themselves backward these holidays in extending to them substantial encouragement.

A SERIES OF BRUTAL ASSAULTS.

Rural Bruisers Running Amuck.

On Saturday evening Daniel Cushing, T. Hooper and David Doig were standing in the bar of Chamberlain's hotel, George street, when two men named Wilson and Meharry, came in and brutally attacked Cushing, hitting him twice on the head with something that produced deep cuts. Hooper, with an Englishman's instinct, called for fair play, when he was assaulted and knocked down with a blow that cut a deep gash in his forehead. Doig stooped to pick him up when he was set on and so cruelly cut about the head and bruised that he became insensible. The whole affair lasted only about 30 seconds and the men rushed out again, and not being satisfied with what they had given Cushing, against whom the grudge was, they set on Samuel Milligan, of Ashburnham, on George street, mistaking him evidently for Cushing and punished him severely. The villans then ran down Simcoe street but were soon secured by the constables, and Wilson lodged in jail and Meharry released on bail. On Wednesday morning they were arraigned at the police court which was packed with spectators. Mr. Weller appeared for the Crown and Messrs. Burnham and Moore for the prisoners. Wilson pleaded guilty to common assault on Hooper, sentence reserved, both committed for trial for assault with intent on Doig and the charge of assaulting Mulligan with intent is going on as we go to press. There were about 40 witnesses examined and the hearing lasted the whole day without intermission.

PERSONAL.

Mr. J. D. McIlmoyle has received the appointment of head master of the separate school.

Mr. A. E. Climo, of Cobourg, was in town on New Year's, paying a visit to his friends.

A Rochester correspondent of the Hastings Star says that the most popular lawyer in Rochester is an old Peterboro' boy, Mr. D. C. Feely, and that an Asphodel boy, Mr. David Healy, was elected from the city to the New York Legislature by 2,700, the largest majority ever given in the wealthiest and larges electoral district in the state.

Mr. Fred. Hughes, hardware merchant, Grafton, Dakota, is in town spending the holidays with his father, Charlotte street. The Grafton News speaks of him in the following terms: "Fred. Hughes, one of Grafton's most popular young men, left on Wednesday for his old home in Peterborough, Ont., where he will spend the holidays among the friends of his boyhood."

The Brantford Expositor makes the following statement which may be all right, but we must confess it is "all Greek" to us: "Mr. D. R. Anderson, of Peterborough, was yesterday, at a meeting of the Educational Committee of the School Board, appointed teacher of No. 2 division in the Central School vice Mr. Chaisgreen retired. Mr. Anderson comes to us well recommended, and is an undergraduate of University College, Toronto."

A GREAT COST SALE. The greatest chance for astonishing bargains that has been presented to the public for years, is now offered at W. Fairweather & Co's, where an immense stock of goods of all kinds, dress goods, silks, linens, napery, scarfs, ties, gloves, hosiery, hats, caps, &c., are positively being offered below cost. It is a positive and absolute cure for costiveness and constipation, acting in a remarkable way upon the system, carrying off impurities. As a Liver regulater its actions are remarkable. It tones and stimulates the Liver to action; it corrects the acide and regulates the bowels. A few doses will surprise you. Sample bottles 10 cents. 52-4t

BOILER EXPLOSION. On Saturday morning a flaw in the boiler of the Central Iron Works was opened by the pressure of steam, and the shock blew open the furnace door, and the escaping steam badly scalded George Baker of Ashburnham, a lad in charge for the time. The skin of his face was badly burnt in two or three places. He asserts that there was 59 lbs of steam on at the time of the explosion. The force of the steam blew away the brick casing of the boiler with a loud report. No one else was hurt. The accident was not an explosion but simply the sudden opening of the flaw in the plate.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS. The following is a list of the 14 successful candidates at the recent examinations for entrance to the high school, with the number of marks and the school at which they were prepared:

Stobo Kate, Town	309
Udy Lillie, Bridgenorth	430
Weir Keziah, Town	281

There were 43 candidates: fourteen have passed, and five have been reserved for consideration of papers.

AN UNRIVALLED RECORD. On Monday of last week, Mr. John Lang was re-elected reeve of Otonabee by acclamation. The municipal record of this gentleman is, we venture to assert, unprecedented in the Midland district, if not in the Province. He has been seven times elected by the unanimous voice of the people of Otonabee without his name ever appearing on a ballot paper. He was elected deputy-reeve by acclamation three times, and reeve of Otonabee four times by acclamation. No other fact could bear such strong testimony to Mr. Lang's personal popularity, and the excellent manner in which he discharges the duties of the office so freely conferred on him. This is an instance of uncommon confidence and personal worth and the more uncommon illustration of merit being adequately and ungrudgingly recognized. We hope Mr. Lang may long live to enjoy the confidence of his constituents, and to work for the promotion of their interests.

The annual meeting of the shareholders will be held in the Council Chamber on Monday, January 15th, 1883.

The above figures, looked at as such only, are mere dull details, dry as the dust of the long-ago dead, but how inexpressibly sad they appear as representing blanks round the hearthstone that can never be refilled. In the death of many a loved one the bereaved have themselves, in the keenness of their grief, tasted as of the bitterness of death. But there is comfort for all, and the healing hand of time, though slow, is certain. Then, as Longfellow sweetly advises,

Let us be patient! These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benedictions
Assume this dark disguise.
We see but dimly through the mists and vapours
Amid these earthly damps;
What seems to us but sad funereal tapers
May be heaven's distant lamps.

The first and second rinks played on Tuesday evening, and the third rink on Wednesday evening, play being in progress as we went to press. The play between the first and second rinks was very close and consequently very exciting. The game was for 20 ends, commencing at 7.30 and continuing till after 11, and resulted in a majority of one for the President between these two rinks. The final result will be announced in our next issue. The club this year is in a flourishing condition and has the largest membership in its history. Great interest is being taken in the game, and lively times may be looked for during the season.

LITTLE TOWN TOPICS.

Write it 1883.

The public schools re-open on Monday, January 8th.

Mr. Charles Ewing intends giving a concert in the Opera House the first week in February, at which Mrs. Caldwell, of Hamilton, the most finished amateur vocalist in Ontario, has consented to sing.

Mr. Smith, of the West Ward School, received, on last Thursday, at the hands of Miss Emma Morrow and Miss Jennie Mercer, on behalf of the pupils, a handsome silver cake basket and a complimentary address.

Fenelon Falls Pulp Mills.

A New Industry on the Tapis.

We understand that the Napanee Mills Paper Company are preparing for the erection of a pulp mill for the manufacture of wood pulp, for the express use of their extensive paper mills at Napanee, and that negotiations to secure site, etc., in Fenelon Falls are pretty well advanced. They will consume in the new manufacture, large quantities of poplar, basswood, white pine and other soft wood which have hitherto possessed little or no commercial value.

It is also the intention of the company to erect mills at their works, Napanee mills, for the purpose of grinding pulp by the mechanical process. The two varieties of pulp, chemical and mechanical, can be used with greater advantage in combination than separately.

INSTALLATION OF MASONIC OFFICERS.

Last Wednesday night, (Dec. 27th) the Masonic fraternity in town, assisted by brethren from Keene, celebrated the festival of St. John the Evangelist by the installation of the officers of the two masonic lodges in town, and also the officers of Keene lodge, for the ensuing year.

The installation ceremonies took place in the spacious lodge room of the order, which was crowded, not only with local, but a liberal representation of visiting brethren. The imposing and solemn ceremonies were performed by District Deputy Grand Master E. H. D. Hall, assisted by brothers C. D. Macdonald, J. J. Lundy, O'Donnell, Winch, Morrow and Belleghem. The following are the officers of the different lodges:

ST. JOHN'S ORGAN RECITAL.

A SPLENDID MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

It is difficult to adequately give expression to the delightful character of the music supplied at the Recital given in St. John's Church on Wednesday night by Mr. Charles W. Ewing, organist, assisted by the choir. The music was all of the highest order and was somewhat difficult, yet its rendering was unattended with any noticeable defect, either in style, tempo or harmony. The first selection, Wely's grand offertoire in G, struck as it were the key note, and gave the audience an earnest of the pleasure they might expect in the future numbers from Mr. Ewing's almost perfect technique, and smooth and easy flowing but vigorous style. His interpretation on the organ of the sublime conceptions of the old masters, is something that should satisfy the most exacting critic. "The first Nowel," by the choir, was given in a style worthy of a composition celebrating the first outburst of Christmas gratitude and song. The stirring theme was well sustained and the concert and harmony were excellent. This choir, which has only been together since All Saint's Day, has made a vast improvement under the tuition of Mr. Ewing. They now give evidence of careful training and conscientious appreciation of it and a few months improvement at the rate of the past two months will make them a company of sacred musicians, with few equals and no superiors, outside of the metropolitan cities of the Dominion. Some idea may be formed of the musical nature of the treat by noting the numbers of the programme for the organ, which consisted of Batiste's offertoire in C Minor; Wely's Christmas offertoire, a grand composition, in which the weird wailing of the winter wind wound among the sweet cadences of the air, with delightfully realistic effect; selections from Schumann's "Traumerei;" Bach's, "My Heart ever Faithful," the Andante from Beethoven's symphony in D; Romance in F for the violin, by the same sublime master, which in its rendition was a masterpiece of finished instrumentation, "Pilgrim's Song of Hope," by Gounod, and Mendelssohn's "Priest's March," (from Athalie.) The alternating numbers of the choir were "Hark what Sounds," Mozart; "See amid the Winter Snow;" Gounod's "Nazareth," and "Bethlehem." Not only Mr. Ewing, and Mr. Poussette, to whose kind offices the public are mainly indebted for the delightful two hours of last Wednesday night, but the choir, congregation and all connected, may congratulate themselves as we do them, on the unqualified success of the first Organ Recital in St. John's Church. We are given to understand that this recital is the first of a series, and we, with all lovers of high class music, heartily hope that our information is correct. The attendance last Wednesday night was not as large as the church would hold, but was good considering the night was St. John's night, and that there were numerous counter attractions.

EAST RIDING CONVENTION

A Large and Enthusiastic Gathering.

T. BLEZARD, ESQ., UNANIMOUSLY RE-NOMINATED.

A large and representative meeting of delegates was held in the Town Hall, Norwood, on Monday last, for the purpose of selecting a candidate to contest this Riding in the Liberal interest. From the tone of the meeting it was apparent that if enthusiasm and hard work are factors in an election campaign, and if right and justice are of substantial avail, Mr. Thos. Blezard will certainly be elected as the coming member. The whole proceedings were marked by harmony and unanimity and a solid determination to support a representative of sound Reform principles, and of good ability and intelligence.

The meeting was called to order shortly after one o'clock, and in the absence of Mr. A. R. Kidd, President of the Association, Mr. Wm. Moher, of Douro, was elected chairman.

After he had stated the object of the meeting, the following were put and carried unanimously:

RESOLUTIONS

Moved by W. DARLING, Esq. of Dummer, seconded by J. LAING, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee, and

Resolved, That this Convention regards with alarm and indignation the action of the Dominion Government in its high-handed attempts to deprive this Province of a large and valuable area of territory awarded it by the decision of a competent and legally constituted board of Arbitrators; and also the attempts, as shown by the repeated disallowance of the repeatedly enacted Rivers and Streams Bill, to deprive the Province of the important and indispensible right to legislate on subjects which the Act of Confederation pointedly declares are within its jurisdiction exclusively, thus striking at the very root of self-government and thereby imperilling the existence of the Federal Union, and that we heartily endorse the spirited and patriotic action of the Mowat administration and their Reform supporters in standing up for the rights of this Province in uncompromisingly demanding our rightful territory, and asserting and maintaining our rights of local self-government, and that we pledge ourselves to do all that lies in our power to strengthen and second their efforts in securing for us our territorial, and maintain intact, our legislarights.

Moved by J. O'GRADY, Esq., of Otonbee, seconded by JOHN PETTIGREW, Esq., of Asphodel, and

Resolved, That the Reformers of this riding now in convention assembled, having watched the Parliamentary career of our worthy representative in the Local Legislature, Mr. Thomas Blezard, M.P.P., heartily endorse his course, recognize his valuable services, exercised not only for the benefit of this riding but for that of the Province at large, strongly express our confidence in his ability, interrity and zeal in the cause of good and honest government, and pledge ourselves to use all lawful endeavours to promote the success of his candidature at the coming election and secure his triumphant re-election.

Moved by J. M. WALSH, Esq., of Douro, seconded by W. LEARMOUTH, Esq., of Otonabee, and

Resolved, That this Convention unhesitatingly bears testimony to the thorough and satisfactory manner in which the present Reform Administration has conducted the public affairs of this Province; to the success of its efforts to place our financial affairs on a sound and solid basis, as shown by the surplus of five million dollars now in the Provincial Treasury; to the wisdom and equity of its legislative enactments; to its zeal and success in promoting the agricultural interests of the country so dear to the most of us, and to the success of its efforts to promote the moral, educational, and material welfare of the country with a broad liberality of sentiment, a well-judged economy of expenditure, and a due regard to the claims of all classes. And that we hereby express our cordial confidence in the Mowat administration, and a determination to do all in our power to secure to this Province a continuation of the wise, capable, honest and economical administration of Provincial affairs, which has so greatly contributed during the past twelve years to the welfare in every respect, of the banner Province of the Dominion.

MR. BLEZARD NOMINATED.

It was then moved by D. Kelly, Esq., of Dummer, and seconded by Wm. Burgess, Esq., of Belmont, that Mr. Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., be tendered the unanimous nomination of this Convention as candidate in the Reform interest for the approaching local elections. There being no other nominations Mr. Blezard was declared the unanimous choice of the Convention by a standing vote.

HIS ADDRESS.

Mr. Blezard on rising was greeted with prolonged cheering. He said it was with pleasure yet with some difficulty he again undertook to carry the banner of Reform through the East Riding of Peterborough. He thanked his hearers for their kindness four years ago. It is an honor to be chosen as the nominee of an intelligent agricultural riding. He himself was an agriculturist as they were and he was proud to say he was able to support a government of no scandals—of no jobs—such a government as has never before been seen in an province or in any country. He could say that no government could show a after so large improvements and outlays throughout Ontario. The Mowat Administration expended large sums in drainage, colonization roads, agricultural purposes, charters, railways, schools, asylums and and administration of justice larger than any government preceding them. They have certainly increased our expenditure but the population is increasing and it is impossible to legislate for a wider number of people with the same amount of money.

SURPLUS OF $5,000,000

He was proud to see our government standing up for Ontario's rights and liberties. In discussing the Boundary Award, they all knew that the award was made by three arbitrators, and that at the time of naming the arbitrators Sir John A. at Ottawa said he was perfectly satisfied. The same gentleman voted for an appropriation to defray the expenses, but when the award was made, at the dictation of the Quebec Bleus would not ratify it. Sir John said it was not legal or binding because an Act ratifying it was not passed by Mackenzie. The latter says he never thought of enacting such a measure—he never dreamt of repudiating or disavowing the award. Sir John wished to refer the matter to the Privy Council but as a Canadian born subject the speaker thought we should be able to settle our difficulties without referring to another country. One way is by arbitration and it is generally fair and was the proper course in this case. To us there were awarded 100,000 square miles of territory. But a short time ago 1,000 square miles in this territory sold at a bonus of half a million dollars—merely for the timber. Ontario is only asking for the territory of the old Province of Upper Canada. It is our just rights and we will have them. If you and I went into an arbitration and then repudiated it we would be dishonest and what better is Sir John. Although there was a vote passed in our Provincial Legislature two years ago asking the Dominion to ratify the Boundary Award and not only the minutes, but the names of the supporters both Reform and Conservative accompanied the resolution, they refused to send any answer. In June, 1878, the award was made. In September before parliament again sat, the Mackenzie government was defeated—before they could have had time to ratify this award.

The fact is Sir John uses the other Provinces for his low political purposes and his conduct is neither honorable nor just.

DISALLOWANCE.

The Streams Bill, the speaker said, was so simple that any school boy could understand it. The British North America Act gives to our Province the right to sell timber, and surely it is reasonable that they should legislate in reference to taking the timber out. The Opposition asked if there ever was a precedent. I say there never were grounds for a precedent. The Government made such streams as the Mississippi, on which improvements had been made, floatable, and provided that as a recompense, a toll, to be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, should be levied on all timber passing over such improvements. Such a bill was proposed to be enacted in the interest of commerce, in the interests of your revenue, and in the interest of the Province. Sir John is injuring the whole Province for the sake of Peter McLaren. Are not the interests of the country to be looked at? Caldwell was not the only man unable to drive his logs. There were 60,000 logs run over that stream last spring without McLaren's improvements, and yet Sir John says that originally it was not large enough to float a chip. The Government sent competent engineers and they say McLaren's improvements could only cost about $15,000.00, and not $70,000.00 as he asserts. The fact is, if Peter McLaren had been a Reformer, this bill would never have been disallowed. The whole argument has turned on McLaren and Caldwell. It should never have done so. The matter is of public, not of private, import. Timber is one of our greatest sources of revenue. If a man is going to take the mouth of a stream, what would the timber farther up be worth? and how great and incomparable would be the injury inflicted?

SETTLER AND LUMBERMEN.

I was informed that if I did not vote against the Homestead and Free Grant Act I would never dare to go into the back townships that I would be tarred and feathered. As the result has proved, I voted for it in the interest of the settlers. I looked at the bill when it was brought up I thought it was wrong in principle. I went to Mr. Pardee and told him I didn't think I could support it. He said to keep cool. I heard the debate. The act was in the interest of settlers and lumbermen combined. In many instances lumbermen were cheating and acting fradulently. In Parry Sound and Muskoka, men were sent out by lumbermen to take lots for settlement. Such men never went for settlement, but merely in order to get a deed of the land, and satisfy the requisites thereto. The lumber would then be theirs. Something must be done to check that kind of business. The present act rectifies abuses. It was in the interest of the Province, and in the interest of the settlers, and only cut out "pine-settlers."

The speaker then referred to the

LICENSE QUESTION.

Sir John had said liquor must be sold free as water. He was going to take licenses out of the hands of the Government and put them in the hands of municipalities. The Crook's Act was the best measure ever enacted in order that wire-pulling and the old system of groggeries may not be rampant. The Opposition say we are making political capital out of it. I can say in my own case that I lose at least 50 votes owing to my having been a license commissioner. The hottest and most bitter opposition I received was from those to whom I refused licenses. On the floor of the House the Opposition accused the Government of using it as a political handle throughout the country. "Name!" "Name!" immediately burst forth from the Ministerial side. Yet, gentlemen, not a word—not a name—till the member for Grey read an extract from the Belleville paper, the organ of Mackenzie Bowell. It was denied and never proved to this day. Other trivial charges were suggested, that the license commissioners had bulldozed the hotel keepers, and were compelling them to buy cigars. Edward Hanlan's name was brought forward, but like a man—though a Conservative—he boldly came forward and characterized it as a falsehood. Every one of these accusations were "blocked." Out of 2,806 licenses only some 800 were given to Reformers. Let us look around home. The best guide. I ask any man has it been made a handle there? How is it in West Peterborough where there are two commissioners Conservatives? Have these men combined? According to returns there were 9 per cent. Conservatives refused licenses and 13 per cent. Reformers.

EDUCATIONAL.

Now as to education. I have always thought that the Government paid too much attention to high schools and not enough to common schools. Nine-tenths of the people get their education in common schools, and go no further. The Opposition say that they, if returned to power, will put the Minister of Education outside the pale of politics, and will return him to his former position. Would that be advisable? Now we can attack him on the floor of the House. Then he would be an irresponsible head of a very important Department. When opportunity offers, I think I will vote out of existence Upper Canada College, and will use that money for the education of the poorer classes.

PUBLIC WORKS.

I will next say a few words about the Minister of Public Works, Hon. Christopher Fraser. No other province has such an able, honorable Minister as Mr. Fraser. I went up to Toronto specially some time ago to interview him in reference to Young's dam. He said he had advertized for tenders but they were too high. I went up again to Toronto, at my own expense, and am now certain he will build it—be sure of that.

I was surprised at the the bill of nearly one half million, for parliamentary buildings, and thought that perhaps extras would come in and swell the amount. The Opposition jeered at the smallness of the amount; that is like his other contracts, they said. He challenged them for one contract in which he had spent more than the amount appropriated. Not a single contract could be produced by the Opposition—not a single item of corroboration of their charges could be brought forward.

FARMING INTERESTS.

I must say a little about our Honorable Treasurer. In him we are going to lose one of the best men of the Government. He has worked out the Model Farm to a perfect success. He is a farmer's friend.

Some will say why teach our boys to farm when it does not pay. It is the object of the farmer to experiment. Many of the experiments fail. Those that succeed go to the country, and we get the benefit both of the lesson of the experiment, and the advantage of their experience. A boy in Essex went through this college. His father didn't believe he could have learned much, and thought he would test his knowledge. Taking him to the stable he said to him: "Which of these cows is the best." The son handled them and chose the best, which was the worst looking. That night the horse took sick, and John, by his skill acquired at college, was able to cure it. This father is getting a new suit of clothes for his second son, preparatory to sending him there also.

The Bureau of Agriculture was established by Hon. Mr. Wood, and shows that last year our country has produced six bushels to the acre more than any other country in America, (cheers,) and is only in its infancy. It gives statistics from all over the world. No Government ever helped the farmer so well along. The other day, in the bye-elections, Mr. Drury arrived in the House, a few minutes before it opened. He was asked to second the Address. He is only a plain farmer, but he did it as few men could do it on the floor of the House.

The Agricultural Commission was another outshoot from the Honorable S. C. Wood. This is one of the best agricultural treatises in the world. It is written by our own people—by our best farmers. The best information was obtained. It was a good move on the part of the Government

The Reformatory at Penetanguishene had been carefully overlooked. Everything at Penetanguishene is now changed. The boys are comparatively happy. The expectation now is that the boys will be actually reformed. They have a system of keeping track of them for five years.

Gentlemen, said the speaker, I have served you faithfully for four years. I am not afraid of defeat but I cannot defeat myself—I must have with me the influence of friends. I have now been training in Parliament for four years—now let me work for four years more in better form. I am elected to serve this province generally, and this riding in particular, and I have always acted on the principle that if any man, be he Reformer or Conservative, wishes anything done, in my public character, I will be always willing to do it. Now, gentlemen, put your shoulders to the wheel, and fighting together strongly and unitedly, let the grand old principles of Reform be triumphantly made victorious, and the honest and capable administration of Hon. Mr. Mowat returned to that power which they so clearly deserve.

Mr. T. G. Choate on being called on said he came here to show his appreciation of and his respect for Mr. Blezard—that this was an occasion when our liberties were being endangered and when nothing but solid work and unanimous support would win the day.

Dr. Massey was glad to hear the explanations of Mr. Blezard, and in a short speech touched forcibly on the Educational and Marmion questions, the Boundary Award and the Disallowance, and urged his hearers to work harder and work more continually for the return of Mr. Blezard.

Mr. Wm. Roxburgh took this opportunity of thanking the electors for their support last June. Then the Conservatives had big cards on hand; now the advantage is with us. With such a good cause he regarded success for Mr. Blezard as certain. It was a grand sight at the Toronto Convention to see 7,000 hands rise on a motion. He was glad to say that those who attended were the picked men of the country. We must not be too confident—we must work; we have a wary foe. It is not Mr. Meredith we have to fight—it is Sir John. There is nothing he will leave untried. We have a magnificent platform to stand upon. Let us work shoulder to shoulder. The two questions of vital importance are the Boundary Award and the License Commissioners — together with the Streams Bill. We will now again have to fight our constitutional battles. We must fight and we will win.

Mr. A. R. Kidd apologized for not being present at the commencement of the proceedings. He had the honor of being present at the Convention at Toronto and thought the sight inspiring. He was forcibly struck with the fact that when the Hon. Geo. Brown's son was elected one of the Secretarys not a word could be heard till the boy was brought forward. He saw the tears roll down men's cheeks. It shows how the hearts of the people beat in sympathy with the remembrance of the struggle for Ontario right. He reviewed the history of Canada prior to confederation and touched upon the issues now before the electorate and called upon the electors to support our rights and redress the indignities heaped upon us.

Mr. D. Kelly also addressed the audience. He thought Mr. Blezard in his conduct satisfied the people generally and hoped to see him head the polls in the coming campaign.

Mr. Galvin referred to the Convention at Toronto. It was imposing and he was sorry to say the city could not accommodate so large a crowd. He thought every man should study the questions of the day and vote intelligently. He remarked at the Convention that the leading men endeavored to impress upon the delegates the necessity of going home and working. This was the object of the meeting and let all those who heard those appeals work as they never did before. After touching upon the disallowance question he referred to the License Act and said that in the village of Lakefield not a Reformer is a hotel-keeper. After reviewing the Rivers and Streams Bill he complimented Mr. Blezard on his services to his country and urged all to work arduously.

Mr. Foley came to show his old support and appreciation of the course of Mr. Blezard. A second time will he support him and his government which legislates in favor of all classes. He thought that if the license inspectors were all Conservatives the Crooks Act would then be a succes in there own eyes. He hoped Mr. Blezard would not be defeated through over-confidence.

Mr. Darling regretted the hour was so late and would not detain the Convention by a long speech. Mr. Meredith had said that in reference to the bye elections one swallow did not make a summer, but when 6 or 7 swallows out of 8 appear it is a good sign. We must in this election expect to see the hidden hand at Ottawa. He had watched Mr. Blezard's course and he approved of it. We will re-elect him.

At a late hour the meeting broke up with cheers for the Queen, the Mowat Government, Mr. Blezard and the Chairman.

NO RESTRICTION IN DRINK SELLING.

NO PROTECTION TO LICENSE HOLDERS.

In his speech at the Toronto convention, Mr. Mowat said: He (Sir John Macdonald) says:—

The law does not give to the Local Legislatures the power of preventing persons becoming innkeepers, which is as free for any person to enter into as to become merchants.

He proclaims, you see, that there is no limit to the number of innkeepers any more than to the number of merchants. This is a serious matter, far more so than any declartion of policy by Mr. Meredith; for if Mr. Meredith's policy is opposed to that of Sir John, he is ready to drop it to-morrow. (Hear hear and cheers.) Sir John announces to the people of Ontario what he is prepared to do, and he makes the announcement in no chance language; for we are not picking up in this instance any observation that may have fallen from him under peculiar circumstances. (Laughter and cheers.)

He tells us plainly what he intends to do, provided he has the jurisdiction—which I deny, and which I want you to help me in denying effectively. (Loud cheers.) He says:

I will restore to the municipalities the power to regulate the tavern keepers within their own counties; they are the best judges as to what is required in their localities, and they should have the power either of prohibiting taverns altogether, or limiting the number, as they may think best.

He therefore intends to restore the law to the position which it occupied before we legislated on the subject. Let every temperance man bear that in mind—every man who loves his country, every man who loves sobriety. (Hear hear and loud cheers.) You all know what an enormous difference has been effected by our Legislature on this subject. Every man knows its effect in his own locality. There is no one locality in twenty throughout the Province in which there has not been a vast improvement. (Hear, hear and cheers.) The number of taverns has been diminished, their character and that of the people have been improved. (Cheers.) Not only Reformers feel that this has been the case, but Tories every where admit it in their private conversations. Churches and temperance organizations are declaring it, but all this will be swept away now if Sir John Macdonald gets power to sweep it it away.—Mr. Mowat at the Convention.

THE PREMIER'S BEST REWARD.

I know nothing more encouraging to a public man, next to the approval of his conscience, than the esteem and confidence of his fellows; and since you have assured me in so unmistakable a way that I have had the good fortune to gain your esteem and confidence, it will be the effort of my life in the time to come, as I hope it has been my effort in the time that has passed, to do my very best to justify that esteem and confidence. (Loud cheers.) I do not feel that I have any right to the encomiums which this address contains; but all that I claim is this, that in my public life I have endeavored first to discover what my duty was, and then I have endeavored to do it. (Cheer.) In the position which I now occupy I have endeavored to use the powers and opportunities which it gives me in such a way as would do most good to my native Province and the most good to its population. How far I have succeeded in this object the electors of Ontario have had two opportunities of declaring and it was most gratifying to me to find on each of these occasions such an answer as a public man might be proud to receive. (Loud cheers.)—Mr. Mowat at the Convention.

PETEBBOROUGH, JAN. 11, 1883.

North Victoria.

At the Reform Convention held at Fenelon Falls last week, Mr. S. S. Peck, M.P.P., was unanimously re-nominated as a candidate for the representation of North Victoria in the Local Legislature. The nomination was unanimous and the spirit of the delegates was so pronounced in declaring that in the coming contest, "business was meant" that there is little doubt that Mr. Peck will be handsomely returned at the coming election. He is possessed of ample ability for the position and has stood well the test of experience as a legislator, having in the past made an excellent representative, and watched over the special interests of the riding with ability and zeal, and often at great personal inconvenience. Having proved so satisfactory a representation in the past, the Reformers of North Victoria have done wisely in selecting a tried and trusty public servant.

South Victoria.

In the person of Mr. J. D. McIntyre the Reformers of this riding have made a most excellent and judicious choice of a candidate to contest the riding in the interests of capable, honest and independent administration. Mr. McIntyre is a prominent barrister of Lindsay, of first rate ability, and a knowledge of provincial politics that eminently fits him to be a representative of the riding. Being a farmer's son, a former resident of Mariposa, he will be well qualified to exercise an intelligent oversight over the interests of this most prominent class of the country. Besides he may be said to be a farmer himself, owning as he does, a farm in the above township. There is no reason why he should not receive a warm and willing support from the electors of the South Riding of Victoria. His nomination gives such general satisfaction among his party that he will be enthusiastically seconded in his efforts to lead the party to victory.

The Boundary Question.

The Monetary Times, a journal hand and glove with the Dominion Government on its protection policy, has an exhaustive article on the Boundary Question. Our commercial contemporary takes no uncertain ground on the subject. From an elaborate research it concludes that the Dominion and local Government are bound to give ratification to the award. The Ontario Government has already practically done so and the Dominion Government, for some serious motive that has more influence than a desire to keep faith and evade a dishonorable refusal, still declines. We extract from the Times as follows:

"The contention of the Dominion Government that only a judicial decision can cut the knot of the difficulty; that a conventional arbitration cannot set aside the decision of the court which, in the Rembardt case, declared the western boundary of Upper Canada to be a line drawn due north from the junction of the Ohio with the Mississippi river; nor bind third parties, may be admitted, as a basis of argument, without obliging us to accept the conclusion that the Government had a right to take this line of objection. Where matters of good faith are concerned, the conclusion that the Government had a continuity of the Dominion Government must be assumed. It will not do to say that because one party made the submission to arbitrators, when it had the executive power in its hands, the other party, when it succeeds to office, is at liberty to reject the award. The faith of the Government, not the succession of party leaders, must here be the guide. Whether Mr. Alexander Mackenzie or Sir John Macdonald be premier makes no difference; we have to deal with the Government of Canada, irrespective of the individuals of whom it may be composed. That Government has undertaken to do a particular thing; and unless it can show such reasons as would be accepted in the case of an international obligation for not carrying out its undertaking, its refusal to ratify the award cannot be justified."

"The history of international treaties furnishes many instances in which the exchange of ratifications has been refused, for cause. According to Vattel a Government is justified in refusing to ratify a treaty which has been signed in its name only for 'solid and weighty reasons.' The most frequent reason for such refusal has been that the plenipotentiaries have exceeded their powers. In the thousand of cases which a French authority says have occurred, this would be true of more than nine hundred. Formerly the danger of negotiators exceeding their powers was much greater than at present."

* * * * * *

In the first series of these cases, the Government had good cause for refusing to ratify, in the second, they were excusable for want of controlling power. But can it be said that either of these pleas will avail the Dominion Government in its negative action in the settlement of the western and northern boundaries of Ontario? We think not. If we consider as proved, that the arbitration is properly characterized as conventional, still it remains true that the Dominion Government agreed to that form of procedure; if it be capable of proof that the line drawn by the negotiators, on the north, is a conventional line one chosen partly for convenience and not because it is certainly the legal line the Dominion Government cannot object, unless it can show that the arbitrators exceeded their powers, under the reference. An officer of the Dominion Government, Col. Dennis, was present, and he concurred in the selection of the northern line. He might, of course, have exceeded his powers, which were limited and advisory; but if he did, his action should have been promptly disavowed by his superiors. No such censure fell upon him. The award was not immediately ratified by the Dominion Government. Neither was the award of the King of Holland by Lord Palmerston. What Mr. Mackenzie would have done if he had remained in power cannot alter the duty of his successor. The Dominion Government, of whomsoever composed, is required to fulfil an agreement. It can only object to the award for good and sufficient reasons, and unless it can show that the arbitrators exceeded their authority it cannot repudiate the award. It cannot now object to the mode of settlement; because to the mode of settlement it consented in advance. The Dominion Government cannot repudiate the award on the ground that the northern line is conventional, and that the decision cannot bind third parties. This, if true, is a grave defect; it is a thing that should have been thought of before, but not having been forseen, it is now the duty of both Governments to cure the effect. No member of the great council of the nation, present when the act of reference was passed, can now repudiate a mode of settlement which he did not then oppose. The faith of the two Governments was pledged to settlement by arbitrators, who were to be guided by the evidence placed in their hands, and they cannot now repudiate their joint action. There is but one chance of escape from ratification, and that would consist of proof that the arbitrators exceeded their authority; unless this proof be forthcoming, both Governments are bound to give effect to the award. If the award as it stands, will not secure all the objects required from it, the intervention of the British Parliament to cure the defect and ratify the award can and ought to be invoked."

HOME RULE IN CANADA.

When Ontario entered the Confederation she did so on certain conditions, one of which was that her own Provincial Parliament should have exclusive control of the legislation relating to property and civil rights. Ontario distinctly refused to enter any Confederation which would confer the right of making laws about Ontario property on any other people than the people of Ontario. It was however conceded that the Confederation authorities should have the power of disallowing any Act which affected the interests of the Dominion generally. That is the position, and it will be seen that Ontario insisted upon retaining Home Rule when she became a part of the Dominion. But Home Rule exists no longer if the Dominion Government can maintain its present position and disallow the Act passed by the Ontario Parliament known as the River and Streams Bill. This Act was passed for the purpose of defining what are the rights of those who make improvements on the navigation of a stream in the Province of Ontario. It does not apply outside of the Province. It is simply to Rule a matter within our Home. But Sir John has disallowed the Act, and has thus destroyed one of the most important rights which this Province enjoyed.

This thing cannot be endured. Already the Ontario Parliament has twice passed the Act, and twice has Sir John disallowed it. Within a week or two our Parliament will for a third time re-enact it, and should Sir John again procure its disallowance by the Confederation authorities this journal would not hesitate about the course it would pursue. it would secede from the Confederation and let its bankrupt and Blackguard partners go their own way. Now, a thing is right or it is wrong.

There is no half way in morality. It is either right for the Confederate Government to extinguish Home Rule in Ontario or it is wrong. This journal deems it wrong, and that being the case it will fight against wrong as long as it has a penful of ink in its veins. The Ontario Government will re-enact. "The Bill." We don't know much about that Bill, and we dont care, all we know is, no man who loves his country, no man of honour, will permit a wrong to be done to his country while he has strength in his arm or a bullet in his rifle. This disallowance is an attempt made by those who have no possible right to rule Ontario to deprive her of her rights. To submit were dishonour, and

"When Dishonour
Reaches our hearths, Law dies, and Murder Rules
The angel shape of Justice."

The journal means to fight, others may do as they please. Bobcaygeon Independent.

A CURIOUS MARRIAGE VOW.

In a trial in Germany recently a curious document was produced, which was called forth by the marriage of Count de Sulz, a Roman Catholic, to Agatha, Countess of Hanau, a Protestant, in the year 1605. At the wedding the bridegroom solemnly swore to respect his wife's religious views, and signed, sealed and delivered a deed to that effect. It was couched in the following terms: "I Rudolph, Count of Sulz, hereby promise on my honor as a nobleman—or may the devil take me—that I will allow my future wife to remain in her religion, nor will I offer her the slightest inducement to abandon it. I have at home two bibles; if this is not enough for her I will get her two more. Moreover it is her body not her soul I take. I shall remain in my religion, in which I have been brought up from my youth. I know that I am on the right road; if she won't go to Heaven, let her go to hell. Signed, Rudolph, Count of Sulz." London Standard.

THE EMPIRE OF QUEEN VICTORIA.

One thousand eight hundred and eighty three, finds and Queen of Great Britain sovereign over a continent, one hundred peninsulas, five hundred promontories, one thousand lakes, two thousand rivers, and one thousand islands. She waves her hand, and five hundred thousand warriors march to battle to conquer or die. She bends her head, and at the signal one thousand ships of war and one hundred thousand sailors perform her bidding on the ocean. She walks upon the earth, and one hundred and twenty million of human beings feel the slightest pressure of her foot. Come, all ye conquerors, and kneel before the Queen of Great Britain, and acknowledge the superior extent of her dependent provinces, her subjugated kingdoms, and her vanquished empires! The Assyrian empire was not so wealthy. The Roman empire was not so populous. The Arabian empire was not so powerful. The Carthaginian empire was not so much dreaded. The Spanish empire was not so widely diffused.

REMARKABLE WORKS OF HUMAN LABOR.

Nineveh was 16 miles long, 8 miles wide, and 46 miles round, with a wall 100 feet high, and thick enough for three chariots abreast. Babylon was fifty miles within the walls, which were 75 feet thick and 100 feet high, with 100 brazen gates. The Temple of Diana, at Ephesus was 420 feet to the support of the roof; it was 100 years in building. The largest of the Pyramids is 481 feet in height, and 953 on the sides; the base covers 11 acres; the stones are about 60 feet in length, and the layers 208; it employed 320,000 men in building. The Labyrinths in Egypt contained 300 chambers and 12 halls. Thebes, in Egypt, present ruins 27 miles around, and 100 gates. Carthage was 29 miles round. Athens was 25 miles round and contained 350,000 citizens and 400,000 slaves. The Temple of Delphos was so rich in donations that it was plundered of £10,000,000 and 200 statues.

ANOTHER YEAR HATH GONE.

Another year hath passed and gone
And with it many friends we've known
Have passed away;
They've laid them in the silent tomb
There to await their final doom,
At the last day.

In looking back twelve months to-day,
A family met in health, and gay
In love sincere;
There's one a-missing, now we see
All that's seen where he used to be
The vacant chair.

Such changes have been ever rife
To mankind in this mortal life
Of joy and woe.
In midst of conflict with disease
The comfort of the Christian is
The Lord to know.

Who hath to them a promise given
To prepare for them seats in heaven
At His right hand;
The grave shall not their dust retain
Out of it they'll be brought again,
At his command.

SCHOOL SECTION NO. 4, OTONABEE

(From our Own Correspondent.)

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS.—At the recent Public School examination of School Section No. 4, Otonabee, much regret was expressed at losing the excellent and efficient teacher, Mr. R. Moscrip, he being about to remove to Milwaukee, United States. As a mark of esteem and respect Mr. Moscrip was made the recipient of a very beautiful present, accompanied by an address from the pupils. The following is

THE ADDRESS:

Dear Teacher and Friend:

We meet together to-day with sad hearts, knowing that we are losing in you one of our dearest and truest friends a friend whom we (without exception) have learned to honor and trust—one who has ever had our best interests at heart, and whose example it will be the dearest wish of our lives to try to imitate.

When we calmly reflect on the years you have spent with us, tears, unbidden tears, rush to our eyes.

A short time ago we consoled ourselves with the thought that our apprehensions of your leaving us would prove groundless, and that you would still remain to carry on the noble work which you are so eminently fitted to perform. But as this was not to be, rest assured that you will never be forgotten by us. The principles you have inculcated, your forbearance, your kind and friendly words of advice and warning shall ever be remembered by your sorrowful, loving and grateful pupils of Otonabee. We have united in giving you some little memento of ourselves, on which, when you look, we trust you will think of us ever as your friends and well wishers, and which we have decided should take the form of a "gentleman's companion," of which we beg your acceptance. In conclusion we wish you a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and a long life of happiness and prosperity wherever you may be.

Signed on behalf of the pupils by

J. DICKSON.

MR. MOSCRIP'S REPLY.

My Dear Pupils:

It is indeed with feelings of mingled sorrow and pleasure that I rise on this occasion to offer you my acknowledgements for the kind expressions you have tendered me in your address and also for this handsome remembrance; sorrow because the kindness you show now and have shown during the past three years I have been with you as teacher and friend, far exceeds the merits of the one who receives this token and these kind expressions of regard; pleasure, to know (as your generous kindness shows) that I am held so high in your esteem. It is now about three years since I cast my lot with you, and, speaking from the bottom of my heart they have been years of anxiety and happiness. You will agree with me when I assert that I have worked hard to advance the interests of every boy and girl in the school. But had I known all along that my efforts were being appreciated as they evidently have been, it would have been a great source of pleasure to me; still this anxiety and work has been more than balanced by the kindness you have shown me in the school room and out of it, and also by your excellent application to your work.

Permit me here for the last time to give you a few words of counsel: Always be diligent with your studies and by so doing you will lighten your own work and also that of your teacher. After you leave school continue to acquire knowledge by reading good books. Never read light or profane literature.

There is scarcely anything in the world more likely to demoralize the young than the reading of trashy literature. And there is not another influence better calculated to build up the character of a man or woman than good books. What was the master passion of most of the great men of the past? What was the master passion of the late illustrations President Garfield? Books! Yes he loved, studied and absorbed books, great and good books, and they, under the benediction of the Supreme Inspirer, made him what he was. Charles Kingsly has said, and well said, that "except a living man there is nothing more wonderful than a book! a messenger to us from the dead, from human souls we never saw; that lived perhaps thousands of miles away, and yet the sentiments in those little sheets of paper, speak to us, amuse us, terrify us, teach us, comfort us, open their hearts to us as brothers." We ought to reverence books, to look upon them as useful and mighty things. If they are good and true, whether they are about religion or politics, farming, trade or medicine, they are the message of Christ, the teacher of all truth. Books then is what you want, cultivate a taste for reading them, and always lay up in your mind the choicest thoughts contained in what you read and these will form a treasury of knowledge from which you can draw in the shifting scenes and circumstances of life, some comfort, guidance and sympathy.

I am sorry to have to say that it is my intention at present to remove far away from Peterborough, to remove from the ties and acquaintances I have made since I came to Zion. But though I shall not be near enough to see you occasionally, I shall not be so remote as not to be able to hear how you are getting on, and to hear of every one of you doing well, and growing up to be useful men and women. This will be welcome news.

It would indeed be sad intelligence to hear tell of any one of you wandering from the paths of honesty and uprightness into the mazy paths of vice and wickedness. Believe me my dear boys and girls that although far away, this testimonial ever shall be held in grateful remembrance of the motives of the donors.

I will draw my remarks to a close by again thanking you for this and other remembrances of which I have been the happy recipient, and by wishing you all both old and young a Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year, and a long life of happiness and prosperity.

All Millinery and Mantles at and below cost during the month of January, at Hall, Innes & Co's.

A FEW SIMPLE REMEDIES.

For croup, administer a teaspoonful of strong alum water; repeat the dose every fifteen minutes until free vomiting occurs. Put the feet and limbs in hot water, and then wrap up in flannel; place on the chest a poultice of corn meal sprinkled with mustard. Beware of cold draughts. As the attack departs administer a dose of magnesia, rhubarb or castor oil. When children are liable to croup, always keep the alum-water solution ready on the washstand.

Toothache may be speedily ended by the application of a small bit of cotton saturated with ammonia to the defective tooth.

It may be useful to know that hoarseness may be relieved by using the white of an egg thoroughly beaten, mixed with lemon juice and sugar. A teaspoonful taken occasionally is the dose.

There is scarcely an ache to which children are subject so hard to bear and so difficult to cure as earache. A remedy which never fails is a pinch of black pepper gathered up in a bit of cotton batting, wet in sweet oil and inserted in the ear. It will give immediate relief.

Remedy for chilblains Take a piece of lime the size of your double fist; put it in warm water and soak the feet in it as warm as it can be borne for half an hour.

For a scald or burn, apply immediately pulverized charcoal and oil. Lamp oil will do, but linseed is better. The effect is miraculous.

For chapped lips, mix two teaspoonsful of clarified honey with a few drops of lavender water, or any other perfume, and anoint the lips frequently.

To remove warts, get a little bullock gall and keep it in a bottle, rub a little on the warts two or three times a day, and in a short time they will disappear.

To remove cold sores, rub the first finger behind the ear close to the part which is joined to the head, and then rub the sore. The secretion removes the sore in a short time if applied every twenty minutes.

To make good sticking plaster, put two spoonsful of balsam of Peru to six of isinglass, melted with very little water and strained. Mix these well together in a small stone jar over the fire. Pin out some black Persian sarsenet on a board, and, dipping a brush into the mixture, pass it over the silk five or six times; then hold it to the fire, but not very near, and it will soon become black and shining.

A good wash to prevent the hair from falling out is made with one ounce of powdered borax, half an ounce of powdered camphor and one quart of boiling water. When cool, pour in a bottle for use, and clean the head with it, applying with flannel or sponge once a week.

For dyspepsia pour one quart of cold water on two tablespoonsful of unslaked lime; let it stand a few minutes; bottle and cork, and when clear it is ready for use; put three tablespoonsful in a cup of milk, and drink any time, usually before meals.

SEE TO IT. ZOPESA will cure the worst case of Dyspepsia. A single does will relieve in a degree that shows its wonderful curative powers, and its peculiar action upon the stomach and digestive organs. It is a positive and absolute cure for costiveness and constipation, acting in a remarkable way upon the system, carrying off impurities. As a Liver regulater its actions are remarkable. It tones and stimulates the Liver to action, it corrects the acide and regulates the bowels. A few doses will surprise you. Sample bottles 10 cents. 52-4t

A young man in a railway carriage was making fun of a lady's hat to an elderly gentleman in the seat with him. 'Yes,' said the elderly gent, 'that's my wife, and I told her if she wore that bonnet some fool would make fun of it.' The young man was silent for the remainder of the journey.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.—The following are the names of the Reeve and Councillors of Harvey, for the year 1883: Reeve, George Oliver; Councillors:—J. Clarkson, Thos. Flynn, James Ingram, and Charles McIlmoyle.

SURNAME OF THE ROYAL FAMILY

At dinner the other night, the conversation lapsed, as it sometimes will lapse with the best, into questions hardly distinguishable from conundrums. A celebrated historian was present, and I put a question to him which I know has puzzled a great many people at different times—'What is the surname of the Royal Family?' 'Guelph, of course.' That is the usual answer, and it was the historian's. I ventured to suggest that although the Royal family are Guelphs by descent, her Majesty's marriage with Prince Albert of Saxe-Gotha must have the effect which the marriage of a lady has in all other cases, and that the surname of the present house must be the Prince Consort's.

But what is the name of the Prince Consort's family? Simple but staggering. No one knew. All guessed, and all were wrong. I happened to have looked up the subject a few months ago, so I knew that the name was 'Wettin.' Of course no one had heard it before. Every one smiled at the horrible idea of the Guelphs being reduced to Wettins. The point was referred to Theodore Martin. 'You are quite right,' said the graceful biographer of the Prince Consort. 'Wettin is the family name of the house of Saxony, to whom the dominion of Saxony came in the year 1420. The King of Saxony and the minor princes of the House of Saxony are therefore all Wettins, or, German, Wetiner.'

Beware of Imitations.

Since Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has become celebrated, a number of unprincipled persons have been endeavoring to palm off Electron and Electric Oil for the genuine DR. THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL. Beware of these similar named articles. If their originators had any faith in the healing properties of their own medicines they would, like honest men, give them a name of their own, and not try to sell them on the reputation of another: but as they know their preparations have no merit, they resort to the most unprincipled means of selling them by getting a name as near as possible to Eclectric. We therefore ask the public when purchasing to see that the name Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is on the front of the wrapper, and the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, the proprietors for Canada on the back. 2-tf

Mr. George Tolen, Druggist, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes: "My customers who have used Northrop and Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure say that it has done them more good than anything they have ever used."

The death of the Earl of Wemyss and March is announced. The consequent elevation of Lord Elcho to the Upper House creates a vacancy in the Commons for Haddingtonshire, which he has long represented in the Liberal Conservative interest.

Thousands are being cured of Catarrh every year with Hall's Catarrh Cure, that the doctors had given up and said could not be cured, 75 cents a bottle. Sold by John McKee, Druggist, Peterborough. 2-2t.

It is unnecessary to ask whether Wheeler's phosphates and calisaya may be used safely in your special case. Since being an agreeable cordial, acceptable to the most irritable conditions of the stomach, it is the one preparation in existence that may be taken without repugnance by the most fastidious child or adult for a long period in all forms of debility with positive benefit and absolute freedom from harm. Its action is purely constructive, without driving or over-stimulating.

A candidate for appointment to a civil service clerkship was asked, 'How near is the sun to the earth?' 'I can't exactly say,' he replied, 'but I am sure it isn't near enough to interfere with my duties if I get the appointment I want.' He got it.

WINTRY BLASTS ARE SPECIALLY FRUITFUL of caughs and colds. Children who romp out of doors during the cold season are very subject to them, and no household where there are children should be unprovided with an effectual safeguard against lung disease. Such a one is Northrop & Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophites of Lime and Soda, a preparation in which the former ingredient possesses the utmost purity and where its well known pulmonic properties are increased by the admixture of the lime and soda salts. Of these the basis is phosphorus, and an essential constituent of the brain, the muscles and the blood, and long recognized by physicians as a strengthening and fortifying agent of surpassing efficacy. The waste of bodily tissue consequent upon lung, chest, and throat complaints is promptly checked by this time-honored remedy, and the irritation of the breathing organs arrested and overcome by it. The article has been pronounced by the physicians the best preparation of its class, and this professional verdict has found an echo in the grateful acknowledgements of many who, despairing of aid from any source have nevertheless sought and found relief from it. Persons whose chest and lungs are weak should use it as a preventive. Asthma, coughs, colds, spitting of blood, bronchitis laryngitis are promptly remedied by it, and it also possesses properties as a purifier very manifest in various types of scrofula. Prepared only by Northrop & Liman, Toronto, Canada.

ONE.

The FIRST ingredient in DR. WILSON'S PULMONARY CHERRY BALSAM is an extract of wild cherry bark, which soothes the irritated surfaces in the lungs and air passages, acts as a tonic to the stomach, giving a healthy appetite, has a soothing, sedative influence on the heart and blood vessels, preventing palpitation.

TWO.

The SECOND loosens and displaces the tough, stringy phlegm which causes so much pain and distress, and which is the cause of the the convulsive coughing.

THREE.

The THIRD ingredient heals. It is the vital property of the peculiarly soothing and healing gums of the white pine and fir of southern climes, at the same time grateful and beneficial to the stomach.

FOUR.

The FOURTH ingredient is a pleasing and soothing lubricant that supplies the place of the mucous secretion which, while the organs are healthy coats the mucous membrane, keeping it soft and natural. It at first supplies the place of the decreased secretions and assists in restoring them so as to perform their proper and most important duties.

All these working together, beneficially, make DR. WILSON'S PULMONAY CHERRY BALSAM the best cure known for throat and lung diseases.

Sold in 25 and 40 Cents Bottles—the 40 Cents size containing double the 25 Cents size. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicine.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 11, 1883.

The Toronto Convention.

On our third page will be found as full a report as we had space for, of the Toronto Convention, which was a magnificent success, and to which we shall refer more fully hereafter.

East Riding Tory Nominee.

Mr. Geo. Read of Keene, was made the Conservative nominee at the Convention held at Norwood on Tuesday last. Mr. Read's claims to the representation of the riding cannot be many nor great. It would appear that the most he has done for the county, though his chances to do better have not been wanting, is having assisted the Conservative candidate for West Peterborough in involving it in the unfortunate Grand Junction suit, which has cost the county so much trouble and money, and which will be a losing affair, no matter what the nature of the decision now pending before the Supreme Court. We understand, moreover, that the friends of Mr. John Moloney, Reeve of Douro, are displeased that his claims have been overlooked once more; having been virtually promised the nomination, they resent the fact of his being pushed aside by successful wire-pulling. He has worked hard for the party, but when the time for his reward comes he is quietly neglected. And yet the Tories have no class prejudices!

The Reform Candidate.

At the highly successful meeting of the Reformers of the East Riding of Peterborough, held at Norwood on Monday last, T. Blezard, Esq., the sitting member, we are pleased to announce, received and accepted the enthusiastic and unanimous re-nomination. The Reformers of this riding are to be congratulated on their judicious choice of a standard bearer. Mr. Blezard has served the riding and the province well - faithfully and honestly. We have already fully alluded to Mr. Blezard's qualifications, and a good omen of his success is shown by the fact that his former supporters are his supporters still though more earnest and enthusiastic. They have unanimously and heartily endorsed his parliamentary career, and ungrudgingly recognized his valuable services, and have the utmost confidence in his ability, integrity and willingness to assist in the promotion of the best interests of the riding and the province. Now that Mr. Blezard is in the field, the duty of his supporters becomes plain. The candidate cannot elect himself, and while he is inclined to spare no exertion to win the the fight, his success will depend largely on the efforts of his supporters. From this day forward till the election day, there remains nothing for the Reformers of the East Riding but work, work, work, till five o'clock on the election day, come when it will. It is well enough to talk of triumph and victory, but there is, in politics, no victory won except by hard and ceaseless effort. You have a strong candidate one whose claim you are not ashamed to advocate. Your opponents will not rest day nor night; they count on hard work, shrewd work, cunning work, and not the justice of their cause, to bring them success. In their energy alone let them be your example. Take nothing for granted; let every elector, no matter how sure a voter he is, be seen. Let the sure voter be roused to action, the weak or wavering be confirmed, and the wicked one, particularly, be turned from the error of his ways. See that every available vote is ready to be cast, as it will be your duty to see that it is cast on election day. Let your arms be nerved by the recollection that you are fighting for your own land, fighting for the right of managing your own local affairs. Let each Reformer go into the contest with the feeling that the result depends on his individual efforts that the votes he secures, or fails to secure mean success or failure. Let the battle be fought out on these lines, and Thos. Blezard, Esq., M.P.P., will not only be elected at the close of the polling day, but elected by an increased and overwhelming majority.

The "Mail's" Blackguardism.

The Conservatives, with a modesty that is worthy of admiration as a specimen of "cheek," put forward the claim to being the social salt of the earth - the party of gentlemen - a claim which the "high-toned" blackguardism of the Mail daily confirms. For systematic literary ruffianism the Mail, the organ of the Conservative party, has disgracefully distinguished itself. In dealing with public characters it is to be expected that the Mail would show its fish-fed æstheticism by calling Her Majesty's Ministers "asses," and the Archbishop of the Roman Catholic Church a "donkey driver" with an intellect not above that of a poodle dog, but it seems that private gentlemen are not exempt from its scurrilous slang. Let the gentlemen who attended the great Reform Convention at Toronto, read the following graceful language used toward them by the Mail:

"Cheap railway fares, board at half-price, whiskey and cigars at the expense of the License Commissioners, and the promise of a cordial reception at the station—such a combination of free lecture and free lunch never yet tempted the imagination of a somewhat dull-witted mob of semi-civilized partizans. All that was needed was a promise to throw in some old clothes, a few spelling books, a ration of cut plug the promise of a bath and the rush would have been tremendous. * * * A curious and somewhat cynical public will be able to pick out the Grits at the cheap restaurants and free lunch bars."

This is how the "gentleman's" organ speaks of the most respectable and intelligent gentlemen in Ontario. The delegates were the selection of the people and occupy leading positions at home, have the confidence of the people, many of them occupying municipal offices, the gift of all classes of electors, to whom, as well as to the delegates, the blackguardly language of the Mail is an insult, which will be remembered at the coming elections. But let the Mail have full course. It is indirectly doing a good deal for the cause of Reform. Respectable Conservatives are disgusted with its coarse, low cunning; its reckless disregard for truth has made it unworthy of belief, even when it blunders into the truth, and the very fact of its abusing an opponent is a prima facie evidence of the latter's respectability and worth.

A Brilliant Tory Premier.

The Conservative organs have striven hard to make a point against the Ontario Government in respect of its appointment of Magistrates and have not hesitated at direct mendacity to accomplish their purpose, and in so doing, to throw ridicule on Reform appointees to the magistracy. But they are discreetly silent about the manner in which Mr. Mousseau makes appointments. He has been engaged in a wholesale ousting of Liberal magistrates in Quebec, and indiscriminate substitution of Tory partisans. And Mr. Mousseau is not particular, either. The only qualification, in his eyes, is the Toryism of the new justice, even the fact of his being dead or alive being insignificant, so long as his record as a Tory is good.

Is not this a pretty document for a Minister of the Crown to issue in respect of so important an office as that of a magistrate? Read and wonder:

SIR, At the request of a number of influential Conservatives of your place, I have appointed you Justice of the Peace for your parish. This is a mark of esteem considerable enough, but it is only a slight reward for the many services you have rendered the Conservative cause. As I have been informed that a certain number of those whom I have raised to the position of J. P. are dead and buried, you will be kind enough to let me know before ten days whether you are dead or alive. In case you do not reply within the next ten days, you will be considered as being dead, and another person will be appointed in your stead.

Yours truly,
(Signed) L. A. MOUSSEAU,
Attorney-General.

This precious circular was dated November 18th, and shows with what conscientious circumspection these appointments must have been made how carefully a man's qualifications, capabilities and fitness for the position of a magistrate must have been inquired into, when the fact of his being dead or alive was left an open question!

And this is the gentleman whom Mr. Meredith and his supporters bow down to, yield to, cringe to. When he said that the Boundary Award should not be ratified, Mr. Meredith and his following went back on their record of two sessions, and meekly did Mr. Mousseau's bidding conveyed through Sir John Macdonald.

The Ontario Tories fall in with the Quebec Premier's position on the Boundary Award matter, and, as there is less disloyalty and treason to Ontario involved in their approval of his mode of appointing magistrates, they will perhaps reluctantly agree with him in that also. The only disadvantages it possesses, are the lack of provisions for punishing a man, who, in defiance of the circular of Mr. Mousseau, neglects or refuses, within ten days, to report whether he is dead or alive.

Editorial Notes.

Last Friday the Conservatives of North Victoria met at Coboconk and nominated Mr. John Fell, as candidate for the Local Legislature. There were four applicants for the position of candidate.

From data given in the report of the Inspector of prisons and asylums for 1882, it appears that insanity in this province is decreasing. It is true that the number of patients admitted to asylums since confederation has increased, but it must be borne in mind that these increased admissions are due to increased asylum accommodation and not to an increase in the victims of insanity. In the year 1880 when the asylum accommodation of the province was fully equal to the demand, the highest number of admissions for the entire decade was reached, with about the regular percentage of discharges and deaths. For the last two years, however, there has been a marked decrease in the number of admissions and also a marked increase in the number of discharged and cured patients.

The Review intimates that it fails to see how Mr. Blezard has rendered services to his constituency or the province at large. None are so blind as they who will not see. Mr. Blezard has maintained a straight forward and honest political course, a fact which the, (politically speaking) duplex-elastic, N.P. editor of the Review, is not in a moral condition to sympathise with or appreciate. Mr. Blezard cannot lay claim to being a double-dealing and tricky orater "as Brutus is," nor claim a pre-eminent ability to "cook" figures, but he is a good working member of the house, and in that way and by a good square honest support of the Mowat Administration, has assisted in retaining to the province the blessings that must accrue to it by the retention of a wise and economical administration of public affairs. The Review may ignore Mr. Blezard's services but his constituents see and appreciate them; they have re-nominated him and will re-elect him by an increased majority. They, and not the Review, are the judges of Mr. Blezard's fitness for a representative and their endorsation, has the weight due to an honest expression of opinion, and they value his single vote on the Boundary Award as worth more than anything his opponent, who is committed to the robbery of Ontario, can do in a life time.

LAKEFIELD.

From our own Correspondent.

SCHOOL ELECTION.

One or two days before polling day it was reported that two of the candidates for the office of trustee had drawn cuts to decide who should resign. Mr. Isbister drew the unlucky "straw," and consequently sent in his resignation to the returning officer on the day preceding the election. Some discussion consequently took place on the streets and elsewhere as to the necessity of a poll, there being just the two candidates remaining to fill the two vacancies. The returning officer decided that a poll was not necessary and therefore no voting took place. The question now arises has there been a legal election, or any election at all? Two facts are quite evident, first that they were not elected by acclamation, and second, that they were not elected by the ratepayers. The problem may be capable of solution but we must wait to see in what way. No fault is found with the candidates more than there would be with any other, we presume, but there is with the manner in which the whole matter has been conducted by some who are taking a special interest. The School Board meets this evening in the Council Chamber for the purpose of organizing. Dr. Armour and Mr. T. Gordon have been declared elected (so we have been informed) and will likely take seats at the board.

CURLING.

A match was arranged between the President and Vice-President on Saturday last, which resulted in favor of the President, there was just one rink. The following is the score:

President.	Vice President.
Mr. And. Shearer.	Mr. B. Eded,
J. Clorin,	A. Strickland,
Geo. Postlewait,	T. Sacret,
R. Graham, s'p, 13.	R. C. Strickland, s'p, 2.

A friendly game with Peterborough is likely to be arranged for Friday or at an early date.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Council held their last meeting in the Council Chamber, on Monday evening. Present, His Worship, the Reeve; Messrs. Cox, Hull and McWilliams. There was no business to be done. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Mr. Chapin wished the Council to provide him with handcuffs and revolver to assist him in his official capacity as village constable. The matter was laid over, as the Reeve was going to enquire of the County Council regarding a grant for the purpose of building a lockup for the village. The written advice of a lawyer, regarding the opening up of Water Street, had not yet been received by the Clerk. Mr. Sanders presented a bill of $43.52 for extras for services. Councillor Hull took exception to a number of the items, as he considered the Clerk had a right to do them without extra remuneration; others he thought unnecessary, as $2 for a trip to Peterborough, to pay notes, debentures, &c. Business men paid their notes without going to town. The Clerk thought his salary was not sufficient if he were not paid these. Coun. Hull thought it would be better to increase the salary than to have so many extras. The Reeve found fault with the item for expenses to Peterborough for advice, as they had received none. The Council sustained the item as authorized by them; the advice would be forthcoming. The account passed. The Council then adjourned.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament—Fourth Session.

Thursday, Jan. 4th.

When the Speaker took the chair at 3.15 in the Legislature the galleries were crowded to the ceilings with delegates to the Convention, all anxious to hear what their representatives had to say on provincial matters, or otherwise. But they were doomed to disappointment. After about twenty petitions had been presented, and a little cross-firing between Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith, and Mr. Morris, the House adjourned.

Mr. Meredith found fault that the several Bills introduced by the Government before the Christmas recess had not been printed. He only found two of them in the hands of members.

Mr. Mowat replied that the printers were crowded with work, and were only able to furnish the House with these two.

It was evident that the Opposition did not want to go on with the work in presence of the overwhelming phalanx of Liberals in the galleries. They did not want to show their puniness.

Among the petitions presented was one from the city of London asking authority to borrow $200,000 to pay off the floating debt and indebtedness not covered by debentures already issued by the city, and issuing debentures therefore; from the same, objecting to the London Junction Railway running their tracks along Bathurst and Colborne streets in said city; from the Credit Valley Railway Company, for an act authorizing the lease of that railway to the Ontario and Quebec Company; from the London Junction Railway Company for the repeal of the 32nd sec. of its act of incorporation, and the substitution of the following: "Provided that the whole issue of bonds will not exceed $30,000 a mile;" from the town of Woodstock, for an Act ratifying the contract between the town and the G. W. R., with reference to the late passenger depot erected in that town.

The House adjourned at 3:30.

Friday, Jan. 5th.

The speaker took the chair at 3 o'clock several petitions were presented, and two or three bills received their first reading.

Mr. Mowat moved that the Bill to authorize the construction of the street railways be read a second time. The object of the Bill was to render unnecessary the constant applications that have been made for power to construct street railways, and give the power to grant the application to municipal councils in cities and towns in which it is proposed to form a private company to proceed with the work without the necessity of a special Act.

The Bill was read a second time without further debate.

Mr. Mowat moved the second reading of the Bill to authorize cities, towns and villages to provide gas and other means of lighting and heating. They had of course joint stock companies to execute such works and carry on such enterprise as were contemplated. There were some provisions in the Municipal Act and in some of the amendments to it which authorize municipalities to enter into similar work, but these provisions have been found to be inadequate.

Mr. Meredith had no particular objection to the Bill, but he did not see why towns and cities should not be placed on the same footing as private companies.

The Bill was read a second time.

The House adjourned at 3.30.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Mr. Hay On Tuesday next To ask whether it is the intention of the Government during the present session to introduce any legislation in respect to ditching and watercourses.

Mr. Creighton On Tuesday next Resolution that in the opinion of this House, notwithstanding any provision of special Acts, no railway company within the legislative control of this House ought to be allowed to enter into amalgamation, leasing or working arrangements with any other railway company or companies without first obtaining the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council: and that any such amalgamation or arrangement entered into without such consent should be declared illegal and of no effect. Also, that in the case of railway companies which have been assisted by bonus from municipalities, no consent as aforesaid should be given until the municipalities interested have been notified and had proper opportunity of urging their views.

"Great Excitement on Hunter Street."

A great crowd of people were noticed on Hunter Street, west of Cavanagh's, and something serious was thought to be taking place. The excitement grew worse, when some raised a cry for the police. At length a great calamity was averted by the appearance of an officer, who ascertained that the people were not there to take a look at Charlie Rutler, but to see who would get served first, by W. J. Devlin, who, being compelled to enlarge his business, to meet the increased demand of his customers, begs to announce to the public that he has extensively enlarged and refitted his already commodious shop, so as to employ a greater number of journeymen. Having secured the services of the best workmen in the four counties, he is able to defy competition in CHEAPNESS OF HIS GOODS AND EXCELLENCE OF QUALITY IN

Light and Heavy Harness.

He would like to inform his patrons and the public generally, that he has departed from the general rule of keeping boys around, to operate on repair jobs. This branch of the business is promptly attended to, and neatly done by his first-class hands. He also keeps on hand a large assortment of Horse Clothing, Rugs Buffaloes, Trunks, Valises, &c.

AT ONE PRICE ONLY!

As there is no Jew about Devlin, and don't you forget it. No shoddy goods palmed on the unsuspecting public for good material, as his desire is rather to please his customers and keep up his reputation as the best shop in the county, than to make money by dishonest means.

SPECIAL ATTENTION is paid to the manufacture of COLLARS, no gall orders from a misfit guaranteed.

BLAKE AT BOWMANVILLE.

The Leader of the Opposition Addresses his Constituents.

The Figures of the Late Election—The Ballot Should be Improved—The Syndicate Monopoly and the North-west Provincial Rights, &c.

We have not had space before this issue to give the following synopsis of the address of Hon. Edward Blake to his constitutents at Bowmanville recently. The town hall was packed. Mr. Blake had a most enthusiastic reception.

He took this, the first opportunity that had presented itself, to thank the electors who had returned him and especially those who had worked in his interest during his absence in other parts of the province. His friends had very high hopes in the late election that the voice of Ontario would

HAVE A DIFFERENT TONE

from what it has been proved, viz., 55 Conservatives to 37 Liberals. In 1878 the figures were 23 Liberals, thus showing an increase of about fifty per cent. But as a matter of fact the voice of Ontario as expressed in the vote is different altogether from the way it is voiced in Parliament. The Liberal voice at the polls was almost equal to the Conservative. He had revised his first calculations and compared them with those of Mr. Meredith who had challenged his figures. The result was according to his figures, and he considered them accurate, that 136,300 Conservatives voted and 133,200 Liberals, a total

CONSERATIVE MAJORITY OF 3,100.

Of the 92 members elected the Conservatives were not really entitled to any more than 46 and a half members, and the Liberals 45 and a half. Really, however, the former had 55: 20 per cent. more than they were entitled to. Why was this? The Conservatives discovered that opinion was changing against them and by a gross abuse of power in the gerrymander act they altered the bounds of the constituencies. Eight seats were thus lost to the Liberals, namely, Monck, Lanark, Muskoka, Brockville, North Middlesex, North Bruce, East Huron and Bothwell. Added to their 37, these 8 would give the Liberals 45, an approximation to what they were really entitled to. The gerrymander also in a great many other seats. In the eight hived constituencies of the Liberals they had an average majority of 900; in the eight hived Conservative constituencies the Government thought 600 majority enough. Take that part of the province east of them. There were 75,000 votes therein. Well, they voted 40,000 Conservative and 35,000 Reformers; entitling them to 16 Conservative members and 14 Reformers, but actually represented by 27 Conservative and 3 Reform members. A total majority of 150 votes would have wiped out these 3 seats. Mr. Blake then in black and white showing on one side the actual result, on the other side what it ought to be. The contrast surprised the audience. The system was partly to blame for this, but it was aggravated by a misuse of power by the Government. Take the nine ridings joining Durham, the Northumberlands, the Hastings, and the Victorias; the Conservatives got 12,598, and the Reformers got 10,950 votes. Yet the Tories got every member. Fairminded men must admit that something was wrong. The principles of representative government were subverted, and each man on the Reform side of the house felt that he spoke for a larger number than he apparently represented, and they were responsible for the misrepresented men. One of the flagrant acts of the Government was the taking of the appointment of returning officers into their own hands. Their partisan returning officers issued certificates granting votes to agents who were not entitled to vote. Many votes were then put in as Tory votes by men who had

WEAKENED THE LIBERALS

EXHIBITED A CHART

NO RIGHT TO BALLOT.

There had never been such an exhibition of partisanship and betrayal of trust. A returning officer or poll clerk should be as fair minded as a juror. These evils must be reproved. The misconduct or the ignorance of the under officials in a great number of cases brought about irregularities that had great effect. Hundreds of votes were struck off in constituencies, and thousands in the aggregate. Many were struck off through the carelessness or ignorance of the officers. The Government should have before the election. The ballot had advantages. The conduct of elections had been improved by it. But it was complicated. A man had almost to take a legal opinion as to how he should mark his paper. It gave power to the officers.

IMPROVED THE BALLOT LAW

THE LESSONS OF THE LATE ELECTION

were first that the ballot-papers should be made of different material. The thin shreds used showed the mark and thus broke the secrecy. The law should also be altered in regard to the marking of the papers. The Government should have altered the

OLD DOMINION STATUTE

so as to be in harmony with the machinery of the remodelled courts in Ontario. In failing to do this they must be held responsible for the failure in securing controverted election trials. The petition against Sir John himself was thus avoided, though there were sixty cases of corruption against one of his agents. Mr. Bunting, when contesting this riding, was strong on

THE PRICE OF GRAIN.

He wished the farmers to believe that the government's fiscal policy had improved the price of farmer's produce. Mr. Blake's friends had controverted it by saying that the price of surplus products of farmers could not be controlled by a fiscal policy. Now the Tory farmers had nothing to say about it. They were dumb. Had the election been deferred to the proper time there would have been none of these appeals to the farmers about the price of grain. The price of grain was no more due to the tariff than was the abundance of it. As to the

PACIFIC RAILWAY QUESTION

the Opposition had fought against the monopoly clause. Public opinion in Manitoba on this matter was advancing. The premier of Manitoba had altered his position, had condemned the disallowance, and as the country develops there will be a still deeper feeling against the monopoly. The government had fomented a rebellion in the North-west before by their want of appreciation of the feeling and wants of the people, and they were again showing the same want of appreciation. As to the tariff the working man had been

PROMISED HIGHER WAGES

by virtue of a rise in the tariff, yet he held that workmen were not protected so long as they were not protected from an influx of outside labor. The capitalist would measure the pay of his men by the figures at which he could bring in labor from abroad. He would learn that their truest interests would be best advanced by placing all manufacturing industries on the stablest basis, upon a basis which will enable the manufacturer to supply goods at the lowest cost for the raw material, which will enable him to enjoy his market to the greatest extent, enable him to seek foreign outlets, and further, the laborers' interests will be best advanced by such laws of taxation as will enable them to obtain at the lowest price those necessaries and luxuries of life which they turn their wages into. We were all laborers in this land. The Liberal party were bound to propound what they considered to be in the interest of the whole community and he maintained that it was their duty to put forward the same principles which they did in June last and which protested against unequal taxation, and taxation upon the necessaries of life, and upon raw material. He was confident that the country would eventually call for the

AMELIORATION AND AMENDMENT

of the present tariff law. In 1878 Sir Leonard Tilley said all that was wanted was thirteen millions from customs and five millions from excise. Last year they took instead twenty-two millions from customs and six millions from excise, ten millions more than they said they wanted. This was a surplus of twelve and a half dollars for each head of family, or a total tax on each head of

THIRTY FIVE DOLLARS A YEAR.

But indirect taxes made this even more, perhaps half as much again, probably a $50 tax in this aggregate on each head of family. Sir Charles Tupper had told Mr. Mackenzie that his government had no right to a surplus when the latter gentleman expected half a million dollars. Now Sir Charles Tupper's friends had a surplus of over six millions. This was unjust. A Government should take no more than is to be spent. Our imports had increased, yet the Conservatives had denounced such an increase when out of office. So it was with the balance of trade in which he noted an increase. Our population was to have increased, but the municipal censuses showed it almost stationary. In Ontario, Bruce, Huron, Perth, Grey and other counties there had been a decrease. There had been to the United States. 712,000 Canadians were residents across the line. Ontario men were settling large tracts in the western States, thereby depreciating the value of our property. As to the railway and land policy in the North-west, the objections of the Opposition are daily being proved stronger and stronger. Everything that has occurred in the North-west that was of any good was the result of the POLICY OF THE PREVIOUS GOVERNMENT.

ACTUALLY REQUIRED

A GREAT EMIGRATION

Manitoba property had advanced, and settlement was going on because of connection with the outside by the Pembina branch. For giving them this Mr. Mackenzie had been denounced. Next, the advance in the North-west was owing to the building of the prairie section. But who started that and encouraged it all along? The Opposition had. The third great impetus was the completion of the Thunder Bay branch, begun and nearly finished by Mr. Mackenzie. The work on the Nipissing section and the British Columbia railway works had done nothing toward the improvement of affairs in Manitoba. What were the drawbacks in Manitoba?

FIRST THE MONOPLY.

Who gave them that? The present Government. The speaker's policy was to retain the trade of the North-West. But it must be retained by fair terms. There was first a high tariff and next high freight rates, and this was bad for them and for us and for the Dominion. Railways look out for themselves, the syndicate among them. He did not blame them. He blamed the Government that made the monopoly. If it is modified compensation must be made. But Sir John had said we can't check Manitoba or Ontario, yet by the disallowance a principle in in opposition to the constitution and to the declaration of the premier himself had been announced. The Government were thus making the bargain worse than it called for. Opposition had said that the money grant was to high. The land was realizing high prices for the company. The prairie section cost the company $11,000 a mile; the Government gave them $10,000 in cash and 12,500 acres of land, worth perhaps $50,000. The Government had been too hasty. The Opposition were thus vindicated on every point. The Opposition had objected to the

ENCOURAGEMENT OF SPECULATION,

and favored the lowest price to the settler, paid directly into treasury and not through a third party, speculating company. The cattle ranches and mining lands and timber limits and the colonization companies were all getting grants from the Government not through competition. The true interests of all demanded a reduction of the revenue to the actual requirements of the country. A great dominion was to be built up by the policy of the Opposition not by that of the Government. The Opposition favored the

MAINTENANCE OF PROVINCIAL RIGHTS

as a conservation of the powers of the Dominion. But the Government were bent on centralization. We have a monopolist Government. It has granted monopoly to the railway. It is monopolizing the powers of the local legislatures. It is creating monopolies in manufactures by its fiscal policy. By each man realizing his responsibility, by reasoning with his neighbor and by the growth of intelligence, things would be right in the end. He closed by declaring that he still stood by the principles that he had first enunciated and that he did not wish to to succeed by any departure therefrom. Toronto World's report.

FIRST PRIZE FURS AND WHERE TO BE FOUND.

Not many houses in the Fur Trade possess the facility in manufacturing FURS as the subscriber. The large quantity of Raw Furs he buys direct from the Trappers enables him to select the choicest material, leaving a surplus for export, hence his success. Who pays the highest price for raw furs? Let the Trappers answer that question, as all have been defeated and left the field who entered in opposition 22 years ago.

By importing European Furs direct, his name is as well known in the fur trade at Leipzig, Germany as any of the wholesale houses, and noted for not offering dyed Marten for Sable, or dyed Goat Robes for Bear, nor using any fictitious name in his establishment whereby imitations are sold for real, at often treble their value. Continuing, as commenced, in the same old way of giving a good article for the lowest possible price, any orders entrusted must give satisfaction or no sale.

On account of family changes, I have concluded to close the shop formerly occupied by S. Hyman, after New Year's. This stock will be sold at very low prices.

THE TORONTO CONVENTION

ROUSING REFORM RALLY.

7,000 DELEGATES ASSEMBLED IN TORONTO.

Largest Political Gathering in the History of Canada The City Had no Halls to Hold the Multitude Liberal Leaders Warmly Received Harmony and Enthusiasm Omens of an Overwhelming Victory

No such convention as that held on Wednesday and Thursday last by the Reform party over met before in Canada. The trains both from the east and west were crowded with delegates appointed by the Liberal party of the Province to respond to the call of Mr. Mowat, and no more intelligent, more respectable assembly of men ever convened in the capital. Wednesday afternoon, long before the hour of 2 o'clock arrived, Shaftesbury Hall was crowded in every part. the street was filled in front, and still large numbers of delegates, it was known, had not reached the hall.

The propositions were then made to the meeting to go to the Horticultural Pavilion or to occupy the Albert Hall and Temperance Hall at the same time. The first suggestion was adopted, and the delegates started for the Pavilion, which was soon filled. The galleries were packed, the balcony around the upper part of the building was filled, and the windows were raised so that the people upon the balconies could look in upon the thousands packed within far below them. At 2 o'clock upwards of 5,000 tickets were issued and exchanged for credentials, and before 6 o'clock came upwards of 6,200 delegates had arrived and had received their credentials. Large numbers were unable to gain admission to the afternoon meeting.

THE MEETING ORGANIZED.

Hon. Oliver Mowat, accompanied by Hon. Messrs. Hardy, Crooks, Pardee and Wood here passed on to the platform and were received with enthusiastic and unbounded cheering, which rang in burst after burst throughout the pavilion. After order had been somewhat restored,

Mr. Mowat returned his most hearty thanks for the enthusiastic response which the Liberals of Ontario had made to the call for a Convention. He had expected that a goodly number of his brother Liberals would respond to that call, but he had no idea that such a magnificent assembly as that which he saw before him would be the result. (Cheers.) They had had Conventions before Conventions that had borne good fruit, Conventions that had been largely attended, but he ventured to say that the assembly now before him was as large as all those former Conventions put together. (Cheers.) He was glad to know that it was also a representative gathering. He saw before him men from all parts of the country and from every class of its population. They had come from the River Ottawa on the east and from the River St. Clair on the west. He saw before him men of all nationalities, of all religious denominations and of all occupations. There were merchants, farmers, mechanics, professional men, workingmen, old men who had taken part in past political contests and had done good work, and young men who were following in their footsteps and will soon take their places. (Cheers.) They had there Liberals of all classes those who did not think with the rest of the party during the Dominion election, but who, with regard to matters that were before them now, were a unit, as well as others, and he congratulated them upon the great promise that was before them, as he had no doubt that the result of the Convention would be an important one in the history of the Province. (Cheers.)

He proposed that the chair should be taken by Captain McMaster, and that the Vice-Presidents should be Mr. Copp, of Hamilton; Mr. Harty, of Kingston, and Mr. Drury, of Simcoe. (Cheers.)

A forest of up ifted hands showed the motion was carried, and the chair was assumed by Capt. McMaster amid great applause.

The Chairman said he had great pleasure in accepting the honor of presiding over so great an assemblage, and with their forbearance and assistance he would endeavour to discharge his duties satisfactorily to all. He said it was a great thing to have a man like the Hon. Oliver Mowat at the head of affairs a man who all his life has been a Reformer, who had served his country so well both before and after Confederation, and who from his first entrance into public life up to the present time had been an eminently worthy and capable man. (Cheers.) He saw before him an audience four times as large as that which met at Shaftesbury Hall during Exhibition time under Tory auspices, and he took it as an omen that the Liberals of Ontario were determined to return Mr. Mowat and his Government again to power. (Cheers.)

On the motion of Mr. James Young, M. P. P., the following were appointed Secretaries: Mr. Wm. Johnson, Toronto; Mr. Chas. D. Barr, Lindsay; Mr. R. S. Pattullo, Woodstock, and Mr. George Brown, jun, the son of the late leader of the Liberal party.

Loud and persistent demands were made for Mr. George Brown, jun., to appear on the platform. After a little time he was produced, and bowed his acknowledgments amid loud cheers.

Mr. Charlton, M. P., Norfolk, said he thought that the vast hall filled with an intelligent auditory, and the hundreds, if not thousands, unable to obtain admittance, were evidences that the people of Ontario took an intrest in the political issues, and the Local Government had reason to feel the greatest degree of gratification at this magnificent Convention, tendered to them on an occasion of this kind. He held that they had acted in a manner to entitle them to the respect and confidence of the people of Ontario. (Cheers.) They had been asked to keep the provincial issues, but there was one Provincial issue that he would refer to which was also a Dominion issue. He refered to the "Gerrymander Act"—the basest and most perfidious Act which had ever disgraced a Legislature. (Applause.) This Act was one which deprived the people of Ontario of their true share in the council of the nation. The "Gerrymander Act" was a local one, for it was applied to the Province of Ontario alone. It was the most mischievous wound the democracy of the country had received in its history, and it was the duty of the people of the Province to resent this interference with her just rights. It was for the people to show that they were free men, and appreciate the rights of men of Ontario. (Cheers.) In addition they have the fact that a usurpation of our constitutional liberties had been attempted in the disallowance of Provincial questions.

Ald. Peter Ryan was received with loud cheers. He said they had assembled here from every part of the Province in their might and indignation to protest against the outrages which has been committed against their dearest rights, and to testify by their words and their resolutions their determination to sustain the honest and efficient Government under which they had the pleasure and privilege to live. (Cheers.) The Mail had started the cry that "Mowat must go" (laughter) and the cry had been echoed by the minor Tory leaders in the press and on the platform, but he thought that this magnificent gathering was an answer to that cry so emphatic, so unmistakable, that it would carry consternation into the ranks of the enemy, and foreshadow the result of the contest upon which they would shortly enter. (Cheers.)

Mr. Guthrie, of Guelph, moved that a committee be appointed to prepare an address for presentation by this Convention to the Hon. Oliver Mowat, the committee to consist of the Hon. David Mills Mr. John Watson, Hon. Senator McMaster, Mr. Glen, M. P., Mr. C. F. Gildersleeve, Mr. Watts, sen., Mr. J. H. Fairbank, M. P., Mr. Charlton, Mr. J. D. Edgar, and the mover and seconder of the resolution.

Mr. Doyle said it gave him great pleasure to meet such a vast audience today, and to see that the Mail's description was a libel on them. The Mail said they were a "stream of semi-civilized partisans." He was glad to second the resolution.

The Chairman then put the motion, and a perfect forest of hands was held up in its favor.

Hon. A. S. Hardy was received with loud cheers. He made a most effective speech. He said they were met to consider the issue at stake in the next election. It was a question whether the representatives of Ontario should stand by the rights legislative and territorial of Ontario, or whether they should disgracefully surrender their rights and hand over their territory to the people seeking to wrest it from the Province. Mr. Meredith represented one tendency that last named. If the people sent representatives to the Parliament at Toronto to protect Provincial affairs, and they abandoned them, gave up their post to the enemy or to those with another and prejudical interest, who, he asked, would sustain our rights? (A voice Not John A.) (Cheers.) No, not John A., nor yet Mr. Meredith, who handed over to Ottawa the reins, to the very man who thought it in the interests of the Dominion to dismember Ontario. (Hear, hear.) Not the party that called the Convention at which Mr. Meredith hauled down his own flag and hoisted Sir John Macdonald's. He believed, however, he only hauled down his flag half-mast and consented to place the destinies of Ontario in the hands of a man at Ottawa who is fighting Ontario inch by inch. He (Mr. Hardy) asked them to bear in mind that for two sessions the Opposition in the Local Legislature had voted solidly, with the exception of one member, for the resolutions which invited Mr. Mowat to stand by the award and uphold the rights of his Province by every means in his power. But in the third session there was a sudden and mysterious change of front. And why? Mr. Meredith's attitude on this question became dangerous to Sir John and his Government. At the November Convention something must have been said on the subject to account for the change, for Mr. Meredith turned his back on his former votes and voted "nay" where he had previously voted "yea." This was the greatest somersault of the 19th century. (Laughter.) No doubt Sir John had met Mr. Meredith at this Convention, and said to him: "William, how is this: I see you have been voting against me and the Conservative party. I may want to go to the country at an early day, and if you do not come to time time on this question, I cannot be returned by a united Conservative party, nor can you when your time comes if I say 'no.'" They could imagine Mr. Meredith replying: "Well, Sir John I only voted for what I thought was honest and fair on this question." "Ah, but," Sir John would say, "you are ruining the party; you have been shouting 'Yes,' and now you must turn round and shout 'No.'" (Laughter.) When I say 'yes' in Ottawa I want you to say 'yes' in Toronto; when I say 'thumbs up in Ottawa, thumbs must go up in Toronto." (Loud laughter.) The result was that William turned round obediently and shouted "No," where he had formerly shouted "Yes," and he has been lustily shouting "No" ever since. (Laughter and cheers.)

Mr. W. G. Ross, M. P., followed in an able speech, and Mr. Colin Macdougall, of St. Thomas also spoke.

Mr. Joseph Rymal said the future of the province of Ontario must be, to a great extent, settled at the next general election. They supposed that after Confederation they had the right to govern themselves in local matters. But they now that a man who had not lived in Ontario for many years, who owed Ontario a grudge, who did not believe in Confederation, and it was only at the last moment, and owing to pressure, when he had to choose between taking up his bed and walking out of office that he consented that Confederation should be tried—this was the man who was now trying to control the people of Ontario in their own affairs. (Applause). If the people submitted to such dictation they would prove themselves unworthy sons of noble sires. What was confederation worth if their legislative rights were ignored, their territories to be stolen from them, and their constituencies to be gerrymandered to suit the fancy of the most wicked of Canadian politicians? (Cheers). Fortunately for the people of Ontario and the stability of its good government, this man had not the power to gerrymander Mr. Mowat out of office, and he hoped and trusted that he never would have the power. Mr. Mowat's past history, his legislation and administration of affairs, led them to ask this question: "Judging from the past, would we be justified in handing over for another term the affairs of our province to Mr. Mowat?" (Yes, yes.) The best proof of this was that even his most violent political opponents had failed to establish a charge of the slightest misconduct on the part of Mr. Mowat. (Applause.) The Tories had said that Mr. Mowat must go, and to this he would add one word and say that Mowat must go back yes, and with an increased majority. (Applause.) Having come to this conclusion they would ask Mr. Mowat one question, after having approved of his past conduct. Supposing Sir John Macdonald would not yield ("We will make him")—would he fight this matter to the bitter end? He would answer for Mr. Mowat and say he would. Mr. Mowat was not the kind of a man to put his hand to the plough and turn back; he was a thorough-going man, and one they all knew to be worthy of their confidence. (Loud applause.) Mr. Rymal proceeded in an earnest manner to call upon Reformers to stand to their convictions, and if they could all turn one "sinner" from the error of his ways they would do a great deal for the cause of the Province and to assure success to Reform principles.

The afternoon meeting ended shortly after five o'clock. It was thought best before the meeting terminated to arrange for evening meetings in both the Pavilion and Shaftesbury Hall, and this was accordingly done, for it was evident that by the time the evening meeting was convened, at least 7,000 delegates would be present.

The Evening Gathering.

The Convention resumed at the Horticultural Gardens at 7.30 p.m., and notwithstanding the organization of an overflow meeting at Shaftesbury Hall the number at the Pavilion apparently suffered no diminution. The building was literally packed—floor, platform and galleries.

Mr. Edgar read the address drawn up to the Premier of Ontario.

THE ADDRESS.

The following is the address presented to Mr. Mowat at the evening meeting in the Horticultural Gardens:

To the Honorable Oliver Mowat, Q. C., M. P. P., L. L. D., Her Majesty's Attorney-General for Ontario and Premier of the Province:

SIR,—This large and thoroughly representative Convention of the Reformers of Ontario has sought the earliest opportunity of tendering you an expression of their earnest esteem and unwavering confidence.

Ever since your entry into public and Parliamentary life, now more than 25 years ago, you have filled a prominent place in Canadian history; and during that long period neither the malignity of defeated opponents nor the bitterness of a partisan press has dared to breathe a charge against your integrity or your honor.

In the earlier years of your public life you stood in the front rank of those who did battle for the rights of Upper Canada; and in these latter days you are our chosen leader in the struggle for Provincial Rights. As you succeeded once in achieving your purpose, not by rending asunder, but by assisting to lay the foundations of a greater Canada, so we believe that you will again strengthen our Federal system by showing the sister Provinces that Ontario is the first to resist encroachments upon Provincial rights be they legislative or be they territorial.

If the Bench lost one of its most useful occupants when you yielded to a call of duty and again ventured upon the troubled sea of politics, the statute books of Ontario for the last ten years are unanswerable evidence of how great has been the country's gain. Possessing the uniform confidence of the Legislature, you have led its members steadily forward in the path of law reform, and have also prepared for their consideration measures of practical value wherever there were improvements to be made or abuses to be corrected. When it is considered how closely the social happiness and the material prosperity of the people are identified with the subjects of Provincial legislative authority it is manifestly of the highest importance to the whole community that services such as yours should be both recognized and retained.

While the Administration of Provincial finances by your Government has been characterized by prudence and economy, there has been no failure on their part to promote by judicious expenditure all projects of undoubted public usefulness or necessity.

Unceasing and special exertions appear to have been made by yourself and your colleagues to encourage and develop in every way the great agricultural interests of Ontario, and it is gratifying to know that these efforts have been crowned with signal success.

This address would fail to express our true sentiments were we not to refer to some of those personal qualities for which you are so distinguished. Intellectual power alone will not attract and retain a politicial following. You combine with it a rare faculty of winning the confidence and regard of all with whom you come in contact. No one can say that you refuse to give weight either to the advice of friends or to the arguments of opponents. Without abandoning your own convictions, you can take a broad and statesmanlike view of contrary opinions, and even honest prejudices receive from you a generous toleration.

You are about to appeal, for the third time, to the people who make and unmake their rulers in this free country. Your first appeal was successful; in your second a still greater measure of public confidence was given to you; and in the recent by-elections there was undoubted evidence that this confidence is increasing.

In the approaching general elections you may rely upon a united and enthusiastic support from the entire Liberal party, and there is much to indicate that there are numbers in every constituency who will rise superior to party ties and will assist in retaining you in power.

That you may be long spared to direct the affairs of your native Province, and that health and happiness may attend you are the heartfelt wishes of the Reform Convention of 1883.

The various paragrphs of the address were loudly cheered, and when Mr. Mowat stepped forward to reply he was received with another ovation, the immense audience rising to their feet and greeting him with round after round of most enthusiastic cheers.

Mr. Mowat responded in a most able and eloquent speech, lasting for upwards of an hour, and was loudly cheered by the delegates.

Mr. Mowat was followed by Mr. Blake in a powerful speech, and he again by Mr. Mackenzie.

AT SHAFTESBURY HALL.

Messrs. Patterson, Pardee, McKenzie and others spoke to a densely packed assembly in Shaftesbury Hall. Mr. Mowat and Mr. Blake, as soon as they had done speaking in the Pavilion, left for Shaftesbury Hall, so that all the delegates might have any opportunity of hearing them.

Large numbers of delegates arrived late this evening, enough to have formed a third mass meeting. Such a turn out of electors was never seen in Toronto before.

On no former occasion was there ever a convention which could not assemble in Shaftesbury Hall.

To-night nearly 5,000 were in the Pavilion, and nearly 2,000 in the hall, and yet there were many who could not find standing room in either. The Mail says Mr. Mowat must go, and the electors of Ontario have sent to Toronto 7,000 picked men to ask the reason why, and twenty times this number will ask the reason why at the polls.

Great indignation and disgust were shown when Mr. Blake referred to the ruffianly attck made upon the delegates by the Mail.

Thursday's Proceedings.

To-day's session of the Reform Convention in the Horticultural Pavilion was presided over by Mr. W. J. Copp, of Hamilton, who disoharged his duties with the greatest satisfaction to all. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Kerr, Cobourg; Gibson and Ross, Huron; Young, North Brant: Coyne, St. Thomas; O'Leary, Lindsay, and others. The greatest excitement prevailed when Mr. Kerr referred to the editor of the Mail as a semi-barbarian for having insulted the delegates to the Convention yesterday. A series of resolutions embodying the platform of the Reform party was carried.

Text of the Resolutions, Passed at the Toronto Convention.

I. GENERAL RESOLUTION.

Moved by Dr. McLaughlin, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. Kerr, Cobourg:

1. Resolved, That this Convention of the Reformers of Ontario recognizes with pride and pleasure the fidelity to Liberal principles which has been evinced through a long series of administrative and legislative acts by the Reform Governments and Legislatures of the Province for the past eleven years, and deems it to be the bounden duty of all true Liberals to strengthen to the uttermost the hands of the Hon. Oliver Mowat, our worthy leader, and his colleagues at this critical period in our Provincial history.

II. THE DISALLOWANCE QUESTION.

Moved by Hon. D. Mills, seconded by Mr. E. B. Charlton, of Hamilton:

2. Resolved, That by the British North America Act the Provincial Legislatures have exclusive powers of legislation on subjects placed by that Act within their jurisdiction that the power of disallowance by the Federal Government can be constitutionally exercised only when such legislation is beyond the jurisdiction of the Province, or antagonistic to Dominion interests, that the Rivers and Streams Act which dealt with subjects left by the constitution to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Legislature of Ontario, was in no manner illegal, unconstitutional or antagonistic to Dominion interests; that the repeated disallowance of the Act was, therefore, in the opinion of this Convention, a violation of our Provincial autonomy, an attack upon the fundamental principle of local self-government, provided by the Confederation Act, and secured mainly by the earnest consistent and long continued efforts of the Reform party; and that the action of our Government and Legislature in asserting and vindicating our Provincial constitutional rights, demands the approval and support of every patriotic citizen.

III. THE BOUNDARY AWARD.

Moved by Mr. A. M. Ross, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. T. Gibson, M.P.P.:

3. Resolved, That this Province came into Confederation with the territory which formerly belonged to Upper Canada; that the extent of that territory on the north and west was at that time undetermined, but was, in the month of August, 1878, finally determined by the unanimous award of able arbitrators of the highest distinction, appointed on a competent reference by the respective Governments of the Dominion and this Province, under an agreement to which the good faith and honor of both were pledged, that the award should be final and conclusive; that this award was accepted by the Government of this Province as in honor bound, but was repudiated by the Government of the Dominion; that such repudiation is, in the opinion of this Convention, a violation of public law and national faith, and an indefensible denial on the part of the Federal authorities of the just claims and territorial rights of this Province; and that the manly and persistent assertion by the Government of Ontario of those claims and those rights, and their demand for the immediate ownership and government of the awarded territory, deserve the support and co-operation not only of the Liberal party, but of every citizen of the Province.

IV. THE FEDERAL UNION.

Moved by Mr. Patrick Hughes, seconded by Mr. J. McMullen, M.P.:

4. Resolved, That this Convention earnestdesires that the bonds which unite the provinces of Canada shall be strengthened by the development of a feeling of affection for and pride in the Federal union which connects them; and this convention believes that such sentiments will be best promoted by the maintenance of the Federal principles of the union: by the full recognition of the rights of each Province to control all matters which are placed under its exclusive power: and the adoption of the principles of justice and fair play in the adjustment of all questions arising between the Dominion and the Provinces.

V. THE FRANCHISE.

Moved by Dr. Samson, of Kent, seconded by Mr. G. S. Macdonald:

5. Resolved, That this Convention rejoices in the successful operation of those extensions of the franchise which have from time to time been placed in the statute book; records its opinion that a further extension should form a plank in the platform of the Reform party at the ensuing election; and expresses its hope that the popular voice will endorse the proposal and will return a Liberal majority authorized to accomplish this reform.

VI. LEGISLATION AND ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

Moved by Mr. James Young, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. J. L. Coyne, St. Thomas:

6. Resolved, That this Convention expresses its gratification that under the auspices of the Reform Governments of Ontario our election laws have been greatly improved; valuable reforms have been effected in the laws relating to real and personal property; our municipal and school laws have been much improved; the statute law has been revised and consolidated; great and radical reforms in the procedure and practice of our courts, tending to the promotion of simplicity, economy and expedition in the administration of justice, have been successfully accomplished; prompt means have invariably been taken to establish such administration in every outlying district of the province, contemporaneous with settlement; and justice has been administered throughout the Province with purity and uprightness.

VII. SURPLUS DISTRIBUTION AND RAILWAY AID.

Moved by Mr. Hugh O'Leary, Lindsay, seconded by Mr. Isaac Bowman, Waterloo:

7. Resolved, That this Convention desires to record its gratification that the Reform Governments and Legislatures triumphantly solved the difficult problems presented by the Municipal Loan Fund, and the best means of applying to profitable ends a portion of the surplus in the treasury; that the Municipal Loan Fund debts were successfully settled upon an equitable basis; that large sums out of the surplus have been returned to the people under conditions requiring their expenditure for objects of great public utility; and that a judicious system of railway aid has given to the Province two thousand two hundred miles of new railway, and in this way greatly assisted the development of our agricultural and commercial industries, and promoted the general advancement of the Province.

VIII.—FINANCIAL POSITION.

Moved by Mr. W. D. Balfour, M.P.P., Amherstburg, seconded by Mr. S. J. Cascaden, M.P.P.:

8. Resolved, That in the opinion of this Convention the management of the Provincial finances by the Liberal Government of the Province has evidenced their fidelity to the Reform principles of progress and economy; that, whilst these Governments have not hesitated as responsible stewards of the public funds to propose such expenditures as the public good required, they have been careful and provident in their administration; and that it is proud fact that, whilst the ordinary business of administration has been steadily carried on, the education of the people assisted, the vicious and afflicted cared for, burdens lifted off the municipalities, all our industries encouraged and the progress of the Province in every way and on every side advanced, a large surplus still remains in the Treasury of the Province.

IX. ENCOURAGEMENT TO AGRICULTURE.

Moved by Mr. Drury, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. J. White:

9. Resolved, That this Convention recognizes with satisfaction the vigorous, judicious and timely steps which, under the Reform Governments of Ontario, have been taken to render assistance in the development of our great agricultural industry, by the encouragement given to Agricultural, Horticultural and kindred Associations, by the continued drainage of our low lying lands, by the initiation of the tile drainage scheme, by the satisfactory adjustment of the vexed question of market fees, by the expansion of the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm, by the invaluable labors of the agricultural commission, and by the establishment of the agricultural branch of the Bureau of Industries; and this Convention rejoices to observe that the Government is contemplating other plans for further promoting the agricultural interests of the Province.

X. ENCOURAGEMENT OF COMMERCE AND MANUFACTURES.

Moved by Mr. C. Gildersleeve, Kingston, seconded by Mr. W. J. Copp, Hamilton:

10. Resolved, That this Convention rejoices in all healthy expansion of the manufacturing and mercantile interests of the Province; is pleased to know that within the range of their constitutional powers the Reform Governments of Ontario have encouraged those industries, by aiding the building of railways, by assisting to give at foreign exhibitions the fullest possible display of our manufactured products, and by providing through the Bureau of Industries a faithful record of the state of the manufacturing industries, which cannot fail to be of substantial benefit to such industries, and to the Province at large.

XI. EDUCATION.

Moved by Mr. J. M. Gibson, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. R. Harcourt, M.P.P.:

11. Resolved, That the progress and development of every part of our Public and High School system during the past eleven years, in the more thorough training, classification and examination of teachers, the more efficient inspection and classification of schools, and the complete remodelling and great advance of the work of secondary education, are matters for congratulation; that the complications and difficulties which necessarily surround such a subject are to be met, as they have been met, by vigilantly watching over the working of the system with a view to such changes in detail as from time to time experience may show to be necessary; by a due regard to the reasonable wishes and feelings of the various sections of the community; and by the application to the utmost extent, consistent with efficiency, of the principle of local control over local affairs.

XII. CROWN LANDS AND TIMBER POLICY.

Moved by Mr. H. M. Deroche, M.P.P., seconded by Mr. J. Dowdall:

12. Resolved, That the manner in which the forest and timber interests of the Province have been guarded and managed by the Reform Administrations and Legislatures; the safe-guards thrown around these interests by the provisions which require public competition as the condition of license; the care, skill and judgment which have been displayed by the Executive in determining when sales of licenses shall take place; and the care and integrity displayed in the sale and management of our Crown Lands are subjects of just pride to the Liberal party, and of national congratulation to every inhabitant of the Province.

XIII. FREE GRANTS, COLONIZATION ROADS AND IMMIGRATION.

Moved by Mr. J. Korman, seconded by Mr. J. W. Bettes, M. P. P.:

13. Resolved, That, while we look with pleasure on the growth of the Canadian Northwest, we are sensible that the drain on our population and our resources towards that and other fields has of late years been considerable, but that we note with satisfaction the great development of the newer districts of our acknowledged territory during the last eleven years, under the liberal system of free grants from the Crown; and rejoice that, by a judicious expenditure on colonization roads and internal improvements, so many of our sons, together with people of other countries, have, notwithstanding great attraction elsewhere, found homes within our borders; and that we trust the immigration policy of the Ontario Government will, in the present circumstances, continue to be one of vigorous effort to secure large additions to our agricultural population.

XIV. PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Joseph Tait, Yorkville, seconded by Mr. Edwards:

14. Resolved, That this Convention views with approval and satisfaction the vigorous and successful manner in which the Reform Governments of Ontario have promptly met every public requirement for the restraint and correction of the vicious, as well as the care of the afflicted and unfortunate portions of our population, by the erection of such buildings as were needed, and by the successful maintenance and management, on the latest curative, sanitary and humane methods, of our various penal and charitable institutions.

XV. MUNICIPAL INSTITUTIONS.

Moved by Mr. D. D. Hay, M. P. P., North Perth, seconded by W. H. Doel, East York:

15. Resolved, That the Reform party, the parent of the system of local institutions, municipal liberties, and generally of the principles of self-government, reaffirm, after our experience of more than forty years, the value of these institutions, and will in the future, as it has done in the past, guard, cherish and develop them by all means in its power.

XVI.—THE LIQUOR LICENSE QUESTION.

Moved by Mr. J. M. Ferris, M. P. P., East Northumberland, seconded by Mr. J. M. McMillan, Toronto:

16. Resolved, That this Convention views with gratitude the great improvements which have, under Reform Governments, been made in the laws affecting temperance; protests in the strongest way against any of the retrograde changes lately advocated, such as extending the hours of selling, lessening the restrictions in the number of licenses, creating vested interests in licenses, and re-transferring to Municipal Councils the responsibility of issuing licenses; believes that the general interpretation of the constitution, acted on in all the Provinces ever since Confederation, has been that the Provincial Legislatures have authority in the matter, and that such interpretation is in accordance with the spirit of the constitution: considers that it is for the best interests of the Dominion that the Local Legislatures should have such authority; deprecates any assumption of power by the Parliament of the Dominion in this regard, beyond what may be needed for passing a general law as to prohibition; declares that the Local Legislatures can best interpret and give effect to the feelings and wishes of the people in each Province as to the license system; and insists that action by the Parliament of the Dominion would be an undue interference with Provincial rights, and detrimental to the cause of order and sobriety.

THE PREMIER'S CLOSING ADDRESS.

Hon. Mr. Mowat, on coming forward to deliver the closing address of the convention, was received with the wildest enthusiasm, the entire audience rising to their feet and cheering for several minutes. On order being restored, he said:

It has been suggested, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, that the close of his Convention I should pronounce the benediction. (Laughter and cheers.) But you have been pronouncing benediction all day, as well as all day yesterday; and if there is any further benediction to be pronounced I want you to be pronouncing it from this day forth until the election and especially to pronounce it on the election day. (Loud cheers.) We have been discussing the great question at issue in this country just now; they have been set before you over and over again; your minds are full of them. You see that Province is in danger; that its territory is in danger; that its constitutional and legislative rights are in danger, and that the government in which you believe is also attacked. The Ontario government, in which you are expressing a feeling of confidence that is so grateful to us, which places us under new obligations to you has no power at all except the power which you give us. (Cheers.) You are the representatives here in a very special sense of the Province of Ontario, of every part of it. You are strong men every one of you in your localities. Every one of you can do mighty work in the approaching elections, and I call upon you to do that work. (Loud cheers and cries of "We will".) It is the old battle, affecting the most important interests of our country. You are the soldiers in that battle, and I call on you to stand firm. (Cheers.) Every man of you has a duty to perform, and let every one feel it to be his duty from this time until the next election to do all that man can for the object we have in view, viz., to secure those rights which your love for your country makes you anxious about now. (Hear, hear.) Whatever you can do, it is the bounden duty of every man of you to do it, and I know that you will. (Cheers.) Kind words have been said from this platform and expressed in the resolution with regard to myself, while kinder sounds still I have heard from this audience. They have excited the most grateful feelings in my mind and in the minds of my colleagues. You have placed upon us a fresh obligation, a greatly increased obligation to do our duty. It now remains for you to do yours, (cheers) and Reformers when they see their duty have never yet failed to perform it. In an ordinary election it is quite sufficient that you should return the Government of your choice by a majority that will unable them to carry their measures; but the present contest is one of a peculiar character. It is the Dominion against Ontario, and your objects cannot be accomplished unless you give us a large amount of moral strength in the contest. We want not merely a majority of votes in the Assembly, but that moral strength which the general voice of the people, which a large majority gives, and which it alone gives. Wherever now you have a Reform member you must swell his majority at the next election. (Cheers.) Where you have a close constituency which is not now represented by a Reformer you must see to it that shall be represented by a Reformer after the next election. (Cheers.) You must make the victory still more significant by taking care in others of the constituencies in which the enemy think themselves secure Reformers shall be elected in the approaching contest. (Cheers) Do all that and Ontario is safe. (Loud cheers.) Her territory is safe. Her legislative rights are safe, and the battle of former days will not have to be fought over again. (Cheers.) And then personally to myself is another consideration, viz., that it will make it quite sure that Mowat will not "go" (Tremendous and long continued cheering.)

Cheers were then given respectively for the Queen, Hon. Messrs. Mowat, Blake, Mackenzie, and Fraser, Sir Richard Cartwright, and the chairman, vice-chairmen, and secretaries, after which the Liberal Convention of 1883 came to an end, and the delegates slowly withdrew.

HEALTH IS WEALTH!

DR. E. C. WEST'S NERVE AND BRAIN TREATMENT, a gu

A NOTED BUT UNTITLED WOMAN.

[From the Boston Globe.]

Messrs. Editors:—

The above is a good likeness of Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., who above all other human beings may be truthfully called the "Dear Friend of Woman," as some of her correspondents love to call her. She is zealously devoted to her work, which is the outcome of a life-study, and is obliged to keep six lady assistants, to help her answer the large correspondence which daily pours in upon her, each bearing its special message of suffering, or joy at release from it. Her Vegetable Compound is a medicine for good and not evil purposes. I have personally investigated it and am satisfied of the truth of this.

On account of its proven merits, it is recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country. One says: "It works like a charm and saves much pain. It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, Irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Bloodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life."

It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach. It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.

It costs only $1. per bottle or six for $5., and is sold by druggists. Any advice required as to special cases, and the names of many who have been restored to perfect health by the use of the Vegetable Compound, can be obtained by addressing Mrs. P., with stamp for reply, at her home in Lynn, Mass.

For Kidney Complaint of either sex this compound is unsurpassed as abundant testimonials show.

"Mrs. Pinkham's Liver Pills," says one writer, "are the best in the world for the cure of Constipation, Biliousness and Torpidity of the liver. Her Blood Purifier works wonders in its special line and bids fair to equal the Compound in its popularity.

All must respect her as an Angel of Mercy whose sole ambition is to do good to others.

GENTS, I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Bentley, of this place, and have received received great benefit from it. SWEET ARE THE USES OF ADVERSITY.

A boy of twelve stood leaning against a fence on Duffield street, hat pulled down, feet crossed, and his right hand going up occasionally to wipe his nose, when along came another anatomy about his size and asked:

"Sick?"

"No."

"Any the family dead?"

"No."

"Going to run away?"

"I dunno. I've just been licked."

"Who dun it?"

"Dad."

"Did you: ma ask him to?"

"Yes. She told him I had been aching for it more than a month."

"Say," said the new arrival, "you are in luck. I'm trying my best to get dad to whale me. I'd give fifty cents if he had tanned me this noon, and it was all through hurting."

"Why?"

"Why! Haven't I got three dollars saved up to buy pap and marm New Year's presents, and if I can git 'em to whale me before New Year's won't I spend every cent of that money on myself? How much you got?"

"Two dollars."

"Bully! You are all right! You've been licked, and they won't even expect a stick of gum from their pounded son. I'll go home and slam the baby around and steal sugar and kick the cat and sass mother, and if I can git walloped to-night I'll meet you here to-morrow, and we'll pool in and buy more pistols and scalping knives and rock candy and nuts and raisins than you ever saw before! Yip! Peel me down, dear father, hang my hide on the fence, mother darling!"

NEVER GIVE UP.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. I write to tell you of the great and lasting benefits I have receive from Dr. Wilson's Pulmonary Cherry Balsam. I had disease of the lungs for over two years. All the doctors I tried considered my case hopeless. A friend recommended your Balsam. The Balsam relieved all these symptoms and made a complete cure of me. I am desirous of making my cure known.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

MANHOOD

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

☞Price in a sealed envelope, on 6c. or two po-tage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY. The annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society will be held in the Bank of Toronto, this evening, (Thursday), at 8 p.m. for the reception of the annual report, and for the election of directors.

FIRE BRIGADE. The following are the officers of the Peterborough Fire Brigade for the year 1883: Electric Hose Company No. 1, Captain and Assistant Chief, Mr. S. Clegg; 1st Lieutenant, Mr. A. Irwin. Protection Hose Company, Captain, Mr. T. Marks; 1st Lieutenant, Mr. H. Evans; Brigade secretary, Mr. J. D. Orme, (re-elected.) Treasurer, Mr. C. Rutherford.

PETERBOROUGH TRAFFIC. The tracks of the Midland Railway system are kept hot these days with the weight of through traffic of freight sent over the line to relieve the crush of this traffic on the C. P. R. Some idea may be formed of the manner in which the capacity of the latter road is tried, when the overflow freight that passes over the Midland averages from 45 to 50 cars each way daily.

TRAFFIC RETURNS. The Traffic of the Midland Railway of Canada for the week ending Dec. 30th, 1882, was as follows: Passengers and Mails, $10,975.04; freight, $9,323.48; total, $20,298.52 as compared with $19,320.66 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $977.86; and the aggregate traffic to date is $1,065,611.84, being an increase of $206.55 over 1881.

A LUMINOUS IDEA. Not a hundred miles from town, two aspirants to the office of School Trustee, being of an economical turn of mind, and not wishing to put the municipality to the expense of an election decided upon a new plan. They therefore withdrew into a certain back room and "drew cuts" with broken matches the one who got the longest cut to be Trustee. Sufficient to say, the professional man won. They afterwards retired to a quiet place and clenched the bargain in something not quite so dry as matches.

A SOLID FACT. It is a solid fact that fresh solid oysters the J. B. L. and J. L. & Co's Selects (oyster) are the very best for raw consumption or for frying. For a delicious stew take the Diamond Brand. With the cold snap oysters improve in quality and tend downward in prices. Note the following prices at Smith's Market, George street, Peterborough.

Diamond Brand.....only 30c per Can

VITAL STATISTICS. The registrations of births, deaths and marriages with the Town Clerk for the year 1882, were: births 198, marriages 85, and deaths 104. There is an increase as compared with last year of birth registrations 30, of death registrations 21 and a decrease in the registrations of marriages of 6. There is evidently a great neglect in complying with the law in respect of registration. Any person noticing the record of the three events in the newspapers, will easily see that the list is very incomplete. The number of burials at Little Lake Cemetery, in the same time was 119, which is 15 in excess of the registrations, with the Roman Catholic Cemetery to be heard from.

A PETERBOROUGH BOY ABROAD. We copy from the Ottawa Free Press the following concerning Mr. A. H. Cobb, a former resident of this town, at one time in the employ of Mr. J. D. Tully, druggist, and son of Mr. Joseph Cobb, Brock street, Peterborough: "Mr. A. H. Cobb, who has been for the past three years dispensing clerk in G. T. O. Elwell's drug store, is soon to start in business for himself, as a druggist, at the stand formerly occupied by Warnock & Clarke at 179 Sparks street. Mr. Cobb has a thorough knowledge of the druggist's business, having had ten years' experience. His store will be opened in February next. Many friends wish him success in the enterprise, and his reliability will no doubt secure his success."

PETERBOROUGH ENTERPRISE. Messrs. Whyte & Co., of Peterborough, are not cast down by disaster. The following from the Campbellford Herald tells how their energy has found vent in Campbellford since the destruction of their foundry by fire last fall: "Mr. Whyte has made good speed since the destruction of the company's foundry in Peterborough a few weeks ago, by the erection of a similar building in Campbellford. He sent for Mr. Russell soon after the fire, the brick work was commenced immediately, and now the carpenters are at work inclosing the building. It is a large one-storey building. Mr. Whyte will begin work inside as soon as the structure is completed and the material for operations ready." Nor will the rural branch of their business be the limit of their enterprise. It is the intention of the firm to reconstruct their foundry, etc., here in the early spring. The old site or its vicinity will be used.

The Lindsay Post informs us that it is "probable that Mr. Albert Hall, confectioner, will shortly open up again at a suitable point for his business on Kent street. Mr. Hall will be welcomed back by the public at large, who have during the last five years learned to rely on his excellence as a pastry cook." It seems as if Lindsay without the aid of Peterboro' talent would starve and have to go on foot.

GRAIN MOVEMENTS.—There have been shipped by Midland Railway from the station, Peterborough, during the season of 1882, 294,819 bush. of grain. Of this 138,676 bushels were of wheat and the remainder, 156,143 of other grains.

GETTING BETTER.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. Samuel Milligan, of Ashburnham, who has been suffering severely from erysipelas, resulting from the wounds received in the brutal assault he suffered last week, is improving, and that there are hopes of his recovery, which were not at one time entertained.

A POSER. A mathematical contributor requests us to give circulation to the following circular poser: "Given a circle, the diameter of which is 1 inch. The square root of one-fourth of the circumference, bears the same proportion to one (1), that the square (of the quarter) bears to the one-fourth. What is the circumference"

THE BOWMANVILLE BONSPEIL. The following rinks left Wednesday morning to represent the P. C. C. at the Bowmanville bonspeil:

W. G. Ferguson,

Hon. R. Hamilton.

THE ROARIN' GAME.—The third rink in the presidential and vice-presidential contest which was at play as we went to press last issue, decided the fight by a narrow majority of one in favor of the vice-president's side. The match throughout was keenly contested, the players being pretty evenly matched. On Tuesday night the second and third rinks played with the following result. President 35, Vice-President 34. On Wednesday night the first rink played three hours with a result of a difference of two in favor of the Vice-President's side as follows:

Geo. Hilliard,	Robert Hall.
Hon. R. Hamilton	J. McClelland,
A. McNeil,	Adam Hall,
T. P. Attril, skip 19	Dr Boucher, skip 21.

NEW GROCERY BUSINESS. Mr. James H. O'Shea has opened out a shop for the sale of groceries wines and liquors, in the Star Grocery premises, corner of Hunter and Water streets, formerly occupied by Mr. J. L. Brown. The shop has been fitted up anew since the fire, in first-class style, and a fine and extensive stock of groceries, wines and liquors has been laid in. The stock is all fresh and good, and will be sold at very low prices. Customers will find it greatly to their advantage to select from a new and fresh stock. When you need anything in the line of groceries wines or liquors, be sure and call at the Star Grocery. You will be so well suited and served on your first visit that it will not be the last. Remember the place, the Star Grocery, corner of Hunter and Water streets.

POLICE RECORD.—During the year 1882, more were disposed of at the Police court, than in any similar period since its institution. The total number of cases was 380, the principal offences being breach of the "sign" By Law 110, found drunk 91, drunk and disorderly 54, Assaults 23, Vagrancy 17. The others charges were some of them of a serious character but the great majority were for trivial offences. The large increase in the drunks is due in a great measure to the Railway works now in progress and the many sign cases at the commencement of the year assisted considerably to swell the total. No persons were sent to the penitentiary or Reformatory and but two to the Central Prison. The great majority of these who were sent to gaol were either vagrants or drunks, unable to pay their fines. Serious offences were very rare, the most having occured just at the end of the year.

OFFICERS INSTALLED. The following officers were installed in the Otonabee Lodge of Oddfellows, No. 13, on Monday evening, the 9th inst.:

Mr. Wm. Cluxton	N.G.
Mr. Jas. Stevenson	V.G.
" E. E Henderson	Secty.
" G. B. Sproule	Treas.
" Jos. McClelland	P.S.
Dr. R. W. Bell	R.S.N.G.
Mr. John McKee	L.S.N.G.
" Wm. Ross	R.S.V.G.
" H. H. Smith	L.S.V.G.
" Hugh Ross	W.
" J. Mathieson	R.S.S.
" T. Workman	L.S.S.
" J. G. Early	I.G.
" M. Mowry	O.G.

The installation was performed by Dr. R. W. Bell, P. G. C. of the Grand Lodge assisted by Mr. W. Marriage, G. L. of Q., Montreal, Mr. J. C. T. Lacey, N. G. of the Peterborough Lodge, No. 111, and others. The Grand Secretary, J. B. King, Esq., Toronto, will visit this Lodge officially on Monday evening next, the 15th inst. Members of all the Lodges in District are invited to be present.

ANNUAL SUPPER. On Thursday night last Mr. Adam Hall of the Giant T. entertained his employees at another giant tea or rather supper, an annual occurrence, as regular as pay night at Faucher's restaurant. An excellent spread was followed by the usual programme of toasts, Mr. Hall occupying the chair, after the set toasts "Our Foreman" was proposed and drunk with all the honors followed by that of "Mr. Hall our employer" who seemed by the enthusiastic way in which the toast was honored to be the "boss" man in both senses. Other toasts with songs and speeches put in a very pleasant hour or two. This social and convivial mode of an employer showing recognition of the faithful services of his employees, begets a better feeling between labor and capital, so to speak. Men will work better for an employer who shows that he thinks they are men, than for one who appears to consider them as mere machines, whose only recognition is their wages sometimes paid grudgingly and with an air of sacrifice and "I wouldn't if I could help it."

MR. CARPENTER'S TERPSICHOREAN "CANTATA." The success which attended the first presentation of Mr. Lafayette Carpenter's "own and only," "unique and unexcelled" saltatory recital on Friday night, shows that it is not necessary to go out of town to secure talented artists to interpret the poetry of motion, and the classic combination of the mazy mystery of the heel and toe. The Opera House was literally jammed with a fashionable and appreciative audience, whose frequent and rapturous applause demonstrated how "solid" Mr. C. was on his pins, so to speak. Mr. C. made his first appearance in the sweet and festive clog, and the applause was tremendous. His subsequent interpretations of Fisher's Hornpipe, and Slighter's Jig were grand, but the climax was reached when his celebrated Cinderella Waltz, with its scientific sinuosities, its miracles of mazy meandering and chaste changes of step, held the vast assemblage entranced with its perfection of artistic finish. Several other performers kindly assisted to give variety to the programme, but though their several contributions were excellent, it is hardly necessary to say that they only acted as foils to Mr. C.'s unrivalled paths of rendition and perfection of technique in the Terpsichorean art. The Fire Brigade Band furnished excellent and appropriate music. The affair was a great financial success. In all the immense audience there was not a single "dead-head" ticket even the press was ignored; but true art is above such sordid and complimentary considerations, and the press, too, can be magnanimous and tender its feeble and unsubsidized aid in celebrating, however weakly and inadequately, the merit of an artistic excellence which has stood the crucial test of public trial and bears the conspicuous and sterling stamp of enthusiastic public approval.

STONY LAKE.—A petition is being circulated and is receiving numerous signatures to the Superintendent-General of Indian affairs, asking him to prevent the destruction of the standing trees on the islands in the lake, which it seems have been disposed of for the trifling sum of $20. It would seem that when the financial amount involved is so small and the prospective damage to the beauty of these islands so great that an amicable arrangements might be arrived at. In view of the lake next year being selected for the meeting of the American Canoe Association, it is desirable that its beauty should be preserved as much as possible.

THE WILSON-MEHARRY ASSAULT CASES.

DECISION OF THE MAGISTRATE.

On Friday morning John Wilson and W. H. Meharry were brought up for the decision of the Police Magistrate in the different charges against them, the hearing of which had occupied two days and which had crowded the court with spectators and auditors.

THE JUDGMENT

of the Court was as follows: John Wilson for the assault on Thos. Hooper was ordered to pay a fine of $20 and costs, or in default two months in jail.

In the double charge against Wilson and Meharry for assaulting David Doig, each of the accused was fined $40 and costs, or three months in jail.

In the case of Wilson & Meharry assaulting Cushing another partnership affair—each of the members of the firm was fined $50 and costs, or six months in jail.

On the charge of assault with intent on Samuel Milligan, Wilson and Meharry, were both remanded to jail for one week, pending the result of Milligan's injuries, whose state had taken a turn for the worse.

Mr. W. H. Moore, counsel for the prisoners, made application for bail but it was refused on account of the uncertainty of Milligan's condition.

Cushing was acquitted of a charge of assault on John Wilson, March 20, 1881, rather an old wound to re-open, and Wilson was acquitted on a charge of stealing a quantity of liquor from Wm. Bell last October.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.

On Sunday and Monday last the the anniversary of the George Street church was celebrated in a very successful manner.

ON SUNDAY,

Rev. Dr. Stone, of the M. E. Church, Hamilton, preached eloquent sermons, as is his wont, both morning and evening, to large audiences. The excellent music of the choir received the assistance of Mrs. Chambers of Toronto, a former resident of Peterborough, whose services on the occasion were worthy of particular mention.

On Monday evening the annual teameeting was held with marked success. A large gathering did justice to the fine spread found in the lecture rooms, and adjourned to the body of the church. After the usual routine, the treasurer's annual statement of the finances of the Church was read by Mr. J. W. Flavelle. This showed that during the past year the debt on the church had been reduced $915.57, and that in the past two years the reduction had been the handsome amount of $9,500, which leaves, taking assets into consideration, an indebtenness of $16,153.67 to be provided for. In another two years, at the rate of the past two, the church will be relieved of debt. Following this were addresses by Rev. Messrs. Stone and McAmmond. During the evening the choir was assisted by Mrs. Chambers, who rendered some solo selections in excellent style. The church authorities are to be congratulated on the success of their anniversary services throughout.

LITTLE CHRISTMAS.

A HOLYDAY OF OBLIGATION IN THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

Saturday, the Feast of Epiphany, familiarly known as "little Christmas," was observed as a holiday of obligation in the Roman Catholic Church. The "twelfth day" after Christmas commemorates the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles. That this feast was called Epiphany and and celebrated in January is attested by Ammianus Marcellinus, who says Julian kept it at Vienne in Gaul. That it was on January 6 is seen in the constitutions of Valens. Theodosius and Arandius. January 6 was held to be the day on which led the wise men to Bethlehem, and that on which Christ was baptized in the Jordan as well as that on which he performed his first public miracle in Cana. St. Paulinus affirms that these three anniversaries were solemnized on the same day in the fourth century. Some African churches commemorated a fourth event, the multiplication of the five loaves by Christ. From the time of the Council of Nice (325) this day was set apart throughout the East for the solemn administration of baptism. It was also the custom there at midnight on the

THE MIRACULOUS STAR.

FEAST OF THE EPIPHANY

to fetch water, the springs, which was believed to keep fresh and pure the whole ensuing year. St. Epiphanius says this was done in memory of the water changed into wine at Cana. It was on Epiphany, in fine, that Patriarchs and Metropolitans yearly published the "paschal letters" announcing the precise time for the celebration of Easter and Pentecost.

CELEBRATION IN TOWN.

The day was observed as a holiday in the banks, and the stores of the Roman Catholic merchants were closed. Services were held in the Roman Catholic church the same as on Sunday, and the day was observed by members of that creed as a holiday of obligation, no manual labor being performed.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ORANGE MEETING.

At the annual meeting of Norwood District Orange Lodge, held here on Tuesday last, the following officers were elected for the current year:

Wm. Hutchinson	D.M.
Jas. Robb	D.D.M.
Joseph Moore	Chap.
John Powel	Secy.
J. D. Ackerman	Treas.
Alex. Smith	D. of C.

It was decided that the lodges of the district would celebrate the next 12th of July at Warsaw, if it was decided by the County Lodge to have a county procession on that day.

TRUSTEE MEETING.

A special meeting of the Norwood Board of Trustees was held at the Town Hall on Monday evening last, to engage a teacher for the primary department of the public school, in the place of Miss Waters, who had resigned. The Board decided to advertise in the Mail and Globe for a teacher to fill the vacancy.

CONSERVATIVE MEETING.

Following the meeting held by the Reformers of the riding to choose a candidate for the coming election for the Provincial Legislature, the Conservatives of East Peterborough also assembled on Tuesday afternoon for the same purpose. The choice of the meeting fell upon Mr. George Read, of Keene, who accepted the nomination. The contest, therefore, will be between gentlemen residing in the township of Otonabee.

TRUSTEE ELECTION.

Rather more than the usual interest was manifested this year in the election of trustees to fill the places of the two retiring officers of the board. There were four candidates in the field, viz.: Messrs. P. W. Reynolds, Thos. Buck, John Harper and W. J. Roseborough. The contest was hotly fought, and the respective candidates during the day worked hard in their own interests. The vote however decided in favor of Mr. P. W. Reynolds and Mr. John Harper.

COMING ANNUAL MEETINGS.

The following dates of the several annual meetings indicated below will be of interest:

County Council, Court House, Jan. 23rd, 2 p.m.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Old December has at length come to a natural death and in closing its demise the year of 1882 sweeping its millions from time into eternity, as revolving years have done in the past so will they ever do in the future, and no doubt ere this is in type has again summoned those who shall lead the van in departing millions for 1883.

The month to which we now bid farewell might well be styled a month of storms, snow falling on 21 days to the depth of 19½ inches and rain on 4 days to the depth 67-100, with white fog on 4 days the highest temperature reached was on the 22nd at sun down, name 37 above, 5 times has it been below zero on the night of the 4th at 9 o'clock p.m., 8 on the morning of the 12th 9 below at sun rise on the 15th at 7, on the 16th again 3°, and on the morning of the 19th although a white frost and thick fog the thermometer dropped to 15 below zero, being as yet the coldest of the winter, making the total average for the month of 18 above, while the corresponding month of 1881 averaged 28, 19-31.

Sleighing has continued good since its commencement and although unprecedented deep snow the roads have not been so badly drifted as in other years with half the amount.

AN ARTISTIC SERIAL.—The initial number for 1883 of The Art Interchange contains an extra supplement in the shape of a handsome Calendar, decorated with a set of tiles, six of which are given full size in the regular supplement. Being in outline, they may be easily adapted. The other illustrations comprise a full-page landscape, by W. H. Drake, a rising young artist, a dainty figure-piece, by De Nitis, and an attractive marine subject treated in a charming French manner. Etching, now becoming so fashionable, receives due attention in a careful discussion of Seymour Haden and his critic, and Hawthorne's posthumous novel, "Doctor Grimshaw," is brightly reviewed. Attention is, perhaps most attracted by the careful review of the present status of Industrial Art Education in this country, the extraordinary success of Mr. Lelendl's experiment in the Philadelphia public schools having made this subject prominent in all well-informed educational circles. Artisans will be interested in the fragments of ornaments for the use of cabinet makers, which with the fresh and interesting Notes and Queries Department, complete this initial number. Sample copy free for postage. $2.00 a year, 26 Numbers. 140 Nassau Street, New York.

IMPROVED BUTTER COLOR
A NEW DISCOVERY.

IT For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

IT But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It

Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

IT And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

IT BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

IT If you cannot get the "Improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (48)

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament — Fourth Session.

Thursday.

Mr. Fraser concluded his speech on Mr. Meredith's amendment.

Mr. Morris urged the necessity of economy and caution in view of the exhaustion of the timber supply. He charged the government with keeping the boundary questions open and delaying a settlement for political purposes.

Mr. Mowat said that the Opposition had no blame for the Dominion Government for the delay in settling the boundary question, nor for complicating the controversy by giving Manitoba an interest in defeating the award. He contended that the proposed reference to the Privy Council gave the Dominion opportunities for indefinite delay. They were ready to agree to a reference to the Privy Council if they ware granted possession of the territory in the meantime.

Mr. Meredith's amendment was then voted upon with the following result:

YEAS.—Messrs, Baker, Baskerville, Bell, Boulter, Broder, Creighton, French, Jelly, Kerr, Lauder, Lees, Long, Madill, Meredith, Merrick, Metcalfe, Monk, Morgan, Morris, Near, Parkhill, Richardson, Rose, Tooley, 25.

NAYS.—Messrs, Appleby, Awrey, Badgerow, Balfour, Ballantyne, Baxter, Betts, Blezard, Bonfield, Caldwell, Cascaden, Chisholm, Crooks, Deroche, Drury, Dryden, Ferris, Field, Fraser, Freeman, Gibson, (Huron), Graham, Hagar, Harcourt, Hardy, Hawley, Hay, Hunter, Laidlaw, Lyon, McCraney, McKim, McMahon, Mack, Master, Mowat, Neelon, O'Connor, Pardee, Peck, Rayside, Robinson, (Cardwell), Robinson, (Kent), Robertson, Ross, Sinclair, Snider, Striker, Waters, Watterworth, Widdifield, Wood, Young—53.

Brereton, of East Durham, for, paired with Patterson, of West York, against, Mr. Meredith's amendment.

The House went into Committee of Supply, a few items being passed before adjournment.

Friday.

Several petitions were presented and several bills were advanced a stage.

LUNATIC IN JAILS.

Mr. Robertson (Halton), moved for an order of the House for a return showing the number of lunatics committed to the jails in each country of the Province during the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, the length of time they remained in the jails, and how disposed of; also in the case of those removed to the Provincial asylums, and the cost of such removal. He stated that during 1882 the number of commitments of lunatics to the jails, in the Province was larger than during any year since Confederation. In 1869 the committments of insane person to jail was 271; in 1875, 323; in 1879, 339, and in 1882, 442. In the latter year there were 523 insane persons admitted to the asylums, he wished that some change might be accomplished in the matter. Under existing circumstances the new system was, in many counties, more expensive than the old.

Mr. Wood explained that unless the law was changed the Government could do nothing in the matter. It was necessary at present that persons committed for lunacy should be confined in jail until an examination could be held. The motion was carried.

THE LICENSE SYSTEM.

Mr. Gibson (Huron) moved for copies of correspondence between the Provincial Secretary and the License Commissioners of East Huron relative to granting a license to one Conover. Mr. Gibson opened with an attack on the Government organ, which he characterized as given to stabbing in the dark.

Mr. Bell said that he was prepared to stand to his position that Licensed Commissioner Doherty, of Toronto, had been trading on the fears of the License Commissioners.

Mr. Hardy quoted Mr. Bell's story of the Doherty affair as given by Mr. Bell to the Conservative papers, reminding the House that these journals had represented three residents of the city, Mrs. Mead and Messrs. Hanlan and Patterson, as corroborating the story. Each of these individuals had come out voluntarily with a distinct contradiction of the story. Mr. Hardy stated further that the License Commissioners at their late meeting had passed resolutions in favor of Mr. Doherty.

Mr. Meredith asked if it was the intention of the Government to investigate the charges against Doherty.

Mr. Hardy said he would do so further on.

Mr. Lauder (East Grey,) asked why Sheriffs County Treasurers or Wardens could not have been appointed as License Commissioners. The Government, however, insisted on appointing and controlling all these License Commissioners, and the consequence was that the temperance people were not satisfied and the country was not satisfied.

Mr. Fraser asked why Mr. Lauder had stopped at declaring cigarmakers to be unfit for the position of License Commissioners. Why should he not speak of butchers, of grocers, and of bakers working upon the fears of the saloon-keepers? The hon. member's argument would apply equally to tailors, blacksmiths, milliners, or even editors, and the line would be drawn no where.

The motion was then carried.

Mr. Waters, (North Middlesex) moved for a return showing the number of petitions that have been received by the Provincial Secretary or the Attorney-General during the years 1880, 1881 and 1882, from municipal councils, asking that the power of granting licenses may again be placed in their hands, and also for a relaxation of the Saturday night restrictions. He went on to praise the working of the Act under the License Commissioners.

Mr. Hardy said he believed there were petitions for the relaxation of the Saturday night restrictions. As to the others, he could not speak definitely.

The House adjourned at 5.40 p.m.

Monday.

A number of measures were advanced a stage. Mr. Monk, on the second reading of his Bill to amend the game law, called attention to the havoc created amongst the deer and other game by American pot-hunters. The Bill proposed that all non-residents of the Province should take out a license before being allowed to hunt.

Dr. McLaughlin agreed with the principle of the Bill and thought that other amendments to the game law were necessary. Much good had been done by the restrictions placed on the hunting of deer by dogs.

Mr. Pardee thought the extensive powers granted by the measure to wood-rangers might require some modification.

Mr. Morris approved of the Bill

Mr. Fraser did not consider it desirable to require a license for shooting the smaller kinds of game.

The Bill was read a second time and referred to a special committee.

The Provincial Treasurer's Bill for the establisment of public creameries came up for a second reading. The Treasure explained the principle of the measure under which three creameries would be established in different parts of the Province, which would be placed under competent management, with the object of instructing all residents of the Province in the creamrey process free of charge. It would be impossible at present to say where the institutions would be located, as they had to consider several questions first. They wished to avoid a rivalry with any existing institution and to make sure of ample local patronage. The matter of railway communication had also to be considered. It was the Government in the matter, to be composed of the East and West, and the President of the Agricultural and Arts Association. This should free them from the suspicion of wishing to make political capital out of it.

A discussion then arose in which Messrs. Meredith, Lauder, Fraser, Morris and others took part. Mr. Meredith contended as an appropriation would be requisite to carry out the objects of the Bill, a message from the Crown recommending the appropriation was constitutionally necessary. Mr. Mowat took the opposite ground, inasmuch as the Bill did not commit the House to any annual appropriation.

The Speaker ruled in favor of the objection, and the matter was allowed to stand.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 18, 1883.

County Poor Houses.

At the June session of the County Council, on motion of Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Lang, the Warden was authorized to appoint a committee to report at the next meeting of the Council the best course to be pursued in providing a home for the poor and destitute of the different municipalities that compose the county. In compliance with the wish of the Council, the Warden made Messrs. Strickland, Burnham and Moloney a committee for the purpose; and it is to be expected that at the coming session of the County Council we shall be favoured with a report from the Committee, for all the gentlemen are again returned to the Council, and that their well known intelligence and business aptitude will make their report particularly valuable and their suggestions practicable.

As to the desirability of such an institution there can hardly be two opinions. It would doubtless result in the poor of the county being better cared for in proportion to the expense involved; it will serve to define sharply between actual need, and that spurious need which through laziness or other reasons, accepts aid from rural municipalities, when it can be done under various guises, so as to prevent the actual beneficiaries from such grants being known as objects of municipal charity. For, any one who refuses to enter a poor house (as has been known in other places to be done by parties who have for years been fraudulently receiving municipal aid) cannot be in very urgent need of assistance, and will either go to work or receive assistance from their friends. But, with a county poor house real objects of charity will be cared for and at much less cost collectively than, under the present hap-hazard and unsystematic way of providing, is possible. It is reasonable to infer that the cost of maintaining separately in each of the fourteen municipalities of the county, one pauper will cost vastly more than if the fourteen were gathered together under the one roof of a county poor house. A farmer with fifty head of stock would find a great difference in the cost of wintering them all in one stable, and feeding and tending each one in a separate building or place for the purpose. As to the necessity of such an institution, instances of daily occurrence show that even where money is voted for relief by municipalities, there is a great waste in the expenditure of it by incompetent persons, with the result the suffering of the poor is not relieved and their comfort promoted as it would be in an institution supported by a proper mutual expenditure. The following paragraph, which the Bobcaygeon Independent gives "to show the necessity of the establishment of county poor houses," speaks for itself:-

"A former resident in the township of Snowdon (it is not necessary to give his name) by a number of untoward circumstances was reduced from a position of comparative independence to one of extremely straightened means. He sold all he possessed, and went to the North West with the money, to find a new home. A few days after reaching his destination all his money was stolen from him, and he was destitute in a country where money grabbing is the rule and kindness the exception. By one plan or another he found the means to return to Ontario and to the family he had left behind him, and once more renewed the struggle to obtain a livelihood in the backwoods. Fortune was not propitious, and rather more than a year ago he dropped somehow into the township of Monmouth and fixed himself and family in a wrecked shanty on an abandoned lot. Here he was seized with a terrible affliction of the knee joint, and each day witnessed an increasing contraction of the muscles of the the leg, which drew by slow and acutely painful degrees the heel of the foot till it almost touched the thigh. At the same time his wife was struck with a stroke of paralysis, and is now and will remain for years, perhaps for life, incapable of moving one side of the body. The eldest son, some twenty years of age, is in such a mental condition that an application has been made for his admission to the idiot asylum. Two small children are also in the shanty as is also their grandmother a poor old creature 74 years of age. There are two daughters. The one is from home striving nobly and not unsuccessfully to earn bread for the family, whilst the other daughter is at "home" the sole caretaker of so grievously suffering a family. Here, then, is a case which can only be adequately relieved by such an institution as as a County Poor House. At present the municipality of Monmouth, a township containing some eighty ratepayers nearly all backwoods settlers, still struggling with the early difficulties of settlement on wild land, has to charge itself with the preservation of the family from actual starvation.

THE ESTIMATES.

In the matter of public works in the Midland district, especially the rear and more needy portions, the Ontario Government has has liberally and intelligently made provisions in the estimates of 1883 for the prosecution of the necessary repairs and works needed.

The following amounts are given to the different works:

Gull and Burnt River Works:
Glance piers below Hall's and Hawk Lake Dams	$ 400
Re-building Kushog Lake Dam and improvements to slide at Elliot's Falls	1,700
Re-vote for dam at outlet of Mountain Lake, on condition that all parties' whose property is likely to be affected by enclosing or maintaining said dam first agreeing to waive and forego all claims for damages in respect thereof	1,500
Otonabee River Works:
Re vote for re-construction of dam at Young's Point	8,926
Scugog River:
To complete dredging	1,000
Improvements at outlet of Mud Lake (in Carden)	1,500

On the Colonization Roads the Hon. Mr. Pardee makes the following appropriations:

Monmouth Road To extend	$1,000
Bobcaygeon Road, north of Minden.	300
Peterson Road Repairs east of Bobcaygeon Road	400
Island Road In Stanhope	200
Minden and Stanhope Road	300
Monck Road Repairs east and west of Bobcaygeon Road	1,000
Carden and Mara Roads (in Carden)	500
Eldon 3rd Concession Line Road—(Conditional upon a similar grant from Township)	200
Eldon 10th Concession Line Road—(Conditional upon a similar grant from Township)	100
Snowdon and Minden Road	400
Victoriaville and Coboconk Road	400
Burnt River Bridge (On Burleigh Road)	200
Miners' Bay Road Repairs	300
Anson Road—On 4th and 5th Concession Line, Anson	200
Minden and Haliburton Road North and south of Lake	500
Deer Lake Road	400
Bancroft Road	200
Monmouth West Town Line Road	200
Snowdon—South Town Line Road	250
Fenelon Falls and Kinmount Road	250
Haliburton and Maynouth Road	400
Buckhorn Road Repairs north of Monck Road	300
Cameron Road and Bridge	400
Bobcaygeon Road South of Kinmount	500
Cavendish Road	600
Buckhorn Road Repairs south of Monck Road	500
Burleigh Road—Repairs south of Monck Road	600
Anstruther Road—Repairs	600
Chandos Road—Repairs	300

From this it will be seen that North Victoria receives $5,100 on its Public Works, and $8,900 on its roads. This speaks well for the energetic and persistent advocacy of the claims of his constituency by the member, Mr. Peck. It is also creditable to the Government that they should appreciate the efforts of the hard working settlers and grant them so just and liberal an assistance to their roads. The settler who gives the best years of his life in working out a farm from the wild lands not only makes a home for himself, but adds materially to the wealth of the Province, and well deserves every assistance that can be given him by the Government. The attention given to his Parliamentary duties by Mr. Peck, must meet the entire satisfaction of his constituency. Bobcaygeon Independent.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA.

From Perth Courier.

Last week it became known in town that all work on the Toronto and Ottawa railway between Perth and Bridgewater was ordered to be stopped, and on Friday Mr Bremer the contractor arrived in town and by his directions the hands were paid up all along the line and discharged. The men were told the work was discontinued till April 1, but of course there is no saying how long the stoppage may last, or if the work will ever be taken up again.

About $200,000 have already been spent on the line between these two points, and it now remains to be seen wether all this money will be absolutely wasted by abandoning the work altogether or wether the Midland, who own the charter and have spent the money, will see their way clear to borrow additional money to complete the line. Meantime work is actively going on to complete the missing links between Toronto and Peterboro,' and the engineers have been instructed to locate the line between Perth and Ottawa.

This looks as if the Midland directors still hoped to finish the through line to the capital even without the Grand Trunk's powerful assistance, which at the present seems to be withdrawn. It is also rumored that the syndicate have offered to buy the charter from the Midland so as to shut out all competition by the Toronto and Ottawa route. The Ontario and Quebec line is being vigorously pushed through.

VALEDICTORY.

Before the adjournment, Mr. Richardson, a retiring member, desired to make a few remarks. He was not now sorry that he had been left at home, though at the time he naturally regretted his defeat, but the electors said he must not be returned, and their decision was law. He remarked that in the course of two years he had only missed one regular meeting of the Council, which he thought a pretty good record for an Irishman. He alluded to the rumours and misrepresentations in reference to his relation to the Water Works company, that had contributed to his defeat, and said they were utterly without foundation. He was in favour of the water works, as any sensible man would be. He was sorry to lose such genial company, and wished the new Council a prosperous and harmonious year.

Council adjourned.

INSTANTANEOUS INSANITY.

FOUR TORONTO LADIES SUDDENLY LOSE THEIR REASON A REMARKABLE CASE.

One of the most remarkable cases of instantaneous insanity was developed in Toronto last Saturday evening. The wife of Robert Coombe, who keeps a drug store in St. Lawrence Market, and her three daughters, whose ages range from 21 to 25, started out for a walk on Saturday at four o'clock. They were accompained by a lady friend. While walking on Yonge street the mother and the three daughters suddenly exhibited unmistakable signs of insanity. They waved their handkerchiefs in the street, called every lady they met by some masculine name. They were finally taken to No. 2 station and a medical gentleman sent for. In the station house they kept up their strange freaks without intermission. The Doctor pronounced it a case of genuine insanity, though it may perhaps be temporary. The whole four ladies were removed to the asylum last night. The young women are very handsome. Their mother is said to have been attacked by temporary fits of insanity for many years. The doctors pronounce it the most remarkable affair on record.

METHODIST UNION.

THE VOTE IN FAVOR OF UNION CARRIED.

NAPANEE, Ont., Jan. 11. At the meeting of the Methodist Episcopal General Conference last evening the test question in favor of Methodist Union was carried by the large majority of seventy-two yeas to twenty nays. The whole debate arose on the question of the general superintendency. After a whole day's able debate the vote stood as above indicated. An analysis of the division shows there were fifty-nine ministers voting and thirty-five lay delegates. Of the ministers forty-five voted for the basis and fourteen against. Of the laymen twenty-nine voted yea and but six nay. It is probable that the remaining business of the session will be disposed of without long debates.

A good Baptist clergyman of Bergen, N.Y., a strong temperance man, suffered with kidney trouble, neuralgia and dizziness almost to blindness, over two years after he was told that Hop Bitters would cure him, because he was afraid of and prejudiced against "Bitters." Since his cure he says none need fear but trust in Hop Bitters. 3-2t.

IN THE history of medicine no preparation has received such universal commendation for the alleviation it affords, and the permanent cure it effects in kidney diseases, as DR. VAN BUREN'S KIDNEY CURE. Its action in these distressing complaints is simply wonderful. Sold by John McKee. 3-8t.

G. W. Mingay, Parkdale, Toronto, writes: "My wife had several very severe attacks of cramps in the stomach. Hearing of DR. AUSTIN'S PHOSPHATINE, and its pleasantness to take, I gave her two bottles, and she has not had an attack since, and her health is much improved." For sale by all druggists. 3-8t.

The Streams Bill Reviewed.

The British North America Act gives to the Dominion Government the charge of those matters which concern all the provinces, such as trade and commerce, the postal service, the taking of the census, the military and naval defence of the country, navigation, the fisheries, coinage, banking and the issue of paper money, the Indians, criminal law, and the penetentiaries. The duties of each Provincial Legislature include the levying of direct taxation within the Province, borrowing money on the credit of the Province, the regulation of municipal institutions, licenses, local public works, property and civil rights, the administration of justice and education. That the Ontario Legislature was dealing with a subject delegated to it by the British North America Act when in the session of 1881 it passed an Act entitled "An Act for protecting the public interest in Rivers, Streams and Creeks"—cannot be denied. The Dominion Government, in defiance of Ontario's acknowledged rights and in direct opposition to the line which Sir John A. Macdonald had previously laid down, disallowed this Act. This attack of the Dominion Cabinet upon the rights of Ontario aroused a strong feeling against the Government at Ottawa, to allay which it was declared that the Act of Disallowance was in the public interest; as much as to say that the people of the other provinces were better judges of Ontario's interests than those whom the people had selected to manage their affairs. In the session of 1882 the Ontario Legislature again passed the Streams Bill, as it is called, and again Sir John A. Macdonald disallowed it. The reasons given by Sir John and his henchmen for his tyrannical conduct in this matter are: (1). That the Ontario Government passed the Act solely for the benefit of Messrs Caldwell & Son. (2) That the passing of the Act was an attempt to ignore private rights. (3) That Mr. McLaren's improvements cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. (4) That the stream could not be used for floating logs or timber without them. (5) That the Mississippi was not the natural outlet for Messrs Caldwell and Son's timber.

I.—THAT THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT PASSED THE ACT SOLELY FOR THE BENEFIT OF MESSRS CALDWELL & SON.

Had the Act been solely th benefit Messrs. Caldwell & Son it would have referred to the Mississippi and its tributaries alone and even then others who have limits on that river and its tributaries would have benefited by it, but as these were not the only streams about which trouble might arise the Legislature wisely passed an Act that would apply to all streams in the Province. The limits worked by both parties were originally purchased from the government, and it is not reasonable that they should see that the one party did not use his position to injure the other? When the attention of the Government was called to the fact that Mr. McLaren, had assumed the ownership of a water-highway and claimed the right to prohibit others from using it, they would have been recreant to their duty had they not interfered; and it is worthy of note that their right to interfere has not been called in question, but that the Act was not in the public interest, Mr. McLaren, a wealthy lumber merchant, and the public being one and the same in the view of the Dominion Government. To allow Mr. McLaren's claim would make it absolutely necessary in the future to sell no timber limits on streams requiring improvements until all the timber had been cleared off the furthest end of the stream, for no one would venture in future to purchase a limit on such a stream if another had a limit lower down, as he could prevent them from bringing their timber to market by making some improvements, however trifling, on the stream.

Such a state of things would not be in Ontario's interest, as a great part of our revenue is derived from our forests. Once allow the claim and you place all the owners (and they are many) of timber limits on similar streams at the mercy of one man. It is true that Mr. McLaren has built a slide on his own land, and, to get sufficient water to pass his square timber through it, has built a dam which interferes with other lumbermen bringing down their logs, and what they ask is not the use of McLaren's slide, but the use of the bed of the river, which McLaren denies them, and this the Act gives them, as well as the use of his slide by paying for it, upon the principle that if that water is taken for the slide they must have the use of it. All streams are public property when they are floatable, and that the stream in question is floatable is proved from the fact that Messrs. Buck & Stewart drove their square timber down the stream cutting away McLaren's dams when necessary. A private individual who builds a dam for economical purposes, say to drive a grist mill, factory, saw-mill, &c., is required by statute to leave an opening in it and put on an apron to facilitate the passage of logs and timber through it. McLaren built a dam to throw water into a slide across his own private property. He made no opening in the dam, nor did he put on an apron as required by law in mill-dams, so that he effectually stopped the stream. He will not allow others the privilege of using the slide across his private property even by paying for it; and not only will he not make an opening and proper slide or apron in the dam (obstruction) he has made across a public stream, but when others take advantage of the freshets to put their logs over the dam, there being plenty of water in the spring to do so, he endeavors by means of injunctions, &c., to stop them or delay them until the freshet has gone.

II.—THAT THE PASSAGE OF THE ACT WAS AN ATTEMPT TO CONFISCATE PRIVATE PROPERTY AND IGNORE PRIVATE RIGHTS.

It is not true than any attempt at confiscation was made. Here is what the Act says:—

The Lieutenant-Governor in Council may fix the amounts which any person entitled to tolls under this Act shall be at liberty to charge on the sawlogs and different kinds of timber, rafts or crafts, and may from time to time vary the same; and the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, in fixing such tolls shall have to regard and take into consideration the original cost of such construction and improvements, the amount required to maintain the same, and cover interest upon the original cost, as well as such other matters as under all the circumstances may to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council seem just and equitable.

A subsequent clause gives the owner of the slides a lien upon the timber for the tolls. Could anything be fairer? And yet we are told that the passing of the Act was an attempt to confiscate private property! It has been said, evidently by those who do not understand the lumbering business, that it would be a hardship for Mr. McLaren to have to keep a man at the slide to count the pieces of timber or logs as they passed through. The tolls on timber and saw-logs are charged from the culler's sworn statement which can be obtained by the owner of slides or improvements at the Crown timber office. Hence McLaren would not require to count the logs or timber that would pass through his slides. Caldwell did not try to force a passage, but offered compensation, and to leave the amount of slidage to arbitrators if he and McLaren could not agree. Caldwell drove the stream and used slides on it before McLaren ever owned limits on the river, as witness the following copy of receipt:—

Mr. Boyd Caldwell, To Gilmour & Co., Dr.

To slidage at High Falls, Mississippi, of 1,280 pieces square timber, at $8.....$152 00

Received payment in full,
(Signed). Gilmour & Co.,
Per Jas. Cunningham.

Ottawa, August 4th, 1860.

III.—THAT MR. M'LAREN'S IMPROVEMENTS COST HUNDREDS OF THOUSANES OF DOLLARS.

About the year 1863 the then firm of Gillies & McLaren bought from Gilmour & Co., their limits on the Mississippi for the sum of $20,000.

The purchase included the farms, real estate and all improvements on the river, including High Falls, Flat Rapids, Miller's Gap, Ragged Chute, Ireland Chute, Otter Chute and King's Chute, Cross Lake, Reserve Dam, Side Dam at head of Cross Lake, and Farm Slide. McLaren purchased since that another limit from the Hon. James Skead for about $30,000. McLaren's improvements on the river had been valued by three different engineers, all examining at different times and without any collusion, at less than $1,600, and the estimate was made in each by calculating them as good as if just built. McLaren not build all the improvements. Out of 14 in all he only built two; the other twelve were built by others, and many of them are now badly out of repair. The two built by McLaren cost only $700, whereas we are told by Sir John and his echoes that he spent nearly $200,000 in making the improvements.

IV.—THAT WITHOUT THE IMPROVEMENTS MADE BY M'LAREN THE STREAM COULD NOT BE USED FOR FLOATING LOGS OR TIMBER.

From this it would appear that Mr. McLaren was the pioneer lumberman on the Mississippi, whereas the improvements from McDonald's chute down were built by Gilmour & Co., about 1854, and formed part of the property purchased by Gillies & McLaren from Gilmour & Co. in 1863. The exclusive right to the use of the river was never put forth until after McLaren became possessed of the property. As we have already shown, Buck & Stewart took their drive of square timber down the whole length of the stream, and last spring Caldwell & Son acting under the decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal, drove several thousand logs down the same stream. McLaren claims as an improvement on the stream the slide he has erected on his own private property for his square timber, and to get water for that slide he has built a dam across the stream that is an obstruction to other lumbermen, by preventing them from using the stream. Messrs Caldwell & Son paid over $65,000 for their limit, and can it be supposed that shrewd business men such as they are would buy a limit if the stream was not floatable or if it was private property?

All they want is the use of the river unobstructed and without McLaren's improvements.

Sir John A. Macdonald has been credited with saying that "the Mississippi was a small stream emptying into the Ottawa." That it empties into the Ottawa is a fact but that it is a small stream is quite a different thing. The Mississippi is the third largest river in eastern Ontario. It is 125 miles long, 50 miles of which are lakes. On the river have been built 15 woollen and carding mills, 12 grist and oatmeal mills, 8 planing and shingle mills, at an estimate of $1,300,000, and utilizing a vast horse-power, all of which are driven by water.

V.—THAT THE MISSISSIPPI WAS NOT THE NATURAL OUTLET FOR MESSRS. CALDWELL & SON'S TIMBER.

It is true that Messrs. Caldwell & Son's limits have within them the water shed between Madawaska and the Mississippi, and therefore both streams are natural outlets, but when a man can take his produce to market by either of two ways, he has the right to decide by which he shall do it. It is an admitted fact that every man has a right to conduct his business in his own way, and since Caldwell & Son's mill is at Carleton Place, on the Mississippi, about thirty miles from its mouth, every right thinking man will say that they should be allowed to bring their logs to it down that stream. They might bring their logs down the Madawaska to the Ottawa, but to float them from the mouth of the Mississippi to Carleton Place, as every person who knows anything about the stream is aware, would be an utter impossibility. That the stream was and is still floatable, is shown from the fact that Buck & Stewart brought their square timber down it and Messrs. Caldwell & Son last spring brought their logs down it, floating them over McLaren's dams.

Should McLaren be successful in his attempt to control the stream, then other persons in every part of Ontario where there are timber limits, may try the same game for the purpose of obtaining all the timber on the stream which they control, by preventing its being brought to market by anyone but themselves. By a decision which was given some years ago, McLaren thought the law was in his favor. In 1880, at Perth, Vice-Chancellor Proudfoot felt compelled by legal etiquette to follow the previous decision. Caldwell & Son appealed to the highest court in Ontario which decided that the previous decision had been given under a misapprehension of the law, and therefore revised it and gave to Caldwell & Son the right to use the stream. Meanwhile the Ontario Government, seeing the injustice that was being done and the injurious effect such a course, if not stopped, would have upon the lumbering interests of the Province, passed the Streams Bill, which gave the right to all persons to use the rivers, streams and creeks for floating purposes, but provided at the same time that if improvements made by private individuals were used, the owner should receive a fair compensation fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council.

This is the Bill which is said to have been passed solely in the interest of Messrs. Caldwell & Son. The facts are that it was passed in the interest of lumbermen generally, and that it was disallowed solely in the interest of Mr. McLaren, and that, too, to the injury of the revenue of Ontario, a large portion of which is derived from timber limits.

HORRIBLE HOTEL HOLOCAUST.

100 Lives Lost by a Burning Hotel Fifty Bodies Found.

About three o'clock last Thursday morning a fire occurred in the Newhall House, Milwaukee, which spread with such rapidity that but few of the inmates escaped. It is reported that nearly 100 lives were lost; fifty bodies mostly of women, have already been found. The majority were killed by jumping from the upper windows, the fire having cut off all means of escape. The Newhall house is a six story building. The fire was discovered at 4 a.m., and in less than half an hour the whole building long designated as a death trap, was enveloped in flames.

Scenes of the utmost terror prevailed. The inmates jumped by dozens from the upper stories, covering the stone sidewalks with lifeless bodies. The shrieks of the unfortunates filled the air in a heartrending manner. The people below were unable to render any aid. A number of the terrified guests and employees of the hotel appeared at the windows, and seeing the distance to the ground, fell back to perish in the flames. The employees of the hotel, which accommodated 800 guests, numbered 86, mostly lodged in the sixth story. Exit by way of the roof was cut off by the fire, and two stand of pipes, with fire ladders, were not available for some reason. A very few were saved by jumping on the canvas. Wm. Condee, cashier of the Manufacturers Bank, carried the cash box, containing money and papers amounting to $600,000, out of the flames. The insurance on the hotel is $125,000. The loss will reach half a million.

INCIDENTS.

The frantic fear with which nearly a dozen waiter girls flung themselves from the fifth story was the most dramatic feature of the disaster. There was one fire escape, but they were too terrified to think of it. Clothed only in a scanty nightdress they appeared at the windows. One leaped out and whirling over and over fell a mass of mangled flesh upon the stones. Others followed. All were killed and shockingly mutilated. Some swung themselves out of the windows only to drop instantly to the street.

At one time nine of these bleeding corpses, some blackened and shrivelled by flames, all devoid of clothing, lay one upon the other in various sickening shapes.

Six persons hanging from the sills on the fifth story on Main street front lost their grip and were whirled downward one by one.

A detective says: "The girls came down 'thud,' 'thud,' and we tried to catch each one, only to have the corners of the canvass pulled from our hands. At one time the back ally was one mass of gore, and seven girls were piled there dead, while a number more were on the ground writhing in agony. Passengers could hear the cries of the dying as far as the corner of Fourth and Chesnut streets. One man crawled from window to window down three stories, and they gave out, fell, and was killed, his hands being torn in shreds from falling and catching."

FORTUNES FOR FARMERS AND MECHANICS.—Thousands of dollars can be saved by using proper judgment in taking care of the health of yourself and family. YELLOW AS A GUINEA.—The complexion in a case of unchecked liver complaint, culminating, in jaundice, is literally "as yellow as a guinea." It has this appearance because the bile, which enables the bowels to act, is directed from its proper course into the blood. In connection with this symptom there is nausea, coating of the tongue, sick headache, impurity of the breath, pains through the right side and shoulder blade, dyspepsia and constipation. These and other concomitants of liver complaint are completely removed by the use of NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, whish is also an eradicant of scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum ulcers, cancers, humours, female weakness, jaundice and lumbago. It tones the stomach, rouses the liver, and after relieving them, causes the bowels thereafter to become regular. High professional sanction has been accorded to it; and its claims to public confidence are justified by ample evidence. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle, 10 cents.
